Newfoundland Fires Stalled By Heavy Rains

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — A weekend downpour of rain has stalled Newfoundland's major forest fires.

The rain brought the bill Dunn's River fire on the Burin Peninsula to a standing stop before it could move further towards a string of coastal communities threatened for several days.

The fire still was no word on when the 6,000 women and children evacuated from the communities would return to their homes. They fled last week when rolling smoke from the fire, burning in a 1,100-square-mile area, poured into the villages.

The rains lasted through most of Saturday into Sunday morning. They extinguished a fire in the Terrenceville area on the south coast. Like most of the province's forest fires, it had been burning in spruce valleys as pulpwood.

The rain also wiped out any fear the Punch Bowl fire would unite with the stubborn Bonavista north fire, actually a separate fire, which had pockets of spruce and scrub over an 800-square-mile area. The two fires were 40 miles apart Friday.

Nehru Believes K. Would Like To End Tests

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Prime Minister Nehru said today he thought Soviet Premier Khrushchev would like to reunion the current series of Soviet nuclear tests.

Speaking to reporters at the airport here on his return from a visit to Italy, Nehru said Khrushchev's general argument was that the resumption was "very painful" for the Soviet Union.

He would like to give it up if conditions are favorable according to his thinking," the Indian leader added.

Peter Stursberg First Speaker Of New Season

The first fall executive meeting of Belleville and District Women's Canadian Club was held at the home of the president, Mrs. R. D. Arpold. Plans were made for the next season.

The chairman of the speakers' committee reported that excellent speakers had been obtained, and she was pleased to report that the first speaker of the season was the well known author, broadcaster, and foreign correspondent, Mr. Peter Stursberg of the Press Gallery, Ottawa. Mr. Stursberg is one of the most popular speakers in Canada.

Mrs. S. McConnell reported that all meetings would be held at Queen Alexandra School, except the annual dinner meeting, which would be at the Belleville Country Club. The guest speaker at this meeting would be Miss Mary Louise Lynch of St. John, New Brunswick.

Mrs. Ben Burley, membership chairman, said the membership campaign would take place this coming week. The telephone captains were given lists of names of prospective members to call. New members are very welcome, and anyone who is interested is asked to call Mrs. B. E. Burley, WO 2-4328, or Mrs. F. G. Willis, WO 2-3575. In afternoon call Miss B. McKibbon, EX 2-3706, and in Shirling call Mrs. K. Bailey, EX 5-3420.

After additional plans were finalized, the meeting was adjourned, and refreshments were served by the hostess.

Token School Integration In Three Major Cities Carried Out Without Hitch

ATLANTA (AP)—A pattern of token school integration has emerged in three major cities this fall as the southern central states began new efforts to comply with federal desegregation demands.

Police in New Orleans, Dallas and Atlanta gave advance notice that demonstrations by segregationists would bring arrests.

There was no disorder as Dallas and Atlanta schools enrolled Negroes for the first time.

There was no disorder in New Orleans for the start of the second year of school integration, in contrast to last year when crowds of screaming, cursing hecklers enforced a boycott of two elementary schools that admitted four Negro girls.

Business leaders, civic and religious groups in the three cities had campaigned diligently for a peaceful transition.

RIOTING CEASES

Rioting that sent federal troops to Little Rock, Ark., during the first move toward school integration in 1957, was only a memory as that city quietly expanded desegregation.

School desegregation spread to Galveston, Tex., and was expanded in Florida and Virginia during the week.

Sixty policemen guarded each of the six New Orleans schools. Their orders were to permit no agitation or loitering. Twelve Negro children entered the six schools Thursday. Residents watching from porches and yards remained silent.

Four white parents broke the white boycott at McDonogh No. 19 public school where three Negro girls were enrolled last year. Normal enrolment at McDonogh is 467. The William Frantz School, boycotted in the fall and spring by all but a handful of white children because one Negro was enrolled, had 17 white pupils Thursday out of a normal total of 570.

Attendance, by white pupils fell sharply at the four newly integrated schools. But school officials said this could be blamed in part on parental fear of possible violence. School Superintendent Henry Fuller said he believed the tranquil start of integration would lead to increased attendance.

Thirty-nine Negro children in Atlanta's first integrated grades in kindergarten and first grades of previously white schools.

LITTLE ROCK REPEATS

Integration spread peacefully to once sizzle-torn Little Rock Tuesday as three Negroes entered classes for the first time at four junior high schools. Seven and three others were in classes at three high schools. One of the latter, Thad High, had not previously enrolled Negroes.

Hall High, where rioting first brought in federal troops in 1957, 13 Negroes are studying with white students. Central High School had seven Negro pupils last year.

The seven schools were patrolled by 150 officers on the opening day Tuesday but no crowds formed as officers returned to their regular beats.

Total public school segregation in the South has been confined to South Carolina, Alabama and Mississippi.

Refugees From Hurricane Number Close to 250,000

By ROBERT E. FORD

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The storm the Gulf of Mexico could bring unwanted inland Sunday—perhaps the greatest flight in American history.

Bumper - to - bumper, beggar for a hotel room, jamming grocery stores for food to carry them just a little farther—on they fled.

They were the refugees from Hurricane Carla, a huge and terrifying storm which bore down on the low-lying coastal cities with its smashing winds and deadly tides.

They clogged along in battered rattletrap of ancient vintage.

They took what food they could with them.

HUDDLE IN SCHOOL

And some, like Floyd Herbert, who owns no vehicle, huddled his little family of four into a school in Port Arthur because he couldn't flee.

If anything could provide a test of U.S. ability to evacuate a nuclear bomb - struck region this was it. But with a difference — there was no panic, no fear and burned victims who needed care and treatment.

The tide of humanity by Sun Saturday reached as far north as Dallas, 200 miles inland from the coast and a few scattered evacuees went still farther west and north.

Reporter Charles Martin in the hometown of Kenedy, scores of miles inland from the coast, described the scene as typical of the appearance of the refugees:

"They took their cats and dogs. They stop at filling stations and ask where they can go, what they can do."

24 Bombs 'Ready to Go' At U.S. Proving Grounds for Arsenal of Nuclear Weapons

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The United States, secure in the authority of its nuclear arsenal, has 24 bombs "ready to go" at its proving grounds for its arsenal of nuclear weapons.

Authoritative but unquotable sources also say:

1. The first blast almost certainly will be in a deep tunnel under Rainier Mesa at the north end of the test area, about 65 miles northwest of this gambling resort.

2. It could be set off within hours after officials at the Atomic Energy Commission's Camp Mercury get the green light from Washington. Secrecy in the Kennedy administration said on Sept. 7, however, that the first shot would be fired in about two weeks.

3. Camp Mercury, Rainier Mesa and construction crafters on the site—now closed to reporters—are a beehive of activity reminiscent of 1951-58 boom day fabled by the international bar on atomic tests.

4. A test shaft with conventional explosives, plus other similar instrumentation, was set for Sept. 6 but called off to speed up nuclear tests.

Preparations for the possibility that the United States might resume nuclear tests have been under way for months. When the Soviets broke the voluntary moratorium by resuming tests, activity here went into high speed. President Kennedy's subsequent announcement that the United States would resume with underground tests, was an added spur.

Burrowed into the side of Rainier Mesa — an outcropping of rock a mile high, a mile wide and several miles long—are two major tunnel systems. One is 5,100 feet long and has 300 feet below the top. The other, 15,000 feet long, is entered 500 feet further down on Mesa's sloping side.

Branching out from each main tunnel are several drifts, up to a half mile long and curving sharply like a fishhook into vaulted blast chambers. The curves help dampen explosions so they will discharge the least amount of tunneling.

The old blast chambers are turned into bubbles of fused rock up to 300 feet in diameter by the tremendous explosions—collapsed and were filled with rubble. Radioactivity, in years, these have been cleaned out and re-equipped. At the same time the main tunnels have been extended and new chambers dug into the rock for future shots.

B.C. Fires Cost $40,000,000 In Damages

VICTORIA (CP)—Another disastrous British Columbia forest fire season is now part of the history.

The 4,500 fires this year caused about $40,000,000 damage according to current estimates, but no one can say yet what they will mean to the pocketbooks of future generations.

Timber management experts say fiery destruction of scores of timber which may be burned and it is unlikely there will be any change in the climate for another 150-200 years which would reduce the annual growth.

Methods of detecting and fighting fires have become more streamlined each season.

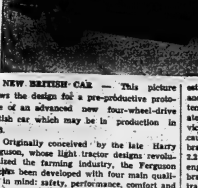
More than $4,500,000 has been spent fighting fires in the province this year and officials say it was money well spent. They, offered an example.

A blaze broke out on the perimeter of a construction camp at North Prince George for which a firm had paid $25,000 in insurance fees. The unit's value to the province's economy is estimated at $1,000,000 a year.

The fire was extinguished by water-bombing aircraft at a cost of $450. Officials say a work break during a season in which often there are no water-bombers in the air, costing $250 an hour. Fire officials hope high water levels will be partially fed by the lumber industry continuing to be the province's economic mainstay.

REPLACES QUEEN

BONN (Reuters) — President Heinrich Lubke today replaced Elizabeth in one of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's election campaign pamphlets, it was learned here. A comic-strip type election pamphlet showing Adenauer chatting with the Queen was withdrawn after representation at 11 by the British foreign office. The drawing was captioned Free World Partners.



Soon Recaptured

PEMBROKE (CP) — A 360-pound Montreal man, who broke his way out of a Pembroke jail cell by brute strength, was recaptured early Sunday by waterbury, police said.

John Pearson, 33, police reported, forced open a cell door Sunday and rushed shoeless out of the police office past two constables. He disappeared in dense bush country.

He was arrested with Robert Norman Gilliland, also of Montreal, last night following a break-in at a Pembroke dairy.

NEW BRITISH CAR — This picture shows the design for a pre-productive prototype of an advanced new four-wheel-drive British car which may be in production in 1963.

Originally conceived by the late Harry Ferguson, whose light tractor designs revolutionized the farming industry, the Ferguson system has been developed with four main qualities in mind: safety, performance, comfort and economy.

The present design, which is still subject to minor modifications, is for a six-seater estate car with power-operated disc brakes and automatic transmission. The special feature of four-wheel drive is designed to eliminate wheelspin, while a central anti-locking device does away with the danger of skidding caused by road wheels locking under heavy braking. In the prototype now being built, a 2.3 litre overhead valve horizontally opposed engine is being used developing about 90 brake horse power. The hydraulic automatic transmission has been designed with a minimum of moving parts and is said to need little maintenance. Repair bills, claim the designers would be cut as much as 25 per cent.

Ottawa to Windsor

The other day, in an editorial on Russia's new series of nuclear tests, we said that one "doomsday bomb" five times the power of the biggest H-bombs now in existence would be no more deadly than five H-bombs.

Dr. H. L. Keenleyside, the eminent Canadian scientist, has caused us to revise our opinion.

In a letter to the Toronto Globe and Mail he took issue with that paper for having accused him, some four or five months ago, of "crippling . . . to the forces of mass hysteria" when he warned about "a regional' bomb that is on the theoretical drawing board." He refers to the fact that Khrushchev says the Russians are working on a bomb with an explosive force of 100 million tons of TNT.

"What would a bomb like this do?" he asks. He answers his own question thus: "Place a line of freight cars from Ottawa to Windsor and load each car with ten tons of TNT, Then place 168 other lines of freight cars similarly loaded parallel with the first. Explode them all at once. That would be equivalent of one of the bombs we are now discussing."

Of course, things are not quite that bad, yet. Present bombs have only a fifth of the power of the planned Russian super-bombs. That is equal to only 34 trains loaded with TNT and stretching from Ottawa to Windsor.

Dr. Keenleyside says that several years ago Mr. Lester Pearson estimated the U.S. had some 20,000 bombs stockpiled.

Anybody want to build a fallout shelter in the basement?

Let's Jail Our Future Leaders

"With the exception of Premier Nehru of India and Premier U Nu of Burma, most of the national leaders at Belgrade (at the conference of 'non-aligned' nations) seems to have seen world problems in the light of his own national self-interest," says the Ottawa Journal.

The exceptions are noteworthy. Perhaps, though, not so surprising, for they come from lands which were civilized while barbarians roamed throughout all Europe, including the areas which were later to produce the glory that was Greece and the wonder that was Rome.

Nehru, at least, is acutely aware of his heritage. His "Glimpses of World History," or the abbreviated "Nehru on World History" which can be found in the Corby Library, reveal a breadth of outlook which would make any narrow concentration on the interests of India alone an impossibility, as far beyond his power as would be an international outlook for a bushman in the Kalahari Desert.

This wonderful book, written without access to reference works yet crowded with names and dates from all periods of world history, was penned by Nehru in the form of letters to his daughter. It was written while he was in a British jail for agitating for independence for his country.

If this is what imprisonment for political reasons does for the human mind, perhaps we should make a jail term required schooling for political leadership.

There are, of course, a number of political leaders who could resume their schooling at once without the world being any the worse for it.

Castro's Oil

It appears that the Cuban premier has determined to teach his flock the Russian language "because the Soviet Union is in the front of science." North Americans will no doubt be relieved that Russian is not to replace English in the Cuban school system, according to Castro.

English instruction is necessary, he admits, because some day we will have to speak English with the North American revolutionaries."

Like the kind who would free Cuba?

Or is Castro just going to be prepared to talk turkey no matter at whose table he happens to dine?

If we would consider how little of this vicissitude of motion and rest, which we call life, is spent with satisfaction, we should be more tender of our friends, than to bring them little sorrows which do not belong to them. — Sir Richard Steele.

While no man is neutral in the sense that he is without opinions or ideals, it is just as true, that in spite of this, a neutral Secretariat is possible. — Dag Hammarskjold.

There are too many books I haven't read, too many places I haven't been, too many memories I haven't kept long enough. — Irwin Shaw.

Defecting Too Easy?

By Harold Wale in the Vancouver Sun

God forbid that Canadians or the Canadian government must should slam the door in the face of anyone who comes here honestly and sincerely seeking freedom.

But, bearing that provision constantly in mind, there is a haunting fear that these defections to Canada from Russian satellite enemy countries are just a little too easy.

So far as this writer is aware, there is absolutely no concrete evidence that Dr. Mirt Klochko is other than he seems, a capable chemist frustrated by the intellectual bolshie of the Soviet system. It is altogether reasonable that such a man, sufficient of guts as individuals to have resisted the pressures of Communist indoctrination, and with his closest family ties broken, should wish to carry on his scientific work in more congenial circumstances.

But beside these apparently obvious facts stands in a shadow the further more sinister fact that if the Soviet government wished to pry into any secret chemical research there it was engaged in pursuing all this is exactly the sort of build-up the Soviet-masters would give the man chosen to do the prying.

Thus Dr. Klochko's most glowing apparent virtues can be equally the tools to use against him. It is entirely a matter of his good will or his ill will. And intentions are something that can be determined neither at the witness stand nor the psychiatrists couch. An examining panel of 20 medical authorities could begin to peer into the inner secrets of Dr. Klochko's heart.

Whether or not Dr. Klochko is engaged in any chemical experimentation which benefits the Soviet Russia or to any other, competitive country is naturally quite outside this writer. But it is a fact that Canada has chemists thoroughly capable of highly advanced research. Moreover, Canada is an active partner in the defence machinery of the West aimed at combatting the belligerent and aggressive efforts of the Communist bloc to dominate and take over the world.

It is not in the least unlikely, then, that Canada may be suspected of engaging in such a scientific research that could assist against it.

If such suspicions exist, it would be more than likely that the Soviet authorities feel necessary to investigate by meticulously training a competent Soviet scientist to go along with a convincing story and have a good look around. Such a secret investigator would almost surely conform to the pattern set for himself by Dr. Klochko.

These speculations, for they are only speculations, do not derive from any undue spy-consciousness on the part of Canadians but from the knowledge, proved time and again, that Red Russia is inordinately spy-minded.

What would Russia not use one or more of our many native Communists for such a job? Simply because few if any of our native Communists have the brains or the training for it. One would be a dead ringer for any Canadian who became a Communist of his own free will.

This may be a little rough on Dr. Klochko if he is on the level, which, all things being considered, he probably is. But it would be a great mistake to overlook the security hazards in granting political asylum to any former opponent.

Wholesale Authorship

BBC London Letter

In a recent edition of the 'Life and Letters' program broadcast weekly in the BBC General Overseas Service, radio-dramatist Lance Sieveking, who has known many famous writers, commented on this paradox that, while much conventional wisdom is concerned with all these signs of eccentricity, the most original writing is often produced by men of conventional way.

Bernard Shaw, for example, lived a very regular life, attending every day at his table writing. He usually began his works with an ordinary pen and ink in extremely legible writing. Hilaire Belloc and Chesterton (who was Sieveking's godson, they also kept days as a journalist. "For much of his life set with daily regularity in a study, Sieveking said, without a certain amount of wheezy laughter those normal and exacting habits put off the page at the reader with their unpretentious originality and vitality."

Startlingly different were the methods of E. Phillips, Oppenheim and Edgar Wallace, authors and prodigious sellers of a conventional pattern. Oppenheim had a villa in the South of France, "a den of iniquity, said Sieveking, and on most capable young and on most capable young woman (she had to be) would walk round with him and, at intervals between strokes, he used to dictate to her. Edgar Wallace's method was similar to Oppenheim's, but more highly organized on a mass production scale. At his office flat near Regent's Park in London he kept six different secretaries, in six different rooms, working all day. 'Good morning, Miss So' and -so, Where are we?' he would say, and on being told would start to dictate. He had reached in the story, and passing on from room to room, Sieveking's eye, he would continue where he had left off dictating for six minutes or more. Then, puffing at his long cigarette holder he would pass on to the next room, to the next secretary and repeat the routine until he had given all six their work for the day.

On the left desk top, on shelves in closets, at the back of drawers seldom opened, the Sieveking's found manuscripts.

Actually, he doesn't use any humidor, he says. No one has brought for himself. He buys his tobacco in a tin of packet, stuffs it in his pocket, and puts two thirds of it before it gets too dry. He duly re-smokes all, throws it away and buys another packet. But he'll get more humidors. His grandsons are growing up.

humidors, brass humidors, china humidors, wood humidors made of every sort of wood, even woods from distant places. If anybody goes to Mexico, they bring him a Mexican humidor like a totem pole.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

After a man has been smoking a pipe for a couple of years, he begins to gather tobacco humidors. He may buy the first one himself. It is usually a brown crockery tobacco jar, with some kind of moistening pad fitted in the top. There is generally a motto of some kind decorating the jar, such as "It's a' well in store."

But in due course, people start giving him humidors. His family usually begin the process by presenting him at Christmas, or on his birthday, with humidors with pipe racks attached. Then his friends join the parade. What'll we give him? they ask themselves. Why, a tobacco jar, of course. He smokes a pipe. Copper humidors, glass

STRENGTH for the DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

MAKE A LIST AND PONDER

Toward the close of the seventeenth century William Penn was thrown into debtors' prison. Yet this same Penn was at that time the largest land owner in Great Britain. He owned what is now called the State of Pennsylvania and a considerable portion also of the State of New Jersey. He had what was valuable even in those days and they would actually have an assessed evaluation of hundreds of billions of dollars. Yet he was thrown into debtors' prison.

We call this being land poor. The term means that one owns valuable land which cannot be turned into immediate cash resources. The predicament of William Penn illustrates a number of truths. First, a person may appear wealthy who is not actually wealthy. Again, the lot even of wealthy people is often sad can sometimes be immensely uncomfortable.

When the rich condition is transferred over into the moral and spiritual realm, social status people who appear to have much in the way of religious faith and moral morality yet who, at a matter of fact, have very little. Of these people we say, not necessarily hypocrites. Some of them are suffering from spiritual nearsightedness. Others are tied up in the red tape of established custom, social status, respectabilities. Other are tied up in the red tape of established custom, social status, privileges and of things.

Automation Is Not New, Old As History

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The automatic computers are now getting to the point of complexity and subtlety that it is feasible to construct a mechanical chess-player that will perfectly simulate the actions of a human player, the mechanical player would be a far more complete game, no matter which side you considered that it played.

Actually, however, machines that imitate the actions of living creatures are almost as old, both in fact and in legend, as recorded history. Beginning with the planetarium that could be made around 400 B.C. by Archytas of Tarentum.

Then there was the wooden eagle of Regiomontanus, which flew before the city of Koenigsberg to meet the Emperor, saluted him, and returned, in the early 15th century.

Vaucanson made an image of Pan, which rose from its seat, played on its pipe, bowed and applauded, and sat down again. He also constructed an ass, which, when touched by an actress dressed as Cleopatra, would fly at her breast with a sinister hiss. Louis XV wanted this, but was persuaded against it by the clergy.

There was the wooden lady of Albertus Magnus, which could speak the average player — but it could never beat the man who made it. This was the work of genius, for he has the gift of imagination, which no machine can possess. In fact, the very attempt at such a machine is proof of the imaginative genius of the inventor.

But we have come so far from mystery in this materialistic age that we can be fooled into believing that problems can be made to solve themselves. We are able to create these marvels. We pay homage to those who make as much progress as little to Him who created the whole. Like the savages who worshipped down to the golden calf, we give devotion to the computer.

"A machine can be made to do the work of fifty ordinary men," Belloc once said, "but not 50 machines can do the work of one extraordinary man." And this brave new world of illimite research will not give rise to persons who extract energy from the atom, and not to He who put the energy there?

Frost Is Right

Ottawa Journal

Premier Frost says he is against using television in courtrooms or government committees. This is the voice of wisdom. How could anyone feel he had been judged by his peers properly if he and the judge and jury had to remember to look their best for a television camera, a brainless instrument which reduces the dignity of man?

To Your Good Health

Mentally Disturbed Usually Must Wait for Treatment

By Joseph C. Wilson, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Mather: Where can I get information on the care and care of an emotionally disturbed child? — Mrs. M. P."

Let's take the miserable, unhappy fact:

There are more today than in 1951. It is likely that in 1971 there still aren't nearly enough.

The late Senator James Cox, whose son, the young man, left a large sum of money to establish various experimental health facilities in Ohio has not being covered.

Country theory, a wise one, was that if the Michigan Crippled Children's Fund did some useful demonstrations, the public would continue these organizations. The Senator was trying to provide free clinics; he was trying to show what could be done. He succeeded.

One result he achieved was "child guidance clinics." These proved so useful that they are being perpetuated by the public health services in many communities in different localities.

Now, if you are dealing with emotional problems that can be treated successfully by psychiatry, you must rely on that we still have so few of them.

Then there are children with somewhat more serious emotional disturbances. They are silent treatment, need more than just out-patient help. Now we have a few (still not nearly enough) hospitals which can take a child for three or four weeks, get a start on defining and treating his problem, and then let him go home, and the treatment to be continued by a clinic or individually.

Hardest of all to deal with are the severe mental cases. Fortunately fewer in number, children see all that long-term committment a mental hospital is necessary present a big problem. For a few, costly private care is possible. For the average, however, treatment depends on whether the state legislature has been hospital facilities for children.

Wherever you live, phone or write to the family mental health society. This is a clearing house for help and information. Services is not being used to maximum advantage by the public.

Your county society won't be able to say, "Go to thus-and-so and you'll get immediate help." Just about every place I know of has a waiting list. But if there is need for such care, get on the waiting list now.

Doubtless some day, we'll have enough facilities so it won't be necessary to wait when a need is present.

jured in the pre-meeting melee. Philip Towle, 52, was either pushed or fell down and hit his head on a metal railing. He was treated at hospital and released.

Jim Loftus, a national office supporter, required 10 stitches in his head. He said he was attacked by several men and hit by a bottle. James Fitzgerald, a security supporter, suffered a cut wrist when he was knocked to the ground.

Mr. Smith and Mike Solski, president of Mine-Mill District 8 in which Local 598 is located, were at the scene but Mr. Gillis would not allow them in the arena. But in the confusion, several of their supporters got through the guards screening the stream into the hall.

GIVES VIEW

After the meeting Mr. Smith told a reporter:

"The important thing about tonight's meeting was that the membership demonstrated that they want Mine-Mill and will not be sold out to any other group."

Mr. Jodoin said after the meeting:

"It was a disgraceful demonstration of a small minority trying to disrupt democracy in action. I've seen some demonstrations in the past, but this one was out of this world."

Mr. Gillis' postmeeting comment was that "Smith deliberately organized a group of no more than 300. They were under the influence of liquor. . . . Smith completely ignored the restraining order of Chief Justice J. C. McRuer, which prevented him from interfering in Local 598 business."

He was referring to a decision handed down last week by the chief justice which said a trusteeship on Local 598 by the national office had been imposed improperly. He handed control of the local back to Gillis faction.

RESUMES INJUNCTION

Violence erupted when the trusteeship was imposed three weeks ago and a court injunction made the Local 598 building a no-man's-land to both factions and impounded the local's records and safty bank account.

The local has been withholding dues from the national office at the rate of $25,000 a month since early this year. The Mine-Mill local at Port Colborne, taking in another, 2,300 members of the union's 23,000 Canadian adherents, started similar action last week.

Strauss Says Air Corridor Blockade Likely

BONN (Reuters) — Defence ministry sources said today the Communists have set up anti-aircraft units in East Germany below the air corridors linking West Germany with Berlin.

The officers said the Communists have built large airfields near Magdeburg which might be used in case they wanted to force down Western aircraft using the corridors.

Defence Minister Franz-Josef Strauss told an election meeting near Wuerzburg Saturday: "We reckon with Soviet or East German provocations in the air corridors any hour."

Strauss said West Germany "very soon" will announce a decision to retain some 36,000 draftees due for release from service Sept. 26.

Test observer records completion of "full throttle" acceleration trial on car, fitted with Super Shell, like 60 miles per hour.

5390 acceleration tests prove today's Super Shell, with 9 ingredients, can give your car all the power you need for top performance

Shell test crews run convoys of cars through thousands of tests. And they turn up some surprising facts. Helpful facts, too, for anyone who wants a smooth-running engine with all the power it was built to deliver.

The "Full Throttle" Test

Suddenly, the driver presses the accelerator against the floor board. The sedan shoots down the road. When the car's speed reaches 60 miles an hour, stop watches clock the elapsed time.

How long did it take? Did the car accelerate smoothly? Was there any indication of abnormal combustion? These are a few of the questions that Shell's experts will ask.

To make sure of their answers, they will turn the sedan around and try the same run again. Wind and weather can make a significant difference in these tests—and Shell engineers want a true average.

A fleet of ten Shell test cars gets more than 5390 acceleration tests in about six months. And each car will travel at least 10,000 miles.

Why so many tests? There are certain times when you must have top performance. You may be pulling onto a busy highway. Or climbing a steep hill. Or passing. Those 5390 acceleration tests help certify today's Super Shell for top performance when you really need it.

NOTE: Next time you are accelerating onto a highway or passing another car, notice how your car accelerates. If it falters, or if it seems to "run out of engine," give today's Super Shell a chance. One of its nine ingredients is new, aviation grade TCP. This remarkable additive can help restore up to 15 per cent of lost power.

A carefully measured amount of Super Shell, with Platformate, is carefully fed into the fuel system of a conventional car. The car is started, accelerated and held at 30 miles per hour until it runs out of gas.

Then, the same amount of gasoline without Platformate is poured in—and the test is run again.

In repeated tests, Shell engineers have found that Super Shell takes the car an average of 96 feet farther per cupful.

That may not sound like much. But in 100 miles of driving, that 96 feet turns into 2½ extra miles. A nice little bonus.

Post-vacation check-up

All the time you were enjoying summer's vacations and weekend trips, your car was hard at work. Time now for a post-vacation check-up. See your nearest Shell dealer—he has the skill, the knowledge and the equipment to keep your car running at peak safety and efficiency.

Here are the 9 ingredients in Super Shell—and what they do to give your car top performance

- #1 is TCP* for power, mileage and longer plug life.
- #2 is mixed pentanes for fast warm-ups.
- #3 is anti-knock mix to resist all kinds of knocks.
- #4 is heavy alkenes to control "high-speed knock."
- #5 is butane for quick starts.
- #6 is "cat-cracked" gasoline—for extra power.
- #7 is an "anti-ice" (Added in cold weather.)
- #8 is gum preventive to keep carburetors clean inside.
- #9 is Platformate for extra mileage.

Chi Rho Club Enjoys Fine Wiener Roast

Christ Church Chi Rho Fellowship held the first regular meeting of its third season last Wednesday — a wiener roast. The notification which went out, prepared by president Ted Warwick, was a poem which said in part:

"At Zwick's Island we will meet
"Where there'll be lots of things to eat,
"And fellowship in the usual style . . .
"So come on out and stay a while."

As well as the usual foodstuffs that go with a shindig of this sort (Jim Bailey's department) there was a singsong, taken care of by Gordon Leggat. Since "I couldn't carry a tune even if I had a basket to carry it in" the curate and the rector found themselves actually leading the group in song. When official "Fire Bug" Al Montgomery allowed the flames to die down a bit, Marry Loggat began a "progressive" story.

She started it out in the lair of a bandit chief who asked Antonio to tell him a tale and, as it progressed around the campfire, touched on such diverse topics as bank and train robberies, drowning females, Superman, Lady Godiva, the easy way to borrow money, shoplifting, ending up with a reference to the constancy of women—as long as the money held out.

At a special attraction, Mr. Creegan proved that, although he was rusty because of lack of practice, he still retained the ability to tail which rock had been handled by a Paleface—a talent he claims to have learned in his younger days on the Mohawk Reservation.

Girl Guards Hold Sway In 3 Pools

Calgary (CP) — The husky, bronzed he-men lifeguards who used to make young feminine hearts flutter are a thing of the past in Calgary.

Fert, pretty, pleasant and tanned young ladies have taken their place and are making young male hearts flip.

Nineteen - year - old Shirley Walker is using the money earned from her summer in the sun as a means of going to Toronto to enroll for two years in a course in dental hygiene. She last year completed her first year of arts and sciences at the University of British Columbia.

Myrna Belmer, 21, isn't sure what she is going to do after the clouds roll in and the snow flies. She has just completed her second year at Mountain View Bible College in her home town of Didsbury, Alta.

But wife-to-be stenographer Susan Wells, 19, of New Zealand, has her earnings earmarked for a trip to England. Calgary and the B-wview Pool are only a brief wage-earning preparation for her tour to Europe.

All are fully qualified for their jobs, Myrna and Shirley with Red Cross Bronze life saving medals and Susan as a winner of the Royal Lifesaving Society distinction award.

Mr. and Mrs. James Mercer Milne are pictured signing the register at Mount Pleasant-Rawdon United Church, following their recent marriage.

The bride is the former Ruth Isobel Sharpe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Sharpe, Stirling, R.R. 3. The bridegroom is a son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Norman Lindsay Milne of Palmerston, Ont.

MILNE — SHARPE

RAWDON — Mount Pleasant-Rawdon United Church was the setting for a pretty summer wedding on Saturday, August 19th, 1961, at 3 p.m., when Ruth Isobel Sharpe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Sharpe, of Stirling R.R. 3, and James Mercer Milne, Oshawa, son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Norman Lindsay Milne of Palmerston, Ontario, were united in a double-ring ceremony which was solemnized by the pastor, the Rev. W. G. Fletcher, B.A. The church altar was adorned with white gladioli and ferns. The guest pews were designated with wide white taffeta bows.

The winsome bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a floor-length gown of lily-white organza. The fitted torsaline bodice featured tiny sleeves and a bateau neckline appliqued with Swiss embroidery. Garlands of matching embroidery scattered the flared skirt and full chapel train. Her ¾-bow-length veil of tulle illusion was held by a crown of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white carnations, fern and ivy.

Mrs. Robert Moorcroft, Belleville, was matron of honor and Miss Carol Sharpe, niece of the bride, Stirling R.R. 3, was bridesmaid. They were identical waltz-length gowns of aqua mist organza. The princess-line bodice was detailed with tiny sleeves and a Sabrina neckline. The softly-draped skirt was held in place at the back with a self rose of the same material. Their headdresses were bands of matching organza, roses and leaves with a veil, to give a picture hat effect. They carried bouquets of white Shasta daisies and the little flower girl carried a nosegay of white 'mums and Sweetheart roses.

Mr. Allan Reesor of Oshawa was the soloist at the console of the organ and provided the wedding music. Mr. Harry Brown of Stirling R.R. 3 was soloist. He rendered, before the ceremony, "O Perfect Love," during the ceremony "The Lord's Prayer," and during the signing of the register, "A Wedding Prayer."

Mr. Gordon Dowling of Oshawa, was groomsman. The ushers were Mr. Burton Sharpe of Stirling R.R. 3, brother of the bride, and Mr. Wayne Mercer of Ottawa, cousin of the bridegroom.

The reception followed in the church hall where the bride's mother received the guests in a sheath of soft pink chiffon with matching hat and shoes and a corsage of white gladioli. The bridegroom's aunt and uncle, Ma, and Mrs. Ellerby Furr of Toronto, were in the reception line and Mrs. Farr was gowned in a hand crochet. gold ribbon sheath with matching jacket, a black picture hat and accessories and a corsage of bronze 'mums.

The bride's table was covered with a white linen damask cloth, centred with a three-tier white wedding cake and a floral arrangement of pink Sweetheart roses at the top. The cake was surrounded at its base with white tulle intermingled with rosebuds. Silver candelabra with white tapers flanked the cake, and low bouquets of pink sweet peas decorated the other tables.

The Rev. W. G. Fletcher proposed the toast to the bride and bridegroom, to which the bridegroom responded and in turn gave a toast to the bridesmaids and Mr. Gordon Dowling responded.

For a wedding trip to Eastern Ontario and Quebec the bride chose a sheath of pure silk shantung in eggshell shade with matching jacket and accessories and a corsage of bronze 'mums.

Mr. and Mrs. Milne will reside at 858 Simcoe Street North, Apt. 3, Oshawa, Ontario.

North Carolina Beauty Chosen Miss America

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) Maria Beale Fletcher, a hazel-eyed, brown-haired North Carolina beauty, Saturday night was chosen Miss America of 1962.

The new queen, from Asheville, is five feet, 2½ inches tall, weighs 118 pounds, and measures 32-24-35.

Mark 40th Anniversaries With Double Celebration

FRANKFORD — A pleasant event took place on the afternoon of September 3rd when Mr. and Mrs. Fred Charlesworth held "Open House" in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Charlesworth of Smithfield and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Lott of Victoria. Annelia-burg who celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary.

Previous to the afternoon event the happy couples were entertained to a turkey dinner by their immediate families at the Queen's Motel, Belleville.

The home was decorated with ruby and white streamers and white bells and beautiful baskets of red and white gladioli.

The hostess, Mrs. Fred Charlesworth assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Bob Charlesworth of Trenton; Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lott and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Lott of Belleville, sons of the two happy couples received the guests at the door.

Those who poured tea during the afternoon were Mrs. George Montgomery; Mrs. William McLaren; Mrs. Ross Hubble; Mrs. Cecil Frost; Mrs. Morrie Bell; Mrs. Harvey Pitcher and Mrs. G. Ralph and Mrs. R. Baker.

Those helping to serve were: the Misses Jean and Joyce Anderson; Miss Joyce Bell; Mrs. Ralph Bell and Mrs. Will Pitcher.

Telegrams of congratulations to the two happy couples were received from David Charlesworth and family who are now living in France; also telegrams received from Kenneth Anderson and family who are living in Nottingham, England.

Numerous gifts were received from relatives and friends.

Those attending this happy event were from Michigan; Toronto; Smithfield; Belleville; Prince Edward County; Trenton and the surrounding areas.

About 300 visitors signed the guest book.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Arlene F. — He's charming everywhere but at home.

Arlene F. — My husband is a dual personality when it comes to attractiveness. At home he has the pep of a pallbearer. Add him what's new and you can count of the answer: "Same old stuff."

Yet, listen to him a few hours later, when on somebody's front steps, and you'd find out he had lunch with a baloney staffer, drinks to Spencer Tracy and learned three words in Afrikaans: Dutch.

What I want to know is why he knocks himself out to be entertaining to others and it can't be a bore at home. I'm stuck here all day and in the evening I'd like to hear about the outside world from somebody else besides John K. M. McCaffery. . . .

Saul F. — I work at the information desk of a midtown department store minding customers. Things happen there in a minute that in a month on our block. At first I used to save up interesting items to tell Arlene. But did she ever listen? No. She kept interrupting with her own gab. Or else she'd phone somebody in the next pretty blonde I happened to mention.

After a while I felt I was sweating my breath. You can tell when no other party's thoughts are a million miles away. I want to even getting through. Once, right in the middle of one of my cliff-hangers, she walked out to close the baby's window. When she came back she never even asked how it ended. . . .

The Council: With a short man's unerring instinct, Saul cuts up his audience. He warms up to a bunch of "live" ones, and saves his breath when it's a "house o fstuffs." Feeling that Arlene's attention wandered once too often, he reserves his show for where it's appreciated.

Doling out monosyllables to his wife, while keeping mum on her hands." But is he fair? Certainly there were times when he was a bit long-winded a n d Arlene, as captive audience, got a bit blase in the face from hanging on his every word. Visitors can be polite. They know they'll be leaving soon. But a wife can't hide her impatience, stand or need to get on with her work.

Furthermore, does Saul ever say, "Now, tell me about your day?" And does he really listen? Or is he a chronic monologist? Evidently anything less than breathless, rapt attention from his wife hurts his feelings and makes him sulk. To show her what she's been missing, he turns into a non-stop Shelly Berman for everyone but her.

How can Arlene bring home talent back home? First, by becoming once again a careful and courteous listener, even when it's just the communicate as: "Oh, my feet are killing me!" Next, by sincere gratitude for the "sharing." Communication isn't always easy. It's a form of giving and it must have a recipient. To encourage the flow, Arlene, may have to pretend to be a first cave then light up like a busy switchboard as the message comes through.

It was no fun for Saul to detect his chronic foible to Arlene. It was like talking into a disconnected telephone. With bedtime manners on the part a d ress "temperament" on his, this one-man show may once again play to a lucky one-woman audience.

SHANNONVILLE W.M.S.

SHANNONVILLE — The monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of Shannonville United Church was held at the church hall on the afternoon of September 9th, with Mrs. Asa Cook, vice-president, in the chair. She opened the meeting with prayer and read an interesting poem "The Day," and welcomed the gathering.

Mrs. Will Rose, group leader, gave the call to worship theme for the month, "Unity of Christ's Church." Mrs. Elmer Vivian gave a reading, "India's Coral Strand." Mrs. Will McFarlane read the Scripture lesson from John 17 and Mrs. Rose read a poem entitled, "Women of God." She also reported that in the letter she had received which acknowledged the contribution to the "World Day of Prayer Fund" it mentioned that the total sum was $26,000.

Mrs. Cook thanked Mrs. Rose and her helpers and then took charge of the business. Miss Robertson, secretary, gave the minutes of the last meeting. Mrs. Russell Hancock read a note of thanks for cards and for the kindnesses shown by while she was ill.

A display for the Shannonville Fair was discussed, with Mrs. Cook to look after same. It was decided to have the next meeting with the W.A. on October 13th as the Institute members will be helping to serve at the forthcoming plowing match.

Mrs. Cook dedicated the offering and closed the meeting with prayer for all home missions and their workers. Thankoffering envelopes were distributed and these were to be handed in at the October meeting.

Mrs. Rose and her group served delicious refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

PREPARING FOR THE OVERNIGHT GUEST

If you're planning to refurnish your guest room, it's always simpler to work from a check list.

As a matter of fact, making up a check list can be quite a challenge. Things like blankets and a reading lamp, of course, are obvious. But it takes the imagination is trying to itemize the little essentials a guest might need. By toting with him and then add the extras h e made from store catalogs. Then you need a shredder that will shred it in batches shreds. Order a Feemster shredder from some large hardware or department store in your vicinity. They are $1.00 in my city. For perfection I make my own mayonnaise.

CARRIAGE SALAD WITH VARIATIONS:

Just before serving time shred a newly cut cabbage on a Feemster shredder until you have enough to serve your family. (Use the shredder with care for it has straight razor-sharp blade and as substitute grip to control width of shreds — and you might cut your fingers on it. I wear a glove for safety.) If desired shred also for variation 1) about ¼ of a slim washed unpeeled cucumber or 2) 1 small slender scrubbed carrot or 3) ½ of a green pepper (or chop all three) and fill all or one of these. Add also a shake of garlic salt, a shake of MSG, ½ teaspoon dill seeds, salt to taste, some chopped parsley if desired and generous amount of mayonnaise. Amount of salt and mayonnaise depend upon amount of cabbage shredded. The salad should be moist. Toss well until blended with 2 forks. Turn into salad bowl and garnish with border of peeled quartered small tomatoes. That is how I make cabbage salad.

I shal repeat how I make mayonnaise.

KENIM'S MAYONNAISE:

In medium large mixing bowl, mix together 3 cold egg yolks, 1 teaspoon each salt, dry mustard and paprika and 1 tablespoon sugar. Mix well until yolks are thick. Measure juice. Keep on this way until both liquids are in, when mayonnaise will be well emulsified and thick. You will need to scrape down sides of bowl as you beat.

NOTE:

You, will get so expert at observing how much oil the mix will absorb in one addition that in time you can add it in a constant fine stream, while you spoon in the lemon juice with your left hand.

Cabbage Salad At Its Best

By Mary Moore

A newly married reader asked: "Mary how do you make your cabbage salads? I've tried to get them like my gorgeous husband wants them but he says they are not right. He is a little vague about it all but do not get me wrong. He praises me to high heaven when I do get things just to his liking . . ."

So this is a cabbage salad column.

It's a little like making a rabbit stew — first you have to catch your rabbit. For the best cabbage salad you need a fresh cabbage. Although I must admit good slaws can be made from store cabbage. Then you need a shredder that will shred it in batches shreds. Order a Feemster shredder from some large hardware or department store in your vicinity. They are $1.00 in my city. For perfection I make my own mayonnaise.

Sr. Citizens Enjoy W.F. Entertainment

The Centenary Women's Federation entertained the Senior Citizens of the County Home on Wednesday afternoon.

After enjoying a motor trip through the countryside they returned to the hall where the president, Mrs. E. Hart greeted them and each guest was presented with a corsage.

Mrs. G. Sills welcomed the guests and acted as chairman for the afternoon.

A humorous skit was presented by Mrs. B. Harder, Mrs. A. Christopher, Mrs. E. Hart, Mrs. P. Ray and Mrs. K. Johnston. A duet was played by Mrs. H. Hancock and Miss Eileen Hancock which was much enjoyed.

Ice cream and cake were served and a social half hour spent. A member of the Home expressed thanks to the Federation for their kindness; also thanks were expressed by Mrs. Yorke.

Motives for Slayings, Suicide Untold in Unfinished Note

SARNIA (CP)—A death note, probably interrupted by the arrival of police, could have included a motive for a double slaying and suicide here this weekend if it had been finished.

Thomas Crawley, 35, was found dead of a shotgun blast in his apartment Saturday with an unfinished note to his wife beside him. The note acknowledged that Crawley had beaten and strangled his aunt and 10-year-old cousin a few hours earlier.

Written in pencil, the note said Crawley couldn't "find any reason" for the slayings, but a postscript said: "I am sorry that I won't get to talk to you, Judy, but there's not much I can say except I can't remember anything last . . ."

Police suggested that Crawley's explanation was halted by the arrival of Detective Donald MacDonald, who wanted to question the man about the slayings. MacDonald heard a shot as he hammered on Crawley's door and discovered the body when he broke in.

Killed earlier were Mrs. Leroy Moore, 45 year-old mother of five children, and her son Danny. The sister of the dead woman's husband was Crawley's mother.

FIND BODIES

The bodies of Mrs. Moore and her son were found about 3 a.m. by Crawley's wife and a neighbor woman in a weed-filled lot adjoining the Moore home.

Mrs. Moore was minding her own children and two daughters of a neighbor Friday night when, according to one of the children, a drunken man appeared and ordered her out with him. She never returned and it was believed Danny tried to help his mother.

Medical reports said Mrs. Moore had been knocked unconscious by two blows from a hammer and then strangled. Danny had been struck once and strangled.

Mrs. Moore's husband, in hospital for a week before the killings with a wartime back injury, left hospital on hearing of the deaths so he could take care of the other children—Gary, 8, Rosemary 7, Delmor, 4, and Penny, 2.

British Liberals This Month Will Make Valiant Effort To Climb Out of Coal Hole

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP) — Britain's old liberal gallant band of Liberals makes another bid this month to climb out of the political coal-hole and recapture long-lost prestige.

Admittedly, only a few chinks of light are showing. The Conservatives and the Labor party have dominated the sunny uplands for so long that hardly anybody realizes the desired, indomitable Liberals.

Now the party of William Ewart Gladstone, Herbert Henry Asquith and David Lloyd George is gathering itself for another small move toward the sun. With a membership estimated at some 300,000, the Liberals are launching a drive for another 100,000.

The campaign is to start during the Liberal assembly at Edinburgh, to be held Sept. 22-23. Party leader Jo Grimond, a tall and handsome man who looks like a matinee idol just getting ready for more mature roles, will start the ball rolling on the closing day of the assembly.

He will conclude the campaign Dec. 2 with a speech before Young Liberals in London.

LOSING BATTLE

In the late 19th and early 20th century, the Liberals dominated British politics. Their eclipse began after the First World War and they have been fighting a losing battle ever since, although superficially at least their avowed brand of tolerant humanism is perhaps as close to the British heart as any other political philosophy.

"I'm really as much as Liberal as anything, but . . ." is a fairly common conversational gambit in Britain. The "but" encompasses a wide range of reservations, including the complaint that a vote for the Liberals is a wasted vote; that the party is too woolly and stands for nothing clear-cut; that it is too thin in potential leaders.

In some respects, it is a victim of the British bias toward a two-party system, which militates against all but the big battalions. In the last general election in 1959, the victorious Conservatives polled 49.4 per cent of the vote and Labor 43.8.

The Liberals, with 216 candidates for the 630 seats at stake, obtained only 5.9 per cent of the vote. Only six of their standard-bearers won seats in the Commons, recalling the post-war jibe that the Liberals could scarcely elect enough members of Parliament to fill a taxi.

Of the 216 candidates, 56 lost their deposits; but on the brighter side 26 finished in second place, compared with 11 in 1955.

SHORT-LIVED GLORY

This was still scant consolation for a party that had experienced a brief moment of glory in March, 1958, when Mark Bonham Carter narrowly won a byelection at Torrington, Devon, sparking hopes of a Liberal revival.

The 1959 election extinguished those hopes. Since then the only Liberal crumbs of comfort has been extracted from the "little general election" of last November, in which the Liberals displaced Labor as runners-up to ease.

HOW MANY BANKING SERVICES WILL BE AVAILABLE HERE?

A complete range of banking services—because this is the site of a new branch of a chartered bank. Future customers will come here to do all their banking, because only in a chartered bank is it possible for all banking to be done under one roof. Each branch, large or small, offers a full banking service, from cashing a cheque to financing foreign trade. Each has a staff trained and eager to render the high standard of service that features chartered banking in Canada.

Mrs. E. Crooks and Mrs. H. O. Barrow, of Greenwich, Missouri spent Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. M. B. Moran and her guest, Mrs. Irwin Lenstein of Chicago, Illinois, (nee Merle Moran).

Mr. and Mrs. John Gray and family returned home on Saturday after a vacation spent in Toronto and points in the U.S.A.

Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Munro and Keith spent the weekend at their cottage at Cloyne.

Master Keith Munro spent Wednesday in Belleville with his friend, Larry Luke.

Mrs. Ben Anderson and Miss Lillian Anderson were afternoon guests of Mrs. E. Crook, on Wednesday.

HOLD SHOWER

A miscellaneous shower was held at Allisonville Hall on Saturday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. William Miller, Jr. (nee Miss Dorothy Caughey). A number from this community attended and after the gifts were opened and admired, both Dorothy and Billy thanked their friends for the lovely gifts and invited them to visit them at their home, in Belleville.

In announcing plans for the Edinburgh assembly, Basil Wigoder, chairman of the agenda committee, described the Liberals as Britain's fastest-growing party.

In the last year, he said, Liberals had gained 372 local council seats and the total number of Liberal aldermen had risen from 621 to 993. This was "satisfactory progress," said the chairman, but he recognized that there was still a long way to go.

Barring some radical change in the political climate, that seems the best short summing-up of Liberal prospects on the eve of the Edinburgh confer-

ARREST WATER PIRATE

WOODLAND HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Police have arrested a man on charges that he pirated water. Dale Allen Alton, 30, was arrested Sunday. Officers said they found water flowing from a fire hydrant into his 2,500-gallon tanker truck. Alton said he sold water to a small mutual water company which supplies a group of home-owners.

Saved, Not a Fanatic

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—Ordinarily I enjoy your column but this is one time I cannot agree fully with you. The lady "Alice" who wrote to you about her husband being a "fanatic" because he claimed he is saved, received as your answer, in part, "If his attitude is extreme enough to be construed as mental abuse".

Just how can the testimony of a saved person be mental abuse? Most Protestant churches, including the Presbyterian and the Salvation Army, believe in being saved or born again (which is a wonderful personal experience) but this of course does not affect the sex life.

It is possible that the lady Alice herself is at fault by her strong opposition and nagging which affects their personal and sex life.

Many so-called "fanatics," including Dr. Billy Graham, the world-famous evangelist, have large families and live a normal regular married life. But knowing only one side of the story, how are we able to judge?—BELLEVILLE READER.

DEAR BELLEVILLE READER:—I don't call evangelists fanatics. Alice's husband is the one who needs to be told that such persons live a normal life — sex wise and otherwise.

The trouble seems to be in the variations in meaning which "saved" has come to have. When it comes to a deep rift between husband and wife, which carries over to setting the children against their mother (which this man has) there seems to be lacking the loving understanding which should go with any Christian approach.

You are right that we cannot judge without going into it more deeply, and I suggested the need for compromise. I also suggested a social worker to talk to; which, in the end, can do a great deal more than a brief letter from me.

(Doris Clark, Master of Social Work, is a graduate of McGill, Toronto and McMaster universities, and has had broad experience in social work. If you would like help with your problems, write to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.)

Around Two Worlds in 14 Days

Around two worlds in 14 days! Amid the Jules Verne setting of Niagara Falls' famed cable cars, French-speaking students from Quebec explore a brave new English world.

Quebec-Ontario exchange visits spark new interest in bilingualism, make both English and French vividly aware of the pleasures and benefits of Canada's dual culture.

Two Canadian cultures take a look at a third. Chief Lone Wolf, of Niagara Falls Indian Village, shows touring English and French students one of the Indian masks used by his people long before either Ontario or Quebec existed.

Y. Bouchard and Nancy Malloy gasp at Niagara's bilingual thunder.

"Passez la boor", says April O'Neil, and gets a laughing correction from hostess Christiane Tremblay at a hearty French-Canadian supper. Living in each other's homes for two weeks gives students new insight into other lives and languages.

French-Canadian Marie-Andree Lefort and English-Canadian Marilyn Morris find they both have trouble with Chinese-Canadian chopsticks.

"Excite de te voir" — "I am exciting to see you" — a quotation that sums up the expectations and accomplishments of Ontario-Quebec student exchange visits; the excitement of not only visiting but living in a new and different culture, and the first attempts at a genuine bilingualism.

Student exchange visits began in 1957 when the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews first co-operated with the long-established Interprovincial Visits society in introducing young English and French Canadians to the delights and benefits of each other's culture.

Canada, the largest English-speaking country in the world, also has within its borders the second-largest French-speaking city — Montreal. Ontario and Quebec, two great neighboring provinces, present a vivid cultural and linguistic contrast, which the inter-community visits are designed to make more widely known, better understood. For English-speaking Ontarians, the two-week visit to Quebec brings entrance to a warm, hospitable land with an old-world charm. In Ontario, French-Canadians find an exciting, fresh new world.

Language difficulties prove to be not really difficulties at all when attacked by two young people's insatiable curiosity and desire to tell each other about their worlds.

The students, between the ages of 15 and 18, spend two weeks in each other's homes.

The whole spirit and purpose of the visits is personified in April O'Neil of Waterloo, and Christiane Tremblay of Chicoutimi, Quebec. Helping each other with language, and in each other's homes, shopping, swimming, bicycling, vacationing together, they attained a real insight into each other's lives. Bilingualism, perhaps, did not leap pace with friendship, but cetrainly the interest and desire were there.

"Les villes sont magnifique!" says April.

"Terrific!" agrees Christiane.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

ACTIVE CHICKADEES

It is unfortunate that we folks of settled Canada know about migrating chickadees and those that winter near our southern border but nothing about their home life.

If you have never seen or baby black-capped chickadee just after it emerged from its home hole in some old tree or post, you have something to look forward to. Though almost tailless it is otherwise a small edition of its parents. The parents, themselves only 5½ inches long (the length of a warbler), have quite a bit of that length taken up by tail. All are practically neckless and their black caps and throats are separated by a snow white strip of feathers starting at the tiny, dark bill and running to the place where the neck is supposed to be. This white seems to accentuate the black and gives the birds a comical appearance. Their spindly, dark grey legs seem so fragile that we wonder how they are able to carry the plump little balls of feathers through so many acrobatic stunts without breaking.

When mother brings her six or seven children to the feeding tray we have a lively sight. No chickadee ever seems to stay put for more than a second. She enjoys prying sunflower seeds out of the cracks more than picking up the ones easily accessible. Turning them round and round in her little polished bill she breaks them open and feeds the kernel to a youngster — then off she darts to the suet suspended from a nearby branch, leaps onto it, and form an upside down posture takes a bite, and in no time is back on the tray stuffing a bunty-tailed baby. Next she may spy a breadcrumb, and with a dive grabs it to give another baby. Meanwhile all the children are flitting backwards and forwards from tray to tree with open mouths trying to follow mother and demanding more food. Leaping from younger to suet she clings sideways, right side up, right side down, then to the tray to stand on her two tiny dark feet.

Neither feet nor tail are adapted for climbing. Chickadees cling with their toes in true acrobatic style. Their flight is swift and jerky. When not provided with food they eat fruit pulp, spiders, and various kinds of small insects and their larvae. The so-called song, a high-pitched, two or three note whistle, is one of the joys of a bird-lover's tramp through the woods; but these birds are best known for their hoarse "chick-a-dee-dee-dee-dee" call.

HEIGH HO, THEY CAME TO THE FAIR — Although the morning and early afternoon attendance was scant, the Shannonville Fair wound up with a large number of people present. With most of the men having a look at the horse and cattle exhibits or watching the races there was a large number of the fair set on the midway.

CHRISTMAS IN SEPTEMBER — This was one of the novel exhibits in the ladies' section of the Shannonville Fair. Looking at the attractive display are Mrs. Sid Fitzgerald, director and ladies' representative on the Central Ontario Fair Boards' Association, and fair president Lorne Weese.

Varied Grandstand Program, Splendid Exhibits, Good Racing at Shannonville Fair

The Shannonville "World's" Fair was held this past Friday and Saturday with the blessing of fair weather, some very fine displays and entries but initially lacking, unfortunately, in spectators attendance.

By the middle of Saturday afternoon this latter situation was considerably remedied however, and a large number of people were on hand to view the activity on the Midway, the grandstand and the race track.

As usual with the Shannonville Fair the grandstand show stressed the idea of offering something for everyone. There were nail driving and buck-sawing contests for the ladies, log sawing, fiddling and jigging contests were for the men. There were also searches for the largest family present, the oldest patron of the fair, the boy and girl with the most freckles and so on. The audience appreciation of these events was quite evident in the laughter they provoked and the enthusiasm of the participants. The grandstand musical entertainment was provided by the Clown Band from Bellerville.

On the race course everything from trotters, through bicycles, to grand pigs were being raced, much to the delight of those viewing this side of the fair's activities.

The judging of the various classes, especially in the horse and pony classes was helped considerably by the presence of the new judging ring constructed this year on the east side of the judges' stand on the north side of the race track's start-finish line. Built into the bottom of a gentle slope both judges and viewers got an excellent view of all the activity which took place in the ring.

JUNIORS QUITE ACTIVE

The 4-H Club members and Junior Farmers were quite active amongst the cattle exhibitors. A number of fine calves of various breeds were shown by them. It was evident that amongst this group a great deal of enthusiasm will come in a small package. There was one exhibitor showing who was barely a third the size of the calves he paraded in the show ring.

In the "Palace" the usual fine display of the women's sections was once again evident and for those who wished they could get a finger into some of the very tasty looking home baking and cooking there was a stand just outside where meals and snacks could be obtained.

How amongst the women's exhibits this year was the "Christmas in September" display of Christmas decorations by a number of the women's associations. In the heat of the day it seemed strange to think that there were less than 100 shopping days remaining until the annual winter Holiday Season.

A number of manufacturers were displaying their wares. Everything from sewing machines to tractors and farming equipment were to be seen.

All in all the 1961 Shannonville Fair proved once again that good things can come in small packages.

Activity at the Shannonville fair was at a general standstill last Saturday around midday but by mid afternoon, things started to roll.

The crowd was small as were the exhibits this year, as temperatures remained in the high 80's throughout the afternoon. Some of the fair officials remarked that it was such a beautiful day, farmers were remaining home to bring in late season crops before the fair rains began.

The race track was kept watered via truck to keep the dust to a minimum as the trotters warmed up for the race events.

There was a good showing of fine horses and cattle, but the swine couldn't have cared less. They were more interested in finding a cool spot, if they could, in the pens provided for them.

Children were having a gay time with candy apples and taffy, but were not too interested in the midway provided for them.

EXHIBITS

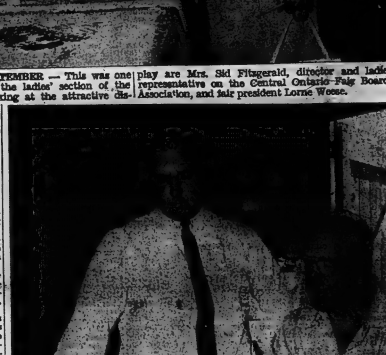
Horses and Ponies — Judy Day, Bellevville; C. Top, Bellevville; Morris Park, Bellevville; H. Cook and son, Newburg; Carman Downey, Crookston; Bruce McPherson, Napanee; Fred Cook, Enterprise; Don McNiven, Bellevville; Sandy Day, Kingston; Robert Dafford, Hollowayy; Bert McCutcheon, Napanee; Bemb's Bros., Napanee; A. W. Maynes, Brighton; Beverley Lucas, Bellevville; David T. McDonald, Bellevville; William Craig, Bellevville; Clifford Yeomans and Jack Bush, Bellevville.

Cattle — Mrs. Acton Hayes, Odessa; Elmer Wood, Crookston; Edmond Reavie, Clinton; Duncan Creighton, Bath.



Poultry and Eggs — Mrs. Acton Hayes, Odessa; Mrs. H. Sheppard, Codrington; Hubert Thompson, Roblin; Violet Eckhardt, Plainfield; Ervine McGuire, Crookston.

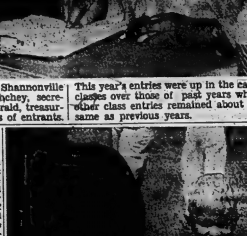
Flowers and Vegetables — Mrs. Acton Hayes, Odessa; Mrs. Pearl Clarke, Bellevville; Ruby Day, Shannonville; Mrs. S. H. Sheppard, Codrington, and Mrs. G. R. Putnam, Wooler.

There was a beautiful display of various woman's work such as hand-sewn garments, needlework and table decorations. One eye-catching display was a Christmas scene labelled "Let's Have Christmas in September".

NEW AND OLD — Shannonville Fair executives, Tom Hinchey, secretary (left), and Sid Fitzgerald, treasurer (right), check the lists of entrants. This year's entries were up in the cattle classes over those of past years whilst other class entries remained about the same as previous years.

As usual at Shannonville Fair the favorite attraction is the horse races and Saturday was no exception. The largest crowd on the grounds was watching the races, which were spirited and keen. A matched race between Don McKay owned by Art MacDonald of Kingston and driven by Cecil Carleton was defeated by Judge Moore, owned by Albert Defosse of Trenton and driven by Harry Ingles of Brighton.

Queenie McDuff owned by Art McDonald of Kingston was much the best in the "B" classified race winning in straight heats and accomplishing the feat in an easy manner. In the "A" classified the heats were split with the good trotter owned by Bill Faulkner winning the first heat and Judge Moore, who did not finish coming back to take the second heat.



Harold Bunnett was the announcer for the meet with Lorne Urch in charge of the starting gate. The judges were Cameron Bunnett, George Montgomery and Clarence Hannah, the timers, Harold Osborne, Douglas Lazier and Don Thompson while Lorne Lazier was clerk of the course. The results.

Fuse Device May Convince Canada to Accept U.S. Defensive Nuclear Weapons

OTTAWA (CP) — A gadget known to the military as the "dead man fuse" may convince the Canadian government to accept defensive nuclear weapons from the United States.

U.S. Air Force Gen. Laurence S. Kuter, commander-in-chief of North American Air Defence Command, in a speech in Toronto Sept. 1 discussed the need for nuclear warheads to counteract the "dead man fuse."

It is understood that Gen. Kuter's speech received advance approval from the Canadian defence department before its delivery. The whole question of North American air defence is expected to highlight the defence debate which gets under way in the Commons this week.

Gen. Kuier said it is only reasonable to expect that nuclear bombs carried by Soviet planes would be designed with "dead man fuses" so that they would detonate on impact with the ground even though the aircraft carrying them were shot down in flames or disintegrated in the air.

"There is, therefore, enormous military advantage in the use of a nuclear air defence warhead which will kill the weapon and not just the carrier," he said.

He said a conventional weapon will destroy the bomber but will not assure destruction of the bomb. Only a nuclear weapon could destroy both.

Gen. Kuter gave this example:

Suppose a Soviet bomber were bent on attacking Toronto with a five - megaton nuclear bomb (the equivalent of 5,000,000 tons of TNT).

Suppose an interceptor knocked down the bomber with a conventional weapon 30 miles upwind from Toronto. If the bomb detonated when it hit the ground, Toronto would escape material destruction. But the radioactive fallout might kill unprotected persons throughout the entire city. Toronto could suffer as many casualties if the bomb had hit its target.

However, if the interceptor had used a nuclear air-to-air missile the bomb itself would have been destroyed in the air. There would still be some fallout but it would be "of no appreciable significance."

What Gen. Kuter was saying, in effect, was that defensive nuclear weapons could mean the saving of the lives of millions of North Americans.

It will be difficult for the Canadian government to ignore this argument.

QUEEEN RIOTERS

MIAMI (AP) — Some 600 screaming Cuban exiles threatened the lives of a small group of Fidel Castro's adherents at Miami International Airport Saturday before being subdued by a police riot squad. Thirty policemen threatened demonstrators with clubs and shoved them away from their intended victims but no blows actually were struck.

Finer Points of Dove Hunting

For a great many years, the mourning dove has been the number-one position on the list of popular game birds in the United States. However, the encroachments of civilization have greatly affected the population figures of this great little bird. Its ability to thrive and survive, the bob white must have adequate food and cover. These are decidedly rapidly, with the result that the popular bird today is the mourning dove.

Loss of wild acreage and a "suburban sprawl" evidently does not affect the mourning dove adversely in almost every community, a goodly share of the local dove population can be found, most of the time, inside the city limits. And it's a conversion of wild lands to agriculture seems to have little effect; gives a cornfield with a good undergrowth of knotweed or smart weed, and a dove is as happy as a clam at high tide.

While the mourning dove is native to all of the States and most of the Canadian Provinces, the bird is not legal game in every one of the more populous States. The passing residents of those closed States really are denied an excellent sport of shooting. Once they have sampled the joys of a day of dove shooting, I have no doubt that their Conservation Commissioners will be hard pressed for funds.

There are three ways to hunt mourning doves. "Perching them up" is the cornfield; flyway shooting; and roost shooting. The first method is limited in activity what the name implies. You and your companions, spaced 40 or 50 feet apart, walk the corn rows, flushing the birds ahead of you. Always it is well to have the wing men — those on each end of the line of pressure — to walk about 35 or 30 feet ahead of the others. This places them in position to pick off fleeing birds.

A flushing dove, unless the cove in unusually sparse, makes it a point to guess what he will do next. He may fly straight away; he may "zig-zag" his flight; he may fare off to the side; again, he is just as apt as not to swing back directly over the line of gunners.

Regardless of what he does, you can depend upon it that he will rarely be an easy target. Flushing dove can and does provide some extra-fancy wing shooting.

Flyway shooting requires a bit of know-how. To do this successfully, you must learn how to locate the flyways. A dove is a creature of habit. When moving from one spot to another in the general area of his choosing, he evidently believes in the old axiom that a straight line is the shortest distance between two points. Thus, nine times out of ten, he will fly along that line.

In any feeding field there are apt to be two or three different flyways. One may lead to another feeding field; another to a favorite grove of trees used for resting; another to a water affords; few doves have been flushed from a field you can spot the flyways by watching USE COVER

When you take your position on a flyway, it is best to take advantage of such cover as may be available — a bush, a corn shock, a growth of high weeds, anything that will provide a reasonable amount of cover. It is best to wear drab clothing which will blend with your surroundings — tan or medium green. Some men wear the camouflage suits used in jungle warfare, available at the Army and Navy stores.

Then, too, there is the matter of wind to consider. A prevailing cross wind will move a flyway as much as 50 yards from its position of yesterday. Once a flyway has been located, consider wind direction and velocity and take your position accordingly.

Roost shooting is pretty much a cut-and-dried proposition. Once the roost has been located, it takes but a very short time to determine the lines of flight to that roost. Simply watch the directions from which the birds come in and take your position accordingly. Again, it is wise to take advantage of such cover as may be available.

Frankly, it is my sincere feeling that roost shooting defeats its own purpose for the dove hunter. There is no better way to move a flock of doves out of the country and start them on the way south than to shoot a roost regularly, evening after evening. Generally, we confine our shooting to walk-up and flyway shooting. That way our dove flocks postpone their southward migration for another week or two.

The powers-that-be in Washington once again have handed out a discriminatory and, to our way of thinking, unfair deal to the gunners of the Eastern Management Unit in the matter of shooting hours. This unit takes in all the States east of the Mississippi River and Louisiana. We are allowed only half-day shooting, from twelve, noon, to sunset.

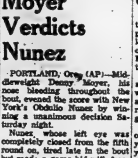
The rest of the country is allowed all-day shooting, from one-half hour before sunrise to sunset.

As a basis to our injured sensibilities they allow us 70 half days as against 90 full days in the Central Unit. There in Pennsylvania our birds have just about left the country by the time the season opens on them. So — we miss our good morning shooting and do the best we can after the noon hour when only a few of the birds have fed and are flying and resting and loafing in their resting areas in the afternoon, no longer available to the guns.

The reason for this discrimination, it seems, is somewhat clouded under the guise of a conservation measure. Meanwhile, our annual kick of dove increases annually. So now the boys come right out with the real reason. Certain unscrupulous gunners used to, before the half-day rule was applied, take a limit of birds in the morning and another limit in the evening. Half-day shooting eliminates this practice.

In other words the enforcement agencies admit that they aren't up to doing their jobs. So they penalize legitimate shooters for their admitted inability to do that for which they are paid. In my book, it is a rather weak-kneed position, no matter how you look at it.

Moyer Verdicts Nunez



PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Middleweight Tommy Moyer, his nose bleeding throughout the bout, earned the score with New York's Obdulio Nunez by winning a unanimous decision Saturday night.

Nunez, whose left eye was completely closed from the fifth round on, took the lead in the bout but made a game bid with free-swinging attacks in the final three rounds.

Moyer, of Portland, scored throughout with right and left hand leads, several of which knocked the 26-year-old Puerto Rican off balance.

The victory provided revenge for Moyer and his older brother, Phil. Nunez stopped Phil on cuts in the eighth round April 3 and defeated Denny June 17.

Entwistle Wins at Mosport

By HARRY CALNEK

ORONO (CP)—Porsche's two-year domination of Canadian sports car racing was shattered Saturday by Harry Entwistle of Hamilton at nearby Mosport Park.

The consistently good Entwistle, a sign painter, was brilliant as he hurled his Lotus 12 around the twisting 2.4-mile road circuit to snatch victory totes from Ludwig Heimrath of Toronto in a Porsche Spyder.

Seldom more than inches separated the two cars as they fought over 29 laps for the British Empire Motor Club Indian Summer Trophy. The track was made treacherous by accumulation of oil and rubber

Peter Ryan of Mont Tremblant, Que., who came third in an earlier race behind Entwistle and Heimrath and was favored in the feature, retired on the first lap following a spectacular crash.

TWO CARS SPIN

Ryan's machine of Ortilla was leading Ryan's Porsche Reg on the first circuit when his Mistress Spyder, wildly on the hairpin. Ryan also spun in trying to avoid a collision and they found themselves pointing at the track with almost 30 cars bearing down on them.

Makins drove away unscathed but Ryan's car received damage to the front suspension. On the third lap Makins was hurtling into the hairpin when the left rear wheel flew high in the air. The big Special spun crazily and came to rest in a bull Makins was unhurt.

Denny Coad of Toronto in the factory Sunbeam Alpine and Bob Clift of Pontiac, Mich., in the GSM Delta put on two of the finest displays of driving during the meet.

There was a rash of mishaps, mostly to the bike riders, but injuries were not critical.

Sarnia Wins Over Toledo

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP — Quarterback John Henry Jackson passed for three touchdowns to lead Sarnia to a 25-19 victory over Toledo in the American Football Conference game Saturday night.

The victory was the second straight for the Canadian team, which opened the season with a 15-12 decision over Port Huron Monday. This was the first game for Toledo.

Jackson threw scoring passes of 17 yards to Tom Taber. Five yards to Lamar Lee and eight yards to Jerry O'Neil. The pass to O'Neil, which gave the visitors the decision, came just four seconds before the game ended.

Elsewhere in the AFC, the Port Huron Raiders stopped for three touchdowns after a scoreless first half to defeat defending champion Ohio Colts 20-7.

Detroit Redskins, scoring all three of their touchdowns in the first half, defeated Cincinnati Mohawk Indians 20-7.

Eight Teams in Loop

LONDON Ont. (CP) — Officials of the Senior Ontario Hockey Association have set Monday as the deadline for entering a nominee when they were told the plans of St. Thomas Royals are still not complete.

Harold McDermid, president of the Royals, informed a meeting that he would not be able to name the site of the club's home games for several days. He said the arena will be within a 30-mile radius of St. Thomas.

C. G. (Pat) Patterson, OHA vice - president, said he will have a tentative schedule ready Sept. 19. The 24 - game schedule is to open Oct. 30 with Galt Terriers, Allan Cup champions, at Chatham.

Chatham Maroons, Stratford Indians, Woodstock Athletics, Strathroy Rockets, Galt, Sarnia, Waterloo and St. Thomas gave assurance they will play.

SIX TO ENTER PLAYOFFS

The meeting decided that six of the eight teams will enter the playoffs. Length of the playoffs will depend on whether there is an Eastern Division of the league to contest the OHA championship.

The OHA has given proposed entries from Belleville, Kingston, Napanee, Oshawa and Toronto until Sept. 13 to decide.

The team finishing first will have its choice of opponents for a best - of - nine semi - final. The highest will choose an opponent for a best - of - seven quarter - final and the two remaining teams will meet in another quarter - final. If an eastern group is formed, both western quarter - finals will be reduced to best - of - five games.

The Terriers who will represent Canada at the world hockey championships at Denver, Colo., will not enter the playoffs.

Sarnia and St. Thomas were given permission to sign three of last year's Windsor Bulldogs, who folded at the end of the season. The other teams are limited to signing two.

A clause was added to the league's charter - the weather regulation to allow teams to split their dividend pool among players at Christmas as well as at season's end. The Christmas split must not exceed 20 per cent of the club's dividends for the season.

Davis Cup Player Suspended

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Davis Cupper Dennis Ralston, 19, Saturday was suspended until the end of the year by the executive committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

The USLTA's statement said Ralston was suspended "because of having acted in a manner detrimental to the welfare of the game" during last month's United States - Mexico North American zone Davis Cup final in Cleveland.

The suspension gave the national mixed doubles title to Margaret Smith and Bob Mark of Australia. Ralston and Darlene Hard were to play the couple in the final.

Ralston's misdeeds, said the statement, included cursing, throwing his racquet and ignoring the Mexican captain when the latter attempted to aid him after he had taken a flop.

Leafs Meet Wings in Playoff

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The International League's 1961 regular season ended Sunday but it really didn't.

Toronto Maple Leafs defeated Rochester Red Wings 11-4 to tie the Red Wings for fourth place. Both teams closed out with identical won-lost records and will battle in a single game at Rochester Sunday to decide the fourth and final playoff spot.

In other games, Jim Seil's home run in the ninth inning gave the league - champion Columbus Jets a 7-6 victory over the runnerup Charleston Marlins. Syracuse Chiefs zapped the third - place Buffalo Bisons 5-4 and Jersey City Jerseys blanked Richmond Virginians 3-0.

The Red Wings beat the Leafs in both ends of a doubleheader Saturday by 7-2 and 9-3 counts. Charleston edged Columbus 6-5, Buffalo beat Syracuse 3-4 and Jersey City overpowered Richmond 10-3.

Rochester led 6-3 after six innings Sunday. In the seventh Toronto came up with four runs to tie the score, three of them on Ellis Burton's 23rd homer of the year. In the eighth, a double and two singles filled the bases to set the stage for Ken Hamlin, who lined a double to left which scored all three runners. Orlando Pena, the fifth Toronto pitcher was the winner.

DRIVES IN WINNER

Woody Smith's two - out single in the ninth inning drove in the winning run for Syracuse.

The Chiefs pulled off the season's first triple play in the ninth. With runners on first and second, Al Minchet hit a line drive over second base that appeared to be a sure base hit. Shortstop Ron Stillwell raced over the grab the liner, stepped on second and fired to first baseman Frank Lelo to complete the three - out - play - putout.

Jersey City's win was its third straight over Richmond but the Jerseys still finished in seventh spot in the league race.

The winner of tonight's Rochester - Toronto game faces Columbus in a best - of - seven semi - final playoff starting Tuesday night. Charleston and Buffalo are the opponents in the other best - of - seven semi-final.

Peewees Ousted By Petes

Peterborough won the series in two consecutive games.

The winners broke up a scoreless tie in the top of the seventh and final frame, scoring all their runs, to take the series.

The first six innings featured a tight pitching duel between Ford of the Petes and Jim Parks of Belleville. Wayne McTaggart took over pitching duties for Belleville midway through the seventh.

Ford gave up only one hit on the winners' mound while the Petes only managed two hits off the Bellevilleite pitchers.

Boomer Wants Big Contract

MONTREAL (CP) — Bernie Geoffrion, hockey's 50-goal man of last season, heads for the bargaining table this week with a long-term contract in mind.

The 30-year-old right-winger's contract with Montreal Canadiens expired at the end of last year and he wants to renew it on a five-year basis. In an interview he gave no indication of how much money he wants.

Only two National Hockey League players have ever obtained five-year contracts. They are Montreal's Jean Beliveau and Bobby Hull of Chicago Black Hawks.

Argos Whip Saskies

Eskimos Wallop Ottawa

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The rugged Edmonton Eskimos and the ragged Ottawa Rough Riders were both needed Saturday night to get the two their seventh Canadian Football League victories.

With Ottawa Rough Rider leading 26-22 late in the fourth quarter Saturday, Eskimos exploded for two touchdowns. They won 35-26 and sent the Riders to their second defeat of the season.

Argos grabbed a 30-7 first-half lead, then reeowned with Sam Etcheverry flourishing through a listless second half that left the shirt-sleeved Wednday crowd of 34,047 little to get excited about. Argonauts won 27-7.

The Rough Riders were killed by a one-man explosion. Halfback Johnny Bright culminated a series of passing plays from the Ottawa 38 by plunging over from the five-yard line at 10:19 of the final quarter.

Two minutes and 26 seconds later Bright was rambling down the field after bursting through centre at the Edmonton 29. He shook off two tackles at Perkins at the Riders' 20 and completed an Etcheverry pitchup for the winning touchdown.

The win gave Eskimos 16 points atop the Western Conference, four ahead of Winnipeg Blue Bombers and eight ahead of third-place Saskatchewan.

RIDERS IN FRONT

Ottawa stayed in a first-place tie with Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the Eastern Conference. Each has eight points, but the tabbies-in Tiger-Cats have played only four games to Ottawa's six. They can make up one of them tonight when they are host, after a week's rest, to Edmonton.

End Jim Letcavits worked in less sensational fashion than Bright, but he also added two touchdowns to the Edmonton cause, taking long passes from quarterback Don Getty for both of them before a record crowd of 19,321 at Ottawa's Lansdowne Park. Quarterback Jackie Parker, who worked as a halfback in the second quarter, while Getty steered the club, got the other touchdown on a kick-and-run convertu and a single on a field goal attempt.

For Ottawa, quarterback Russ Jackson proved what he has been saying all along: That he can pass. He did it twice for touchdowns — to halfbacks George Brancato and Dick Desmarais—and rookie halfback Ernnie White ran 13 yards for a third. Halfback Gary Schreiber converted the three touchdowns and booted a field goal. Gerry Nesbitt kicked two singles.

ROTE SHINES

The big difference between Argonauts and Sas ka tchewan was in the passing of Toronto quarterback Tobin Rote. He completed 16 of 25 pass attempts for 374 yards.

Cookie Gilchrist, Dick Shatto and Jim Rountree scored touchdowns for Toronto before the first half was over. Rote added another in the third quarter and rookie Dave Mann scored three singles, one in the first, one in the second and his last one just a minute to go in the game.

The Roughriders scored their only touchdown in the first quarter when end Jack Gotta took a 31-yard pass from rookie quarterback Dave Grosz. Reg White-house converted to give the Riders a 7-6 lead.

Hayward Ambulance Strikes Car

DETROIT (CP) — An ambulance carrying Canadian racing-boat driver Jim Hayward sideswiped a car Sunday on its way to hospital. A fireman and police officer suffered severe cuts and other injuries.

Hayward was pronounced dead on arrival at Main Receiving Hospital, but the minor collision was not believed to have contributed to his death. His boat had turned over during the Miles Cup Regatta.

A car driven by Mrs. Martin Murray, 31, of suburban St. Clair Shores stopped at an intersection and was struck first by a police motorcycle escorting the ambulance, then by the ambulance. The ambulance was completely around but continued to hospital without stopping.

LION HUNTS MAN

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A lion returned to its zoo pit Saturday and severely injured a zookeeper cleaning the animal area. Lyon Hudson, 18, a new employee at the Lincoln Park Zoo, was saved when a fellow workman fired a pistol three times at the lioness. Attendants said a cage door leading to the pit apparently had been left ajar.

How do I save?

Easy come, easy go... that was me until now! But with marriage in the offing, I've become a serious saver. The secret? Two separate accounts: a Personal Chequing Account for paying bills, a Savings Account for saving.

...The "Royal" calls this its Two-Account Plan. And it has proved to me I can keep my hands off my savings, can give them a chance to grow. It's a life-saver for serious savers. Simple. Sensible. And it works! Try it.

Bobby Hayward Dies Wh en Boat Flips

Sport Slices . . .

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

"The face of a boy—and the heart of a lion!"

Canadian sport in general, and this town and London in particular united from the shocking impact of the death of Bobby Hayward, intrepid millionaired hydroplane driver who was killed instantly on the Detroit River over the weekend.

The triple winner of the famous Harmsworth trophy was one of the finest sportsmen Canada has ever produced. This was exemplified on Sunday before the fatal accident when Hayward's best streak a hour. He immediately announced the fact to the judges and automatically disqualified himself.

Hayward was extremely popular with not only his associates of the Supertest Corporation but with everybody with whom he came in contact. He was modest almost to the point of shyness but had the courage and intestinal fortitude of a lion.

He was not given to boasting or bragging. He demanded the best from his boats—and got it. A daring driver he earned and owned the respect and esteem of his American counterparts. A sportsman to the core.

He raised listings with such well-known American drivers as Bill Muncey, Stead, Wild Bill Cantrell and Chuck Thompson, whom he defeated in the 1961 Harmsworth route at Picton last month.

Cantrell said a year ago that Hayward was listed around fifth or sixth position in driver ratings. "But the way he is going it will not be too long before he is up there with the best of any and all of them," said Wild Bill.

"You fellows should be proud of a guy like Hayward," Chuck Thompson told newsmen in the Harmsworth pits last Civic Holiday. "He is one of the best drivers in the game and a thorough sportsman, every inch of him," was his post-defeat comment.

Commodore Jay Sprague of the Prince Edward Yacht Club, was elected like the rest of us who know Bobby well after the numbing news reached home.

"I cannot believe it—it cannot be true," whitefaced Jay said. "How could such a thing happen to a guy like Bobby. He was one of the finest men I have ever known, not given to taking unnecessary and driving credit to all with whom he was associated in the hydroplane racing world. This has shocked me to my heels. It is a terrific catastrophe and a terrific blow to me and those connected with it. It seems very hard to believe."

Hayward was always "good copy" for newspaper men. He did not try to force his way into the news. He would answer any and all questions with the sunny smile that was one of his most endearing attributes.

Hayward's death will be a terrific shock to Col. Gordon Thompson, his son Jim Thompson, president of the Supertest Corporation and the members of the "Supertest" family.

It could mean the end of the Harmsworth era so far as the Thompsons and "the Miami Supertest" are concerned. They may retire the undefeated champion which is the only unlimited hydroplane in the world to win the coveted trophy three years in succession.

In any event it is doubtful if an American challenger will put in an appearance next year unless certain Harmsworth rules are changed.

In Ten Innings

Booth's Lose to Toronto

Booth TV's committed eight errors and let 12 runners strand in eight as the CNRA Park here Saturday while dropping a 10-inning 7-6 decision to Toronto Legion in OASA Midget "A" playdowns.

The second game of the series will be played in Toronto tonight at 8.00 p.m.

While the Belleville boys outhit the visitors by a wide 13-5 margin, they still had to come from behind with three runs in the bottom of the ninth inning to send the game into extra innings, tied 5-5.

A walk, MacMillan's single and St. Denis' double scored one run for Booth's in the ninth. A two out double by Denard chased the other two runs across for the 5-5 score.

In the top of the tenth, Toronto scored twice on an error, a base hit by Hinds, a walk, a stolen base and two passed balls. Belleville fought back in their half of the frame and had the bases loaded at one point but could not score.

Toronto built its early 2-0 lead before Belleville tied it in the seventh. A two-run homer by Greenburg in the eighth and open run in the ninth again put Booth's down 5-2 going into the bottom of the frame. They tied it once but couldn't pull the same trick again in the tenth.

Larry Mann pitched the win for the Legion nine. He gave up 10 hits, struck out 12 batters and walked four. His mates made just two errors.

Bobby Boyle's five-hitter went for naught on the Belleville mound. He nipped five on strikeouts while walking seven.

Norm Greenburg's home run was Toronto's only extra-base hit. Singles were hit by Jim MacDonald, Jim Ferin, Brian Gilbert and Austin Hinds.

Gary McMillan continued his hot hitting for Booth's, rapping a double and three singles. Pat Glancy and Jerry St. Denis each had a double and single with Rick Denard also doubling. Singles were shared by Cal Noonchower, Bobby Ethier and Pete Mitchell.

Neck Broken In Crash

By JERRY GREEN

DETROIT (AP) — Bob Hayward, soft-spoken and cautious driver of powerboat racing from Renfrew, died of a broken neck Sunday after he gambled with his Miss Supertest II and sent the speeding boat into a roll on the Detroit River.

Hayward, champion of unlimited - class hydroplane racing who brought Canada the famed Harmsworth trophy the last three years, died instantly.

He had attempted to squeeze Supertest between two boats and into the lead on the first turn of the second heat of the Silver Cup Regatta.

The 52-year - old former chicken farmer was the first driver to be killed in 11 years in an unlimited hydroplane accident. He was pronounced dead after doctors failed to revive him at the pit area and he was taken to hospital.

WAS NATIONAL HERO

Hayward was a national hero because of his three Harmsworth triumphs. Miss Supertest III, the most recent last month at Picton. It was the first time a boat had won the gruelling three consecutive times.

In 1959 he was forced to sink his first Harmsworth, breaking 30 years of United States' domination of the trophy, on the same Detroit River course on which he was killed.

In 1956, the Union of International Motor Boating, governing body for power boating records, awarded Hayward the Sports Medal of Honor from Detroit, Michigan.

"If a hydroplane is driven too fast, it will take off," Hayward wrote before last month's Harmsworth. He promised his readers he would never drive his planes in the Harmsworth.

That's fast enough when you're steering a car, but not a boat, he said. "The faster you go on water the harder it is to steer."

DESCRIBE MISHAP

Witnesses at the first turn and 3½ area said Hayward's boat flipped when he tried to work her between Seattle's Century 21 and Detroit's M.S. 1, the leaders of the heat.

"I saw the whole thing," Sportsman pilot Jim Thompson of London, Ont., said. "Bob had just pushed her into the lead when he flipped completely over."

The remaining heats of the 45-mile race were cancelled.

Miss Bardahl of Seattle, driven by Ron Musson, was declared Silver Cup champion for winning the first qualifying heat. She first heat with an average speed of 108.099 m.p.h. Such Crust, driven by Fred Alter of Detroit, placed second, winning the second section with 98.984.

Century 21, the Gold Cup winner from Seattle driven by Bill Muncey, was third.

Ironically, Miss Supertest was disqualified in the first heat for striking a buoy. Hayward called attention of officials to this, thus disqualifying himself.

With great need of points to retain its reputation in the three-heat race, Hayward had tried to get a quick start in the second heat.

Hayward, considered by fellow drivers a "perfect gentleman", was competitive, started his speed career at 16 when he drove outboards on Ontario's Thames River. He switched to drag racing and hot-rods, but in May of 1957, joined the crew of Miss Supertest II and again became interested in boat racing.

Thompson asked Hayward whether he would like to take the big boat out for a test run and in July the driver who was to become world champion climbed into the cockpit for the first time.

"Once I drove her, I forgot all about racing anything else," Hayward said two years ago.

Later that year he took Supertest II to victory in the International Boundary Race at St. Clair, Mich., his first win in big-time powerboat racing.

Tennis Title for Emerson

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (CP) Roy Emerson, who couldn't win a singles assignment with the Australian Davis Cup team, Saturday outrushed and outclassed Rod Laver, who was the man's half of the United States national Kenals championships.

Emerson, who has served steadily as a doubles player with Australia's Davis Cuppers, took the championship 7-5, 9-3, 6-2. His win extended Australia's monopoly of the U.S. men's title to six straight years.

Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., trounced her old nemesis, British Wightman Cupper, Ann Haydon, 6-3, 6-4 to win the women's singles. She had been playing only 3½ weeks after recovering from a long seige of bronchitis.

Emerson, with both the U.S. and Australian titles in his hip pocket, now is in a position to start dickering with professional tennis promoter Jack Kramer. Laver, who won at Wimbledon, has been negotiating with Kramer and is virtually certain to sign right after the Davis Cup challenge round.

Dodgers Lose, Reds Stretch Lead

By ROBERT MOORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

Cincinnati Reds haven't nailed down the National League pennant yet, but they have a mighty big foot in the door.

They increased their lead over the second - place Los Angeles Dodgers Sunday with a 2-0 victory over St. Louis Cardinals. The win gave the Reds a seven of their three - game series against the Cards.

The Dodgers didn't help themselves. They dropped a 7-1 decision to San Francisco Giants Sunday, the third straight game they lost to them.

The Giants' sweep of their three - game set against the Dodgers brought sweet revenge. Two years ago, the Giants appeared headed for the pennant. The Dodgers struck them down in the season's dying days and went on to win the title and the world series.

The third - place Milwaukee Braves kept their faint pennant hopes alive by edging Pittsburgh Pirates 4- 3 on Warren Spahn's 19th victory. The last-place Philadelphia Phillies exploded for 13 runs in two innings to conquer Chicago Cubs 15-4.

In Saturday games, the Giants defeated the Dodgers 5-4, the Phillies defeated the Cubs 6-2, the Braves edged the Pirates 4-3 in 12 innings and the Reds 4-3 victory over the Cardinals in 10 innings.

Bob Purkey tossed a two-hitter to win his 16th game of the season a 4-1 job Sunday against the Cardinals Sunday. He didn't allow a hit until the sixth inning when Julian Javier and Bill White singled. After the Cards got a run in the seventh inning, the Reds came back in the bottom of the frame on Wally Post's three - run homer to clinch things. Vada Pinson doubled and Frank Robinson singled and Post drove them in with his blast, the 18th home run of the year for Post.

Orlando Cepeda and Willie Mays homered for the power and Billy Loes and Stu Miller the pitching in the Giants' rout of the Dodgers. Cepeda got his 40th homer and Mays his 37th. Mays scored three times, the third the 1,000th run of his National League career.

Loes and Miller held the Dodgers to three hits. Miller was the winner after his rescue in 11-4. Stan Williams, who yielded three runs in the first three innings, took the 12th in a row 13 victories.

Spahn's decision over the Pirates was his 10th in succession and 19th of the fading campaign. He has lost 12. He chipped in with a home run, the first his power in the seventh inning, but it took Joe Adcock's two - out single in the ninth to decide the issue. Tom Sturdivant (5-2) was the loser.

The Phillies, behind 5-1 after six innings, erupted for seven runs in the seventh with Don Demeter smacking a bases loaded homer, his 18th. They added six more in the eighth for the climax one of their wildest scoring outbursts in a long time.

Crashes Into Crowd

Car Kills Eleven, Driver

MONZA, Italy (AP) — A shocked outcry for a limit or ban on automobile racing arose in Italy today after a blood-red Ferrari race car Sunday shot into a crowd of spectators, killing 11 and its world - famous driver, Count Wolfgang von Trips.

Twenty-five others were injured.

The handsome German, leading contender for the 1961 world drivers' championship was smashed to death beneath his car on the second lap of the Grand Prix of Italy.

The veering car rocketed through a guardrail at over 100 miles an hour and plowed into spectators jammed elbow to elbow.

The toll was as high as the accident in 1957 which claimed the Mille Miglia, long Italy's great and often blood - stained open road race.

In that accident, the Spanish Marquis de Portago's car plowed into a group of roadside spectators, killing de Portago, his United States co-driver and 10 others.

In the outcry which followed open road racing in Italy was banned and the Mille Miglia since has been whittled down to a speed-limit auto rally.

The same cries were being heard today against track racing. Newspapers throughout the country headlined it "stragei — a slaughter.

Hill did not know anyone had been killed in the accident. He knew Trips was dead, he turned white with shock and collapsed on a bench. Comrades led him away.

Stirling Moss of Britain, long one of von Trips's close rivals, was too stunned to speak when he learned the German was dead. He fled from the pits.

British driver Jimmy Clark, whose Lotus figured in the three-way crash that led to the tragedy, described the accident:

"Von Trips was leading close to the inside of the track. I was following him closely, keeping near the outside. At one point von Trips veered sideways so that my front wheel collided with his back wheel. It was the fatal moment.

"Von Trips's car spun twice and went into the guardrail along the inside of the track. Then it bounced back and one of the cars struck my car and bounced into the crowd on the outside."

A second Lotus, driven by Britain's Gerald Ashmore, tangled with the other two cars. Clark was thrown from his car, but escaped injury. Ashmore suffered injuries from which doctors said he would recover in about two weeks.

The sleep - banked Monza track has been regarded as one of the safest in the world—and one of the fastest. In five major races during the last three years there had never been a fatality. But it was a fine track for von Trips. He had been hurt here twice, in 1956 and 1958.

Yankees Smother Tribe

Maris Shy Five, Mickey Needs Eight

By ROBERT MOORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

Mickey Mantle picked up his 53rd home run Sunday in his bid to break Babe Ruth's 1927 record of 60 while he and his New York Yankee teammates were whipping Cleveland Indians 7-6 and 9-3.

The Yankees' Roger Maris, who has 56 homers, had to be content with two singles during the day. He belted a round-tripper Saturday.

Baseball commissioner Ford Frick has ruled a player must hit 61 home runs in 154 games if decisions to officially break Ruth's record, Maris and Mantle have 10 games remaining in which to turn the trick.

Mantle's blast came in the doubleheader, punctuated by fist fights and arguments that both involved Cleveland centre-fielder Jimmy Piersall.

The pair's victories and Detroit Tigers' 5-7 loss to Boston Red Sox gave the Yankees an 11½ - game lead over the second - place Tigers in the American League pennant race and reduced the magic number to eight. Any combination of eight New York victories or Detroit defeats will give the pennant to New York.

ORIOLES NIP SENATORS

Baltimore Orioles edged Washington Senators 3-2, Los Angeles Angels beat Chicago White Sox 4-3 and Kansas City Athletics and Minnesota Twins divided a doubleheader. The As took the opener 13-1 and lost the nightcap 7-0.

Maris' blast Saturday came as the Yankees edged the Indians 8-7. Johnny Blanchard and Elston Howard also homered for the Yanks. Woody Held and Willie Kirkland hit round-trippers for the Indians. Blanchard and Howard also homered Sunday.

In other Saturday engagements, the Tigers beat the Red Sox 3-1, the Twins defeated the Athletics 3-4, the Angels overpowered the White Sox 6-3 and the Senators belted the Orioles 8-2.

After Sunday's activity, Maris who settled for two singles, is four games ahead of Ruth's home run pace. Mantle is two games behind.

The Yankee performance extended their two - season chain of victories over Cleveland at Yankee Stadium to 16 games. It also gave New York a sweep of its 13 - game home stand. The Yankees open a 11 - game road trip Tuesday night in Chicago.

MAY BREAK RECORD

New York's three homers by Mantle, Howard and Blanchard brought its 219 the number the Yankees have hit this year and left them two shy of the record set by New York Giants of the National League in 1947 and tied by Cincinnati Reds of the National in 1938.

Boston used 15 hits to outscore Detroit. One blow was rookie Carl Yastrzemski's two-run - homer. Rocky Colavito smashed his 41st homer of the year for the Tigers, but this wasn't enough to keep Don Mossi from absorbing his sixth loss in 14 decisions. Gene Conley (10-12) got the victory.

The Angels and the White Sox each picked up three home runs and raised to 222 the number of homers hit in Los Angeles' Wrigley Field this season, a major league record. The old mark of 218 was set at Cincinnati in 1957. Al Smith, Jim Landis and Luis Aparicio homered for the White Sox and Ken Hunt and Lee and George Thomas for the Angels.

Baltimore's Chuck Estrada had a shutout until the ninth inning when Billy Klaus hit a two - run pinch single with two men out. Hoyt Wilhelm promptly relieved Estrada and got the final out and preserved the Oriole victory.

Kansas City got 17 hits, including a triple, double and three singles by Billy Hower, in its first game triumph over the Twins. Harmon Killebrew got his 42nd and 43rd home runs for Minnesota. Pedro Ramos tossed the shutout for the Twins in the second game.

RUSSIANS LOSE

Sid Abel Happy Over Wings

DETROIT (AP) — Outside Olympia Stadium it was a sunny and steamy 80 degrees. Inside, Gordie Howe, bronzed from the summer sun, glided around in his powerful and effortless manner on freshly frozen ice.

Hockey practice opened for Detroit Red Wings Saturday and it marked the start of Howe's 16th year in the National Hockey League.

Coach Sid Abel greeted his club with surprising confidence following a stong finish last season. The Wings, with Howe held to 23 goals — lowest in 12 years — finished third and earned a berth in the Stanley Cup semi-finals.

"We're positively stronger," Abel said. "I'm happy about going into this season. For the change, we're going to have a battle for a spot at most positions."

The through trades the Wings acquired veteran defenceman Bill Gadsby from the Rikks-Hawks for sobsequer. Gadsby came from New York Rangers, Litzenberger from Chicago.

Howe, 33 and turning grey around the temples, appeared in the peak of physical condition.

"Yes, I have set a goal for myself," he smiled. "It's to play 70 games. No, I never set one so exacting. It's not that I've got depressed I think."

Bruins Open Camp At Niagara

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — General manager Lynn Patrick and new coach Phil Watson Sunday presided over weighing-in and medical examination of 33 prospective Boston Bruins for the National Hockey League training camp, opening today.

Twelve of the players were with Bruins at the end of last year's season, when the club ended up last. In addition to Watson, hired to replace Milt Schmidt, 21 new faces acquired through the draft, trades or farm system, are present.

An off - season trade with Montreal Canadiens gets the Bruins centre Cliff Pennington, Eastern Professional League trophy-sweeper, and right-winger Terry Gray in return for Stan Maxwell and Bill O'Ree.

Joyce Loses Committee-Room Battle

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Writer

A motion, passed by the narrowest of margins, 3-2, at a special meeting yesterday afternoon, wiped out a Joyce Real Estate win in the Belleville Intermediate softball league finals and even a bitter argument for Cobourg "President and Convener" Bb Neill.

The argument started a week ago when Cobourg, claiming they did not know that the game was called for Tuesday night, did not come to Belleville for the third game of the finals series. Joyces had the series at that point 2-0.

The game was given to Joyces at that time by the league executive and Cobourg was ordered to pay Joyces' expenses for the forfeited game.

Neill refused to accept the decision or to pay the $50 expenses. He demanded a league meeting to settle the matter.

At the meeting yesterday were Neill and Cobourg manager Charlie Culahen, the man in charge of conditions. It had made the agreement to play the game here last Tuesday. Also with a Cobourg newspaper reporter, Layton Dodgel, manager Bill Howe, coach Jack Elliott and sponsor Jerry Joyce of Joyces; sponsor Bob Temple and manager Bill Old of the Belleville Bobcats, manager Don McAllister of the RCAF Flyers, league president Bill Hurst, league secretary - treasurer Cliff Belch, umpire-in-chief Harold Bawden and this reporter.

Neill, claiming that Culahen had no right to agree to play the game, despite the fact that he is the team manager, maintained yesterday that he did not know that the game had been scheduled.

Heated words flew from all directions throughout the meeting and after points from both sides of the arguments had been heard, the Joyce and Cobourg representatives were asked to leave the room.

At this point Bob Temple made a motion that the series be resumed with Joyces ahead two games to none and that the next game be played here in Belleville, with the Joyce club to set the date.

In other words, Joyces lost Tuesday night's forfeited game as well as expense money for lights, advertising, ticket-takers and umpires.

The motion was carried 3-1, with secretary Cliff Belch voting against it. Belch asked President Hurst to note that he would no longer make any arrangements or announcements for the league since the teams did no feel that they had to abide by them anyway.

Belch, considered by most as the only man who has guided the league and kept it running this season, also said after the meeting that he would not be back for another term. Hurst likewise.

The Joyce representatives were unwilling to accept the decision. Coach Jack Elliot, connected with softball in this district for many years, announced after the meeting that he was washing his hands of the whole affair and was resigning. Manager Bill Shaw was seriously considering doing the same thing.

It was also thought that the series would be played since the necessary four for a quorum did not vote. Fiction was not forthcoming.

He called the Cobourg club's letter to the city and they also said they would not be here for a meeting and as far as Joyces were concerned, the matter was settled.

Hurst then said that the decision from the meeting would stand, that the series is with Joyces for Joyces and that the next two games would be played here Thursday night and back in Cobourg Saturday night.

It was not known whether the Joyce club would go ahead under these conditions or not. The representatives of that team, along with several others connected with the league, felt that Joyces should at least get their forfeited game, if not the money to cover expenses.

The next development in anyone's guess, unless Cobourg demands that they be given the entire series, and talks it away into just that.

Interlock Could Hurt Grey Cup

MONTREAL (CP) — G. Sydney Halter, Canadian Football League commissioner from Winnipeg, says interlocking football games could have a harmful effect on the Grey Cup game if not kept in check.

Halter talked enthusiastically about the plan during the week and about the CFL's partial interlocking schedule in effect for the first time this season. But he had his reservations.

"The natural progression in an interlocking program, Halter said, "would be a full - scale schedule with each club would have eight home games and a different team each time. But this isn't as simple as it sounds.

"It could spell trouble and hurt our one Grey Cup show.

"Besides, many of our players are parts or full - time jobs during the season. It might be difficult for some of them to break off early to participate in a full interlocking schedule.

"In arranging the partial interlocking schedule, the points I counsel, the league agreed that this should be an early - season arrangement, leaving the respective groups free to battle in their own areas after mid-September."

Halter said he is not in favor of a two - game Grey Cup series but it could come. "Several clubs are talking about it," he said.

Flyers Drop 3-1 Decision To Toronto

The RCAF Flyers dropped a 3-1 decision to Toronto Orenstanders' in Toronto Saturday night in the first game of their OASA Senior "B" playdown series.

The second game will be played at Trenton Bay Shore Park Tuesday night at 8:30.

Bob Butterfield hurled six-hit ball for the Flyers but got himself in trouble with nine walks in Saturday's game. Ken Kirkbeam was expected to pitch tomorrow night's game for the RCAF.

Fifty-Seven Leafs at Peterboro

PETERBOROUGH (CP)— Fifty-seven candidates for Toronto Maple Leafs arrived Sunday for the National Hockey League team's training camp.

Coach Punch Imlach put the players through stiff calisthenics, followed by two hours of skating in the afternoon and evening skating session.

The players will drill in shifts twice daily until Friday, when they play Boston Bruins in an exhibition game at Niagara Falls, Ont. The teams return here Saturday night for another game.

Toronto's camp includes former Leafs, members of Rochester Americans of the American League, college players and a few former juniors from Toronto St. Michael's and other teams.

INDUSTRIALIST DIES

Fights Spectators Stay Away Says Piersall

NEW YORK (AP — Jimmy Piersall has warned baseball spectators not to intrude his one-on-field territory intent on doing him bodily harm.

"I'm saying it anybody that comes at me," the fiery Cleveland Indian outfielder said Sunday, "I won't ask any question. The next guy may have a knife with him."

Piersall gave his warning between games of a doubleheader between the Indians and New York Yankees at Yankee Stadium Sunday after two young spectators had rushed on to the field and attacked him.

Piersall felled one of them with a punch and kicked the other in the seat of the pants before his teammates and police subdued the pair.

The culprits gave their names as James McInerney Jr., 18, of Bayport, N.Y., and Robert Mendez, 17, of Roslyn Heights, N.Y. They were charged with disorderly conduct.

"They came at me like madmen, hurling insults," Piersall said. "I could see fire in their eyes. One of them yelled, 'we'll get you, you nut,' and cocked his right hand to hit me.

LETS HIM HAVE IT

"I didn't wait to hear any more. I got in the first punch. I'd get the first guy with a left hook and he went down. I hit the other with a right but the punch landed a little high and he stayed up. He tried to get away but I connected with a kick in his rear before the cops grabbed him."

Piersall said he had no regrets over the incident, which occurred before 67,854 stadium fans and a television audience.

"I'm glad I did it. My dad (who died last week) would have been proud of me. You've got to prove to those hoodlos the field belongs to the players."

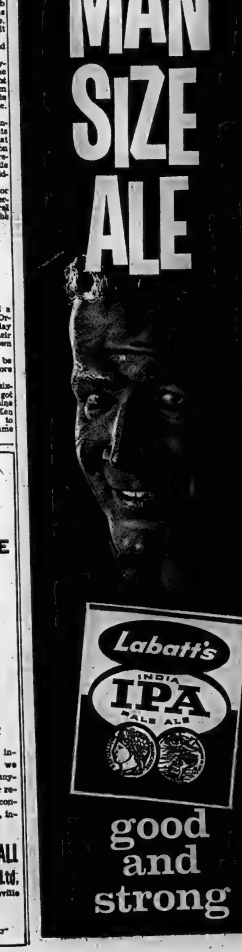
Piersall was in a similar situation in Cleveland two weeks ago. A fan who charged at him was dispatched with a boot in the pants.

The entire Cleveland club ran onto the field Sunday and two Yankees—coach Frank Crosetti and Mickey Mantle — rushed out to see what was happening.

Piersall has one source of satisfaction.

"First fight I ever won," he said, "I've had 117 fights and this is my first victory."

Wins Manitoba Golf Title



WINNIPEG (CP) — Wilf Homenuik, assistant professional at Winnipeg's Glendale Club, won the Manitoba open golf championship Saturday with a 54 - hole total of 221. His brother, amateur Ted Homenuik was second with a 226.

Wilf played the final 18 holes in one - over - par 72, the best in one - over - par 72, the best score of the day. Ted fired a 73 Saturday.

Three players were tied for third with 228, They were Stan Schmidt of Fort William, opening Balsilk of Fort William, second round leader when he had a 67, Gord Lenton of Winnipeg and Alvin Thompson of Toronto.

Two Straight

Kenmors Oust Petes

By PETER CARVER

The Belleville Kenmors, combining great defensive ball and timely hitting, have started their march to the OBA Junior Major "A" championship by eliminating the Peterborough juniors two games to nine. The defending champions scored a decisive 6-1 victory over the Litlock City crew yesterday afternoon at the Fairgrounds.

Peterborough sports one of junior ball's better pitchers in southpaw Bob Gatfield, but he was no problem as the Kenmors combed him for 24 hits in the two game series.

The Kingston juniors, after knocking Cornwall out of the playdowns, will supply the Kenmors' next opposition. The first game of that best-of-three series will probably be played next weekend in Belleville.

Don Masters had the Petersating out of his hand throughout most of the game as his breaking pitches were lively.

He scattered a half dozen hits over the nine-inning distance, whiffed seven and walking five. Masters aided his own cause by driving in a run with a single.

Gatfield, the Peterborough workhorse, was touched for nine safeties, two going for extra bases. He set down nine on third strikes while issuing but one base on balls.

Gary Goyer's ballet home run into right centre field gave the winners a first inning one run lead. Peterborough momentarily tied the game in the top half of the second when Terry Mahoney singled, advanced on a passed ball and came home on Byrne's hit.

The Kenmors came back in their half of the inning when Hunter singled, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on Patrick Asselstine's sacrifice fly.

A big Peterborough error, two stolen bases, and back-to-back singles by Moxon and Masters plated two more Kenmor markers in the fourth. Guy Follwell got on base in the seventh by a fielder's choice, took second on an error and scored on Goyer's single.

Weston singled in the eighth stole second and scored on a passed ball to finish the Kenmors' scoring.

Gary Goyer was the big man for the winners. He belted a home run and two singles and played a good game in the field. Rickey Locke connected for a triple while Soden, Weston, Hunter, Masters, Forsythe and Moxon each chipped in with a single.

The team:

Kenmors— Locke cf, Follwell lf, Hunter rf, Goyer 2b, Forsythe ss, Moxon 1b, Clapp cf, Soden rf, Weston 1b, Asselstine 3b, Mavety c, Masters p.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—The famous black and yellow silks of the Seagram Stable were carried to their first major victory in more than a year when Castleberry stunned a crowd of 16,332 by winning the $11,625 Horonerter Stakes at Old Woodbine Saturday.

Castleberry, ridden by Sam McComb, defeated the heavily favored Hidden Treasure by 1½ lengths and paid $81.40 to win. Windy Ship was third.

Although E. P. Fowde Seagram's modest stable has been having a successful season in minor races, the $11,625 Horonerter stakes victory since Strong Boy won a division of the Seagram Stakes at Old Woodbine on Labor Day, 1960.

Saturday it an unreliable five-year-old gelding which has displayed only occasional flashes of brilliance in the past. This 1¼-mile race was his 14th start of the season and his third win of the year. His time of 1:51 for the nine furlongs was only four-fifths of a second slower than the track record set by Canadian Champion in 1957.

The mutuel handle was $718,-

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — Ten standout four - year - old trotters who have proven themselves during the seven weeks of competition in the $112,500 Harness Tracks of America stakes, will compete in the $50,000 HTA final for the North American championship at Yonkers Raceway Sept. 14.

Invitations for the mile event were based on points scored in several races. The horses invited are Elsies Rodney, Classic Duke, White Foot Joe, Fanny Man, Joyce's Demon, Mike Hanover, Lumber Dan, Lucky Demon, Carlene Hanover and Floral Girl.

Beavers Running Around By Thousands in Northern Ont., Once Nearly Extinct

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—In the height of the fur-trapping days fears were expressed that the beaver, Canada's national emblem, might be threatened with extinction.

Now they're running around by the thousands in Northern Ontario and trappers apparently have not working very hard to harvest them.

The reason, says Charlie Cook, department of lands and forests conservation officer here, has more to do with laziness than declining fur prices.

As an illustration he points to the experience of two Indian trappers and their families whom the department transferred last year from Moosonee on James Bay to Michipicoten Island in Lake Superior.

The island, nine miles offshore and about 100 miles northwest of here, has long been noted as a beaver haven and the department didn't want to see a population explosion.

HEALTHY INCOME

In 100 trapping days spread from Oct. 15 to March 31, the Indian pair trapped 1,178 beaver that netted them $14,000 at the May sales of the Ontario Trappers Association at North Bay. Prices ranged from $3 for baby beaver to $18 for prime pelts.

A white trapper working independently on the island got 122 beaver during the season and agreed with the Indians that despite trapping pressure, there was no indication of a serious decline in the beaver population. The animals appeared to be as plentiful in the spring as they had been in the fall.

Cook was asked why, if two trappers can earn $14,000 in a season, there aren't more professional trappers. "Laziness, just laziness," he said.

In the Algoma district, he said, some trappers have gone into the business on a big scale and are using snow ishoggans and aircraft to check their lines.

FREEZE COMFORT

"These resourceful few are willing to trap for the season's 168 days, while the majority get out only when the going is good and prefer to stay at home during winter snows."

Enough families have been registered in the district to take 7,836 beaver in last year's trap. The last available report showed only 2,224 were trapped and declared for sale.

The department considers the Michipicoten Island experiment such a success that four trappers will be landed there this fall to begin the 1962-63 season's harvest.

To get a clearer picture of the state of the beaver, the department is planning an aerial survey of a type which has paid off for trappers in the past in other districts.

A partial East-West interlocking schedule along the lines of the Canadian Football League may be in line for professional soccer in 1962.

"We have a meeting lined up with parties interested in forming pro clubs in the West after our playoffs next month," says Harold Ballard of Toronto, president of the four-team Eastern Canada League. "We're ready to go as soon as the mechanics are set up and there's a real good possibility that Western teams will come in."

Ballard, who has made two swings through the west in the last few months, reported in an interview that Vancouver, Edmonton and Winnipeg officials are "more than interested" and Regina and Calgary are "interested." The nub of the deal is somebody to take a hold of this thing."

COSTS ARE HIGH

"If four teams are formed in the west the logical solution is an interlocking schedule operation, exactly as they now do. I would have Eastern and Western divisions and an East-West playoff.

"We are being realistic about this. It will be a solid cost each team in the neighborhood of $100,000 to get into this properly so it would be foolish for any one to think they can do it for less money. Equipment is a minimum expense, possibly $30 to $50 a man, but a franchise in the league alone costs $25,000."

Ballard said "there is no point in anyone kidding themselves they can get playing personnel for less."

"Fans want the best and, just like football, imports are needed. This was proven in the Eastern league this year when our two teams in Toronto and one each in Hamilton and Montreal went to the British Isles and Europe for players. Western teams would have to do this and there's a lot of talent available in Britain."

EARLIER IN SEASON

He said soccer officials in Britain are enthusiastic about playing earlier in the season to play during the summer. "We have received wonderful cooperation and interest in the British Isles because they want the best players for the game anywhere in the world."

Ballard said the 1962 season would start on the first week of May and finish at the end of July.

"This year we opened in June and our playoffs will run into early August. Our players and flight players have returned to their teams in Europe, but with an early start and finish we'll be able to retain them throughout our season."

Another reason for the proposed change, according to Ballard terms "the almighty buck."

"This year, we are bucking baseball, football and other sports that run well into the autumn. Our teams this year won't lose money but it may, next year, if we run a month when football gets into full stride and people start talking about hockey and the World Series.

"In 1962, we won't have to worry about these other sports."

Jockey Gomez

Narrowly Misses Death

MONTREAL (CP) — Top-flight jockey Avelino Gomez barely escaped with his life Saturday night when a spectacular four - horse spill marred the second half of the Quebec Stakes at Blue Bonnets.

The Cuban rider managed to roll off the track as six horses thundered by. Examination at the track hospital disclosed Gomez suffered a badly - bruised left thigh and leg.

Gomez leaped to his feet on the infield and in full view of 10,409 spectators began flailing away with his fists at jockey Al Ooy, knocking Ooy down and pummelling him before they were pulled apart.

Gomez's mount, Oil Can, stumbled directly in the club house turn and threw the jockey. Oil Can apparently clipped the heels of Coy's mount, Fair Juror.

The crowd gasped as Amber Morn missed Gomez but stumbled over Oil Can. Ally's Pride went down after hitting Oil Can and Gomez and rider Don Dade also was thrown. Pitin stumbled over one of the fallen horses and suffered appendix. Bobby Griffiths.

Gomez appeared seriously hurt after he rolled from mid-track to the infield but when Coy came stumbling up to Gomez on the infield, he leaped up and the fight began.

Track steward John O'Keefe said a decision on the incident will be made today.

Pretty Girls Guaranteed To Woo Men From Games

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—It's a wonder some smart TV packager doesn't come up with the idea of a weekly—instead of yearly—Miss America or Miss Universe contest. Each time one turns up on the TV screen, it runs away with audience ratings.

A beauty contest really has everything, and those requirements of talent and poise are just incidental to the swimsuit parade. First, of course, there are pretty girls and if there's anything guaranteed to woo the male from westerns and baseball games it is his reluctantly-professed responsibility as a dedicated girl-watcher.

There's also the audience identification with the judges. Every member of that vast TV audience watching the selection of North Carolina's Maria Fletcher as Miss America on Saturday night had his (or her) favorite.

Dick Powell, host of his own new anthology series which debuts on NBC Sept. 28, is engaged in a losing battle with network publicists. Originally, the premiere of the series would start with a suspense called Who Killed Julie Greer? Ten stars, including Mickey Rooney, Lloyd Bridges, Ronald Reagan and Ralph Bellamy, will make brief appearances.

Later, Powell became so enthusiastic about the acting of Milton Berle—playing a legerdemain artist in a drama called Bloodbat, that he wanted to substitute it for the premiere show.

But the NBC drum - beaters are appalled: they've made arrangements long in advance to have pictures of the Julie Greer cast appear on various fan magazine covers and sent out reams of stories and items, all of which would get them in big trouble with editors.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RICHTER
Tuesday, September 12, 1961

General Tendencies: This is one of those days when you are apt to have considerable difficulty in getting almost anyone to do what you want them to. Although willing, they seem to lag and if something must be put into effect by you today, it's best that you do it yourself or you can be very disappointed. Avoid relying on new venture.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Don't risk any arguments with associates or friends today or you turn them into bitter enemies. Carry through with promises, instead, work diligently. If it is necessary to bring up any special points, do so with a smile on your face.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — If your work too quickly today, you can certainly make many mistakes and cause damage which could otherwise have been avoided. Go over your work carefully instead and consider all details and angles involved. Strive for precision.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — This is one of those days when aspects are favorable for whatever you want to do in business or personal life, but there will be annoying delays and problems to test you along the way. Take them in your stride and carry through well.

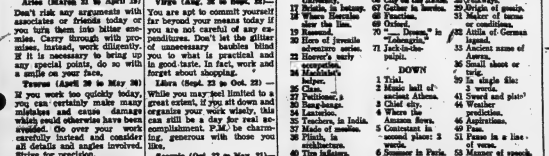
Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Family may be just as pressed for time and full of worry as you are today, so keep this in mind and instead of being critical, be understanding and carry through with own affairs like a stole, then all will be well all around. Grow.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — If you hurry or act thoughtlessly, you will certainly get into quite a pickle, whether in business or personal affairs. So, be sure you think and plan well before you take any action or say anything. Don't let complaints bother you, either.

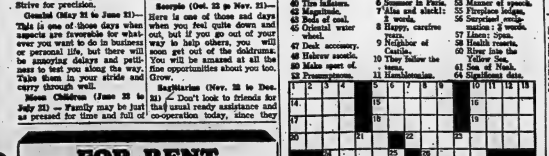
Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — You are apt to commit yourself far beyond your means today if you are not careful of any expenditures. Don't let the glitter of unnecessary baubles blind you to what is practical and in good taste. In fact, work and forget about shopping.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) — While you may get limited to a great extent, if you sit down and organize your work wisely, this can still be a day for real accomplishment. P.M. be charming, generous with flowers, like.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) — Here is one of those odd days when you feel quite down and out, but if you go out of your way to help others, you will soon get out of the doldrums. You may be amazed at all the fine opportunities about you too. Grow.

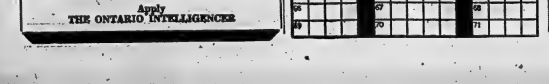


Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Don't look to friends for that usual ready assistance and co-operation today, since they are bogged down with own worries and have no time to spare. See if you can lend a helping hand instead and the future is better.



Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — If you quietly and confidentially go to a higher-ups and state your ideas and desires, they will listen to you and lend swift a better day for the assistance you require from them. Give them time to absorb your practical views.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — While you are tempted to get into new interests altogether now, it is best to stick fast to present set-up and find better methods of operating. Then you make a real success in whatever you have had experience. Avoid glittering newcomers.



Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — You are not thinking very clearly now and may mistake the good for the bad, so be sure you stick to tried and true friends and methods of operating. Keep an eye on the books, too. P.M. you can have fun if you are not selfish.

CHICAGO (AP)—New drugs to protect humans from radiation in a nuclear war show promise of being developed says Dr. Robert E. Lyle, professor of chemistry at the University of New Hampshire. Lyle presented a (technical) paper on the development of the drugs to a session of the American Chemical Society meeting Thursday. He termed results of the drugs, still under development, as "promising."

No War Before December Says Party Boss

WARSAW (AP) — Wladyslaw Gomulka, the Communist party boss, assured the Polish people Sunday they need not worry about war before December, "when we will sign peace with East Germany." He spoke to 100,000 Poles who gathered in Warsaw's big stadium for the celebration of the country's traditional harvest feast.

The Berlin crisis and resumption of nuclear weapons tests have heightened war fears here. Within the last few days Poles have made a run on food shops, in many places throughout the country no sugar, flour or salt can be purchased.

Gomulka promised "there will be no war and especially there will be no war for Berlin."

He said that war would be suicidal for the West and added: "We do not want war, we don't want to attack anyone, but we will defend ourselves to the utmost if attacked."

Bodies of Four N.S. Boys Found In Reservoir

TRENTON, N.S. (CP) — The bodies of four Trenton Boys, missing since last Tuesday when they went for a bicycling trip, were found Sunday in an abandoned reservoir about a mile from their homes.

The bodies of Sydney Smith, 13, his 10-year-old brother Ronald, Billy Farrell, 8, and Andy MacNeil, 7, were found floating in the reservoir. A small makeshift raft was found a few yards away.

Fishing of the bodies by a couple out for a stroll brought to an end the weekend search in which as many as 1,500 men took part.

Deck Officer Of Polish Liner Has Defected

MONTREAL (CP) — Tomasz Francisz, 35-year-old deck officer on the Polish liner Batory, defected from the passenger vessel Friday and was granted landed immigrant status in Canada.

He told a Canadian Press reporter Sunday he was a Lazurenian home, and turned himself in to immigration authorities Sunday.

His case for asylum will be heard before Commissioner Ahearn or an official board of inquiry set up by the immigration department.

"I want to stay in Canada because I have no future in Poland," Francisz said in halting English.

By DAVE BOWES

EDMONTON (CP)—A tough, no-nonsense officer with a passion for physical fitness will soon be hunting flabby spots in the Canadian Army looking for places to "give 'em the needle."

And those who know Maj.-Gen. Geoffrey Walsh—who will be promoted to lieutenant-general when he assumes his new post as chief of the general staff on Oct. 1—predict he will be lab-bling often, and with results.

As general officer commanding the army's Western Command since 1959, and in earlier postings, Gen. Walsh has won a reputation for toughness, fairness, and a grasp of every detail of his command.

In his new post he will face the same sort of challenge on a broader field. His vigor and decisiveness are considered significant factors in his appointment, at a time when tensions over the Berlin crisis have led to re-examination of military strengths within the NATO nations.

KEEN ON FITNESS

Six - foot - plus, husky, sandy hair shot with grey, Gen. Walsh is a firm believer in athletic programs to keep soldiers fit in a peacetime army. In his Western Command headquarters there's a standing order that all officers in sedentary occupations must do the air force's 5BX physical fitness program. Walsh himself follows it.

He has been known at mess gatherings to challenge another officer to do one of the program's exercises. If there's any hesitation, Geoff Walsh will get down and show him how.

A 16 - handicap golfer who plays to his handicap, he is keen on hunting and fishing. It is a measure of his tenacity, said one officer, that he has been trying for eight years, without success, to catch his daily limit of 10 rainbow trout at a northern lake. A fly fisherman, he sometimes ties his own flies.

He is also a card-carrying, registered gourmet with a fondness for seafoods—Alaska crab, for one—and Alberta lamb, He's also, say others, a connoisseur of wines.

NO SLACKING

A trim, carefully - groomed man himself, Gen. Walsh expects and demands proper dress among soldiers. He abhors brush cuts but is equally disapproving of shaggy locks.

Born Aug. 13, 1902, at Brantford, Ont., he was educated at St. Catharines Collegiate Institute, the Royal Military College at Kingston, the Nova Scotia Technical College and McGill University.

Commissioned in 1920 as a lieutenant in the Royal Canadian Engineers, he served in the early 1920s in the United Kingdom at the school of military engineering and on attachment to the British army.

As commander of the 3rd Field Company Royal Canadian Engineers in 1941 he led Canadian troops in the raid on Spitsbergen, directing demolition and burning of coal mines and fuel dumps to deny that northern base to the Germans.

BIG CAMPAIGNS

With the 1st Canadian Division in the Sicily and Italy campaigns, he later served in the fighting across Northwest Europe and organized engineering to keep open the thawing roads to the front.

The experience served him well as commander of the northwest highway system in Canada, when the Canadian Army took over from the U.S. Army the maintenance of the wartime-built Alaska Highway.

From his base at Whitehorse, Gen. Walsh organized an efficient team that battled glaciers, washouts, shifty and rugged terrain to earn the 1,500-mile highway the reputation of "the best - maintained gravel highway in the world."

His frequent trips and thorough knowledge of the highway made him well - remembered at lonely stopping posts along the route.

BACK TO EUROPE

General Walsh's last post as first commander of the newly-organized 27th Canadian Infantry Brigade in Europe did much to form his reputation as a tough commander.

"It was a case of forming a unit from mostly raw recruits," said one officer, "and it needed someone tough to do the job."

He is also described as a capable administrator, particularly after his stint in the post of quartermaster-general. His attention to detail is not limited to the top echelons of his command. Recently, he wrote a subordinate why he had not been informed earlier of the serious illness of the wife of a private, in order that compassionate leave might have been arranged.

SON IN ARMY

A man with a sense of humor, he and his charming Halifax-born wife are good mixers, but General Walsh cares little for the formal duties which his post sometimes requires, such as attendance at government and public functions.

The Walshes have one son, also named Geoffrey, who graduated this spring from the University of Alberta with a bachelor of science degree. He is a lieutenant with the army, stationed at Camp Petawawa, Ont.

Friends of the general state General Walsh will reflect the determined approach he has taken throughout his career: "Nothing is impossible—it just takes a little longer."

Income Tax Explained

Written and designed for the taxpayer who is not in a position to employ the services of a professional accountant or visit an Income Tax office.

By C. A. MILLER
Former Supervising Assessor Income Tax Department

We have dealt with the many problems of the construction worker in making out his Income Tax return, but is doubtful if he has any more difficulty than the transport driver.

This article will deal with those drivers who operate across the country from city to city, and does not refer to the truck driver who works in one city or small area surrounding it. Transport companies have many ways of paying their drivers, but the most common is to pay them a wage that is high enough to cover their road expenses. In this case the driver will claim on his return the out-of-pocket expenses on his trips. Such expenses must cover only meals and lodging. In some cases lodging is supplied by the company free at the cook-house terminal; then only the cost of meals on the road may be claimed.

The tax paying driver should keep a running record of all such expenses to support his claim in case such a claim is questioned by the tax department. If the driver is on a regular run such as Toronto to Winnipeg and return, he should get receipts for one trip, then show the number of trips made during the year. The Income Tax Department has a special form known as a T1. 2 on which to show the cost of meals, lodging and number of trips. If the driver will complete one of these forms and attach it to his return it would be of great assistance both to him and the department, in avoiding correspondence in this respect.

If expense claims are high due to layovers at the away from home terminal or a breakdown on the road, be sure to advise as to this, by attaching a note to your return, as expense claims that appear unreasonable are queried by the assessor.

Question: I drive a transport on cross country hauls. I am given an expense allowance but this will not cover all my expenses. Can I claim the additional amounts I have had to pay out?

Answer: Yes. Get a TL2 form from an Income Tax Office. List your expenses in full and deduct from this total the amount received from your employer. There is a space for this on the TL2 form. You can claim the difference if your expenses appear reasonable.

* * *

Question: I am a transport driver running to Chicago with Canada and the U.S.A. I had to pay traffic and parking fines out of my own pocket as my employers refuse to repay me. Can I claim these on my Income Tax return?

Question? I work for a construction firm and travel with visiting jobs. I pay rent, I maintain a home for my wife and family but never move them. I receive no allowance from my employers to cover transportation, board or lodging. What expenses can I claim for this additional cost of being away from home?

Answer: You have no claim whatsoever. You are not travelling away from your employers' place of business. It has been ruled by the Income Tax Department, that an employers place of business is where his contract is located.

Two Teen-Aged Girls Enjoy Spending Spree

CHICAGO (AP) — A pair of teen - aged girls apparently collected nearly $70,000 in a week - long cheque - writing spree before the law of averages and police caught up with them Friday.

Authorities said Miss Shelley Jane Neumann, 19, told them they wrote a computer dial's signature on a half dozen cheque blanks she took from the Philadelphia Mailing Corporation, where she worked until recently as a temporary office employee.

Miss Patricia Cavey, 18, police said, apparently cashed the cheques, convinced they were part of a trust fund of Miss Neumann administered by the company.

She gave $17,000 to another young man to organize a band and buy a $7,000 car.

She gave $1,000 to a third young man to help finance his college education.

Police said Miss Neumann told them the rest of the money went into accounts at various Chicago banks.

Of course it does. Every bank in Canada offers you a Savings Account service. No matter what bank you visit, the Savings Account system is operated the same way.

So why should you choose Toronto-Dominion over any other bank?

The answer is quite simple. It's the happy combination of the service and the people who provide it for you, that makes all the difference.

Our tellers are the FRIENDLIEST you'll find

This is Shirley Ricketts, a Savings Account Teller at our Mt. Pleasant & Davisville branch on Toronto. Shirley is shown here accepting a regular deposit from one of her customers. Shirley likes to watch her customers' Savings grow, because she knows how important it is to have the money on hand for the things you want and need.

You'll find efficient, friendly people like Shirley Ricketts in every Toronto-Dominion branch across the country. Their "interested" kind of service makes it much easier for you to save at "The Bank". Make it a point to meet some of our people soon and see for yourself how much . . .

Canada To Press For UN Move Into Berlin

'Internationalizing' Of City May Be Answer

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's House of Commons has lined up solidly behind a proposal to send the United Nations into Berlin.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Monday the time has come when the UN might consider "internationalizing" of Berlin "under the UN and that its status continue under UN pressence."

Liberal and CCF spokesmen made similar suggestions earlier in the Commons foreign affairs debate and there is speculation that Canada will press for a UN move into Berlin at the General Assembly session which opens in New York a week from today.

Mr. Diefenbaker coupled his statement with a warning that the West must stand firm against Russia in the Berlin crisis.

"It is a question of whether we shall allow Khrushchev with his ultimatums and threats to push us back and back to a point where we have nothing but our backs to the wall," he said.

NEEDS AGREEMENT

He said there are several ways the UN can help Berlin, to neutralize the dangerous situation there but stressed that Big Four agreement would be needed first.

Mr. Diefenbaker entered a late stage of the three-day debate to put the government stamp of approval on the UN-in-Berlin idea.

The Commons completed its study of the external affairs department's spending estimates Monday night and moves on to the defence department's spending Thursday.

The prime minister said that even at the worst the UN could keep a free city open as a communications source by focusing world opinion on it. Such action could impel the major powers to settle the problem by negotiation.

He said direct flights by non-aligned countries could help. Negotiations succeed might there be a possibility for providing a role for the UN "perhaps as guarantor of the agreement reached."

The prime minister said the free world has been put on the defensive by the "unprovoked" treachery of the things which ought to be said and done have been said."

"While we debate that stand Khrushchev continues to push forward with his plan to make by mile all over the world."

OPPOSITION TRADE

Proposals for a UN role in Berlin were expressed by the prime minister's colleagues in the House last week.

H. W. Herridge, CCF external affairs spokesman, said at last Thursday's resumption of the debate that unless and until a decision might help to bring about a Berlin solution.

The invasion, the radio said, was planned to take place before the arrival of the first units of the Arab League force, which is replacing British troops sent to Kuwait shortly after Premier Abdul Karim Kassem of Iraq laid claim to the sheikdom last June.

A Saudi Arabian contingent began flying into the sheikdom Sunday.

Five Remanded Without Plea Until Sept. 19

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Five men charged with armed robbery in connection with a bank holdup at Havelock nearly two weeks ago faced additional charges in magistrate's court today.

The five men—Yvon Lalonde, 30, his brother Jean Claude, 25, Roger Poirier, 31, and Roger Martel, 41, all of Montreal, and a man identified himself as George Wilson of Ottawa—have been in Peterborough county jail since they were arrested during a four-day manhunt immediately following the Aug. 31 robbery.

Four masked armed men held up a Toronto-Dominion bank branch at Havelock and escaped with about $185,000 in cash and securities.

The five men heard charges of armed robbery read against them today for a second time by Magistrate W. R. Philp.

All five also heard a collective charge of car theft relating to a sedan abducted in Hastings county bush about 70 miles northeast of here after Lalonde blown two tires at a rocky bush road.

All but Yvon Lalonde were charged with the theft of another car. The same four are charged with shooting with intent to wound while resisting arrest in connection with the car fired at Codet. Jack McKendry of the Ontario Provincial Police police he tried to run them down shortly after the robbery.

Wilson has been charged with breaking and entering a cottage on Bass Lake near Stenborg during the time police were hunting the bank robbers.

Police are still continuing their search for the bank loot.

The five were remanded without plea on all charges until Sept. 19.

Iraqi Army Mutinied Says Kuwait Radio

KUWAIT (Reuters) — Kuwait Radio claimed Monday night that the Iraqi Army mutinied last week when ordered to invade Kuwait. The radio said a court of inquiry has been ordered into the incident.

The invasion, the radio said, was planned to take place before the arrival of the first units of the Arab League force, which is replacing British troops sent to Kuwait shortly after Premier Abdul Karim Kassem of Iraq laid claim to the sheikdom last June.

A Saudi Arabian contingent began flying into the sheikdom Sunday.

GAS COMPANIES SAID RESTRICTING STATION SALES

Most of Testimony Claimed Hearsay

OTTAWA (CP) — The combe service station operator would like to handle more lines of automotive liefits but the big gasoline companies won't let him, the restrictive trade practices commission was told Monday.

The National Automotive Trades Association — much of whose testimony was conceded to be hearsay—alleged that the major oil firms "by the use of monopsony tactics, threatening to cancel leases, raise rents and foreclose mortgages are able at any time to impose absolute control on the sale of tires, batteries and accessories products."

Castrol Oils (Canada) Limited, subsidiary of a British firm, said it took only three years to set up a national sales system but in 30 years efforts have been unavailing in getting a substantial share of service station business for its lubricants.

The commission hearing, continuing today, is the product of a Commons investigation Act inquiry which found "clear grounds for public concern" in the relationship between oil companies and their retail outlets.

CITE PRACTICES

Two practices were cited—one whereby the company makes the operator or dealer holidge to the oil company line of products in tires, accessories and the like.

The other is where the oil company specifies what brand of automotive supply products shall be stocked—restricting choice and competition on the

"We've been here since 2 a.m. yesterday, and the cots are getting tired," Mrs. F. D. Fitzgibbons of Alta Loma, Tex., said.

Her grandchild, just a toddler, stretched out on a cot on the floor.

Four big fans on the stage tried to circulate the muggy air in the old auditorium. The temperature was about 75 outside, but inside people were sweating.

Long lines were formed as the Red Cross passed out sandwiches, rolls and coffee or milk for breakfast.

Babies and young children scampered everywhere. Their parents, grogsy from sitting in hard chairs for two nights, paid them little heed. Most of the floor space in the auditorium was filled and new arrivals settled in balcony chairs.

Many of the refugees used the same facilities in the usually segregated building.

Family groups stuck together in little "homes" made of what may emerge from Malaysia's negotiations with the Common Market.

Prospects of Britain entering the Common Market on terms likely to be acceptable to the European six are described by one official as deeply disturbing to Canada.

Moreover, there is concern on whether Britain has enough bargaining power to obtain conditions satisfactory to Canada. The terms would have to be acceptable to each of the six — West Germany, France, Belgium, The Netherlands, Luxembourg and Italy.

However, the Canadian delegation sees this week's conference as a valuable opportunity to emphasize that it hopes and expects Britain will realize the undertaking to seek adequate protection for Canada's export market of nearly $1,000,000,000 in the U.K.

TICKETS TO BOATERS

GOLDEN MEADOW La. (AP) Sheriff Eddie J. St. Marie gave speeding tickets to 11 fishermen parish boaters Monday who were creating large wakes in the high water left by hurricane Carla. The sheriff had warned boaters the exercise caution to prevent further damages in the Bayou Lafourche area.

Reds Reject West's Protest Against Border Closing

BERLIN (Reuters) — Russia Monday night rejected an allied protest on Berlin border restrictions amid fresh incidents along the 25-mile fence dividing the city.

Mikhail Pervukhin, Soviet ambassador to East Germany, declared the four-power status of Berlin is "non-existent" in letters to ambassadors Foy Walter Dowling of the United States, Francois Seydoux of France and Christopher Steel of Britain.

He said the Western powers have destroyed the occupation status of Berlin and any complaints were matters for the East German government.

The rejection letters were delivered as East Berlin police turned on a crowd of 300 East Berliners gathered near the East-West Berlin border, hurling tear gas bombs into them.

In the American sector, police flung two smoke bombs 30 yards past the border, damaging a truck but injuring no one.

The East Berliners were driven by Communist police after gathering near the former border crossing point of Invalidenstrasse.

A group of about 30 West Berliners on the other side of the border started to move toward the boundary wall but were stopped by West Berlin police.

Pervukhin's letters were in answer to protests from the Western ambassadors against East German measures of Aug. 23 that limited foreigners, diplomats and members of the Western occupation forces to a single border crossing point.

The Soviet envoy said the beef-up of Allied troops since the border closure tended to "worsen the situation and also encourage the Fascist and revenge-seeking elements of West Berlin to stage new provocations.

Canada to State Position On U.K. Entering Market

ACCRA (CP)—Ghana, along with most of its Commonwealth partners, will use this week's Commonwealth economic conference to state plainly Ottawa closed doors its concerns over the United Kingdom's approach to membership in the European Common Market.

But indications are that British Chancellor of the Exchequer Selwyn Lloyd will listen, take note and say little on this issue.

The three - day conference opening today is the first gathering of the Commonwealth family of nations since Premier Macmillan announced the British decision to negotiate on membership in the six-nation Common Market.

Finance Minister Donald Fleming for Canada, and spokesmen of other Commonwealth countries will spell out anxieties Lloyd their governments' positions on the potentially vital question of future access to the British market.

But Britain is biding its time until next week in London, where the bilateral talks with Commonwealth officials — not cabinet ministers — will begin. Concessions it will seek at the Common Market negotiations will be reflected in trade interests of the Commonwealth partners.

FIVE CHARGED WITH DISRUPTING UNION MEETING

National Executive Members Involved

SUDBURY (CP)—Charges of unlawful assembly were laid Monday against three national officers of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.) and two of their supporters following the disruption Sunday of a meeting of the union's rebellious Sudbury local.

Charged were National President Ken Smith, District 2 chief Mike Salamunic, legislative director Nels Thibault and WM Girard and James Loftus, both supporters of the national executive.

All five were freed on $400 bail put up by National Secretary William Kennedy.

A police spokesman said similar charges will probably be laid against "six or seven more."

The charges stemmed from a clash Sunday night between feuding factions at a special meeting called by Sudbury Local 598. The meeting was broken up on police orders after an uproar and fighting drowned out the featured speaker, Canadian Labor Congress President Claude Jodoin.

The violence was the latest incident in a dispute between Mine-Mill's national leadership and the 17,000 - member local 598, which "supplies about half the Canadian membership and collects about $25,000 in monthly dues.

Manager Locks Bank Door, Takes Bandit

TORONTO (CP)—James Johnson, 56, no address, was arrested Monday and charged with attempted robbery after a bandit fled empty-handed from a Bank of Nova Scotia branch. He was note demanding $1,000 in his hand.

Bank manager James Strang left his office after he was handed the note, but instead of going to the vault, locked the door and pressed a holdup alarm. With the help of a customer, he held the man prisoner until police arrived.

Police said the two-word note on closely-lined foolscap outlined the man's domestic and medical problems, claiming he suffered from cancer and needed the money for medical bills.

Five Killed In Galveston, Many Injured

Driving Rains Threaten Many Areas With Floods

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — A tornado spawned by hurricane Carla killed at least five persons in this tide-pounded island city today. It injured between 25 and 40.

The tornado raised the known death toll to seven as a result of Carla.

Much of Galveston still was under water when the tornado—some called it a waterspout, a distinct weather phenomenon—struck before dawn.

The tornado struck the coast Monday, where 1,200 refugees huddled, and injured many there from flying glass.

The main centre of Carla by that time was 20 miles north of Austin, or 175 miles south of the point it hit land Monday afternoon.

Winds still were up to 75 miles an hour near the centre, while at Lufkin, halfway across the state in the north, winds of 50 miles an hour were recorded by mid-morning.

GALES FOR 150 MILES

Gales—winds up to 25 miles an hour—extended 150 miles from carla's centre, the weather bureau said.

The weather bureau also issued a tornado forecast for one or more twisters in a 300-mile wide section stretching in a line from Galveston northward across Texas.

The giant hurricane, battering the coast from Corpus Christi to Port Arthur, La., roared ashore on Matagorda Island Monday night, the destructive push deep into Texas.

Weather bureau observers said only a few hours before Carla's powerful centre remained over the land, it reached the Austin area in central Texas about 6 a.m. EDT.

WARN OF FLOODS

Winds of 50 to 70 miles an hour persisted, however, in coastal areas near the storm's centre.

Forecasters warned of possible flood threats from five to eight-inch rains expected as Carla's tail of high hurricane pushed on toward the northeast through Texas and into Oklahoma and Kansas by late tonight.

Responsible-sources, who said they could not be identified, put a statewide toll so far, meanwhile advanced tentative estimates of storm and property damage will over $200,000,000 in Texas.

Carla's toll of known deaths from Carla and the tornadoes she hatched in Texas and Louisiana, where three persons also were injured, a wholesale evacuation of coastal areas appeared to have saved countless lives.

Winds of 50 to 70 miles an hour persisted, however, in coastal areas near the storm's centre.

Forecasters warned of possible flood threats from five to eight-inch rains expected as Carla's tail of high hurricane pushed on toward the northeast through Texas and into Oklahoma and Kansas by late tonight.

Responsible-sources, who said they could not be identified, put a statewide toll so far, meanwhile advanced tentative estimates of storm and property damage will over $200,000,000 in Texas.

Carla's toll of known deaths from Carla and the tornadoes she hatched in Texas and Louisiana, where three persons also were injured, a wholesale evacuation of coastal areas appeared to have saved countless lives.

Jail Earl Russell, 89, for Week For Campaign Against H-Bombs

LONDON (AP)—Earl Russell, 89-year-old British philosopher, was sentenced today to seven days in jail for refusing to promise to keep the peace in his civil disobedience campaign against nuclear weapons.

A judge sentenced him to two days in the cell at the counter in the Bow Street magistrate's court, but reduced the sentence to seven when Russell, a medical report indicating that the longer term would be too much for a harsh jail for the frail peer.

Seven of his fellow campaigners were sentenced to a month in jail and another to two months.

All were members of an anti-nuclear organization called the Committee of 100. Russell, the third Earl Russell, founded the group with "inciting members of the public to commit a breach of the peace next Sunday."

Outraged cries of "Shame, Fascists" and "Poor old man" rang through the court as Judge Bertram Reece told Russell he would have to go to prison.

Russell and his supporters, who believe in civil disobedience to further their cause, had planned a mass sitdown protest next Sunday against nuclear weapons in Trafalgar Square.

Police said the organizers intended to converge on the square in the capital with 10,000 demonstrators in an act of "mass resistance to the bomb."

Several hundred anti-nuclear demonstrators gathered in Russell and other defendants as they went to court.

Russell, who was willing "to be bound over to keep the peace," himself replied:

"No!"

Only three of the 27 defendants were willing to be free on condition they will keep the peace.

Speaking in a firm, high-pitched voice, the peer said:

"If you condemn us you will be helping our cause and therefore helping humanity.

"While life remains to us we will not cease to do what-ties in our power to avert the greatest calamity that has ever threatened mankind."

CITY AND DISTRICT NEWS

QUITS CEMENT CO. TO ENTER MINISTRY

Mr. and Mrs. Hershel Hamilton of Woodstock are visiting old friends in this city for a couple of days. Mr. Hamilton was assistant superintendent of the Point Anne plant of Canada Cement for eight years in the thirties and early forties. He has just resigned as manager of the firm's Woodstock plant, after 31 years of service with the company. He will enter Huron College, University of Western Ontario, next week, to commence study for the Anglican ministry. His father was an American clergyman.

Council Will Amend By-Law

Belleville city council is acting to amend its 1953 by-law prohibiting the keeping of cattle within the city to allow methods and use for farm lands annexed to the corporation.

Back in 1953 it seems a by-law prohibiting the keeping of cattle, goats, swine, fowl, was passed with provision for continued use of farm land in the event of annexation was provided for.

The matter was brought before council following objection to the keeping of steers on a farm in the Hillcrest area.

$7,400 Picked Up by Twelve Quinte Students

As a result of their 1961 studies some 12 Quinte Secondary School students have received from grade 13 this past scholastic year and have received a total of $7,400 in scholarships and bursaries.

Leading the group was Luana Wallis who was selected a sen. District Scholar and received both a Dominion-Provincial bursary and an Atkinson bursary, totalling $1,200 value.

Also receiving Dominion-Provincial bursaries, valued at $400 were Jamie Gill, Wayne Johnston, Susan Learden, David Skinner, Robert Smith, Gerald Willsen and Phyllis Wittman. Receiving Dominion-Provincial scholarships of $700 each were Jerome Jarvell and Charles Steele.

Atkinson bursaries of $400 each were awarded to Miss David Skinner, Wayne Johnson, Jean Luxton, Jamie Gill, Eric Johnston and Geoffrey Cliffe-Phillips also.

Left Turn Onto Bridge St. Now Legal

Now motorists can do it legally.

Council Blocks Move to Take Parking off St.

City council yesterday blocked a traffic committee recommendation which would have ruled out parking on the east side of Church St. from Bridge St. to Victoria Ave.

Committee member Alderman Ben Corke said placing of parking meters had been considered for the street but the majority had felt that owing to the narrowness of the street it would be better to take off parking altogether.

But Mayor Hall big disagreed.

"All we can think of when we traffic problem crops up is no parking," he said. "Except time no parking is decided upon we are gradually but effectively strangling downtown traffic."

He asked if this aspect had been considered.

OUTLINES REPORT

Asked what the traffic survey report recommended for Church Street, Ald. Corke said the long range plan was a north-south artery for this street—with no parking.

Deputy Mayor Trenole noted that removal of the boulevard had been suggested for Church Street some time ago as a measure to widen the street, but this had been shelved pending to the cost.

He suggested that going ahead with the removal of the boulevards might be the cheapest way to provide parking. He agreed with Mayor Hall that a traffic survey lacking meant strangulation for downtown business.

The recommendation for no parking went down to defeat on a tie 7-7 vote.

Despite Petition Council Passes By-Law to Increase Limit on Arterial Roads

Belleville city council yesterday gave final approval to the raising of the speed limit on arterial roads leading into the city, but in doing so disregarded a last ditch stand on the part of objectors from the West Dundas Street area.

Council ordered filed a petition bearing the names of over 300 residents of the area, who asked council to defeat the by-law.

Under the by-law the speed limit on both East and West Dundas Streets, and on North Front Street and Chamilhan Road will be increased. The increases in all instances had been recommended by both the Ontario Highways Department and by traffic consultants who last year did a traffic survey in the city.

Council members Deputy Mayor Robert Temple and Alderman Jack Ellis led their support to the fight to retain the 30-mile speed limit on West Dundas Street. They were asking that the by-law be laid over until the city clerk had an opportunity of checking the names on the petition.

ALD. "AFFALLED"

Alderman Ellis said he was "appalled" that the petition would take action without even reading the names on the 4-inch thick bill. Deputy Mayor Temple re-iterated his contention of last week that the council would not consider raising the speed limits in the older section of the city.

In the light of submissions made by the two aldermen, Mayor Hall Hall said he would not be opposed to laying the by-law over to check the names on the petition to be checked.

Alderman Lorne McDougall, resident of the West Dundas Street area, said he had no children but did not share the fear of many of the parents in the area who claimed increased speed would present a danger to children.

VOTE TURNED DOWN

Council turned down a motion to lay the matter over and then passed the by-law by a substantial majority.

Earlier in the meeting Mr. J. G. Demma, superintendent of the Education School for the Deaf, appeared before council to consider construction of a sidewalk on the north side of Dundas Street, thus enabling his students to get downtown and to Albert College without crossing the street. The matter was referred to the traffic committee.

Judge McLennan Welcomed by Crown Attorney

Crown Attorney John Pringle extended a warm welcome to the Honorable Mr. Justice J. A. McLennan, who is the presiding justice for the fall assizes in Hastings County.

Mr. Justice McLennan thanked the Crown Attorney and remarked that it is approximately ten years ago when he started his duties in the area.

A seven-member Grand Jury was sworn in yesterday after which the charge to the fall assizes for the Supreme Court of Ontario.

Mr. Justice McLennan briefed the members of the jury as to what their duties were in respect of them being an inspection of the jail.

He also asked the jury members to bring in one of two things, "a true bill or no true bill," when they retired to the jury room to discuss the criminal cases.

Justice McLennan told the jury they were allowed to inspect any other institution reported by public money in the district.

He said the most important thing to remember was that no person was in jail until he was out first being given an opportunity for a trial.

BIGGER TRADE

Exports from Formosa, National Chinese stronghold, reached $74,000,000 in the first seven months of 1961, up 32 per cent.

Swap Night At Meeting Was Success

The meeting of the Belleville Horticulture Society last night in the Recreation Building Centre, Pinnacle St. was also swap night. Mrs. Howard A. Meeks supplied grocers of dwarf iris rhizomes, Mrs. R. G. Williams two pieces of medium tall iris, Mr. J. W. Hodgson packages of gaillardia daxzler and Mr. Ernest Bennett in each group, Mr. E. A. Schliewert candle stick lily bulbs and Mrs. Irwin tulip bulbs. After the exchange period numerous of the above were left over and any member of this Society may call at 43 Yeomans St. and have any of these plants and bulbs. The remainder will be planted in the City Parks. This Society is consulting a Citizen Citation and a tree planted in his or her name.

The Annual Community Plowing Match Horticultural Show of this District is progressing nicely. It is felt that all matches of this kind in the past did not have been equal to the fair ladies. It is hoped this show helps in some way.

Ald. Corke Terms Amounts As Excessive

Formal objection to the policy of larger and larger remuneration being paid for membership on municipal boards, was made by Alderman Ben Corke at council yesterday as he spoke against a motion to raise salaries of the Parking Authority.

The by-law passed by council fixed the salaries of Authority members at $400 for the chairman and $300 each for the two members.

Alderman Corke termed the amounts excessive. He also noted that the amounts were the same as for the Transit Commission, which he felt were called on to do considerably more work, and were almost as much as the city aldermen were receiving.

R. J. Messervey Killed in Crash, Car Hits Stump

Well known throughout Ontario as a role as a poultry judge at provincial and international fairs, Roy Joseph Messervey, 57, Gordon Street, Belleville, was fatally injured at Demorestville early Monday morning.

Police said his car failed to make a turn on the Prince Edward county road at Demorestville and the vehicle slammed into a stump. Mr. Messervey suffered a crushed chest in the accident and he died shortly after midnight at the Prince Edward county hospital in Picton.

Mr. Messervey operated a small store at Picton and he was believed to have been on his way home when the accident occurred. He was alone in the car.

Son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Messervey he was born in Halifax but had lived in Belleville for the past 40 years where prior to his retirement he was stores keeper for the Ontario Hydro. He had previously resided in Toronto.

CNE DIRECTOR

He was a director of the Canadian National Exhibition, the Royal Winter Fair and of the Belleville Fair Board. He had been a long time breeder of pure bred poultry and was the leading poultry judge in the province. He judged consistently at the CNE and other big fairs. His Brahmas won many prizes at poultry shows.

He is survived by his wife, the former Florence Allen; a daughter, Mrs. Fred (Doris) Benson of Belleville, and two sons, Roy Jr. of Trenton, and Gordon of Peterborough. Also surviving are seven grandchildren, and a sister, Mrs. Frank Greig of Halifax.

The funeral will be held Thursday with interment in Belleville cemetery.

TOWER BOMB TARGET?

PISA (AP) — Reports circulated in this central Italian city today that saboteurs might try to blow up the famed leaning tower of Pisa. The rumors spread after a weekend of terrorist bombings occurred in Rome and a half a dozen other cities.

Obituaries

FRED ALBERT AIREY Cannifton

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon from the Bennett Funeral Home in Campbellford for Fred Albert Airey, who died as the result of a drowning accident on Monday, September 4th.

Albert, who was 18 years of age, was a Cannifton resident, the son of Clayton Airey and Violet Parcels. He attended Campbellford public school and was a member of the United Church.

Surviving besides his parents are three brothers, Eugene, John and William, Jr., and sisters, Betty and Mrs. Jim (Ethel) Hinds, all of Campbellford. His grandparents, Mrs. Jim Parcels, also survives.

Dr. D. M. Smith of St. John's United Church conducted the services.

Interment was in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

City Buys Set Of Scales For $6,386

City council have decided on the lowest tender for the installation of a new city weigh scales, but they haven't decided on where the scales are to be paid for.

Council accepted the tender of A.T. Avery of Toronto for the installation of the scales at a cost of $6,386.20.

The public works committee recommendation for the purchase of the Avery scales for the scales to be made in 1962.

However, Alderman George Wishart asked why payment could not be made this year from proceeds of the supplementary tax role.

"Suits me," returned Ald. J. Ellis, chairman of the public works committee.

But Mayor A. M. Haig determined pointing out it was the right of the finance committee to decide on how payment would be made.

"Council has no right to take away their duties," he said.

So the matter of payment was referred to the finance committee.

Smokies Oust Police Squad, Enter Finals

"The Belleville Fire Department ousted their hurdles in blue, the City Police, in two successive games to earn their way into the "Interdepartmental" league finals.

The Firefighters took the opener 15-3 and last night grabbed a 13-4 win to wrap up the series.

The City Hall and Public Works are playing in the other half of the semi-finals with the winners scheduled to meet the Firemen at Hall and Cochrane Cash at the Fairgrounds tonight at 6.15.

Garbage Dump Will Be Closed After 5.00 P.M.

Belleville's sanitary landfill garbage dump will be officially closed between the hours of five p.m. and eight a.m. it has been decided by city council.

The action by council in closing the dump at night resulted from a direction from the Provincial Department of Health following complaints received from residents in the area.

Councillors were not unanimous in their feeling that the dump should be closed at night, however.

Mayor Haig said some distinction should be made between household garbage, while Alderman Whalen observed the closing of the dump would only result in the garbage being dumped over the fence, or along roads at the limits of the city.

TB Resistance To Wonder Drugs Causes Alarm

TORONTO—Resistance of tubercle bacilli to the "wonder" drugs is causing concern and alarm all over the world, Paper ers and discussion in the first scientific session of the 18th conference of the International Union Against Tuberculosis, meeting this week at the Royal York Hotel, centre about this subject. From Germany, Hungary, Russia, the United Kingdom, the United States, Greece, Japan, Poland, Roumania, India and Monaco speakers presented statistical evidence of the power of bacteria to survive the onslaught of the drugs.

Time permitting, similar reports will be presented from many more of the 70 countries which are members of the IUAT. Also to among those which has already encountered a significant increase in the number of patients who, on first diagnosis, are found to be resistant to one or to one or more of the effective drugs.

Dr. Gertrud Meissner, Bad Oldesloe, Germany, principal reporter at the Monday session, commented on the lack of uniformity of drug resistance in the countries, where studies have been made, and the increase in the number of cases reported as drug resistant at the time the disease was first discovered and there were differences in the number of resistant patients probably harboring drug resistant strains of infection who were not confined to hospital.

RESISTANCE GROWS

Despite differences there were some easily perceived trends. The countries which conducted studies in 1955 and later have invariably found the percentage of new patients with drug resistance increasing. In many countries it appears to have doubled in the past five years.

It is both necessary and possible to reduce the threat of drug resistance bacilli, Dr. Meissner stated. The steps to be taken include the sanatorium treatment of all tuberculous patients with abundant sputum and all tuberculous patients who cannot be properly isolated at home; follow up of patients after discharge from sanatorium; early and effective use of BCG; greater effort to find sources, of infection, and, very important, intensive education of chronic patients to make them aware of their responsibility since the success in all efforts of prevention of tuberculosis depends on breaking chains of infection from those who harbor infection to those who do not.

Plowing Match Hat, Crest Sell Well at Rotary Dinner

Local Rotarians kicked off their fund-raising project for crippled children yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Quinte when Rotarian Bruce Graham, chairman of the committee, introduced the International Plowing Match hat and crest. Rotarians will be selling these hats, which are a quality western-style hat with a hatband advertising the plowing match, for three dollars apiece to local citizens and to visitors to the plowing match. They will also be merchandising a handsome colored crest commemorating the event.

Following the initial formal part of the meeting which was conducted by club president Virgil James, a virtual confusion of enthusiasm broke out following Mr. Graham's, brief talk on the scope and mechanics of the project which concluded with an offer to sell hats to all present.

These hats will be on advance sale through several local merchants prior to the International Plowing Match for the convenience of local citizens. Mr. Graham noted that the hats would be in limited supply hence the sale and credits were being offered locally in advance of the 120,000 visitors who are expected for the plowing match which starts on October 4.

Jury Returns 'True Bills' Against Accused

The Grand Jury presented a true bill on a charge of attempted theft against Sidney Hewgy in the Supreme Court of Ontario this morning and presented a "no bill" on the second charge, attempted arson. A request was granted to council that the case be traversed to the next assizes. The accused being in the mental hospital at Kingston.

The Grand Jury also presented a "true bill" against Rodney Alexis Sharpe, on a charge of having explosives in his possession for an unlawful purpose and further, for having burglary tools in his possession for an unlawful reason.

Sharpe pleaded not guilty to both charges and told Justice McLennan he was ready to proceed with his trial.

Counsel for Freda Abrami and Zdna Luffman requested that their cases be traversed to the next assizes, Permission was granted by Mr. Justice McLennan.

Abrami and Luffman are charged with being in possession of explosives and burglary tools. The trial will be held before a jury. It is expected the trial, will last a day or more.

SAFETY AWARD — Shown above are D. A. J. Macdonald, works manager of the local Northern Electric plant, and Stan Newton of Cobourg, chairman of the Central Ontario division of the Industrial Accidents Prevention Association, as the latter presents in recognition of 2,000,000 man-hours worked without a compensable accident at the local plant.

Company Sells Property to City for $1

Elimination of an extremely dangerous traffic hazard at the corner of Coleman and Water Streets, may be on the books following the decision of council yesterday to accept the offer of the International Hardware company to sell a parcel of property to the corporation.

The property in question is the corner lot on which a vacant store house is now standing. The hardware company has offered to sell the lot to the city for one dollar.

Pending approval by the city public works department and the traffic committee, it is hoped the old house can be demolished and the now dangerous corner reduced, it is hoped that the work can be done under the winter works program.

City engineer Malcolm Turnbull said razing of the old house would better the visibility at the corner while reduction of the curb would make the corner safer.

Safety Plaque Is Presented To Northern

Yesterday afternoon the Northern Electric plant was the recipient of a plaque commemorating 2,000,000 man-hours worked with no loss of time for a compensable injury from the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations. Works manager Donald Macdonald received the plaque on behalf of the employees, from Mr. Stan Newton of Cobourg, chairman of the central Ontario division of the I.A.P.A.

The local plant employees took just a bit over a year to establish this record with Northern Electric is one of but five firms in Ontario to have achieved this goal in the past several years. The Belleville plant also holds the record best record for total man-hours worked without an accident in Ontario.

R. J. Whitley Tells Rotary Of Tokyo Visit

TRENTON—At last night's meeting of the Trenton Rotary Club, R. J. (Dick) Whitely told of his recent visit to Tokyo, Japan, where he attended the 52nd annual convention of Rotary International. Mrs. Whitley accompanied him on the trip.

Mr. Whitely said that 33,273 delegates from all over the world attended the convention. Six hundred Canadians were present.

The convention was opened by the Emperor and Empress of Japan and a number of international figures spoke at the various meetings.

The large convention hall, which seats 23,000 was full to overflowing and many delegates were forced to attend the meetings by remote control", by means of closed-circuit television, and listen to the speeches by simultaneous translation.

Special programs for the wives of the delegates were arranged. The visitors were given an opportunity to study Japanese homes and to witness traditional Japanese entertainments.

Mr. Whitely's address was illustrated by beautifully colored slides.

Have Arranged Tentative Ice Time Schedule

TRENTON — At last night's meeting of the Trenton Community Gardens' Commission, Carl Weese, president of the association, reported that a tentative program had been arranged for the skating facilities this winter season. The summer season will end with a binge on October 3, and the ice surface should be in by October 10.

Ice times booked for thus far:

Sunday — 2 p.m. to 4 p.m., free skating for children under 12, sponsored by the Recreation Committee.

Monday — 8 p.m. to 12 mid., RCAF — intersection hockey.

Tuesday — 11 a.m. to 12 noon, St. Peter's School; 4:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. Trenton Figure Skating Club; 7:30 p.m. to 12 midnight, industrial hockey, (Trenton and Belleville).

Wednesday — 2 p.m. to 4 p.m., public skating; 4:30 to 5:30 p.m., Glenlier Public School.

Thursday — 11 a.m. to 12 noon, St. Peter's School; 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. St. Peter's School; 7:30 p.m. to 12 midnight, intersection hockey.

Friday — 4:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. Figure Skating Club; 8 p.m. to 12 midnight, Intermediate hockey.

Saturday — 2 p.m. to 7:30 p.m., minor hockey; 8 p.m. to 10 p.m., public skating.

RCAF Auxiliary Plans Activities

TRENTON — At last night's R.C.A.F. Women's Auxiliary meeting the members decided to hold a bridge-dessert function show on October 18 as a money raising project.

Mrs. Cathy Brown was elected secretary of the auxiliary.

It was pointed out that Opportunity Shop is greatly in need of used clothing. The shop has recently been painted and the sign refurbished.

Mrs. Lee, president, told the members that immediate past president Mrs. J. Ba-buckle will present three bassinettes to S. O. Graham, chairman of the board of directors at Trenton Memorial Hospital, at the opening of the new wing next Sunday.

The first immunization clinic for will be held at Breadner School on Thursday, Sept. 21, between 1 p.m. and 3 p.m.

The arts and crafts committee is in need of volunteer instructors for driving, sewing, bridge, millinery, languages and aluminum etching.

Matt Thompson conducted a floral arrangement display.

Wants to Form Jr. C Hockey Body in Trenton

TRENTON—Howard Weese proposed to the Trenton Community Gardens' Commission last night that a Junior "C" Hockey Association be formed in Trenton this year. Mr. Weese said that he had become alarmed at the attitude of Juvenile players last year. He referred to these boys as "a lot of lost sheep," once they had reached the juvenile group, said Mr. Weese they realized that there was no place for them in the town's hockey program and lost interest.

Mr. Weese said that he had approached city officials in Trenton and proposed that Trenton be allowed to form a Junior "C" association. After a prolonged deliberation, the officials had agreed to the move. The age group of the members in a Junior group would be from 18 to 20.

Mr. Weese said that he and his associates proposed to sell membership tickets in the association at $1. He said that he was sure that the people of Trenton would be behind the effort.

He said that the group behind the move had no money as yet and he asked that the commission to consider a "split gate" program for games and a half price deal for ice time for practice sessions.

Mr. Weese said that Picton, Gananoque and Cobourg were interested in a Junior "C" league and that games could be arranged with teams from these centres.

He said that he had interviewed an RCAF officer and that it had been his impression that the RCAF would support the league if it form the group.

CANDY SUBSIDIZED

Dan Senik, chairman of the gardens' board told Mr. Weese that while every member of the commission would like to see a junior group in Trenton, the commission could not support, sponsor or subsidize a hockey league. The association would have to pay incidental expenses in connection with games.

Mr. Weese said that he would have to outline costs of the association's ruling to his associates before any decision could be given.

Mr. Senik pointed out the recent improvements in the building, the new foyer, the manager's office, the auditorium and the washrooms have been painted and a vanity mirror has been added to the ladies' washroom.

The snack bar has also received a new coat of paint and improved lighting has been installed, both in the snack bar and in the arena proper.

Several new pieces of equipment have been installed, and the commission promised that they have done everything to ensure the comfort and safety of skaters and spectators for the coming season.

Ralph Collins has been hired to perform cleaning duties in the building and he will be provided with an instant at times he deems necessary.

SHIP SAILS

HALIFAX (CP) — The British grain carrier Wheat King sailed for Britain without incident Monday after unloading 261,000 bushels of wheat. The ship had been pelleted here by the Seafarers International Union (Ind.), which says the ship is not manned by a Canadian crew.

What About Life in 2,000 A.D.?

Suppose there is no nuclear war. Suppose the West wins the Cold War within a decade. What would life be like at the end of the century, with mankind started on the third millennium, Anno Domini?

All the world would be westernized, but it would be a western civilization which would have progressed enormously. Once the threat of war had disappeared, it would be simple to provide the backward nations with the tools they would need to establish their own counterparts of the U.S. free enterprise system. What would we find?

There would be millions of more people in the world. Solitude would be scarce. Cars would crawl over a maze of highways, not only at weekends but throughout the week. Nobody over forty would be working, so all would be out hunting pleasure. From 25 to 40 a man would be chained to his job, yet might be working no longer hours than at present, except when rush orders came in. Satellites would circle the earth, carrying hundreds of television programs in every language, on ultra high frequency wavelengths. Every car would have a television set with a dual function, to guide it through traffic by a refinement of radar and to relieve the occupants as they rushed between the billboards. All this would go on for a hundred years. Then, suddenly, our civilization would grind to a halt. One by one, essential raw materials would be exhausted. Lacking the ability to farm mechanically, man would starve. The food supplies dwindle. Millions would starve.

Fantastic? Not at all. Just the logical conclusion of present trends. Consider.

"There would be millions of more people." India's population in 1911 was 250 million, in 1951 356 million. In 1961 433 million, with a rate of growth in the fifties, 61 per cent faster than in the previous decade. The population of Pakistan which doubled between 1901 and 1961 is likely to be double the 1951 figure by 1981. The number of people in Latin America will rise from 200 million to 600 million in the next 30 odd years. (Author's own mention China. (Statistical authority—the Hugh Moore Fund, New York City.)

"Nobody over forty would be working." Progress will be so rapid that machines will continually replace men from their jobs. Once you reach 40, the man-power scrapheap is waiting for another job. Pension policy, you know. (Authority—look at the want ads in any metropolitan newspaper; ask many an unemployed man right here in Belleville.)

"From 25 to 40 a man would be chained to his job." Doctors and scientists are steadily conquering disease. Man's life is steadily extending. Despite the high birth rate, more and more people would be over forty—unemployable but with votes. They would demand higher and higher pensions. Politicians would give them what they wanted. Somebody would have to work. Those under 25 would be going to university, those over 40 would be on pensions. Who is left except those between 25 and 40? They would have to work hard to keep up with ever-increasing demand, though labor-saving devices might relieve the hours, if not the pace, of their labors. (Authority—common sense and the record of politicians in the past.)

"One by one, essential raw materials would be exhausted." True—according to Arnold Toynbee, the noted historian, who says that essential raw materials would be rapidly exhausted if the whole world enjoyed a standard of living equal to that of the U.S. today—and, of course, we are just beginning to explore the treasure house of our "needs" and those with these "needs" will double and quadruple in number.

"Millions would starve." Of course they would. Even today millions of people in Asia, Africa and Latin America live on 60 cents a day. Their number will increase at an awesome rate. (Authority—a simple mathematical formula called geometric progression; it's in your child's high school mathematics book.)

Can this be avoided? Yes. By miracles. By ridding the religious not only Roman Catholics and many Protestants but Hindus and Moslems, too, of opposition to birth control. Or by killing all the doctors, so that more people die young. By eliminating reliance on pension plans, or slaughtering all the actuaries. By refusing to consider every "want" a "need." By the greatest miracle of all—by the end of selfishness and by a reliance on common sense.

But then, if there is no nuclear war, if the Cold War does come to a rapid end, if the poor of colors other than white are considered entitled to a share in the world's wealth—if all this happens by the year 2,000, miracles will have become commonplace, won't they?

Blood Transfusion Debate

Ottawa Journal

Maclean's magazine has raised disturbing doubts in the minds of the many who have ever donated blood or received a blood transfusion. A recent article maintains that three out of every four transfusions are more likely to harm than to heal, are unnecessary and a needless risk. The chief dangers, according to Dr. F. B. Bowman, are in serious reactions from incompatible blood and the possibility of transmitting allergies and diseases in the blood.

Where are the authorities, the layman asks, if these are the facts? Does the National Health and Welfare Department, which keeps a close eye upon the safety of drugs, have nothing to say about safe medical practice? And does the blood donor service of the Red Cross, operated solely and laboriously maintained, support a largely wasteful, even dangerous folly?

* * *

The Red Cross has replied to the article through its professional commissioner, Dr. W. S. Stanbury. Doctors agree with Dr. Stanbury when he contends some risk is involved in a blood transfusion, as there is a risk in every anaesthetic, in every appendectomy. "One must," Dr. Stanbury says, "balance the risks with the unquestionable benefits which in the general picture far outweigh the hazards."

The Department of Health and Welfare has studied and replied officially but we are told by one of its officers that it is not yet ready with this alternative: "The risk of doing something must be balanced against the risk of doing nothing."

* * *

While in practice it is impossible to match blood types perfectly (for the "rare" and "common" blood is as individual as his fingerprints), laboratories have at present the matching technique that, Dr. Stanbury reports, reduces reactions and fatalities nearly nine. Fatal reactions to transfusions (usually the result of human error) now occur more often than once in every 50,000 or 60,000 cases in Canada. On the question of safety as other voice has been heard. The director of the transfusion service of the Royal Victoria Hospital in Montreal, Dr. Paul G. Weil, states that the statistical article quotes in support of its argument, replies in the Montreal Gazette had no doctor's reaction due to transfusions has occurred in the hospital for the past several years. At the Royal Victoria, 1,600 transfusions are given each year.

* * *

"In over 14 years' experience with the Canadian Red Cross Blood Transfusion Service, involving the handling of over 2,000,000 bottles of whole blood, we have encountered no instance of the transmission of diseases listed in the medical literature as mentioned by Dr. Bowman in his article, other than the relatively small incidence of infectious hepatitis, almost entirely related to the use of dry plasma, which unfortunately is by far the more effective and safer . . . plasma albumin."

The layman's article says there was a tendency to give transfusions unnecessarily, particularly the plasma transfusion. The Journal is told by an authority that there might have been cases of "shock" where some 10 or 15 years ago, when battlefield transfusions first were matched the uses of plasma. But as more knowledge has come to light, there is a definite demand re-education within the profession.

* * *

The Health and Welfare Department points out that the role of government in this matter is indirect. The ordering of a blood transfusion is the right of a patient's doctor and the Government would no more interfere in that than say when hospitals should come out. The decision is a medical decision. If there are abuses, the Government suspects the medical profession is safeguard its own standards. Only if there proved to be a complete breakdown of professional standards, would the government feel it should step in.

But let us note this. Blood is one of the best benefits provided by the Hospital Insurance Plan and the Federal Government, with the provinces, contributes to the cost. In the case of a clear misuse of this service, provincial or Dominion authorities would demand reform, a spokesman for the Health and Welfare Department informed Times Journal. They have made no such demand about transfusions.

Where are we then? The Maclean's article was formidable but so are some of the replies. The layman is left not only in doubt but in anxiety. Blood transfusion, which even Dr. Bowman admits is a unique medical tool and should not be abandoned, depends upon public support. Is there not a responsibility here on the part of either the Canadian Red Cross or the Canadian Medical Association to clarify a confusing and disturbing argument?

Weatherman Cannot Win

Sault Ste. Marie Star

Since he knows his can't expect to bat 1.000, the weatherman no doubt is resigned to the realization that he can't win, for nobody ever expects daily anything less than perfection in forecasting and it must be discouraging for him to discover that even when he's right, he's wrong. But the job matters less than disinterested critics.

This group's complaint is that which sets off the predictable outcry of the public's subconscious fear of human error. Lombardo, whose blasts get him a temporary job as weather commentator, his model broadcast went this way:

"According to the U.S. Weather Bureau, it will likely looks like a weekend for real good weather. So I'm forecasting that there are going to be many, many, happy people heading for such and such resort owners, beach concessionaires, people in the boating business and everybody else connected with summer enterprise."

From our seat on the sidelines, this is a matter of sufficient justification for a long-suffering weatherman. Indulgence in what Dagwood would describe as diabolic glee should be condoned. Such pettytyranna prove to have pulled a rock which would make him the best liked man among unhappy people, also connected as patrons, with summer enterprise, good and bad.

Mr. Lombardo's complaint could have been softened by those of William H. Coy Detroit, whose office — director of the U.S. Weather Bureau — was explaining his position on the forecasting issue. Mr. Coy's contribution? It is the right of better to say "partly cloudy" instead of "partly cloudy."

Looking at the weather forecasts for the last few days, we can see his point. The day it read "mostly cloudy, with chance of showers," it would have been more forthrightly told as say: "Spasmodically sunny. Safe to venture few feet from shelter."

Mostly cloudy and a little cooler with occasional showers or thunderstorms this afternoon" was a glaring instance of prediction which those who have said: Nice morning. Just don't stand under any trees this afternoon."

What's it doing outside now? And why weren't we told there might be sunyons?

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS
A REAL DIFFERENCE

There is a difference between business and busy-ness. In business we get something accomplished. In busy-ness we run about in circles.

Some people waste their lives in a drive of ridiculous and inconsequential busy-ness. The greatest business executive I ever knew never had a desk on his desk or in his desk drawers. He spent a great deal of his time in silent pondering. When a decision was needed he had one. He drew it large safety because he handled a big job well.

In contrast with this man I remember another who could always tell everybody how to do everything, who was busy from morning until night and never seemed to achieve anything. The unsuccessful man's life was filled with busy-ness.

Certainly one of the great lessons life teaches us is that we must learn to relax. We plan a program, set a battle, or we map out a job, and the body of most very well — the world will reward us accordingly. But if we would to achieve success, let us realize that Destiny (spelled with a capital D) means business. We cannot trifle with Destiny. Jesus said: "My heavenly Father worketh hitherto, and I work."

Business or busy-ness — there is a real and significant difference.

Vocal Pearls Often Annoy Indelicate

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Why is it that everyone is jealous of my beautiful voice? Only this morning, the managing editor passed by my office door as I was sitting and crooning, "Eri Tu" to my typewriter. He stuck his bony head in and viciously snarled, "Why don't you do your gargling at home, gravel-throat?"

Now that is no way to talk to a man with a golden voice has thrilled thousands in radio and the swankiest Turkish bathe in town. My resonant baritone is one of the few attributes I am really proud of, and I resent the constant railing of my unmusical Philistines.

You realize how man and petty mankind can be, when a great vocal gift like mine is derided by all my dearest friends (indeed!) and co-workers. You laughed to understand why they laughed at Caruso when he sang at Edison and jeered at Fulton's Folly. This has always been the fate of genius.

It is true that I may have a limited range — one octave three notes, which necessitates my changing keys several times during a song. But I have to take into a pequancy to my rendition, as any first-class critic would admit. After all, didn't Dicky Valee make a fortune with his limited range of notes?

I love to sing, because I have a happy disposition and a loving nature. But certain cramped and cruelty people cannot bear to see a joyous person practicing his soul's radiance to the world, and so they go around muttering darkly and hissing ominous threats about my future safety — or, quoting the city ordinances on disorderly conduct.

These nasty and brutish individuals have even gone so far as to put cotton in their ears and paper towels while I have been practicing my arpeggios during shaving or in the celestial washroom — which only proves further how my genius is maligned and misunderstood by his own contemporaries. It is the isolation of the artist that in an unmarked grave, that Mozlie still lives, that Shakespeare wrote a small book published out of the proceeds of "Moby Dick."

Why is it, I repeat, that a man who loves to sing, and who does it with such gusto, should be looked upon as scornfully by his multitude? I can render "Shortnin' Bread" definitely better than Nelson Eddy ever could, and I can render "Cherry Road" look like a mad-covered footpath. I know this is so, because my mother has told me.

Everyone's hand is raised against my mouth, there is no balm in Gilead, and the voice of the lonely is crying in the wilderness. Somewhere, there must be a man creature who can sit in wistful adoration, listening to me sing. Choe! Come out of that swamp!

Bombs and Booklets

Halifax Chronicle-Herald

If the Federal Government wants Canadians to start thinking about being safe before Winter comes, then it will have to do something more constructive than publish do-it-yourself booklets on home shelters, or talk vaguely about the desirability of the people looking to their own resources for personal protection in the event of a nuclear attack.

Bloodshot Eyes May Call for Blood Study

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What causes bloodshot eyes if I get enough sleep. I'm not out in the sun too much. But I have this trouble. What can I do about it? — M. M. M."

A bloodshot eye is the result of a very small hemorrhage under the surface of the eyeball. Against the white of the eye, it looks pretty red. Any scene other area you might not notice it at all.

I am perfectly aware that some bloodshot eyes come from staying up too late, drinking too much, and otherwise abusing the human mechanism. "Sleeping" is the old-fashioned term. But being a physician, I also know that this isn't the basic physiological reason. The real causes are deeper. An injury which fracturer little blood vessels or an inborn fragility of the vessels. There are a lot. Some of us are tough and some of us are fragile. And we aren't always responsible for the same places. A chemical lack in the system may also contribute to the trouble.

In this latter category, which is not uncommon, I refer to the calcium or of Vitamin C. some adults get the idea that they can do without milk, which is such a handy source of calcium. There are other sources, of course, but milk, whether in the form of butter, cream, whole milk, or cottage cheese or buttermilk, is the best I know of. For Vitamin C, the citrus fruits (orange, lemon, grapefruit, tomato) are easy to get and easy to take.

If you are reasonably careful about these matters, get enough sleep, and still suffer not only bloodshot eyes, but are unduly subject to bruising easily, then think a thorough study of the blood is in order. For there is any defect in the chemical mechanism of clotting. We know a lot more about clotting than we did a few years ago.

Much of this defect in the clotting process because, while it isn't common, it can cause bleeding under the simplest aspects first, because they are the common ones. But at least bleed in mild type causes and more subtle things being discovered by the research laboratories.

Treatment for the ordinary, garden variety of bloodshot eyes, is application of a cold pack, cold washcloth, etc. The blood (very little is involved) absorbs very rapidly from this area, and cold applications are the most helpful.

"Dear Sir: You said coffee is a stimulant and that excessive use of it could cause wakefulness. I read recently that coffee is not a stimulant but a depressant and that the effect of it could not cause loss of sleep over 30 minutes. Would like your comment. — G. W. R."

* * *

You and I don't read the same things, do we? I grant (in fact proclaim) that coffee drinkers may react somewhat differently at times, but coffee (the caffein in it) certainly quickens the heart beat, and stimulates the nervous system. Excessive use as can drink coffee and not stay awake, and I have talked about in excess, does cause a bit of wakefulness.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Our guide, like many of his profession, was a character. When he invited us ashore for lunch, we were a little suspicious of his hospitality. He took a large tin pail he carried as a lunch hamper — peanut butter and honey sandwiches, two cans of pork and beans, a large bottle of hot pickled olives, and a small caddy of tea.

While we relaxed on the rocks, he built a little fire, opened the pork and beans in a frying pan, and boiled a billy can of tea. In paper plates, he handed each of us a couple of peanut butter and honey sandwiches, two spoons of pork and beans, a large bottle of hot pickled olives, and a small caddy of tea.

In paper plates, he handed each of us a couple of peanut butter and honey sandwiches, two spoons of pork and beans, a large bottle of hot pickled olives, and a small caddy of tea.

Then, pick up an olive, pick up a spoon of beans, take a scoop of those hot beans! I never get weary of the difference in the taste of those beans. Without milk or sugar, so clean and dry in the warm mixture. Our feelers we have not in months...

Invent something? I never had a better lunch, listening to the man and following him, bite for bite.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE DARK PLACES

One of the great fears of this world is fear of the dark.

The dark is as natural as the light. Both are a part of the plan of life. It is also a fact that some of the darkest days we experience comes right up from the light. Even the light of the sun sometimes causes sorrow or defeat in our way of another becomes sobered. He thinks of the dark days that have come and has floated down the stream of time with lovely scenery, forgetting about what it is that makes the world go round.

Darkness is a time to step ahead. You step ahead into things — big things that illume your soul and expand your calibre.

The greatest treasures of earth come from the dark silent places; the treasures of gold, and silver, precious stones, radium. And so does perfect love.

Quinte Twirlers Conclude Fine Season

Dancing was held every Wednesday and Saturday nights from June to September, with a good turnout of the members.

H-S Council Holds Special Course

On September 9th at Burnbrae Farms, Consecon, Ont., Area "C" Committee, under the chairmanship of Mr. A. R. Carlepy, vice-president Area "C", sponsored a training course for members of the Area's Council Executives.

Members from Oshawa, Pickering, Peterborough, Belleville and from the High School Association of Lindsay, were present.

This group took a critical look at what council's purpose was and how best to carry out its purpose.

Guest speaker, Mrs. W. H. Crone, director of Leadership Training for Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations spoke on "A New Awareness of Home and School" and also assisted in answering questions formulated at buzz groups by the participants.

A session on "Discussion Skills" was conducted by two community program branch representatives, Mr. Donald Maddocks of Belleville, and Mr. Jack Elbeck of Toronto.

Area "C" Committee is to be congratulated on conducting such a worthwhile course.

FATAL STING

The giant ant of British Guiana, up to two inches long, can inflict a fatal sting.

KAPPES — KARKBECK

On Saturday, August 19th, 1961, at 12 o'clock noon, a lovely summertime wedding was solemnized in St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill Anglican Church, when Carril Ann Karkbeck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Curtis Karkbeck of Belleville, became the bride of Karl-Alfred Kappes of Sudbury, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Kappes of North Surrey, British Columbia.

While the guests were arriving, organist Mr. John Croyden Wilbers rendered traditional wedding music. The processional was Purcell's "Trumpet Voluntary," and later, the recessional was "Choral Song," by S. S. Wesley. During the signing of the register, Mr. Wilbers offered "The King of Love," and "Water Music," by Handel.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was beautiful in a bridal gown of lustre-weave silk, street length. Her headdress was a shoulder-length veil, held in place by a rose of organza. She carried a bouquet of white Shasta daisies. Miss Priscilla Wagner of Belleville was bridesmaid and wore a street-length dress of pink organza with a beaded dress of matching tulle, made like a circlet. She carried a bouquet of white and yellow Shasta daisies.

The flower girl, Miss Karen Karkbeck, six-year-old sister of the bride, wore a pale blue full length dress, cut in the Ann Greenaway style. Her headdress was a circle of pale yellow and white tiny mums, and she carried a tiny gathering basket of small Shasta mums, and fern.

A wedding luncheon was held in the Club Rooms of Hotel Quinte. The bride's table was centred by the wedding cake, three-tiered and topped by a slender glass holding pale yellow baby 'mums. The base of the cake was minted with tulle, and scattered with tiny yellow 'mums. Tapering candles graced the table along with the bridal bouquets.

Receiving the guests, the bride's mother wore an ice-blue sheath with white accessories, and a corsage of red roses, and was assisted by the mother of the bridegroom, who wore a multi-pleated white silk gown, white accessories, with a corsage of cream colored roses.

Guests were present from Agincourt, Belleville, Read, Kingston, Peterborough, Ottawa, Toronto, Sudbury, Vancouver, and Tweed.

Afterwards, the happy couple motored north on a wedding trip to the Manitoulin Islands, and will reside at 306 Morris Street, Sudbury.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

WHAT'S YOUR E.Q.?

Good table manners are an indication of good breeding. Are you aware of the finer points? Answer True or False to the following:

1. When you sit down to dinner, the napkin is placed in one long fold across the lap.

2. Never prop your elbows on the table.

3. It is okay to dig in as soon as you're served.

4. If you're the hostess, you should serve yourself first.

5. Bread and rolls should be broken into bite-size pieces before being buttered and eaten.

6. It's considered polite to scrape gravy from a small piece of bread.

7. Reaching for something like salt or butter is never proper.

8. The little finger should always be delicately crooked while eating.

9. You should never blow on hot soups or other liquids to cool them off.

10. At the end of the meal, the napkin is refolded and left on the chair seat.

ANSWERS:

1. True.
2. False. Between courses, yes. While eating, no.
3. False. It's better manners to wait until a few plates are filled before starting.
4. False. The hostess is served next to last, before the host.
5. True.
6. True. But do it with your fork, not your fingers.
7. False. Reaching is approved as long as it's not too far and you don't knock something down in the stretch.
8. False. It's an affectation long out of style.
9. True.
10. False. It's neatly collapsed and left on the table to the left of the plate.

BURNABY, B.C. (CP)—Mrs. Margaret Evans chased a garbage truck in her bare feet for two blocks, to retrieve her diamond ring. With the aid of the driver, the ring was found in the garbage where it had fallen by accident.

Women's Activities

W. M. S.

MELROSE — After a brief summer recess the Melrose W.M.S. reconvened at the home of Mrs. J. Milligan for their September meeting.

The president, Mrs. Milligan took charge of the devotional period following the theme "Unity of Christ's Church". Hymn 17, 30-36 was read by Mrs. G. McLaren and the meditation was given by the president. The Lord's Prayer and "Watchwords for No East or West" and prayer closed the devotional period.

Mrs. Bedford Thurlow, leader for this month took charge of the program. Mrs. E. Embury opened with a responsible poem "Love Thy Neighbor as Thyself" and Mrs. L. Weese gave the story of the famous hymn "Soldiers of Christ, Arise" which was written by Charles Wesley. Mrs. R. MacFarlane gave a brief reading "You as an Individual" which stressed the importance of each individual accepting responsibility and serving to the utmost with what you have. Mrs. McLaren gave an excellent paper on "The Prayer for Bread" which not only included a prayer for the body but also for the mind and spirit and there is no confusion source of nourishment above all others and that is in the Person and Teachings of Jesus Christ. Two readings followed by Mrs. W. Embury and Mrs. C. Dafoe.

Mrs. Bedgley explained "The Significance of the Fruit of the U. Church of Canada" pointing out in detail the deep meaning of the various symbols used in the crest which was on display.

Mrs. Milligan presided over the business session during which a committee was appointed to arrange details for the bazaar to be held the third Wednesday in October. An invitation to attend a tea at Ebenezer was read and accepted and an item on the program was planned.

The October meeting at Mrs. S. Demille will be held a week later than the regular day, due to other commitments.

Prayer closed the meeting and the hostess served dainty refreshments and a social time was spent.

Basic All-Purpose Mix

By Mary Moore

(Last of Three Instalments)

This week the variations on the All-Purpose mix I have worked on are a date and nut loaf and tea biscuits. The more I work with this mix the more impressed I am with it. From one batch of dough I made three varieties of tea biscuits (dishers with large families should grab at the ready Mix idea and use it to the limit. The recipe calls for cheese and nothing could be easier. In no little time and money will find it practical and delicious. In 10 minutes you can have tea biscuits in the oven. In another ten minutes you can have two other delicious varieties of tea biscuits baking.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

TUESDAY

DATE NUT LOAF:

Two cups All-Purpose Mix, ¼ cup light brown sugar, ½ cup chopped walnuts, ¾ cup chopped stoned dates, ½ cup water, 1 egg. Add sugar to Mix. Beat 1 egg with fork and water. Pour into mix and stir to blend. Add dates, and nuts, fold in. Pour into greased 7½ x 4¼ x 2½" loaf pan lined with greased wax paper. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 40 minutes. Variation: Substitute chopped prunes or apricots for dates if desired.

TEA BISCUITS WITH TWO VARIATIONS:

Three cups All-Purpose Mix, 2-3 cup water. Place mix in bowl. Add water all at once. Stir until all mix is wet and blended. Turn out on lightly floured board or wax paper. Fold and knead lightly 10 times. If you are going to make the two variations divide dough into three even portions at this stage. If not, roll dough out to ¼" thickness and cut into 3" or 3½ biscuits with floured cutter and bake on ungreased cookie sheet at 450 deg. Fahr. for 6 or 7 minutes.

Variations: 1) Cheese:—Roll out 1-3 portion to ¼" thickness. Grate enough old cheese to make ½ cup. Sprinkle ¼ cup of the cheese over dough and fold over and roll out. Sprinkle with remaining cheese and fold over. Grate cheese and roll out to ¼" thickness and cut out with floured 1¼" cutter. Bake on ungreased pan, with plain biscuits, at 450 deg. Fahr. for 6 or 7 minutes. 2) Cinnamon Pinwheels: Roll out remaining 1-3 portion of dough to ¼" thickness. Sprinkle with 2 tablespoons white or brown sugar and 1 teaspoon cinnamon. Roll up like a jelly roll. Prepare 6 muffin pans: Heat evenly together 1 tablespoon each butter or margarine and white or brown sugar until sugar is melted. Spoon 2 teaspoons into each of 6 muffin pans. If desired add 1½ teaspoons chopped walnuts to each. Now cut your roll of dough into 3 pinwheels and slice cut side down in pregaredof tins. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for 9 minutes. Invert pan over large plate and let biscuits fall out with pan over them to allow the syrup to flow over them while hot. Covering the bottom of the muffin tins with a damp cloth retains the heat until the syrup drains out over biscuits.

All of these variations are highly recommended by me and, of course, are at their finest served hot.

NOTE:

If there are readers who have missed the foregoing instalments and would like the Basic Mix just write to me and enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Rudolph H. — I wish I could make my mother see what a pet means to me.

Mrs. G. H. — It's not fair to keep an animal in a city apartment.

* * *

Rudolph H. — I'm 11 years old. I live in a three-room apartment in a fancy New York building with my parents. I sleep in the bedroom My father and mother use a convertible bed in the living room.

We've only been in the city five months. Before that we lived on Long Island and I had four pets — a dog named Puffy, a turtle, a parakeet and a lizard. When Puffy died, I wanted a new dog but my parents said no because we were going to move. When we packed up, I set the lizard and turtle free and gave my bird away. My mother said there was no room for them.

I miss my pets; I have no friends in the neighborhood. The kids around here go to private school. I'd settle for a kitten or a few guppies. But Mom says pets and apartments don't go together.

* * *

Mrs. G. H. — I know how Rudy loves dumb creatures. Once he brought a caterpillar for a pet! It died an hour later. He'd be happy with a fly or even an ant. But now he's in a tiny apartment in the big city. We couldn't find any other quarters within our means that would be near my husband's lab. He's doing research and works long, irregular hours.

I thought Rudy would find new interests, make lots of new friends and forget about pets. He doesn't realize it takes more than love to keep a helpless animal well and happy. It takes work. Here in town there'd be even more work, much of which, incidentally, Rudy left to me. I'm too busy now to add that to my chores.

* * *

The Council — Here is an only child, relatively friendless in a new environment, and longing for that touch of nature that makes the whole world kin. Surely there are apartment-like pets Mrs. H. can consider for filling Rudy's need to love (and be loved by) something in the animal kingdom. Hamsters and white mice are said to be ideal for small cares, big fun. Canaries are also.

The theme here is set Mrs. H. Naturally, despite Rudy's promises and enthusiasm, he won't take "full care" of his charges. She must be prepared to take up the slack. This realization, rather than the "inhumaneness" of confining creatures indoors, may be the main objection to granting Rudy a pet. But for a shy "kat" child, this is as important as his vitamins and splashes. Part of caring for him is helping him care for the quiet companions he enjoys.

As a tepid substitute, however, we suggest that Mrs. H. devise a tankful of goldfish for Rudy's class (teacher permitting, of course). This should be done with the understanding that Rudy, assisted by a rotating committee of classmates, will be responsible for their care. This would serve as an ingratiating wedge toward new friendships and increased stature for Rudy among his peers.

Parents are known to go to unbelievable extremes to foster this type of tenderness and responsibility in their children. A news item the other day told of a father who provided his daughter with a six-foot snake as a house pet because she was allergic to the fur of other creatures.

We're rooting for Rudy. He's on a rewarding trail, even if he winds up with nothing more than a trained flea.

BABY OF THE WEEK

"You can pat my doggie", says 11 month old Lois, as she pats the cute little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Elliott of Bellevue. The cute Fall weather is just around the corner now and right behind is Christmas so it's not really too early to be thinking about gifts. Do it early this year and give portraits of your children. They will be treasured more every year as the children grow up. Phone LUMBERS STUDIO at WO 2-5954 and arrange an appointment.

RUDE WARNING

The next day, Opposition Leader Pearson suggested the UN police force in the Middle East be diverted to Berlin to serve there until the formation of a permanent Berlin force.

Mr. Pearson said UN troops could be posted inside Berlin and on the contentious access routes to the divided city.

CAN'T ABANDON

The prime minister said the free world "can't think of abandoning Berlin to the Communists."

"If we follow a course of defeatism by giving up our principles we shall have laid the foundations for a future frightful to contemplate.

"Communism does not understand any principle other than power . . . If we do our part now without permitting ourselves to be intimidated I think there is a possibility that we shall be laying the foundations for a new relationship between the Communist world and the world of freedom, a relationship which cannot hope to be attained if we capitulate to the degree Khrushchev asks us to.

"If we give up our principles, what have we to live for in the years ahead?

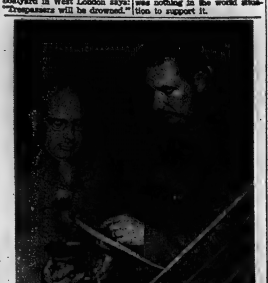
"If there is to be a future, it manifestly is going to require higher and better things. The things of the spirit are as important to nations as they are to individuals.

"It is in that spirit that I hope the free world will stand. . . ."

SAY UNWANT WAR

Mr. Herridge and Erhart Regier (CCF — Burnaby - Coquitlam) said Canadians do not want to go to war over Berlin.

The CCF members said opinion from all sections of the country runs strongly against the government's policy that Canada must go to war with its NATO allies if Russia tries to grab the German capital.



External Affairs Minister Green told the House he still thinks there is a "reasonable chance" for a disarmament plan.

It was not true to say that he had "down in the dumps over disarmament," Canada was preparing to go to the UN to make it clear that Canada behind a call for new bans on nuclear testing and a world disarmament plan.

"I hope there will not be a lot of Jeremiahs and crepe-hangers back here in Ottawa . . . who are ironically ridiculing what we are trying to do."

Mr. Green said he remains optimistic about the world situation.

But Mr. Pearson and Paul Martin, (L — Essex East) contended that Mr. Green's optimism was not realistic. There was nothing in the world situation to support it.

James Elliott New Vice-Pres. Hardware Co.

NEW BRITAIN, Conn.—Appointment of James W. Elliott to the newly-created position of executive vice-president of The American Hardware Corporation was announced today by David Mulholland, president.

Mr. Elliott's new responsibilities will encompass research and development on new and existing products for the parent corporation, its divisions and subsidiaries, Mulholland said.

Since 1957, Elliott has been vice-president, director, and general manager of International Hardware Company of Canada, Ltd., Belleville, Ontario, a wholly-owned subsidiary of American Hardware. He will assume his new duties October 1, 1961, at corporation headquarters in New Britain, Conn.

Because of our expanding multi-plant hardware manufacturing facilities, we created this corporate post to direct and co-ordinate product development throughout the company," Mulholland said.

Dawson Boyd, general sales manager of the Corbin Lock Division of International Hardware, will replace Elliott as general manager of the Canadian company.

Benjamin Bernhard, director of product and development engineering of American Hardware since September 1960, will continue in his present position until his planned retirement at the end of this year.

James Elliott, a native of Belleville, Ontario, joined International Hardware's product engineering staff in 1941. He progressed to chief engineer in 1945, assistant works manager in 1955, and assistant general manager in 1956. He was promoted to vice-president, director and general manager in 1957.

Elliott plans to move his residence from Ontario to New Britain shortly after he assumes his new position.

Kick the American Cow And You May Get No Milk

That, in essence, may be the new policy of the United States government as it reviews the anti-Western decisions of the Belgrade conference of 25 neutral or non-aligned countries.

Cash, credit and gifts of food, the United States finds, apparently don't provide Americans with new friends as a result the policy of providing economic aid for neutral countries is under review.

A qualified U.S. authority says:

"The United States is not like the placid cow that continues to give milk however it is kicked in the flank."

Observers which seek American aid should be concerned what Americans think of them. Some countries seem little concerned about that. If they go to Moscow for politics, then they should go to Moscow for aid."

CHANGE IN VIEW

This is a sharp divergence from views expressed by President Kennedy and his advisers that a country does not necessarily forfeit its friends when Western lines to get U.S. help.

Indeed, both he and State Secretary Dean Rusk had seemed to suggest in the early months of their tenure that they would support neutral countries and even concentrate on their needs.

The long-range American diplomatic policy, shown also by previous administrations, was to try to contain the Communist area of influence and perhaps even reduce it by weaning away Soviet followers.

Most of the Belgrade neutrals, which have been getting a lot of help from the United States, showed little desire to criticize Russia even though the Kremlin had fired up the Berlin crisis, slammed down the East Berlin gates and set off a series of atomic blasts.

American diplomats and legislators complained that if the United States had done this, there would have been a tremendous outcry from the neutrals.

As Kennedy's own diplomatic headquarters, there was glum reflection on the slim friendship returns of the more than $9,000,000,000 in American aid given to the neutrals in post-war years.

"Aid must be related to performance," was the new word heard in the state department.

"Otherwise it is a waste of money."

NATO Secretary Says West Will Fight Over Berlin

By JACK van DUSEN

OTTAWA (CP) — The secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization said Monday that if there is aggression against West Berlin "we will fight."

Dirk Stikker, the one - time Netherlands foreign minister who took over the NATO post only last spring, said that from a military standpoint Berlin could and would be defended if the crisis reached the point of war.

In a free-wheeling press conference Dr. Stikker also said:

That nuclear warheads should be spread over more NATO countries to improve the bid for gaining position of the alliance;

use of nuclear weapons should be put under NATO-wide control; steps were being taken to improve consultation among members of the 15 power alliance.

Dr. Stikker met Canadian government officials Monday and will talk with Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

He said the talks, covering a wide range of topics, would naturally touch on the possibility of Canada obtaining nuclear arms.

Dr. Stikker said his personal opinion is that there should be nuclear weapons within NATO "in as wide a range as possible" to increase bargaining power of the alliance, but that the control of such weapons should be brought under the alliance as a whole.

He said nuclear testing by France had nothing to do with resumption of testing by Russia, despite what Mr. Khrushchev said.

"We should not pay too much attention to what Khrushchev says. France's little tests don't mean a thing."

Oil company counsel complained of the hearsay nature of this evidence, which was conceded. But the National Automotives Trade Association said station operators are loath to make complaints themselves for fear of economic reprisal.

Chitrol oils submitted results of a questionnaire with the signed names confidential for the same reason, it said.

Oil company counsel said that former service station operators must be available to testify on the truth of the allegations being made. Commission Chairman C. Rhodes Smith said however, evidence is given little weight by the board but can be followed up or supported.

BEES AND HONEY — Wilfrid P. Marvin, Wellington bee keeper, shows little fear of the bees as he prepares to take honey from the hive in one of his five bee yards. Bees on outside of hive are indication of hot weather and hives full of honey.

HONEY EXTRACTOR — Super racks filled with honey comb are seen being put into honey extractor by Mr. Marvin. Extractor holds 30 racks and can be rotated at varying speeds, spinning honey from comb by centrifugal force. Honey is then cleaned and strained before being packaged for domestic sale.

HONEY IN THE COMB—Mr. Marvin displays well filled rack from hive super. Bees clinging to comb were carried in with super and are now without a hive.

Weeds Save Day for Keeper In a Year Bad for Clovers Says Wellington Apiarist

Try to be a bit tolerant all you hay fever sufferers!

Because it is from the weeds which make you suffer that the busy bees obtain much of their late season honey.

In fact, goldenrod, motherwort, thistles and other weeds that mean discomfort for you, mean honey in the hive for the bees and money in the bank for the beekeeper.

Wilfrid P. Marvin, Wellington area apiarist, told The Ontario Intelligencer that the weeds actually save the day for the beekeeper in a year bad for clovers.

And actually a change in farming methods which has seen farmers cease growing sweet clover and alsike in favor of long term pastures, makes honey obtained from weeds all the more important.

HAVE TO BE PAMPERED

Letting the bees gather honey which is later taken from their hives, might seem an easy living for the beekeeper, but don't run away with the idea that keeping bees is the quick and easy way to get rich.

The bees have to be pampered along with a strict routine followed to keep them from leaving home by swarming. And then to cap it all, unless the weather is right the bees would rather stay home in the hive than go out and look for honey.

In such a season the "take" of honey might drop to as low as 20 pounds per hive instead of the 75 or 80 realized in a good year. The average, however is around 35 to 40 pounds of honey per hive.

Normally there are two "crops" of honey in a season. The first crop is the white or clover honey extracted during the last of July. The second crop of dark honey is taken from the hives in September.

A regular attendant on the Belleville market, Mr. Marvin has been in the beekeeping business for over 40 years.

STARTED BY CHANCE

He got his start in beekeeping sort of by chance. One day he chased a flight of swarming bees on his father's farm and captured them after they settled on the limb of a big tree. He has been in business ever since.

There may be anywhere from 50,000 to 80,000 bees in one hive. It takes 556 worker bees to gather a pound of honey and in doing so they will fly over 35,000 miles.

The average life of a worker bee during the working season is about six weeks. Three weeks of this time is spent on work within the hive and three weeks as a field bee gathering nectar and pollen.

RUNS 400 HIVES

And bees are pretty important aside from the value of the honey they make. Their work in pollinating fruits, vegetables and legumes is worth many times the value of the honey.

Mr. Marvin has about 400 hives of bees spotted in five different bee yards. The reason for the different bee yards is that bees will not fly more than three to three-and-a-half miles to gather honey.

But when the hive becomes too full of bees the old Queen will "swarm" taking the older working bees with her. Unless precautionary measures are taken each parent hive will swarm about four times in a season.

PRACTISE DECEPTION

It is here that the beekeeper practises a bit of deception and fools the bees into believing there is more room by adding supers to the hive.

That is the reason that in bee yards the hives seem to be piled three and four high. The upper boxes are the supers which have been added to provide more room for the bees. Each of the supers has nine racks which the beekeeper hopes will be filled with honey.

Along about the last of July when the clover season has ended, the supers are lifted from the hives and taken in for the extraction of the honey.

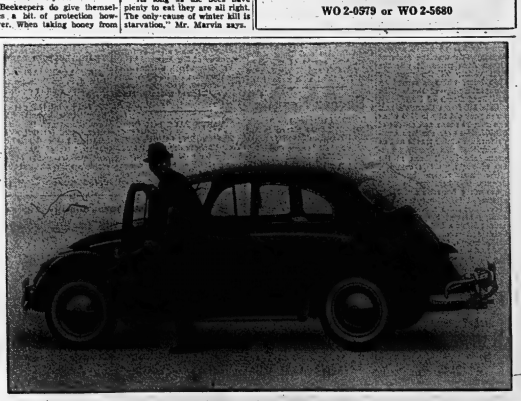
The supers racks are piled into an extractor, the central core of which spins and extracts the honey by centrifugal force. The liquid honey is then cleaned and strained and stored in big tanks from which smaller domestic containers are filled.

KEEPERS GET STUNG

Working around bees all the time and under conditions which make the bees mad, bee keepers get stung just the same as anyone else. They do get immune to the swelling resulting from a bee sting but as Mr. Marvin puts it, "you don't get immune to the pain."

Beekeepers do give themselves a bit of protection however. When taking honey from the hives many wear veils. Some render the bees temporarily "hors de combat" by administration of a special gas, while others still resort to the old fashioned smoke pots to keep the bees quiet.

And after the honey season is over the hives have to be prepared for the winter.



Here, however, Canadian bee keepers have learned to save themselves a bit of work. Years ago the bee hives were kept in the basement or some other place under controlled temperatures. Now they are left right out in the field.

The only protection afforded is to wrap the hives with tar paper to keep out the wind.

"As long as the bees have plenty to eat they are all right. The only cause of winter kill is starvation," Mr. Marvin says.

He bought a Volkswagen for his wife and drove it around the block just for fun. Now he drives it downtown for business. He leaves the big car, with its driving problems, at home and smiles his way through heavy traffic and into pint-sized parking spots. He's the happiest car thief on four wheels.

And why not. His year 'round average is 38 miles to a gallon of gas. He gets better traction on mud and sand because the engine's in the rear with its weight over the drive wheels.

The Volkswagen engine is air cooled. There's no radiator. No water to boil over. (The only water a VW uses is in the windshield washer.)

In summer he avoids traffic, follows the back roads to the golf course. The Volkswagen's unique suspension smooths out bumps and ruts, even at top speed. And on tight corners, it has the handle and feel of an expensive sports car, without the pain of the price.

The new VW engine provides more power with the same gas economy. All four speeds are synchronized. And the extra space under the front hood nearly doubles the car's luggage capacity.

There's no getting away from it. The finest thing a man can do is buy his wife a Volkswagen—one with all the latest improvements as shown now by our dealers. Let her choose between the thrifty Custom and the elegant Deluxe!

Amateur Champion Wins First

Beman, 23 - year - old Arlington Va., insurance man, defeated Harry Allers, 21 - year-old Fort Lauderdale, Fla. champion, with a see-saw brand of golf over the demanding 6,747 yards of the Pebble Beach course.

Moving into today's second round with Beman, where he tangles with Billy Joe Patton in the day's feature pairing, were Walker Cup teammate Bob Cochran, Ronnie Shade, Gordon Hoddy and Brian Chapman of the British Walker cup team and such other known players as Harvie Ward and Bruce Codd.

Jack Westland, the golfing congressman from Washington and captain of the 1961 Walker Cup team, eliminated Keith Alexander of Calgary, the Canadian amateur champion, 5 and 4.

Alexander was the only Canadian to enter the tournament.

Duck Disease Said Waning

WINNIPEG (CP) — An outbreak of botulism that has killed thousands of ducks and other waterfowl in Manitoba appears to be waning, Resources Minister C. H. Witney said Monday.

Mr. Witney said in a press release that ducks in northern Manitoba appeared to have escaped the outbreak. Lack of water in potholes and sloughs forced many ducks to the north.

Botulism is caused by bacteria resulting from the presence of algae in warm, shallow water. They produce poison that affects ducks.

RUM FOR FUEL

"But there's not too much of that going on nowadays," says Elmer, a Royal Nova Scotia Yacht Squadron employee.

Racing crews use a standard design 14-foot dory which is about three feet smaller than the one used by fishermen.

Each year Gloucester is host to the Canadian-U.S. series during its St. Peter's Fiesta weekend which usually coincides with the Canadian Dominion Day weekend. Lunenburg's colorful fisherman's bread - and - butter boat moves and manoeuvres with surprising speed. Anything but easy.

PREPARE FOR DORY RACE — Dorymen at Lunenberg, N.S., take part in elimination trials for the semi-annual double dory championships against an American team from Gloucester, Mass. These international competitions have been going on since 1953 and in that time the Canadians have lost only two matches. The mile-long races in 16-foot dories are held at Gloucester in the spring and at Lunenberg in the fall. (CP Photo).

Sport Snapshots

By ED SMITH

LUNENBURG, N.S. (CP) — Ocean racing rivalry between this picturesque South Shore fishing port and Gloucester, Mass., didn't die with the Bluenose - Gertrude L. Thebaud series.

The semi-annual double dory championships may not have the grace and glory of the spray-dipping schooners of 30 years ago but for wharfside rooters there's nothing like them — even at Henley-on-Thames.

The Canada-U.S. dory battle proceeds anew Sept. 15 with both sides represented by two-man senior and junior teams. Like their schooner counterparts of bygone days, the famous Bluenose Lunenburg dorymen have shown a receding stern to American competition in most past encounters.

The races are conducted on a one-mile, pier-skirting course for seniors; three-quarters of a mile for juniors. Both Lunenburg and Gloucester hold eliminations trials to select their contestants.

The annual Lunenburg Fish-eries Exhibition has featured dory racing for at least 30 years. It was something of an exclusive Lunenburg frolic until 1953 when Lloyd Heisler of nearby Indian Point, the perennial champion, became involved in a friendly argument with a Gloucester fisherman. He challenged the Gloucester man to a two-man team race in U.S. waters.

VICTORS RETIRED

Heisler, now 57, and Russell Langille, 54, beat the best Gloucester had to offer that year and continued to do so several years after. The Heisler-Langille combination, unbeatable in 21 years of competition, hung up their racing oars a few years ago.

The Heisler rowing prowess, however, has continued. Lloyd (Sonny) Heisler, 23, has taken his father's spot in the championship senior boat teaming with Leonard Elmor, 19, of Indian Point.

Garet Heisler, 17, and Lawrence Ernst, also 17, both from Indian Point, are the defending junior champions. The junior class ends at 19.

Both Canadian teams won easy victories at Gloucester last June. Provided they can beat challengers from local competitors Sept. 14, they hope to repeat against the Americans Sept. 15. Canadians have lost only two of the 30 matches so far.

The "ugly duckling" dory is not as much a racing craft as a prairie wheat combine. But with experts at the oars, the Atlantic fisherman's bread - and - butter boat moves and manoeuvres with surprising speed. Anything but easy.

Alouettes Still Seek Quarter

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four Football League placed quarterback Don Allard on waivers Monday and announced that import Joe Francis will have his fling at the job this Saturday.

Allard, who has been on the roster of three other Canadian pro teams, was at the helm as the winless Alouettes suffered their two latest defeats, both by a' fingernail.

The Montreal club was beaten 16-15 by Saskatchewan Roughriders of the Western Conference Friday and 25-24 by Ottawa Rough Riders Sept. 2. The Als have only one tie in six league games.

Allard replaced Nelson Yarbrough, dropped after four games, as the Montreal club continued its search for a quarterback to replace Sam Etcheverry.

Francis was with Green Bay Packers of the National Football League for three seasons but saw little action.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Chic Miss, four - year - old filly which has been having a spotty season, came to Rie at Ohi Woodbine Monday and won the featured Green Acre purse. It was the fifth victory of the year for Chic Miss, which is owned by the partnership of Ronie Glen and Fred Tooch of Buffalo.

Chic Miss was Canada's best three year old filly in 1960 when she won 10 races and purses of $41,965. However she was campaigned on winter tracks and as a result of this gruelling program, she hasn't been at the top of her form this summer.

She was ridden by John Adams, who kept her in third place while Leon K. and Mibbi alternated in setting the early pace. Chic Miss made her run coming around the final turn, caught Mibbi a furlong from the finish and went on to win by half a length. Mibbi was second and Lustrous Hope closed a big gap in the final quarter mile to finish third.

The winner paid $7.80 as she ran the 1 1-16 miles in 1.44 4-5, one second behind the track record.

JOCKEY SET DOWN

MONTREAL (CP) — Jockey Alphonse Coy drew a 10 - day suspension from Blue Bonnets racetrack stewards Monday for his part in a near fatal accident during the Quebec Stakes Saturday.

Coy, whose mount, Fair Juror, started a four - horse spill that unseated leading Jockey Ovila Gomez, was set down for careless riding. The suspension is effective on all North American tracks.

Gomez, who escaped with bruises after being thrown off Oil Can, was fined $50 for throwing punches at Coy after the race ended and owner W. A. Clarkson of Toronto drew a $100 fine for mixing in.

Don Dalrymple Top Shot In Gun Club

Don "Pork" Dalrymple of Belleville captured two trophies and finished third in the other event at the Quinte Trap and Gun Club held its annual club shoot on Sunday.

A large number of entries took part, firing 3700 rounds, despite the heat and a tricky breeze that made the competitions that much more of a challenge.

The high over-all gun for the day and winner of the Kelly Trophy was Don Dalrymple with a score of 91.

Tied for second place with scores of 87 were John Walsh and Doug Johnston, both of Belleville. Pleton's Harry Witt took third place with an 85 score.

The 16-yard trophy was won by Jim Cole of Picton with a score of 48 out of a possible 50. Forty-six competitors took part in this event.

In the handicap event for the LeBait Trophy, Dalrymple again proved to be top man by registering a score of 45 in a field of 58 shooters.

Tied for second place were Gern Sickble and Doug Johnston, with scores of 42, while John Walsh and Harry Leavitt tied for third with even 40's.

Als' Clark Leads Rushing

TORONTO (CP)—Don Clark, crunching fullback of Montreal Alouettes, leads the ground-gainers of the Eastern Football Conference after six games.

Clark has picked up 526 yards rushing in 75 carries for an average of seven yards, official league statistics show. The figures include Sunday's game between Saskatchewan Roughriders and Toronto Argonauts.

Argo fullback Cookie Gilchrist, who has played only five games, is second with 488 yards but leads in average gain with 8.1 yards.

In forward passing, quarterback Russ Jackson leads with 10 completions and average gain. Bernie Faloney of Hamilton Tiger-Cats has a 10.3-yard average rushing in his 374 in the best completion average. Toronto's Tobin Rote is third in average gain with 8.3 yards but has thrown the most passes—137—and picked up the greatest total yardage of 1,133.

Four defenders have accounted for three pass interceptions each: Sutherin of Hamilton, Ottawa's Joe Poirier and George Reed of Argos, and Jim Rountree of the Argos.

Faloney, who has taken over the Hamilton quarterling from Cam Fraser, leads the kickers with a 43.6-yard average. Mann was 43.1.

Ivy Hopes Depend on The 'Rifle'

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Coach Frank Ivy, whose St. Louis Cardinals were the lowest-scoring club in pre - season National Football League competition, is giving quarterback Sam Etcheverry a lot of work this week—and hoping.

Unless the long-time star of Montreal Alouettes regains his passing form, Ivy will be without an adequate quarterback for the Cardinals' home opener against the New York Giants in Yankee Stadium Sunday.

Rookie Charley Johnson, who played the first half as the Cardinals were shut out 27-0 by Philadelphia Eagles Saturday night, was ineffective in the passing department. And Etcheverry, who played most of the last half, threw a boomerang that was intercepted and set up an Eagle touchdown.

Etcheverry, a nine - season star at Montreal, says there's no trace of the sore arm that bothered him early in the training period and that all he needs is more work.

BABE LOOMED LARGER

Through Monday's games, the American League had 707 for 1961 and 1,463 homers. Roger Maris of the Yanks, with 54, has four per cent and teammate Mickey Mantle, with 53, has 3.8 per cent.

Tournament In Tizzy

Tennis Stars Withdraw

TORONTO (CP) — Last-minute withdrawals by two international stars threw officials into a tizzy and muddled the draw when the Canadian national tennis championships opened here Monday.

Edda Budding of Germany, ranked number one in her homeland, was seeded first here but decided suddenly to switch to the Pacific Southwest tournament in Los Angeles.

Yola Ramirez of Mexico informed officials she had decided not to play.

Tournament chairman Dennis Kiersten blasted both for failing to fulfill their agreements.

"I don't know what is the matter with tennis players," he declared. "They treat their word so lightly. We have been troubled every year with top tennis players. We just have to hope that they will show.

"It's our only problem, Percy Jones."

Jones, czar of amateur tennis in California, last year stole several top players for his tournament from the Canadian championships, Kiersten said.

GET ONE BREAK

The worried officials were given a lucky break, however, when Ann Haydon of England, finalist in the United States nationals last Sunday, flew in to Toronto with Mike Sangster and took over top seeding in the women's singles.

Seeded upstarts in the men's singles easily advanced to the second round. Meanwhile, bedraggled marksmen were having difficulty.

Sangster of Torquay, England's biggest name import in the tournament, gave an easy - going promise of things to come by defeating Bob Jacob, Toronto 6-0, 6-2, 6-0.

Sangster, ranked fourth in Great Britain took no chances with Jacob who won the Ontario intermediate tournament at Oshawa Sunday, but seldom ever asserted himself trying for a difficult point.

Third - seeded Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., former member of the United States Davis Cup team, had a similarly easy victory over Yvon Chasse of Toronto, 2nd-seed Quebec champion, as top seeded players moved easily into the second round.

Pinson Closing in On Leader

NEW YORK (AP) — Vada Pinson, closing in on pace-setting Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh Pirates, has an outside chance to become the first Cincinnati player to win the National League batting championship since 1938.

Pinson still trails Clemente by 17 points, but has gained 13 on him in the last two weeks. In last week's games, Clemente dropped three points to .340 while Pinson, who leads the majors with 193 hits, climbed two points to .343.

In the American League, Elston Howard of New York Yankees took over first place from Detroit Tigers' Norm Cash, Howard gained 32 points to .361. Cash fell two points to .361.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In case hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific foundation. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Trudeau Win Over Dougs, Enter Finals

Trudeau Motors climaxed an uphill fight to earn their way into the Commercial softball league finals last night by blanking Doug's Food Service 4-0 at the CNRA Park.

Trudeau open the finals against Lightfoot Construction at the same field tonight, game time 6:45 p.m.

Trudeau won the semi-final series three games to two after losing the first two games of the series.

Day came up with a one-hitter, allowing a fifth-inning single by Kenny McLaren to spoil a bid for his second no-hitter of the season. Day struck out one and walked two while facing only 24 batters over the seven-inning route.

Malloy was also pitching one-hit ball going into the fourth frame when Trudeau erupted for all four of their runs to break up the game.

"Shiner" Murray's single got the rally started while two errors, and doubles by Lyle Wannamaker and Bob Brooks got the runs home.

Malloy gave up five hits in all, fanning none and walking two.

Lyle Wannamaker with a double and single paced the Trudeau club at the plate. Bob Brooks and Bobby Wannamaker added doubles and Frank "Shiner" Murray a single.

Trudeaus: Wright, F. Murray, Whiting, L. Wannamaker, Brooks, D. Murray, Baker, B. Wannamaker, Day.

Billy Reay Helps Buffalo

WELLAND (CP) — Acting coach Billy Reay sent the Buffalo Bisons into a hot scrimmage session here Monday as the American Hockey League club opened its first day of training.

"It's rough on the boys," said general manager Fred Hunt, "but Bill has to do it. We have our first exhibition game on Friday night in Kitchener against New York Rangers.

The Bisons have 26 players attending camp with four players still missing. Ten of the men on the ice come from the Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds of the Eastern Professional Hockey League.

"At the present time," said Hunt, "Reay is just giving us a hand with the coaching since Sault Ste. Marie training won't be starting for a while. He is however, one of the top candidates for the coaching job."

Reay, a former NHL player, coached Thunderbirds last season.

Robinson Can't Win

Lion's Coach Suspended

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions of the Western Football Conference announced Monday night that Wayne Robinson has been suspended as coach.

Robinson, fourth coach of the Lions since the team was formed in 1954, has been guiding the last - place team since 1959.

Announcement of his suspension came after a four - hour meeting of the board of directors. The meeting was called to discuss the Lions' inability to win this year. In seven games Lions have only managed a tie.

The Lions have managed to enter the western playoffs only once since 1954.

The directors' brief announcement gave no indication of what will happen to Robinson who has two years to go on a four-year contract. It is believed that a place will be found for him in the organization if he desires.

Robinson, former manager of Robinson on the University of Minnesota squad of 1949 and 1950. When Robinson picked him up Skreia was assistant coach at Minnesota.

Vancouver Takes Opener

PORT CREDIT (CP) — The faster, rougher west coast style of lacrosse helped Vancouver Norburns to a 13-11 victory over Hastings Legionnaires in the opening game of the Minto Cup finals Monday night.

Second game of the best-of-seven series for the Canadian junior championship will be played here Wednesday night.

The Vancouver team got away to a shaky start, but seemed to get stronger while the Hastings grew gradually faded. In the final 15 minutes the tired Legionnaires were outscored 5-3.

Hastings outshot Vancouver 45-36, but broke down against the netminding of Vancouver's Skip Jolly. Near the end of the game Norburns settled into a zone defence that baffled the Ontario team.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

As the 1961-62 bowling season opens this month 17,000 bowling lanes will echo the crash of strikes and spares rolled by a record 1,800,000 men, women and junior bowlers.

The new season will be the largest in the 69 years of Canadian bowling. To meet the demand for new facilities, proprietors have installed during the last 12 months 2,500 more lanes to brand new or expanded bowling centres. The drive to automation, meanwhile, has increased to 7,500 the number of pinsetting machines installed on Canadian lanes. As a result of this expansion—new centres, more lanes and increased automation—the total investment in bowling facilities has passed the $75 million mark, industry authorities estimate.

Developments which will catch the attention of bowlers this season include the more colorful decor and new equipment in bowling establishments, the surge in popularity of tenpins, and an improvement in teaching methods. For women bowlers there is also a wide choice of new bowling fashions created by sportswear manufacturers and featured by leading department stores.

One million of this season's bowlers will play in regular league games extending over a period of 33 weeks.

Another 800,000 will be casual bowlers enjoying fivepins, tenpins, duckpins or candlepins during afternoons and weekends.

Authorities estimate that 55 per cent of the 1,800,000 bowlers will roll the popular fivepin games, another 19 per cent will prefer tenpins and 16 per cent (mostly in Quebec) duckpins. The remaining five per cent—all in the Maritimes—will stick with the regionally popular candlepin game.

The introduction seven years ago of automatic pinsetting machines revolutionized the atmosphere and economics of bowling. This season, for the first time, a majority of bowlers across the country will be able to roll their favorite games in new or modernized establishments providing the full benefits of these changes.

Since January 1, 1961, Brunswick of Canada, which supplies about 75 per cent of the new lanes and automatic pinsetters in Canada, has equipped over 100 new bowling centres in 74 cities and towns with its latest products.

Silent subway ball returns, color co-ordinated equipment and furnishings, air conditioning and children's playrooms are standard features of most of these new bowling establishments. In Montreal, which leads all other places in new construction, one bowling chain alone will open six new million-dollar centres this fall.

During the last five years, while the total number of bowling lanes has doubled, the number of tenpin lanes has increased eight-fold. This season, tenpin bowlers will roll the big-ball game on 2,400 lanes, including 1,000 equipped with automatic pinsetting machines and 900 with semi-automatics. Many of them will be in new, all-tenpin bowling centres which are setting a new trend in Canada. One bowling chain, which announced in 1960 plans to construct 30 all-tenpin centres will have six in operation this fall—in Toronto, Hamilton, Oakville, Kitchener, Belleville and London. Another new tenpin centre — with 42 lanes—will open in Winnipeg.

To teach tenpins and provide more instruction in other forms of bowling, more and more centres are employing house instructors to give free lessons to beginners. In recent months scores of these instructors have attended clinics conducted by Joe D'Orazio, Nancy McAlpine, Maurice Boyer and other professional experts. The result in 1961-62 will be more strikes and spares and higher standards of bowling across the country.

Tiger-Cats Clobber Unbeaten Esks

First Loss In Eight

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

HAMILTON (CP) — Edmon-Tiger-Cats last season after a spell with Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League, was a big help in breaking Eskimo hearts. He made four interceptions and kicked four converts and a 35-yard field goal.

Johnny Bright and Ron Dudas scored the Edmonton touchdowns, both converted by Parker. Vic Chapman got the other point, a first-quarter single.

Falcney connected on 20 of 32 passes for 343 yards against 14 of 36 for 286 yards by Don Getty and Parker. Hamilton outrushed the Eskimos 187 to 177 and held a 29 23 advantage in first downs.

Wings Oust Leafs in Overtime

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The pennant-winning Columbus Jets begin the International Hockey League's semi - final playoff series tonight when they meet Rochester Red Wings in the first game of the best-of-seven series.

The two winners meet for the Governor's Cup, symbol of the league's playoff championship, with the victor facing the American Association champ in the junior world series.

Rochester made it into the semi-finals by battling 13-11, 10-inning victory over defending champion Toronto Monday night in the first game of the best-of-seven series.

Buffalo finished in a tie for fourth place when the regular season ended Sunday.

A duel of hard-throwing left-handers is expected at Columbus as Bob Veale will be for the Jets and Art Quirk for Rochester. Veale split a 14-11 record, led the league with 204 strikeouts. Quirk finished with a 10-8 mark and fanned 162 batters.

GETS CALL

Ray Washburn, the IL's top winner with a 16-9 leaguer, will get the call for Charleston. He will be opposed by Babe Birrer who won 11 and lost nine for third-place Buffalo.

Rochester Monday night scrambled back from a 7-0 deficit to take a 9-8 lead in the seventh innings. Trailing 11-9 in the ninth, Jim Pisarcik smashed a two-run home run and knocked home the winning run with a single in the tenth. The Rochester second baseman finished the game with four hits and six runs batted in.

All told 42 players, including 17 pitchers, were used by both sides. The wild battle drew 7,-064 fans.

TAKES COACHING JOB

NORANDA, Que. (CP)—Will Cude, onetime goaltending star in the National Hockey League, has signed to coach Rouyn-Noranda Alouettes of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association. Cude took over the team at the close of last season and steered the Alouettes to a league championship in aplayoff series with Timmins.

The magic number for Roger Maris is four. Make it seven for Mickey Mantle, add another for the New York Yankees' charmed digit, and that's the situation as the Babe Ruth-Ruth's home run record and the American League pennant resumes tonight.

After a one - day respite, Maris and Mantle move into Chicago with 10 games in an eight - day period remaining in which to tie or surpass Ruth's homer record of 60 under the 154 - decision allotment decreed by baseball commissioner Ford Frick.

Maris, with 56 homers, is four games ahead of Ruth's record pace of 1927 while Mantle, with 53, has fallen two behind for the showdown stretch. The Yankees have night games at Chicago tonight and Wednesday and a day game Thursday, a twi - nighter at Detroit Friday followed by day contests Saturday and Sunday, a twi-nighter at Baltimore Tuesday and a night game Wednesday.

The Yankees, leading the second - place Detroit Tigers in the American League race by 11½ games, need any combination of eight Yankee victories or Tiger losses to wrap up their 11th pennant in the last 13 years and the first for rookie manager Ralph Houk.

PIERACE TO PITCH

Maris, who has found White Sox pitching the easiest in his chase with Ruth—he's tagged 13 against Chicago pitchers — and Mantle will be hitting against lefty Billy Pierce (14-7), the only moundsman to surrender two homers to Maris in one game, Ralph Terry (13-5) goes for New York.

The Yankees, riding a 13-game winning streak, and the Tigers sat things out Monday. In the only games played, Boston Red Sox walloped Washington Senators 14-4 and Minnesota Twins beat Los Angeles Angels 5-2.

The Red Sox snapped a 4-4 tie in the seventh inning with an eight - run explosion after they had tied it on Jim Pagliaroni's sixth - inning homer.

Chuck Schilling opened the seventh by reaching base on an error. He moved to second when Gary Geiger beat out a bunt and scored the clincher for rookie Don Schwall (15-4) on Carl Yastrzemski's single. Marty Kutyna (6-8) lost.

The Twins scored four runs in the eighth to beat the Angels and rookie Dean Chance, making his pitching debut in the majors. Earl Battey's single drove in Billy Martin with the tying run off Chance before Joe Altobelli's pinch - hit homer with two men on against reliever Tom Morgan won for Camilo Pascual (13-15).

Midget Game Postponed

The OASA Midget "A" playdown game scheduled for Toronto last night between Belleville Booth TV's and the Toronto Legion was postponed because of rain.

The game has been re-scheduled for Fairbanks Park in Toronto on Sunday afternoon.

Toronto leads the best-of-three series one game to none.

GOALIE PROMOTED

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Barons said Monday ,the brilliant performance of spare goalie Les Binkley at the close of last season has agmed him a job as regular netminder for the American Hockey League team. The Barons also announced the sale of goalie Gil Mayer to Providence Reds, also of the AHL.

Only B-A 88 and Velvet 96 gasolines are "Final-Filtered" right in the hose between the pump and your car ... filtered at the last possible moment to ensure maximum cleanliness.

Why did B-A call this "Final-Filtering"? Gasoline does a lot of travelling before it reaches your car. It is shipped from the refinery in a tanker, tastes contra and then tank-trucked to your neighborhood service station.

During the course of regular comparative and quality tests of all the leading brands, B-A engineers found that gasoline picked up impurities in transit. And because the gasoline is consistently on the move, these impurities (extremely fine solid particles) seldom have the chance to settle out.

Oil companies go to great lengths to keep storage and transit tanks clean, but the tests proved conclusively that impurities are present. You can actually see some of the foreign matter.

Impure gasoline, when passed on to the automobile engine, can cause clogged jets, fouled control valves, sticking, scoring, and fast pump damage.

The B-A "Final-Filter" is the positive protection against these impurities which can result in inconvenience and costly repairs.

It is imperative that the gasoline you buy today is filtered, at the last possible moment ... the moment before it enters your car.

All Mr. B-A is done to show you the filter and how it works. And next time you buy gasoline ... choose B-A 88 or 94. B-A "Final-Filtered" gasolines are positively the cleanest, purest gasolines you can buy.

THE B-A "FINAL-FILTER"
This is a cut-away view of the B-A Filter. It is so fine that it removes solid impurities which cannot be seen by the naked eye. This is "Final-Filtering".

11th Inning Homer Did It

Dodgers Move Up, Bucs, Braves Lose

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Staff Writer

Los Angeles Dodgers, trying to hop on a bandwagon in a scramble with the leading Cincinnati Reds for the National League pennant, have received a shove in the right direction from a .220 hitter named Gene Windrom.

Windrom smashed a pinch-hit homer run leading off the 11th inning that beat Philadelphia Phillies 4-3 Monday night and moved the second - place Dodgers 16 within 3½ games of the Reds.

Windrom's game-winner also snapped the Dodgers' three-game losing streak, kept them only one game back in the lost column that has become the key to their hopes of overtaking Cincinnati and ended a brilliant pitching performance by Don Ferrarese.

Ferrarese had hurled seven innings of no - hit relief and had shrivelled his shutout string to 22 innings when Windrom, brought up from Omaha of the American Association in mid-season, cracked his first major league homer and fourth hit of the season in 16 at bats.

IN GROUND

The fourth - place San Francisco Giants gained ground on the third - place Milwaukee Braves by beating Pittsburgh Pirates 4-3 in 10 innings on Felipe Alou's homer while the Braves were losing 6-4 to St. Louis Cardinals.

The Phils, trailing 5-1 after three innings, rocked starter Johnny Podres in the fourth for three runs on Wally Post's second homer of the night and Bob Malkmus' two - run single after the Dodger lefthander had filled the bases on walks. Cruzie Smith's home run in the seventh tied it.

The Dodgers had built their lead by touching Philadelphia starter Art Mahaffey for a run in the second inning when Willie Davis beat out a hit, stole second, moved third on a bad throw by catcher Clay Dalrymple and scored on Podres' single, then pushing up four in the third inning.

Jim Gilliam walked to open the inning and Wally Moon reached first on a bunt single before Ron Fairly clouted his 19th homer of the season. Consecutive doubles by John Roseboro and Willie Davis produced the final Dodger run and sent Mahaffey to the showers.

Ron Perranoski (7-5), third Los Angeles pitcher, picked up the win by blanking the Phils for four innings before the Dodgers finally got to Ferrarese (4-10).

Jack Sanford (11-8) went all the way for the Giants, keeping the bases clear of Pirates by retiring the last 15 men he faced after Dick Stuart tagged him for homer No. 27 and tied the engagement 3-3 in the sixth. Stu was the first man reliever Harry Face (5-6) pitched to when he came on for starter Alvin McLean, who left for a pinch hitter.

Larry Jackson (13-8) checked the Braves' six hits for his fifth straight victory. The Cards clinched the win in the ninth against Lew Burdette (16-10) when Ken Boyer and Stan Musial, both 3-for-4 at the plate, singled and scored on Carl Sawatski's pinch - hit single after a walk loaded the bases.

Kenmors Meet All-Stars In 'Special'

A special challenge game, pitting the South Hastings baseball league champion Carnahan Clippers against Lakeshore League champs, the Belleville Kenmores, has been scheduled for the Belleville Fairgrounds Wednesday night at 8.15 p.m.

Five Clubs Start Training

Hockey In Summer Heat

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

National Hockey League clubs are again vying with baseball and football for a glance from the sports fan's eye.

Five NHL clubs have started training sessions—skating on ice often doomed with roofs of water as temperatures outside reached 90 degrees and up.

To date, Toronto Maple Leafs, Chicago Black Hawks, Boston Bruins, New York Rangers and Detroit Red Wings have started workouts.

Montreal Canadiens open camp Sunday in Victoria.

Detroit is the only other club not training in Southern Ontario. They are sorting out the good and the bad at their home rink in Detroit.

Although practices started only Monday and during the weekend, a couple of casualties are already reported.

The Bruins lost the services of defencemen Dallas Smith for a week or more. He suffered a pulled back muscle yesterday when he reached for a pass during a workout at the Bruins' Niagara Falls, Ont., camp. Toronto's Bob Nevin wound up with a swollen nose Monday when Johnny MacMillan's stick clipped him. The rightwinger doesn't figure to miss any workouts.

"The Stewart appearing to be away ahead of last season in the matter of condition," Imlach said.

Imlach was also happy with the scrimmage performances of veterans Bert Olmstead and Allan Stanley. Stewart had two goals in an intra-squad game and Olmstead one.

Leafs have plenty of rookies on hand but it is expected they'll start the 70-game schedule with almost the same lineup that won them second place in the league race last season.

Chicago coach Rudy Pilous took his charges through almost three hours of high conditioning Monday, that promised a real workout today at their St. Catharines camp.

"We're really going a little early," he said.

A weak spot with the Hawks, defending Stanley Cup champions, appears to be at centre. Stan Mikita and Red Hay are the only playmakers back from last year's team following the trade of Eddie Litzenberger to Detroit and the retirement of Ted Lindsay.

The Canadiens are training away from home for the first time in 10 years. Thirty - one players are expected in camp.

U.S. Davis Cup

Play India on Grass

NEW YORK (CP) — Ap)— There was more bad news today for the reeling United States Davis Cup tennis team—it has to play India in India on grass.

The first of the two interzone matches will be in New Delhi, probably Sept. 29-Oct. 1. The winner there goes on to Rome to meet the Italians Oct. 13-15.

The Americans, their ranks bled by suspensions, school responsibilities and professional raids, wanted to play India in Houston, Tex., on clay. India insisted on New Delhi. A coin was flipped and India won.

The United States has a surefire shot winner on clay in Richard (Pancho) Gonzales, rated the world's best on the slower surface.

The rest of the team is up in the air. Chuck McKinley, the No. 1 player, isn't sure he can get away from his studies at Trinity University in Texas. His doubles mate, Dennie Ralston, is under suspension for the rest of the year.

Cross-Canada Survey

Many Merchants Exhibit Confidence in Future of Warehouse-to-User Business

By CARL MOLLINS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The discount house, an American innovation dedicated to the belief that people don't mind serving themselves if they can get a bargain, has made a multi - million - dollar invasion of Canada.

Some merchants say discount merchandising will revolutionize urban shopping habits on a pattern comparable to the postwar spread of supermarkets.

Other retailers, including a few forced by fashion to jump on the discount wagon, are unconvinced that the cut - price merchandising is here to stay.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows that many Canadian and American merchants are underlining their confidence in the future of the warehouse-to-user business by investing millions.

Dominion - populated Southern Ontario and western Quebec are leading the way. Businessmen elsewhere are "watching the trends, poised to pounce on a share of the trade if it lives up to its boom billing.

NEED MASS MARKET

Montreal, Vancouver, Quebec City and Hull, Que., and such Ontario centres as Toronto, Hamilton, London, Windsor, Oshawa, Kitchener and Brampton are among communities that already have discount houses or will have shortly.

"Any trading area of 125,000 population or over is fertile ground for our type of store," says Ben Rosenberg, president of Towers Marts of Canada which opened a pilot outlet in suburban Toronto last November and plans 30 by 1963.

Towers, Bayrette, Hi n e z, Sentry, Eaton's, Simpson's and Steinberg's Miracle Marts are prominent names on a long list of big firms in the discount stakes. Woolworth's, Kresge's and the Metropolitan Stores are making ready on the sidelines with discount house subsidiaries.

The A. E. LePage real estate firm of Toronto is planning an all-Canadian chain of discount shopping centres to be known as "Treasure Island," with the first one a $2,000,000 project in London, Ont.

In the West, Woodward Stores is watching the situation in the East carefully, ready to jump in if it moves onto the prairies. Atlantic province merchants are braced for a similar shirt exercise.

Many businessmen are operating discount houses to counter the invasion of their territories by the big chains.

In Ottawa, the A. J. Freiman department store has joined forces with wholesale grocery supplier M. Loeb Limited in open two discount "shopping cities", in the capital and one across the river in Hull.

Vancouver's Hamilton Hardware Limited, a long-established wholesale company, has been pushing the retail discount side of the business for the last two years.

Two of the pace-setting firms in Ontario, Towers and Sayvette, are subsidiaries of U.S. firms although a discount pioneer in Toronto, Honest Ed, is a local merchant named Edwin Mirvish who started his Bloor street bargain emporium more than 15 years ago.

Some firms that bill themselves as discount houses in Canada do not really rate under the U.S. definition, specializing in a single line like appliances or offering discounts only on some "loss leader" items while drawing customers toward regularly priced stock.

Methods of operation vary widely, but the big U.S. discount houses and their Canadian counterparts in common slash prices on all items through a wide range of products, from washing machines to safety pins, from stereophonics to toothpaste.

Cuts range from two per cent on such "low-markup items as cigarettes and nine-third or one expensive appliances. The average discount on the regular retail price hovers between 15 and 30 per cent, according to the merchants.

A sampling in Toronto showed a brand name toaster that retails normally at about $21 selling for $9.99 at one discount centre, $9.67 at another. A brand - name teryless shirt priced regularly at about $5.39 was selling at three different discount stores for $4.07, $3.99 and $3.79.

The discount merchants manage to pare prices by keeping range of products, from washing machines to safety pins, from stereophonics to toothpaste.

The discount merchants manage to pare prices by keeping down operating expenses, buying in bulk when possible and depending on a rapid turnover to make up for a slim profit margin.

MINIMUM OF SERVICE

The typical discount house resembles a warehouse with self-service and checkout counters. It is usually located in a low-rent, low-tax area on the outskirts of town and maintains a skeleton staff.

Often it operates on a cash-and - carry basis, sometimes charging for delivery of bulky items. Some stores allow no refunds or exchanges while others set a time limit for the return of goods.

Some discount houses spend next to nothing on advertising. Vancouver's Hamilton - Harvey relies on word-of-mouth publicity. At the opposite pole, Detroit Ed's self-slandering newspaper ads are famous in Toronto. Some enterprises have sold "membership" for $1 to $10 to publicize the business. Others cater "exclusively" to large segments of the population, such as civil servants.

Laws against retail price-fixing aid the discount merchandiser in offering well-advertised products at cut prices. A reluctant manufacturer may be forced to supply the discount houses—or lose them—because he can't afford to remain aloof.

TOO BIG TO FRIGHT

Mr. Rosenberg predicts total Towers Mart sales will climb to-ward $100,000,000 a year by the time the chain is open. "We sell me of a manufacturer who won't sell to a chain like this," he says.

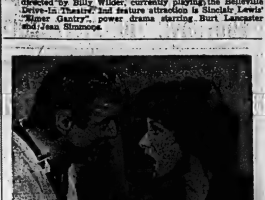
In some cases, manufacturers operate concessions in the discount houses. A U.S. company with designs on the Canadian market, Manufacturers General Merchandise, leases departments to manufacturers with the idea of undercutting the discounters.

Even counting two years will see the opening of scores of mammoth discount houses up to 200,000 square feet of floor space in some cases.

Sayvette, which opened 30, Sayvette has plans for at least 15 stores, including seven open seven stores in Southern Ontario by 1963, Banner plans a Canadian chain of 19 stores by 1963.

Steinberg's is opening nine Miracle Marts in Ontario and Quebec. Eaton's and Simpson's, which threw open sections of their Toronto warehouse - type discount houses, are considering similar outlets in other communities.

Sceptics among conventional retailers say bargain basements and frequent "sales" already cater adequately to the bargain-hunter. M. M. Wocks, secretary of the Manitoba Retail Merchants Association, says that "by watching the newspaper sales ads a consumer can generally get bargains that are as good or better than the would receive by shopping regularly at discount outlets."



The Better Business Bureau in Toronto admits that with the spread of discount houses it feared a higher incidence of advertising abuses, such as indications of a discount where there was none. However, a spokesman says the bureau is "favorably surprised" after a close watch. Test - shopping on a comparative basis disclosed no cases of fraud, the bureau found. Complaints from customers have been negligible.

Some businessmen forecast that the discount house will eventually will outlive their usefulness by forcing a general price reduction. Norman Richardson, owner of the Canadian Discount House in London, Ont., predicts that "in 15 years there will be no such thing as a discount house."

On the other side, Morry Winegold, whose Toronto-based Winegold Construction Company backs the Banner chain, is confident that "the discount operation is going to completely displace the neighborhood shopping centre in a few years."

AT THE BELLEVILLE DRIVE-IN — Shirley MacLaine, as an elevator girl, is given a big play by Jack Lemmon, an IBM operator for an insurance company. "The Apartment", as directed by Billy Wilder, currently playing the Belleville Drive-In Theatre, and feature attraction is Sinclair Lewis' "Elmer Gantry", power drama starring Burt Lancaster and Jean Simmons.

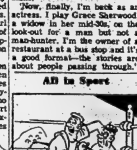
With Few Exceptions Big TV Stars Are Men

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Whether you like television may or may not be, it is still a man's world. Estimates of the proportion of employed actors compared with actresses run from a conservative 6 to 1 to 15 to 1.

The reason for this, of course, is the classic format of weekly show. Producers like unmarried heroes for the action shows. Then they hire one pretty girl a week to drift into and out of the hero's life. With very few exceptions, the big stars of television are men.

This approaching season will be no exception, while is even tougher than usual on actresses who appreciate steady employment. One of the chucky few who have landed a solid, regular part is new series is Marilyn Maxwell, the blonde singer of scores of movies.



WON'T SING

It will come as something of a surprise to those who remember her as playing pretty blonde straight man to assorted comedians, including Bob Hope, but Marilyn will play a non-singing dramatic role in ABC's Bus Stop series, based loosely on William Inge's hit play and subsequent movie of the same name.

"It's funny," reflected the actress, "but I was trained and started out as a dramatic actress. Then they found I could sing, said people began thinking of me as an actress who could sing. Then, during the war years when I did so much travelling and entertaining the troops, people started thinking of me as singer who could act, and play straight lady comedians.

Now, finally, I'm back as an actress. I play Grace Sherwood, a widow in her mid-30s, on the road out of work, not for a man-hunter. I'm the owner of a diner and at a bus stop, and it's a good format—the stories are about people passing through."

John Wayne Rides Alone As New King of Hollywood

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — John Wayne rides alone as the new king of Hollywood actors. He refuses to accept this title.

"Hollywood really are king Clark Gable," Big Duke gruffly reminds. "And now that he and Gary Cooper are gone, I'm just a lonesome cowboy, nothing more."

Duke is the sole survivor of that triumvirate, a vanishing breed of rugged he-men who are bigger-than-life heroes of the screen.

Two of the most likely successors to the group are Burt Lancaster and Rock Hudson but neither wants it.

PHYSICAL POTENTIAL

Wayne once said that Hudson appeared to be the only one of the younger crop with the physical potential to challenge the rugged screen heroes.

With the success of such films as Tender Comfort, Pillow Talk and Come September, it looks like he is going the Cary Grant route — and there's nothing wrong with that.

The third is a possibility except that he suffers too much. Some call it over-acting, a trait unknown in Wayne, Cooper and Gable.

PREFERS COMEDY

James Garner is another possibility but his forte is comedy also. Tony Curtis is virile but in comic rather than serious way.

To put it another way, Would the public buy Curtis riding alone into the sunset after a ramp of six gunfights? Not to tell of a wartike other?

Of the foreign stars, Richard Burton possesses all the virility needed but he's too good an actor. The same could be said of Marlon Brando, Alec Guinness, Errol Flynn and William Holden.

AT THE PARK — Dolores Michaels stars with Alec Ladd in the action packed "One Foot in Hell", a Technicolor Cinemascope Chemascope, Dalluro Color release now at the Park Theatre. Don Murray, Dan O'Herlihy and Barry Cox are also starred. On the same program in Technicolor and Cinemascope is "Last Male Love" with Marilyn Monroe and Yves Montand. The complete show starts at 7.30 p.m.

AT THE PARK — Singer Frankie Vaughan, pre-war star of the London stage, is the hilarious Jerry Wald production "Let's Make Love" in Technicolor and CinemaScope. "One Foot in Hell", starring Alec Ladd and Dolores Michaels. One complete show starts at 7.30 p.m.

Cards Win Peewee Title

The Cardinals captured the Peewee softball championship with a 15-11 decision over the Sox last night.

The Cards had built an early 15-7 lead but almost blew it when the Sox rallied for five runs in the seventh and final inning.

Denard was the winning pitcher, although he got help from Graves in the seventh. Wilson was stellar receiver.

Astrological Forecast

BY CARROLL RICHTER

General Tendencies: The early morning finds delays and possible depression unless you realize the planets are testing your amiability. However, the afternoon and evening bring you a splendid chance to uncover whatever may be amiss in your life and to make quiet plans to replace with a better course. Investigate what you don't savvy.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Be certain you carry through with any obligations to partner in A.M. The latter part of the day is then fine for putting into operation any new plan which you have devised together. P.M. concentrate on romance and happiness.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Spend morning getting small tasks and duties out of the way quickly. Later, confer with associates so that you can make the future more profitable and pleasant. Be sure to step out to dinner in P.M. and then to some amusement you enjoy.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Concentrate on being less extravagant where entertainment is concerned during A.M. and be sure to set up a better budget. Then you will comprehend your work better and can plan the future more wisely. P.M. brings health treatments.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Be very careful or your actions during A.M. so that you do not annoy any family ties. Harmony at home is vital at this time. P.M. fine for stepping out and enjoying yourself as you see fit. Choose the right companions.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Drive carefully this morning and also think before you speak so that you do not hurt anyone. If you bring home little jobs to P.M., you can establish greater harmony at home, which is most important at this time. Be relaxed, too.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Be sure you know what your true condition is with regard to monetary matters today and then hit on a plan that will increase regular income. P.M. get together with fascinating friends for an evening of fun and frolic.

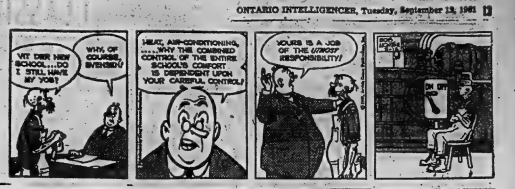
Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Morning is not good for concentrating upon serious things and finances. However, after lunch and through the evening are fine for all such and you can make great progress.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Silently go about investigating whatever is puzzling in A.M. Later, confer with key persons and state your aims. P.M. fine for sociability and having a wonderful time. Dress nicely and be very friendly with all.

Sagittarius (Nov. 2 to Dec. 21) — Don't permit that friend to take you out when you have to spend a great deal of money that you can't afford to part with right now. Later is fine for being with those who are close to you for inexpensive and happy sociability.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Look to getting a higher credit rating in A.M. and increasing prestige. Later is fine for getting together with good comrades for a happy time at the hobbies mutually enjoyed. Also, meet new and interesting people through them.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Be careful not to forget your duties in order to have a good time or go after the ephemeral. Meet your obligations conscientiously. Also, handle any outside duties intelligently later and get the approval of higher-ups. Expand.



Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) —Don't follow hunches during A.M., since they are erroneous. Keep busily occupied at regular work and don't feel sorry for yourself. Letter part of the day and evening are fine for garnering data you need and making new contacts.

If your child is born today . . . he, or she, will be one of those intelligent youngsters who seems to have an almost uncanny insight into the thinking and acting of others, plus the ability to hit on the right solution to any existing problem. Hence, be sure you give as fine an education as possible, stressing the subject of psychology. The psychiatrist, investigator, doctor, teacher are all in this chart.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plates slipped, dropped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do you live in fear of this happening to you? Then sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the dentalkline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Feel much more secure. Eat and talk more comfortable. Good taste. No gummy, pasty feeling. Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

Last February when no one else was interested in filling the post left vacant by the previous president, a woman who quit her job. (CP Photo)

UNION LEADER

Judy Kirkham is just 17 but she's the president of a union local. She took charge of Local 1090, Textile Workers Union of America, at Guelph, Ont., last February when no one else was interested in filling the post left vacant by the previous president, a woman who quit her job. (CP Photo)

Since then she has taken part in contract negotiations with the Ronson management that resulted in a three-cent hourly wage boost.

"No one else wanted the job so I said I'd take it," said Judy.

Her mother, Mrs. Jessie Kirkham, said: "I thought she was foolish to accept it because she was so young, but I asked myself 'why not let her try?'"

Judy wasn't entirely strange to the world of labor. Her mother is recording secretary of Local 37 of the National Union of Public Service Employees at the Guelph Hospital where she is a maid in the nurses' residence.

Her late father was active in the United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers Union of America, and his brother, Reginald, 32, is a foreman at the Ronson plant.

Judy's main jobs as president are to be chairman of membership meetings, conduct union meetings and discuss grievances with management. She has already had many grievances for her to discuss yet.

She found a spring weekend the job.

Dominion-Provincial Meet Hopes for Agreement High

By DON HANRIGHT

OTTAWA (CP) — Hopes for agreement were high today as the Dominion-provincial constitutional conference entered its second and final day of its fourth meeting in less than a year.

Progress and "a lot of new thinking" was reported by some delegates and Justice Minister Fulton, although remaining sensitive on some points, said only one major issue remained to be settled.

If that could be done today, attorneys-general would be able to leave the meeting with firm recommendations to their governments. In turn this could lead to legislative action by the 11 governments next year.

Approval of such measures would give Ottawa the necessary agreement and the right—certain to be accorded by the United Kingdom Parliament—to make all amendments to the British North America Act in Canada instead of pleading each time for Westminster's okay.

Rights Issue

Although all delegates declined to discuss the outstanding issue for reporters, it appeared that it was the question of the rights of provinces whereby a province can shift its jurisdiction if some field such as education is deemed to be for a stated period.

The Ottawa government has contended that three provinces besides the one affected should concur before such delegation. Ontario said at the outset of the conference that it feels only Ottawa and the province concerned should be involved. Quebec has taken the backing of Manitoba and Saskatchewan in this argument.

If this in fact was the outstanding issue, it would indicate that Saskatchewan has visited on the other major issue — entrenchment of parts of Section 92 of the BNA Act which list the basic provincial constitutional rights.

Entrenchment in the conference sense means that these rights could not be amended except by unanimous consent of the 10 provincial legislatures and Parliament. Saskatchewan has been reported keen to protect the provinces' jurisdiction over property and civil rights should not be entrenched.

Gillis and his supporters want to return to the Canadian Labor Congress and Mine-Mill's rival United Steelworkers of America (CLC) is ready to help by taking over the Sudbury operation.

Meanwhile, Tony Soden, a member of the District 2 board, has sent a letter of resignation to Sokil, claiming that the executive is not following a policy for the benefit of the locals, but is following the dictates and programs of [illegible] president Smith."

Smith said he understood that more than 6,000 members of Local 598 have signed a petition requesting a free vote on the national executive.

Violence accompanied a truce-tieship move by the national executive Aug. 28 when supporters of the national office seized control of the Sudbury local's headquarters.

Chief Justice J. C. McRuer ruled last Wednesday that the trusteeship was improper. He handed control of the local back to Gillis brothers.

Mine-Mill was ousted from the CLC in 1949 amid disputes with the Steelworkers and Communist domination. The Communist issue does not exist today, Mine-Mill officials from the national offices since May.

The 1,200-strong Mine-Mill local at Port Colborne started similar action last week.

Herbert Hoover at 87 Still Puts in 10 Hours a Day Writing, Helping Charities

By SAUL PETT

NEW YORK (AP)—In 1957, when he was 83 years old, Herbert Hoover went out to Independence, Mo., to help dedicate the Harry Truman Library on a hot July day.

For an eternity, he sat in 91-degree heat and a flow of oratory.

After the ceremony, a local matron, grabbing with unlocking flattered up to Hoover and asked what ex-presidents of the United States do with all their time.

"Madame," said Herbert Clark Hoover, "we spend our time taking pills and dedicating libraries."

Like all Hoover humor, the joke was delivered dead - pan from a square, apple-red face. But under the wispy brows, a faint twinkle lurked behind the misty blue eyes—the look of a man who could no longer be surprised, shocked or hurt, by the frailties of man.

RECORD BENEFIT

None of the country's three ex-presidents — Hoover, Harry Truman and Dwight Eisenhower—spends much time on pills or ceremonial dedications. All remain busy men. Of the three, the oldest appears the busiest.

At 87, Hoover still puts in more than 10 hours a day at his desk in his hotel apartment, writing books, writing and rewriting speeches and letters, and helping to raise money for various charitable and educational institutions.

Such activity would be remarkable for any man of 87. It is even more remarkable for this man who was supposed to have been finished 26 years ago.

Herbert Hoover left the White House of 1933 during the long, dark agony of the depression, in which a majority of Americans was persuaded he was chief villain. He left at a time of deep bitterness, the butt of a shouted bitter jokes.

According to one, President Hoover approached his secretary of the treasury, Andrew Mellon, for the loan of a nickel to phone a friend. Said Mellon: "Here's a dime; call all of them."

BROKEN MAN

He left the White House, it appeared, a bitter and broken man. At least one friend didn't expect him to live another year. His critics were certain he would never be heard from again in public and even Republicans were convinced he was a stone-dead political liability.

Since then, however, Herbert Hoover has not only survived but flourished in productive work and public esteem. There now is great affection where there was little before.

He has handled, with great praise, four major assignments at the behest of Democratic and Republican administrations: made hundreds of widely-attended speeches and written 12 books. Most of this was done after he passed the age of 70.

At 83 and writing in pencil, he undertook a four-volume series titled An American Epic, an exhaustive report on non-governmental American charity for the rest of the world in the last 45 years. He now is at work on a history of foreign affairs, including the cold war period.

REMAINS ALERT

At 87, he remains alert, keen, productive, profoundly interested in world and national affairs, and a remarkable practitioner of intense concentration in work or play.

At a baseball game, he keeps his own box score. He frowns on diversionary conversation during as he does during an evening of canasta with friends. All canasta debts, incidentally, are always paid that evening. Sometimes the bill runs as high as 50 cents.

He writes his own speeches. He has never used a ghost writer as a private citizen or in his long years of government service as food administrator in the First World War; secretary of commerce in the Harding and Coolidge administrations; president, from 1929 to 1933; famine relief coordinator after the Second World War; and chairman of the two monumentally comprehensive study commissions on organization of the U.S. government.

At 87, he still gets up to work in the middle of the night when the spirit or idea moves him. Out of deference to his age, Mr. Hoover no longer rises at 6 a.m. now he gets up at 7.

Herbert Hoover has much to do and cherishes his time. In the words of a friend, Mr. Hoover is an "old man in a hurry."

HAD BUSY YEAR

On a recent birthday, he held a rare press conference, in which it was disclosed that in his 85th year, he had: attended 76 public functions, made 20 speeches, answered 21,195 letters, received 23 awards, travelled 34,000 miles, made TV appearances, held assorted cornerstones, worked on his books and raised $1,500,000 for the Boys Clubs of America, of which he is chairman.

"I hope," he said, "you will conclude I have not ceased work."

Hoover is not the sort of person who lectures anyone. But his ideas of public service are rigid, without compromise. To ask who ask about a career as a "politician," he usually suggests they replace the word with "public servant."

His passion for brevity is legendary. The reason he does all his writing in pencil, he says, is because tape recorders, dictating machines, smooth-flowing ballpoint pens are all "stimulants to verbosity."

He recounts his speeches with the hunger of a perfectionist. Once, at 76, he wrote 29 separate drafts of a speech before he was satisfied.

Hoover rarely talks about himself, rarely reveals the inner man. He remains an unusually shy, reserved person.

WAS ORPHAN

"He has a great sense of discipline," said a friend. "He was an orphan. He is a Quaker. He is not accustomed to weeping on anyone's shoulder."

When Mrs. Hoover died in 1944, it was clear the ex-president felt the loss profoundly. But he said little to anyone.

And so it is in his friends, there are those who say he has been changed, even embittered by the altered public image of him since 1933. Others say the human warmth was always there.

In any case, the "public attitude has changed and Herbert Hoover has acknowledged it in his own way, in small private ways.

On a recent summer afternoon, at a resort in California, about 100 campers came out to pay their respects at Hoover's cabin. The former president was moved to remark, to a friend: "You know for the first time I came here after leaving the White House, only two people turned me out. And there I was, soaked in through the woods so nobody would see them."

After 27 years of intermittent government service, Hoover has turned all his federal salary cheques over to charity, including his $25,000-a-year presidential pension. He had made his fortune as a mining engineer early in his career. He gave away all his governmental income, he once explained, to acknowledge a "great debt" to this country.

ABLE TO SAVE

"America provided me with an education, including a profession," he said, "I practised that profession in years when there was no income tax or only a small amount. I was able to save a competence."

Motivated in many ways, Hoover still clings to one habit-mark. He still wears a business suit, shirt and tie even when fishing or vacationing among the California redwoods.

He is still lyrical on the subject of fishing. He is fond of quoting from an Assyrian tablet of 2000 B.C., which says: "The gods do not subtract from the allotted span of men's lives the hours spent in fishing."

Fishing, he says, "is a chance to wash one's soul with pure air, with the ripple of the stream and the shimmer of the sun on the blue waters. It brings meekness and inspiration from the glory and wonder of nature . . . charity towards tacklemakers. It brings mockery of profits; the quieting of hate and lift of the spirit."

The Gambia, Snake-Shaped Little Country, Is Slowly Nearing Independence

By ROD CURRIE

LONDON (CP)—The Gambia is a snake-shaped little country on the western bulge of Africa that is slowly moving toward independence.

It is a poor and backward country with its economy almost entirely based on the growing and exporting of groundnuts, or peanuts—and groundnut oil. But S. J. Forster, Gambian British officer here, says comparatively ambitious economic and social changes have started to evolve in the last few years.

"Steps are being taken to introduce other crops and studies are under way towards irrigation for better use of land."

It will achieve complete internal self-government after the general elections set for next May and independence will be determined by the Gambians after that. British officials have estimated it will come about two years after home rule.

CAN'T EXIST ALONE

But the governor, Sir Edward Windley, commented recently that the accident of nature "created The Gambia too small and too ill-endowed with natural resources to develop economically in isolation."

The Gambia consists of 4,000 square miles spread inland along the River Gambia from the Atlantic and bordered on three sides by Senegal, a member of the French community.

The basis of the country's peculiar shape was established years ago when the British guaranteed the various chiefs protection within 10 miles of the winding river. The British-French boundaries commission followed this general outline when the border was set in 1912.

The Gambia has happy relations with Senegal and with the United Kingdom and is expected to seek Commonwealth membership after independence.

LOOKS TO SENEGAL

Hugh Fraser, undersecretary of state for the colonies, recently told the House of Commons that he felt the Gambia should do all possible at an economic level to make contacts with Senegal. But he made it clear he could not envisage a situation in which the United Kingdom's government would consent to the merger of The Gambia with another territory, unless it was abundantly clear that this was the will of the Gambians.

Following this, officials of Gambia and Senegal met to deal with common problems, especially in the field of communications, and to plan greater co-ordination of services. Senegal uses the River Gambia to ship goods to the coast and pays a nominal fee to Gambia.

The capital is Bathurst, located on the coast at the mouth of the River and the centre of what business and natural life exists in The Gambia. The city, where the Queen will visit Dec. 3, consists of mostly two- and three - storey buildings, parks, beaches, a hotel and a movie house. There is but a small white population—mostly British civil servants, private British residents and a few French people connected with commerce.

NO POVERTY

Forster said that although the standard of living is not high "there is no actual poverty or want."

The population of Bathurst and the colony in which it is located is a mixture of different races and creeds. But the population of the rest of the country, the protectorate, is made up mostly of indigenous peasant tribes who still cling to the native law and customs.

High among these people that great strides are being made in the introduction of improved farming methods. The ox and plow are gradually replacing hand digging and swamp rice is being developed as an important second crop in the bid to overcome the annual "hungry season" between the planting and the harvesting of groundnuts.

Teacher training and the building of schools are another major development sponsored by the United Kingdom colonial development and welfare department which has contributed more than £2,700,000 since 1945.

STRENGTHENS DEFENCES

MOSCOW (AP)—The Communist Warsaw Pact nations announced Saturday night they are strengthening their military defences because of what they called stepped-up military preparations by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

INTRODUCE OXEN — Farmers attending a training school at Massembe in the Gambia prepare cattle food in a hand mill. The ox and plow are gradually replacing hand digging as the British government helps prepare the African colony for self-government.

'Boy Next Door' Is Shy

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—I am a 17-year-old girl from the country and I just moved into the city to live with my brother. I don't know anybody around here my age and it is very lonesome.

I do know the neighbor next door. She has a 20-year-old son who is very shy. I would like to get to know him but the most I can do is wave back whenever he waves at me. I know he likes me but is too shy to say anything.

How can I get introduced to him? I never have any parties or anything like that so I can't invite him over.—LONELY.

DEAR LONELY:—A girl from the country probably has some household skills with which to be neighborly. If you can bake a tasty cake or pie, make one for your brother and an extra for the lady next door. The next time you make cookies, put some in a little candy box for friend neighbor. Ask her in for tea.

Do nothing directly at all about the young man. Fellows young man he is and may feel ages older than you. You will attract him best by having other friends. Start to know other young people in town by joining your "Y" or church group, or a hiking club.

* * *

DEAR DORIS:—You suggest that married couples who disagree should talk things over. When I try to do this my husband thinks I am trying to start an argument. After a few harsh comments he walks away or goes out. He says he doesn't want to be "tattered at."

You also say: "Don't both get mad at the same time." On the contrary, it is always my husband who loses his temper. It is only by continual giving in on my part that I am able to restore peace.

Things are getting worse and I feel I must talk to someone. May I have your suggestion?—REGINA.

DEAR REGINA:—I don't advocate being a doormat. The person who yields a point is often the most mature but it is not good for the childish one constantly to get away with tantrums.

Where arguments are the only outcome of "talking things over," you do need a new counselling service. Make some on a straight fee basis. They are saving marriages. For guidance, contact your Children's Aid Society, 63 West Moira Street, Belleville.

Ness Monster May Have A Brother

BASSENTHWAITE, England (AP)—Scotland's Loch Ness monster appeared today to have a brother or sister, or maybe just a cousin.

Anyhow, J. F. Moffatt, of nearby Thornvaite, has reported seeing one in Lake Bassenthwaite.

"It was about 13 feet long," said Moffatt in an interview. "It had three humps and a head like a python."

Lake Bassenthwaite is four miles long, nearly a mile wide and about 70 feet deep.

After a 90-minute search, their bag was:

"I'm still convinced the monster's there," said Moffatt."

Defence Chief Tips Hand On Nuclear Weapons

Harkness Says Forces Must Have Good Arms

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons went through a full day of intense, earnest debate Tuesday on the country's defences but failed to get an answer to the question which now dominates all others here:

Will Canada's armed forces be equipped with nuclear weapons?

Defence Minister Harkness told the House the government's policy is that the forces should not have to face a potential enemy with inferior weapons—something that has been said before—but otherwise gave not what the Opposition felt to be a clear answer.

After delivering the opening statement in the debate on his department's 1961-62 spending estimates, Mr. Harkness sat inscrutably through a long series of speeches touching on the nuclear arms question.

Opposition speakers argued against acquisition of nuclear weapons. Paul Hellyer (Trinity) and Walter Pitman (NDP—Peterborough) also suggested that the government is trying to condition the Canadian people to the acceptance of such weapons.

Late Tuesday night, in what was considered a significant opposite tipoff to government intentions, two Conservative MPs made strong statements in support of acquiring nuclear weapons. Both received enthusiastic desk - thumping applause from fellow Conservative members.

Lucien Cardin (C—Richelieu-Verchères - Richmond), said Canada should accept the fact that countries having "the best punch modern science can provide."

Ralph Campney, Vancouver Kingsway, said every nation in NATO needs only "a little strength" to withstand Russian aggression and this could be accomplished "quickly" under defence weapons.

It was the first time Conservative MPs have made such forthright calls for the acquisition of American nuclear arms.

And the applause with which the two speeches were greeted indicated the government will have little trouble rallying its majority party behind nuclear weapons if it decides to acquire them.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced Feb. 20, 1959, that the government had decided not to acquire nuclear weapons from the U.S. He said then that defensive weapons would be made for a ground - to - air missile scheme which was being worked out when they are armed with nuclear warheads.

Mr. Diefenbaker has never retracted this statement — despite repeated requests by External Affairs Minister Green to accept acceptance of nuclear arms by Canada, and despite pressure from the U.S. over the question of nuclear arms.

In Tuesday's debate, Associate Defence Minister Sevigny said Canada could not use all possible weapons at its disposal in order to destroy the threat of manned bombers which may still attack our shores.

Bomarc missiles — Fort William) said nuclear weapons should be restricted to those which could be used to save them.

John R. Matheson (L—Leeds) said Canada must refuse nuclear arms if it wants to avoid any influence with new nations.

He said Canada has defence policy "by proxy." The policy has been established at NATO headquarters or somewhere else but not in Ottawa.

Will Accept If Match Held On Golf Course

FORT WILLIAM (CP)— Mayor E. H. Reed says he'll accept a plowing match challenge from the mayor of Belleville, provided it is held on a golf course.

Mayor A. McLean Haig has invited Mayor Reed to a plowshare duel to help promote plowing matches at Belleville in October.

Mayor Reed said "the only plowing I do is on the golf course — I'll accept if that's where they'll hold it."

Order Strikes Ended as Soon As Pacts Made

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers today ordered local unions to end strikes at General Motors factories as quickly as possible if "at-the-point" working agreements.

At the same time, the UAW called off a Thursday meeting of its General Motors conference which had been summoned to wrap up a new three-year contract with the world's largest automaker.

The union urged intensification of local-level bargaining "to reach sensible and satisfactory solutions to local problems at the earliest possible date."

It said the GM conference meeting was being delayed to permit local union officers to remain at their plant bargaining tables.

Ninety-odd plants out of GM's 129 were made idle by strikes in support of local-level working agreement demands.

Local-level agreements have been worked out at 43 GM plants since walkouts began Monday. But none of the plants are back in operation.

The strikes shut off the flow of new 1962 model cars which let just started to come in volume from assembly lines of the highly integrated GM empire.

The GM conference was postponed to a date and time to be announced later.

The GM conference's scheduled 11 a.m. EDT meeting had been considered, in effect, a deadline for local-level settlements.

Space Capsule Put in Orbit

CAPE CANAVERAL (AP) — A Project Mercury spacecraft capsule "artificial astronaut" rocketed into orbit today and reentered the earth's atmosphere at about one swing around the earth.

If the capsule is recovered safely from the Atlantic after a 110-minute whirl around the earth it will mark the beginning of an all-out U.S. drive to send a human astronaut into orbit within a few months.

A 85-foot rocket hurled the craft into an orbit at a speed of 17,320 miles an hour at an altitude of 100 miles above the earth.

Bolted inside the nine-foot-tall bell-shaped capsule was a grey box called a crewman simulator which will "breathe, sweat and talk," much as a human passenger would during flight.

The test planned 3½ years are for a chimpanzee, then a man, to be rocketed into orbit, hopefully—but not likely—by the end of the year.

Russell Returns to Brixton Prison Where He Wrote Philosophy Book

LONDON (CP) — Bertrand Russell, 89, his wife, love, war and disarmament have made him loyal followers and ardent critics, seeking today to view the world once again from behind bars.

The third Earl Russell is no stranger to Brixton Prison, having served a seven-month term during the First World War for attacking the United States army in a pacifist publication and for publicly denouncing conscription.

Russell, 89, his wife, and 30 other members of the Committee of 100 were sentenced Tuesday when they refused to be bound over to keep the peace—in connection with demonstrations against nuclear arms. A court heard evidence about a march and sit-down planned for Sept. 17 in Parliament Square where 10,000 people were expected.

Russell, 89, his wife, and 30 first sentenced to two months in the dock. Russell, because of his physical condition, was taken straight to the prison's hospital wing helped into government-issue pyjamas and put to bed.

TORNADO DEALS LETHAL BLOW — The staggering backlash of hurricane Carla spawned a lethal, pre-dawn tornado in Galveston causing extensive damage, death and injury. Police, digging through the mounds of collapsed homes, said they saw what they believed were six bodies. Between 50 or 80 persons suffered injury. (AP Wirephoto).

Texas and Louisiana Start Staggering Task of Repairing Hurricane Damage Computed in Hundreds of Millions

GALVESTON (AP)—Areas of Texas and western Louisiana in watery ruin turned today to the staggering task of repairing the damage left by hurricane Carla, one of the mightiest ever to roar out of the Gulf of Mexico.

With a possibility more bodies may be found, the death toll stood at 15 along 250 miles of coast line laid waste by hurricane gales of 150 miles an hour, raging seas and a rash of tornadoes. Damage when may take months to compute ran into hundreds of millions of dollars.

Added to the monumental recovery chore were problems of polluted water supplies and companion health threats in scores of towns and cities, some still under as much as eight feet of flood threats posed by heavy rains in Carla's wake were another factor.

Also ahead was the return home for most of an estimated 500,000 people who moved inland as Carla approached, a mass migration averting much heavier loss of life.

Ten of the deaths occurred as the dying winds of Carla hurled back tornadoes after the hurricane's centre was many miles inland. Finally shorn of its vicious gales, remnants of the giant tropical storm moved northeastward out of Texas toward Missouri.

In a telephone conference Tuesday night, President Kennedy told Texas Governor Price Daniel the directors of the Office of Civil and Defence Mobilization, Frank Ellis, would arrive in Houston tomorrow to inspect

Aussie Ambassador To UAR Victim

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — A French Caravelle jet airliner crashed into a ravine near Rabat Monday night and burst into flame, killing all 77 persons aboard.

A spokesman for Air France, operator of the plane, said the victims included the Australian ambassador to the United Arab Republic, John Quinn; Mohammed Boucetta, a member of Morocco's foreign ministry; Princess Salmi from the oil rich sheikdom of Kuwait; three Americans and two Russians. No Canadians were listed aboard.

Most of the victims were believed to be French and Moroccans.

The twin - jet Caravelle was bound for Paris from Dakar on a landing in a heavy fog and was in contact with the Rabat control tower.

FLAMES ENGULF WRECK

Flames towered from the ravine as firemen desperately sought to reach the crash scene, which could only be seen from the air.

The plane was to have discharged some of its passengers at Rabat and continue on to Casablanca, the last end of its flight.

The Caravelle, named the Ibaren, was the newest in Air France service. It had begun carrying passengers only May 26.

Air France said it was only the second fatal crash of the medium - range Caravelles. A Scandinavian Airlines Caravelle crashed in Ankara, Turkey, Jan. 20, 1960, killing 34 aboard.

The Caravelle, which has its two jet engines mounted on the fuselage just in front of the tail, first went into service in 1959.

Canada Expresses Worries Over British Entry Into EEC

ACCRA, Ghana (CP) — Finance Minister Donald Fleming expressed "grave apprehension" Tuesday over the effects on Canada and other countries if the United Kingdom joins the European Market.

He told the Commonwealth economic ministers conference the prospect of such a move is already beginning to have effects in the trade and investment plans of businessmen and governments.

Fleming, leader of the Canadian delegation, was the opening speaker as the three-day conference on Ghana's modernistic-designed law school began closed-door discussions on world trade and balance of payments problems.

He also said the United States recovery since February—more rapid than most had anticipated — will be a buoyant influence on Canada and the rest of the world. Canada's economy was also rising but not so dramatically.

Fleming gave this as one of the main reasons for optimism about short-term economic prospects for world trade. But he said Britain's move to open negotiations on Common Market entry was one of several factors which gave pat cause for complacency about the longer-term outlook.

Referring to the prospects if British associates herself with the European European trade bloc, Fleming said that although the United Kingdom decision to join would not have its full effect for many years "it will also have—indeed it already is having to have—effects on the decisions of businessmen and governments in regard to their plans for trade, investment and economic expansion."

P.M. Committed to Accept Nuclear Arms Says Douglas

TORONTO (CP)—New Democratic Party leader T. C. Douglas claimed Tuesday night that Prime Minister Diefenbaker was committed a year ago to accepting nuclear arms, but withheld the information from the public.

"The Federal Government has been playing a shell game with the people to the acceptance of nuclear weapons," the Saskatchewan premier said in an interview. . . .

It was sheer fantasy to suggest that Bomarc missile bases were being built without some previous commitment on fitting the missiles with nuclear warheads.

"Freedom from want and fear is social and economic democracy," he said. "We haven't got it."

In an address earlier to the Street Railwaymen's Union convention here Mr. Douglas said the greatest deficiency in Canada today is lack of purchasing power in the hands of the low-income group.

He called for a vigorous new direction of production and public ownership to "restore democracy and wipe out want in Canada."

TANKS, TROOPS RESTORE ORDER IN REPUBLIC

OAS Caravan Chased by Crowds

CUIDAD TRUJILLO (AP) — Tanks and troops restored order today after rioting by opposition political groups left four dead and more than 20 injured.

The violence was sparked by the arrival Tuesday of a four-man committee from the Organization of American States. They are investigating the possibility of lifting some of the diplomatic and economic sanctions on the Dominican regime that took over after the assassination of Generalissimo Rafael L. Trujillo last May. The opposition fears this would entrench Trujillo's heirs in power.

Some of the OAS envoys took their first trip into the downtown area Tuesday night and saw French-made tanks rumble through the streets.

There were conflicting versions of what happened near Duarte Bridge over the Ozama River around noon Tuesday, when a crowd of about 5,000, mostly from a nearby working class neighborhood, gathered to greet the OAS delegates.

BLAME POLICE

Opposition eyewitnesses claimed armed forces and plain clothes men from the General Information Agency — formerly the Military Intelligence Service — jumped out of their unmarked car and fired pistols and automatic rifles into the crowd.

But Col. Marcos Jorge, chief of the national police, said an air force sergeant, Victor Hugo Cruz Hernandez, was angered when the crowd pelted his car, and emptied his revolver into the demonstrators. He was killed by automatic rifle. Cruz Hernandez was turned over to civilian authorities, Jorge said.

The OAS caravan was chased by a mile ahead of the cars. Some carried placards deriding the OAS representative, Ellsworth Morrland, for accepting a medal from Trujillo.

Rolling With Punch of Hurricane, Man Cuts Toll From 6,000 to Nil

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — Sixty-one years ago almost to the week Isaac Cline hopped into his buggy, whipped up the horses and raced along Galveston Beach crying that a hurricane was coming.

While hours began a terrible two days during which the hurricane which Cline detected washed out about 6,000 lives on the island of Galveston.

Two days ago a still more powerful hurricane threw its Sunday punch at Galveston.

Hurricane Carla covered 90 per cent of the island with water deep enough in some places to hide automobiles.

But reports indicate that no persons died as a direct result of the hurricane in the city, although it took more than 40 lives after the hurricane passed.

What happened? Have hurricanes become tired old men no longer able to batter a city into ruin?

Not at all.

The men himself that has, in a way, tamed hurricanes by rolling with their punches.

Man began to react to Carla long before the hurricane was expected.

Weathermen spotted a suspicious disturbance in the Caribbean.

Carla was named, and from

UN Troops Seize Katanga Control In Bitter Fight

Irish UN Representative Asserts Secession Over

ELISABETHVILLE (Reuters) — United Nations troops seized control of Katanga in bitter fighting today and declared that the province's self-proclaimed secession from the Congo government had ended.

Heavy losses were reported on both sides in the fighting here and in other parts of the mineral-rich province but the UN troops appeared to have gained control of most key installations.

(Katanga radio, monitored in Johannesburg, said 37 people were killed.)

Ireland's Conor O'Brien, chief UN representative in Katanga, said: "The secession of Katanga has ended. The whole Congolese province run by the central government in Leopoldville."

Tshombe, reported to be trying to make his way to the neighboring British protectorate of Northern Rhodesia, said that only Tuesday night the UN had "gave me a solemn promise they would not act against the Katanga government or disarm her troops."

INVASION PLANNED

O'Brien said the UN had acted to prevent a civil war between Katanga and the central government. He said the Congo national army had planned to invade and occupy Katanga.

O'Brien declared that a high commissioner was on his way here from Leopoldville to complete the restoration of law and order in the central government area.

Kimba told newsmen: "I was the man who proposed to the UN secretary general Dag Hammarskjoeld that Katanga and the province's finance minister also was taken into custody.

But Interior Minister Godefroid Munongo, one of Mr. Tshombe's strongmen in Tshombe's cabinet, was reported to have escaped to Northern Rhodesia.

Woman Might Have Been Dead Before Stabbing

OTTAWA (CP) — Andre Crispin, 25, Tuesday pleaded not guilty to a charge of non-capital murder in the 12 - man Supreme Court of Ontario jury trial presided over by the chief justice of Ontario.

The charge carries a maximum penalty of life imprisonment.

In opening testimony Dr. R. C. Munkittrick, a Minnesota pathologist, said the cause of his six stomach stab wounds complicated by "near coma" in Mrs. Parent's death. Dr. Jean Parent's death. Her nude body was discovered in a bed in a downtown room.

Coroner Dr. W. T. Kendall testified he found no external signs of bleeding on Mrs. Parent's body or blood on the bed sheets when he examined the room. However, there was "considerable evidence of a murderous brawl."

Defence lawyer Kenneth C. Binks asked whether the woman might have been dead before she was stabbed.

The trial continues.

West Berliners Expect Airport 'Incidents'

CP from AP-Reuters

BERLIN — The Communists may try to interfere with Western flights to Berlin after staging incidents at this old German capital's airports, say West Berlin officials.

Communist East Germany already claims the right to control the air corridors into this city 110 miles behind the Iron Curtain, a claim challenged by the United States, British and France.

West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt's office reported Tuesday it had learned of plans to sneak East German agents into the crowds of refugees and others at West Berlin's Tempelhof and Tegel airports during the next few days.

The agents would throw themselves on the ground and shout: "I don't want to be kidnapped."

The East Germans claim that many of the refugees who streamed into West Berlin before the Communists put up a wall through the divided city were lured by Western intelligence agents and spirited away by air to West Germany.

Ulbricht told Soviet Premier Khrushchev in Moscow last week that the Communist plans were reported by members of the East German military forces who defected recently.

More escapes from East Berlin were reported here today.

An East German police patrolman stripped to his underwear and hopped into West Berlin Tuesday night, swimming safely to West Berlin.

Brandt said several other persons successfully fled during the night.

Parliament At a Glance

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Monday, September 11, 1961

The Commons opened its first debate of the marathon parliamentary session with the definite government statement on whether it will arm the armed forces with nuclear weapons.

Defence Minister Harkness said government policy is that Canadian forces should not be required to face a potential enemy with inferior weapons."

Liberal defence critic Paul Hellyer said the government has started a campaign to "wear down" Canadian resistance to acquisition of nuclear warheads.

He said Monday's statement represented that increases in radioactivity have been detected in Canada since Russia's resumption of nuclear tests but these increases are considered serious to public health.

UN TROOPS

Gunfire still echoed throughout Elisabethville several hours after the UN began its ceasefire at 4 a.m.

Katanga troops held out for half an hour outside Kimbe's home before UN troops broke in and rescued him.

Thombe had traces of blood on his clothes as he denounced the UN action in the second hideout outside Elizabethville.

Despite UN promises Tuesday night, he said, officials of the world body informed him early this morning that all remaining three of his ministers and would be taken him (Thombe) to Leopoldville.

The UN has been putting strong pressure on Thombe to meet with central government Premier Cyrille Adoula to settle the secession issue. Thombe has refused to go to Leopoldville to meet Adoula and also rejected an invitation to go there to meet UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold.

Thombe said his officers had brought orders to him saying the UN appeared to be occupying strategic points throughout Elisabethville and that Fighting was going on at other places outside Elisabethville.

O'Brien told reporters that UN forces would continue to occupy the points they had taken and that further measures will be taken to restore peace in the city.

He said the fighting broke out at the post office here when Katanga soldiers refused to surrender their arms. He said the Katangese started it.

O'Brien also said that the Indian commander of the company which attacked the post office reported one of his men killed by gunfire from the Belgian Katangese, about 150 yards from the post office.

Local Headquarters expressed extreme hostility to the UN troops during the fighting. They carried out the evacuation of wounded Katanga troops and refused to allow a UN ambulance to help them.

Scouting activities

By CHRIS F. LEGGAT

15TH BELLEVILLE

During the summer both Cub Packs spent a weekend camping at Sagnasaka. Twenty Cubs with eight Leaders attended each camp.

Four Cub Leaders, Mr. Gord Rosien, Mr. Bill Bateman, Arnold Welsh, Stan Terry, and Scout Alan Le Green took Gilwell courses.

S. M. Bud Bateman has been transferred to Labrador for fourteen months. Bud has been a wonderful Scouter for many years and we will miss his genial smile and faithful leadership. All good wishes go with him and a sincere hope he will return to his Troop when the year is up.

A.C.M. Betty Smith, another faithful Leader with years of experience will be absent until the first of the year.

Al Green will take the Troop over and from all accounts will prove to be an excellent Scoutmaster.

NEW OFFICERS

At the annual group committee election the following executive were elected: past president, Ken Huntley; Chairman, Jack Keeley; Vice Chairman, Drury Denyes; Secretary-treasurer, Tony Jaschinski; District Council representative, Bud Walters; Members H. Woods, Vern Riley. Additional members will be appointed later.

14TH LIONS GROUP

A number of boys visited Ottawa and were very interested in the Royal Mint.

The group colors have been changed from Cub and Scouts will wear neckerchiefs of solid gold.

It is to be that these two items are related to each other? (Note: Gold is the color of the Lions Club.)

storm-ravaged areas.

The governor said Galveston and, inundated Texas City, on the mainland nearby, "right now appears to be the greatest need for additional disaster help from the standpoint of food, health and emergency security."

Rolling toward the coast was a 36-car special train taking 132 men and 80 vehicles to restore telephone service disrupted by the hurricane, half of them in Houston.

A special force of 5,400 repairmen from five states was sent into the stricken area.

NAVY SENDS HELP

National Guardsmen, civil defence and local officials doubled back into devastated industrial centres and small places Tuesday night as bags filled, winds and rains diminished.

Many residents who fled overheard will be permitted to return until water, sewer and power service are restored.

One of the more dramatic scenes was in Galveston, an island city cut off from the mainland since Saturday and scarred by a tornado before dawn Tuesday.

A convoy of 78 National Guard troops rolled into the battered city. It took them three hours to travel the 50 miles from Houston, at times creeping through three feet of water covering the roadway.

Four persons died in a tornado striking at Galveston, La., Tuesday. It levelled at least two dozen houses and several persons were injured, officials said. Several other twisters dipped near Galveston Island but only killed four-weeks-old Nancy Ann Simon in the town of Kaplan.

Public Works Game Up on City Hall

The Diamond Dicks of the Public Works softball squad may not boast "soup and fish" but they possess they were gentlemen and sportsmen.

It seems they won a protest over the City Hall club on a player's ineligibility, but they generously declined to claim the game, offering to play it over.

And it appears sportsmanship pays off. For the "Workers" went out there and hung a stripping city on the scoreboard. When the smoke had cleared the score was 9-0 for the bellydoser crew.

Stu Finkle hurled for the winners while Al Jones and Captain Frank Howard for two runs in the first and second, one in the fifth and returned to plate for a four-run burst in the fifth.

The Diamond Dicks play tomorrow night at the Alemite Field starting at 6.15 and should the Workers be in the mood for a repeat for the Hallers.

Rodney Sharpe Not Guilty of Charges Laid

The jury returned a verdict of not guilty in the Supreme Court of Ontario this morning against Rodney Alexis Sharpe, charged with being in possession of safe breaking equipment and burglary tools.

A verdict of not guilty was submitted on both charges.

The Honorable Justice J. L. McLennan told Sharpe he was fortunate and said, "you are going to get a reprieve day, just as sure as anything, mark my words."

The jury retired at 10.30 a.m. and returned to the court room with its verdict of not guilty at 11.40 a.m.

Justice McLennan thanked the jury members for their services in the case. He told the members of the jury before they retired that the key word in the case was "possession." He said there was no evidence that Sharpe's fingerprints were on any of the contents of the box or bag nor was any evidence introduced that he knew what was in the box and bag.

Kiwanians Taken On Alaskan Tour By Barrister

Local Kiwanians were taken on a verbal tour of Alaska and the Yukon by local legist Robert Pringle at the club's meeting. His address the speaker advised that his topic was not that of "Development of the Canadian North" as advertised in the club's bulletin.

He begged the members indugence in not pursuing this lopsided topic inasmuch as he felt only three-point could speak authoritatively on the subject. Two of these, he said, were Robert Temple and Les Grills, eminent local citizens. The third was a Mr. Diefenbaker, whom, the Belleville barrister said, he had not met.

The only fact he felt he could personally claim in respect to the Canadian North, the speaker admitted with his usual wit and candor, was that he had been able to acquire the money to take a trip to the area.

Placing his listeners in Whitehorse in as many seconds as it required hours by air flight he gave an interesting description of the capital of the Yukon, noting that it was an expensive place to live in, and then hiked down the trail of '98 to the port of Skagway.

This town, which is about 100 miles from Whitehorse, was the point at which the prospectors of the Gold Rush embarked on their way to fortune or famine. The port is maintained as much as it is as close as possible to the form it had during the Gold Rush days. The ridiculously jolly maintain this atmosphere, Mr. Pringle noted, and there is such a museum.

Gold mining, in much the same form as it was conducted during the turn of the century, is still carried on in the creeks of the Yukon, and the Kiwanis area imparts a sense of grandeur and vastness and the trip is a very worthwhile venture he concluded.

For those wishing to do a bit of hunting, there are trips somelike trips arranged with guides, horses and equipment provided the affluent Nimrod at $75 a day, with him contracting to a three-week stay at the minimum.

Past President George Tripp thanked the speaker, who had been introduced by Lorne McDougall. The meeting was presided over by president Bob Brain.

Son-Hungry 'Poppa' Gets Twin Girls

Up to a few days ago he was the father of three girls, Carol, Heather and Janet.

Thompson and his wife, the former Annette Steeves of Kingston, were expecting an addition to the family.

"This is it," gloated Thomson, "I know it's the boy."

Later, said the soft voice over the telephone, "Mr. Thompson, I am happy to announce that you are now the proud father of twin girls."

They said when they brought him to he was muttering "I drew a pair. . . I drew a pair."

Mrs. Thompson and the twin beauties are doing fine. "Poppa" has declared open season on anything that resembles a stork. He will be normal, relatives say, in a few days.

Town Councillor Of Deseronto Is Charged

Councillor Ronald Marks, 29, was arrested Tuesday by Provincial Chief Kenneth Hunter and charged with driving while his licence was suspended. Bail was set at $150.

Unable to raise bail, Mrs. Marks, 25, invested $5 in a bingo game with a grand prize of $575. The odds were good but the luck wasn't. Marks was arrested by his wife, the former Essie Houston, and two sisters, Annie Scarsville and Margaret Westlake.

Mrs. Marks laid her husband's license was suspended several months ago after he was in an accident with a train.

By-Law Given Only 2 Readings
Although originally scheduled to receive all three readings, Monday's by-law setting out new maximum speed limits for arterial roads, was actually only given two readings by city council.
The by-law will now go to Toronto for approval, before coming back to council for its final passing.
The council agenda called for the by-law to receive three readings but at the last moment the third reading was omitted to allow the by-law to go to Toronto.
West Dundas Street residents have bitterly opposed any increase in the speed limit despite the fact that increased maximum has been recommended by the Department of Transport.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—The industrial index reached a new high in light morning trading today, with gains in foods, banks and refining oils leading the market up.

The index, which hit a record Tuesday, touched 607.12, up 1.1. This is the highest point the 20-stock market indicator has been since its initial compilation in 1934.

A few individual stocks also reached new highs, among them Ford of Canada and Crown Trust, both up 1¼ or more, and Investors Syndicate A, ahead ¾.

On index, industrials rose 1.31 to 607.12, golds .01 to 90.04 base metals .54 to 202.36 and western oils .27 to 97.30. The 11 a.m. volume was 675,000 shares compared with 430,000 at the same time Tuesday.

Gold trade was light with Hollinger ahead ¼.

Mining trading was steady.

On Tuesday, the industrial index had its largest gain since Aug. 1, setting a new high in moderate trading.

The index, a 90 - stock cross - section of market leaders, closed at 605.81, ahead 3.82. Base metals rose .54 to 202.82 and western oils .17 to 97.12. Golds slipped .54 to 90.03. Volume was 2,061,000 shares compared with 1,759,000 Monday.

Widespread fractional advances among steels, utilities and refining oils contributed heavily to the general industrial rise. Algoma, Dominion Foundries and Steel, Ford of Canada, Bathurst Paper B, Investors Syndicate A and Walker - Gooderham reached new highs for the year in moderate to heavy trading.

The day's best group was refining oils, with rises in a point going to Interprovincial, Canadian Oil, Texaco, Trans Mountain, Pembina, Canadian Husky and Imperial.

Mining trading was steady amid generally declining prices. In the senior list, Ventures, Goodfish, Consolidated Cosco and Labrador all fell in the ¼ to ½ range, while in the minors, Area gained 23 cents and turned over more than 153,000 shares.

Gold trade was light, with Hollinger ahead ½. Western oil trading was weak with Home A and B, Dome and Pacific Petroleum up as much as 35 cents, while Great Plain had a rise of $1.25.

England's Dairy Queen Has Fondness for Cheddar

A young English milkmaid visiting Ontario in her role as the 1961 Dairy Queen for England and Wales, has a preference for Canadian Cheddar cheese over the English variety.

"I don't know why, but I just seem to prefer the Canadian cheese," stated the English dairy queen, Miss Jean Walling, as she visited briefly in Belleville at the Black Diamond cheese plant.

Miss Walling, in company with Mrs. Valerie Boyd, public relations officer with the National Milk Publicity Council of London, is spending three weeks in Canada in her role as the current English dairy queen. Today she spent an hour touring the local cheese plant before going on to Kingston.

Miss Walling has no time for sleeping in in the morning. She milks the 14 cows by machine before she starts out on the milk delivery route to deliver milk to domestic customers. The balance of the milk is sold to a milk plant.

Practically all the feed fed to the cows is purchased in concentrate form, rather than being grown on the farm.

Yesterday Miss Walling visited in the Peterborough area while today she was met by area fieldman E. W. Henderson and taken to the Black Diamond plant where she and Mrs. Boyd were met by plant manager Don Joss and other company officials and taken on a tour of the plant. Agriculture Representative Sidney McDonald, Stirling, also was on hand to greet the British dairy queen.

Role of Monarchy Pondered As UK Considers Entry Into European Economic Group

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP) — As British gropes uncertainly toward closer links with Europe, the Island thought occurs: What happens to the Queen?

What, in other words, will be the position of the British monarchy if the United Kingdom enters the European Economic Community?

A thoughtful Englishman put the question to a Canadian reporter on the way back to London after the Vienna summit conference. There seemed to have been a conspiracy of silence, a gentleman's agreement that the question was best left alone.

Now the silence has been broken. British newspapers are anxiously pondering just what will happen to the Crown and all the cherished mystique it has when Britain takes the fateful leap across the channel.

The Sunday Express, published by Lord Beaverbrook who has opposed the European idea from the start, takes a gloomy view of the possibilities.

THRONE WOULD VANISH

"If the Commonwealth were to disintegrate, the throne's most valuable modern function, the chief pillar on which it now rests, would disintegrate too. It is difficult to believe that there could be any other result than the virtual disintegration of the throne itself."

The Daily Express joins its Sunday stablemate, lamenting the prospect that the Crown might be stripped of its majesty and glory to make way for a new order in Europe.

Another Conservative newspaper, The Daily Telegraph, is more hopeful. It notes that no depreciation of the dignity of the Crown has taken place in Holland and Belgium, both EEC countries.

It says that if the U.K. entered a European federation, the Queen would be the head of the social order, "and therefore of the state in all those aspects in which its separate identity is preserved."

The Daily Telegraph's weekly counterpart, The Sunday Telegraph, says that Britain's island history has conferred upon it a kind of "political virginity" unknown to the nation's prospective partners in the EEC.

Once the marriage takes place, says The Daily Telegraph, the British constitution may continue to work but perhaps never will be broken. The British monarchy cannot be compared with that of Holland, Belgium or Luxembourg—"it is part of ourselves, and it may be that if we cease to be so much ourselves some virtue will go out of it."

More Volunteer Workers Needed

All divisional chairmen had optimistic reports to give to the Belleville United Appeal Campaign Committee which met Monday evening to appraise the initial progress of the 1961 campaign organization to date.

Especially noteworthy was the report of Mr. A. O. Drysdale, chairman of the national corporations division that a number of donations have already been received from companies contacted within his division. Several of these donations have been in excess of previous contributions, Mr. Drysdale said.

Doug Burr, chairman of the publicity committee, stated that both radio and newspaper publicity has been generously accorded. A half hour "kick-off" broadcast is to be made over radio station CFBQ on October 15th to start off the campaign.

The need for more volunteer workers was again emphasized as being quite urgent and a renewed request was made for civic-spirited citizens to come forward and offer their services.

A one-evening training session for each division is planned with a final workers' rally to be held on October 18th.

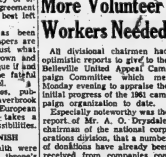
25 Permits Issued

TRENTON — Trenton's building inspector, William Anderson, said today that his department had issued 25 building permits during August and that these new buildings and building repairs were valued at $83,310.

Five permits were issued for the erection of new dwellings, valued at $50,130. Dwelling repairs for which 14 permits were issued were valued at $27,140. Commercial repairs, involving replacing the entire front of a business, furniture repairs, were set at $4,000. Three permits were secured for the construction of new garages, value $1,350, and one sign, value $600, was erected.

In July, 12 permits, value $73,272, were issued and in August, 1960, there were 30 permits, valued at $61,246.



Lumber Company Fire Quickly Extinguished

TRENTON — Around 4 p.m. Tuesday afternoon, the Trenton fire department was called to the Hancock Lumber Co. at Gardenville, where fire, which is thought to have originated in a pile of sawdust behind a planing machine, had broken out. The large storage building was filled with dense smoke. Workmen at the plant had the fire under control when the trucks from Trenton arrived. Damage was negligible. A few months ago an early morning fire at the same property destroyed a lumber storage warehouse. Loss at that time was estimated at around $100,000.

Jerry Bennett New President Of Toastmasters

TRENTON — Jerry Bennett was elected 1961-62 president of the Quinte Chapter of Toastmasters International at a dinner meeting in the Gilbert Hotel at Trenton last night. Administrative vice-president is Leo Seguin; education vice-president, Lorne Johnston. Tom Miniscalla will act as secretary, Jim Hoyt is treasurer and the sergeant-at-arms will be Bill Longin.

Donald Rose, retiring president, will continue to work with the executive.

Toastmasters International is an educational organization. Members aim at self-improvement, especially along the lines of self expression. Time for public speaking is allotted to each member at meetings and three to five members are asked to give addresses at each weekly meeting. Members are encouraged to develop their executive abilities. Constructive criticism is offered to each speaker.

There are more than 3,000 clubs, located in every state in the United States, and in advance in Canada, and in 34 other countries.

Diefenbaker's Speech Received With Caution

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Politicians and diplomats in the world's capitals reacted cautiously Tuesday to Prime Minister Diefenbaker's suggestion that Berlin be turned into an International city under the eyes of the United Nations.

Generally they found that much of what Diefenbaker had to say had been bandied about before. But Diefenbaker's speech on Berlin in the Commons did contain some positive steps, spokesmen said.

An official of the French foreign ministry declined to comment on the record. But he said the Big Three would not refuse to consider any proposal that would safeguard West rights in Berlin, particularly liberty of access.

In Bonn, capital of West Germany, a government spokesman said Diefenbaker's suggestion followed similar proposals made earlier.

He said a West German foreign office spokesman declared recently that such a proposal gives rise to a multitude of problems going far beyond a solution to the Berlin crisis.

Diefenbaker said there are several roles the UN could play in Berlin—as a promoter of an agreement on the embattled city by focusing world attention on negotiations, as an observer to verify any agreement, or as an agent to operate an international city government.

The prime minister suggested that putting Berlin under UN control would be "a step forward in the assurance that if (East-West) negotiations failed, the United Nations would have something to which it could give its attention."

The Bonn spokesman said the proposal has been made before but "it contains some positive points."

In Washington, U.S. diplomatic sources said the inclusion of the UN representatives in Berlin might be considered as part of the Western negotiating position. But the West would refuse in current circumstances to turn over to the UN the guardianship of West Berlin freedom.

A spokesman for the British foreign office in London declined to be drawn out on Diefenbaker's proposal. He also said it was one of several ideas put forward recently.

British officials privately stressed there has been a firm Allied agreement not to go into details of proposals by individual Western leaders before negotiations take place between East and West.

Mike Mansfield, the Democratic majority leader of the U.S. Senate, criticized the Western powers for delay in making firm proposals of a solution to the Berlin problem and called Diefenbaker's suggestions "very commendable."

"The prime ministry's suggestion of international building under the United Nations is along the same lines that I have proposed and believe they still have merit," Mansfield said in an interview.

ROLLING

that moment weathermen watched her as carefully as if she were a maniac with a gun.

Isaac Cline and his brother, Joseph, were pioneer weathermen. They had few instruments to help them, certainly no airplanes or radar.

They watched the tides, the colors of the ocean and cloud formations. Wise in the ways of the Gulf of Mexico, they knew nature was about to strike.

It was noon last Saturday that the weather bureau issued the warning that kicked off the greatest exodus in United States history.

So evacuation was added to advance, long-range warning to keep the death toll remarkably low for one of the most powerful hurricanes in gulf history. Many towns were ghost communities when Carla passed.

Warning without evacuation is meaningless. Four years ago, Cameron, La., received warning but many people refused to leave. Hurricane Audrey took 390 lives. This time they got out.

CAC to Move Into Field Of Testing

TORONTO (CP)—Whether or not the Canadian Association of Consumers should move into the field of testing is expected to be the most controversial subject discussed today at the group's 14th annual meeting.

Although the CAC has produced several "buying guides" in its bulletin, it has never done actual testing and does not mention brand names.

In an interview at the three-day meeting, CAC president Mrs. A. F. W. Plumptre of Ottawa said the testing would merely expand CAC's program and would not interfere with its regular educational program for consumers.

Although cost would be of concern, the program would be adopted "gently" if CAC members decided to enter the field, Mrs. Plumptre said the Consumers' Union of the United States, which sells reports for consumers, is interested in helping the CAC and would consider printing a Canadian edition. She said 50,000 copies a month of the U.S. report are sold in Canada.

STAFF OVERWORKED

At present the CAC has three staff members and most work is done by volunteers. "We are overburdening our staff and volunteers and need to expand anyway," she said.

In the business session Tuesday members were told that meat inspection is mandatory for slaughter houses exporting meat from province to province or out of the country.

Regulations concerning meat inspection were expected to be put before members today.

In another report Mrs. R. W. Morningstar of Toronto said a heavy supply of butter, cheddar cheese and skim milk powder is a "costly burden to taxpayers." Since price support for butter was set at 64 cents a pound, production had increased, the surplus had increased and annual per capita consumption had decreased. She said the policy is injurious to producers because the high retail price encouraged the use of alternative spreads as a substitute for butter.

EXECUTE THIEF

MOSCOW (AP)—The leader of a gang that stole raw silk from a state factory was executed by shooting in the Moldavian Union Republic, Izvestia reported today. The report said Raschid Tomayev organized a series of thefts of bales of raw silk valued at 28,000 rubles ($28,000).

RUSSELL

who believes there is no God and no life after death, has been termed a muddle-minded eccentric and the greatest living Englishman after Sir Winston Churchill.

It was while he was in Brixton before that he wrote one of his more than 40 books—"Introduction to Mathematical Philosophy." His pacifist attitude had also led to termination of his lectureship at Trinity College, Cambridge.

The rise of the Nazis caused him to modify his views. "Hitler," he had said, "is really rather a ruffian and if I were young enough to fight myself, I should do so."

A visit to Russia in 1920 also had caused him to revise his views on socialism and he returned home, convinced there was corruption inherent in the Communist system.

Russell, a winner of the Nobel Prize for literature, was barred from an appointment to City College of New York in 1940 after he was denounced as an enemy of religion and morality because of his writings on marriage, sex relations and trial marriage.

75-Foot Tee Roof Slabs Weighing 24 Tons Placed

Single Tee roof slabs 75 feet in length — the longest manufactured to date at Wilson Concrete in Belleville, were swung into place yesterday at the new Finkle Machine Company building at 64 West Dundas Street. The roof slabs weigh 24 tons each.

The new concrete block structure, 75 feet in width by 105 feet in length, provides over 10,000 square feet of floor space without an obstruction.

Thirteen of the eight-foot-wide roof slabs will cover the entire roof area which will be made watertight with the application of a built-up roof.

WALMSLEY — RIKLEY

On Saturday, August 19, at 2.00 p.m. in Tabernacle United Church, Belleville, a very pretty summer wedding was solemnized by the Reverend Harry M. Davis, pastor of Bridge Street United Church, when Diane Marie Rikley, of Foxboro, Ontario, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Rikley, was united in marriage to Ross Clifford Walmsley, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Walmsley, of Belleville. Lovely baskets of gladioli adorned the chancel and white satin bows designated the guest pews.

Miss Margaret Hillis, of Belleville, soloist, sang before the ceremony. "O Perfect Love," and the "Wedding Prayer" during the signing of the register. She was accompanied at the organ by Mr. S. Alec Gordon, organist of Bridge Street United Church.

Given in marriage by her father, the radiant bride wore a lovely floor-length bridal gown of pure silk organza over taffeta, featuring a princess fitted bodice with rounded neckline accented with sequin appliqué. Her satin headdress held her butterfly veil of silk illusion tulle, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white shamelias.

Mrs. Robert Philp of Stirling, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Joan Onderdonk of Carrying Place, and Mrs. Gordon Mcgeaghey, sister of the bridegroom, of Belleville. All were gowned alike in pale green silk organza fashioned in sheath style with overskirts. They wore net headdresses with matching rosettes and carried bouquets of white and yellow gladioli.

Miss Lynn McGaughey, niece of the bridegroom, was a demure little flower girl in white nylon with pale green sash and bandeau, and carried a basket of yellow feathered mums.

Mr. Jan Genaja, of Belleville, attended the bridegroom as best man. Mr. Robert Garrison and Mr. James Green, both of Belleville, ushered the guests. The male attendants wore white trousers and navy jackets.

The reception was held in the church hall, where the bride's table, appointed in the traditional nuptial fashion with three-tier wedding cake, topped with white wedding bells and lily-of-the-valley, and flanked with bridal bouquets, made a pretty picture.

The bride's mother received the guests, attired in mauve crepe de chine with white accessories, and corsage of white 'mums. Assisting in the receiving line was the bridegroom's mother, who wore a paddy-green gown of organza in sheath design, with matching accessories, white hat, and corsage of yellow 'mums.

Mr. and Mrs. Walmsley will reside upon their return at 212-A Charles Street, Belleville.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A small civic theatre built as an annex to the Queen Elizabeth Theatre here has been named after the Indian poet and artist, Pauline Johnson, who died here in 1913.

May Attend Farewell Presentation

BONARLAW — On Friday evening friends and neighbors met in the hall to bid farewell to spend the evening with Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hillis, as they are now residing in Stirling.

After a program of music and recitations, Mr. and Mrs. Johnston were given chairs as gifts, when the Rev. Mr. H. Hillis acted as chairman. An appropriate address was read and Mr. and Mrs. Johnston were presented with a beautiful chrome kitchen suite.

The senior Bible class presented Mrs. Johnston (their teacher) with an English revised Bible engraved with her initials.

Mr. W. Thompson showed slides of the village at Spring-brook and other scenes.

Mrs. George Williams read in community singing.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnston graciously thanked their friends and all were invited to visit them at Stirling.

They will be greatly missed in the church and community.

Do You Yearn to Be Hero in Your Own Home?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Do you yearn to be a hero in your own home?

Here are a few tested suggestions. Just read them over the man-of-the-house is your own responsibility and guaranteed to make every other husband in the block your mortal foe.

"I know you're had a hard day, dear. You go in and rest up with a good book. I'll cook dinner and do the dishes."

"I'm down that pail this very moment! No wife of mine is ever going to carry out the garbage."

"You're absolutely right, dear. I'm going to ask the boss for a raise today, and if he says no—then I'll ask him again tomorrow."

"Write your mother back right now, and tell her we'll be glad to have her come for a visit anytime—and stay as long as she can."

"Gee, I can't stand it when most women talk baseball. But you're different. You really understand the game."

"The new dress looks swell on you, but don't you think you ought to have a new coat and a new hat to kind of set it off?"

"Put your glad rags on, doll. We're stepping out. We'll dine for once in some place that's expensive."

"Don't worry about that dent in the fender, dear. After all, we've had the car for 11 months. And as for that gravel dent—I probably can fix it myself. The whole thing isn't worth getting all upset over. It could happen to anybody."

"There's one thing I can say about your family. They don't try to interfere in our personal affairs nearly as much as my family does."

"No wonder Brigitte Bardot's husband had a nervous breakdown. She can't cook the way you do."

"Other women look funny when they wear their hair in curlers at breakfast—but you look cute."

"I'll never understand why a wonderful kid like you — who had her pick of the field—ever married a heel like me."

"Turn off the TV set, honey, and let's just talk. I love the sound of your voice."

HOT PIZZA

Pizza needs quick cooking, in an oven pre-heated to 700 degrees, and should be served piping hot.

White Cane Club Meets At K. Centre

President Pat Haverstock brought the meeting to order and expressed a sincere welcome to all.

Following roll call there was one minute silence in memory of Mrs. Allen Sexsmith, who passed away during the summer.

Mrs. Gladys Seldon presented Treasurer Pat with a cash donation for the club from her friend, Mrs. Taylor of London, England, who had attended the picnic for the blind in the summer.

The announcement was made of the next business meeting at the YMCA, Sept. 25th.

Arlis Scott and Vi Waite led a lengthy discussion on pin bowling at the Bowl-O-Drome, with the decision that two teams would participate Saturday at 1.30 p.m.

Bowling, directed by Walter Wallis was played with Gladys Seldon, Thereen Choinard, Jack Bowser and Magde Rollins assisting.

Wife Preservers

Keep cauliflower savory white by adding 1 tsp. of lemon juice to cold water before cooking.

A delightful lunch was served and the ladies were heartily thanked by Marie Love.

Visitors at Famous Flower Show

Never Get Chance to Wear Dresses

But, she said, she has hardly needed them during her visit. Instead, she, mother and sister purchased shorts and skirts of varying lengths to be in keeping with what she found Canadian women wearing most frequently.

Carol, whose real name is Davenport, uses the name Deane professionally in England, where she is a fashion model, singer and pianist, working out of Liverpool.

She came to Kamloops to visit her father, Fred Davenport, a resident here for nine years.

She spent three months in Canada and when asked to comment on women's fashions in this country said a reporter she appreciated the smart appearance Canadian women keep up after marriage.

She regretted, however, that there was so few formal occasions for which she felt it worth while to really dress up.

Miss Deane, a resident of Blundell Sands near Liverpool, works as a fashion model in Liverpool during winter months. In summer she becomes a concert artist, appearing on television and radio programs with her own choice of music. She also has worked as vocalist with English dance bands, including that of Tyrone Brooks.

She said her visit to Canada had impressed her and added that she would be willing to make her home here, as her father had done.

But one compelling force back home probably would prevent this. She is engaged to John Crompton, a Liverpool businessman who isn't likely to emigrate to Canada.

Rolled Stuffed Shoulder of Veal

By Mary Moore

When we were holidaying at the lake this summer we were often hard put to find good quality meats. Once we rashly ordered a tenderloin of beef on a Wednesday. The truck brought it to the store on a Friday, some customers saw it and the butcher sliced off some fillets for them, shortening up our piece.' No wonder! He was charging $1.95 per pound. We made our part go a long way but it was a rank extravagance. To balance the budget next week we ordered a boned shoulder of veal. This turned out to be 69c per pound. But these prices are no guide for city prices: will vary.

It is the shoulder of veal I want to describe to you, for I studied it and baked it at a very low temperature and it was a great success.

1 part of veal shoulder. Put some stuffing in it. Spread remainder on top. Now roll it up and tie with several windings of strong string in both directions. Make it into a compact roast. Brush it with butter or margarine, sprinkle with salt, pepper and paprika and place on small trivet in roasting pan. Roast at 200 deg. Fahr. for 3 hours, basting once or twice.

This low heat retains most of the moisture in the veal. One disadvantage of this cut of meat is that the string must be left on to make it slice neatly both when hot and cold. It is an excellent, economical, slow-cost meat and will serve 12 if the carver has sharpened his blade and slices expertly.

Stuffing variation: If you are venturesome and would like to try a more flavorful stuffing for your veal, which is a mild meat, try this: ½ pound sausage meat, 2 cups day-old breadcrumbs, ½ cup finely chopped mild onion, 1 teaspoon grated orange rind, ¼ teaspoon basil, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 beaten egg and ¾ cup boiling water. Gently saute the sausage meat until it is cooked, but not brown, stirring with a fork. Lift out the meat and add the chopped onion, basil and orange rind to fat and cook until onion is transparent but not brown. Beat egg and add to breadcrumbs then combine all ingredients and stuff into the veal and tie and roast as above.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

WEDNESDAY: (Gussie)

Melon Cup with Fresh Lime Juice; Baked Back Bacon with Spiced Orange Sauce; Baked Potato Slices; Frenched Butter Beans; Sieved Summer Applesauce; Date Nut Bread (see Tuesday); Coffee.

STUFFED SHOULDER OF VEAL:

Boned out the piece of veal weighed 6 pounds. Make the Stuffing first: Into a bowl measure 3 cups day-old breadcrumbs without crust. Gently saute in frying pan ½ cup finely chopped mild onion in ¼ cup butter or margarine until it is soaked with the fat but not brown at all. Add ¾ teaspoon poultry seasoning or rosemary and 1 teaspoon salt and shake of pepper and shake of MSG. Add to breadcrumbs and mix. Make a pocket with long sharp knife at thickest

Women's Activities

JOHNSTOWN W.A.

JOHNSTOWN — The September meeting of the Johnstown Women's Association was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Burt Hamilton on Wednesday evening.

The meeting opened with the theme song and prayer and the lesson found in Proverbs 21 was read by Mrs. A. Meyers.

Mrs. Earl Sickle gave a talk on the role a good woman plays in life in being a good homemaker, wife and mother. A man who has a true home seldom roams. Marriage is not meant to reform people, but as many men and women forget that halves are of equal value. A home that is not built on truth and honesty will not last.

The hostess was thanked and all joined in singing "Home Sweet Home." A missionary reading, "Old Roads," was read by Mrs. A. Harry. Poems were read by Mrs. William S. Harry, Mrs. A. Vandervoort and Mrs. M. Harder.

At the business session it was announced that October 1st is communion Sunday at Johnstown Church, with the Rev. Irwin in charge. Anniversary services will be October 13th at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m., with Mr. Thrasher as speaker. Mrs. D. Harry and Mrs. E. Sickle were appointed to tend to the church for September. A rally of United Church women will be held on September 26th at Johnstown United Church, with session starting at 10 a.m.

Lunches are to be brought and coffee will be provided. The October meeting being on October 10th, at the home of Mrs. Clayton Curtis.

Bride-to-Be Feted With Linen Shower

WELLINGTON — About 20 relatives and friends gathered at the home of Mrs. Maud Carson on Saturday evening to honor her niece, Miss Colleen Yandt, a bride-to-be, with a linen shower.

During the evening bingo was enjoyed by all with the many prizes going to the lucky winners.

After bingo, Miss Yandt was seated at a table, and Mrs. Ernest Young of Bloomfield read an appropriate address, after which, Mrs. Jack Ogilvy showered the bride-elect with gifts that hung from the ceiling and showered the honored guest with confetti.

Colleen thanked all present most sincerely for their kindness. Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by several of the ladies present.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA HUNTER
MISS CALL

Question — We were about to sit down and write my sister's wedding invitations when we came up with two questions. First: Where there are several children in the family, is it correct to write "Mr. and Mrs. Smith and Family" on the outside envelope? Also, is it proper to write only given names, like "Jean and Harry" on the inside envelope? — J. G., Trenton, New Jersey.

Answer — When a wedding invitation is sent to a family in which there are underage children, the outside envelope is addressed only to the parents, and the name should be written in full: i.e., "Mr. and Mrs. Paul James Smith." The phrase "and Family" is never used. Children's names are also included on the inside envelope, which is addressed simply as "Mr. and Mrs. Smith." The youngsters' names are written below. If there are a number of children, it's often simpler to address a separate invitation to "The Misses Smith" and another to "The Misses Smith." and enclose them with the parents' invitation, rather than write out all the names on one envelope.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Wilma S. — She should attend the parents' class, Mrs. S., — I know my child better than those teachers.

* * *

Wilma S. — I'm Gwen's cousin and, although I'm still in college and have no children of my own, I'm worried about what she's doing to Peter. We live nearby and I'm the official baby-sitter, so I'm really interested.

He's 4 and is a constant tug of war with his mother. She spanks him every hour on the hour and then feels guilty while Peter thinks up new ways to annoy her. At 5, he'll be eligible for admission to a Demonstration Kindergarten, sponsored by the university. I attend. Gwen slapped him up, but she's not co-operating with the preliminary program. They want her to attend special classes where they can help eliminate friction.

I tell her she may be piling up serious problems, and that she should go and find out.

* * *

Gwen E. — The reason for my trouble with Pete is that he spend a month with h[i]s grandparents, aunts, uncles and cousins up on their farm in New Hampshire while my husband and I traveled through Spain last spring. Pete's dad is a newspaper correspondent and wanted me along on this assignment.

Up there, Grandma never said No. Pete had a ball. He saw his cousins running wild with no supervision. Their mothers were either in town or busy with chickens and liverlock which seem to concern them more than the kids. Now it's a battle, as Wilma says. But Pete's coming around. Soon he'll be tamed and a child to be proud of — not a brat.

I can't see giving up my 5 days a week for that class. I expect another child in a few months. How can strangers know Pete better than I do?

* * *

The Council — In her adamant resistance to Wilma's urging and to the school's invitation, Gwen reveals a dread of what she may find out. Evidently she fears disapproval and criticism of her own hit-and-miss methods and is on the defensive.

What, she might ask herself, in her own background makes her feel she must be the perfect mother of a perfect son, or else a failure? The university staff can recognize this attitude easily, both from a brief face-to-face interview and from observing mother-and-child interaction. They endeavor to show the parent the unhealthy aspects of her methods in time to prevent intractable scars.

In hammering obedience into Peter, Gwen may also be planting the seeds of crippling and disabling resentments within him. In rejecting the proffered assistance, she may be turning down precious enlightenment to ease her (and Pete's) way through the next trying years. "Where did I fail?" is the familiar cry of the parent whose teen-ager has met with calamity. The answer may be in just such scorning of expert counseling.

An advance "look-over" of children entering school is a new technique for easing their adjustment to the new environment. From reports coming out of schools in Grand Rapids, Mich., and Wellesley Hills, Mass., we learn that the staff can predict which children are destined for trouble. This is based primarily upon observations of how the child is handled at home! Hence, it is most important to enlist Gwen's co-operation, at this early stage, to prepare Peter for a really effective school career.

Wilma's prodding is in order. Peter's entrance into school is an important milestone. The arrival of a new baby will be another. The school may be able to help his tense, anxious mother-ease these transitions. Otherwise, they may result in fixed character handicaps.

Designer Presents First Collection for Men

By CAROL KENNEDY

LONDON (CP) — Fashion for men? Ridiculous, snorts the average Englishman as he climbs comfortably into his old sport's jacket with the leather - patch elbows. As for the idea of a women's dress designer dictating the line of his town suit or tuxedo . . .

But in London Monday rows of sceptical men's reporters watched the Queen's dressmaker, Hardy Amies present his first collection for a men's tailoring firm, and prejudices began crumbling under the flattering impact of what Amies calls "the British line."

Amies, one of Britain's top 10 designers, feels the well-dressed Englishman is still admired the world over. He tends to cling to the old and familiar, but he wears his clothes well. The collection of couture - designed suits and topcoats sets out to bring the elegance of British custom tailoring within the reach of all.

EYRET MAN AN ATHLETE

The "British line" aims to give every man "a basically athletic figure with something of a Guard's bearing." It tapers flatteringly from shoulders to trouser - bottoms measuring no more than 17 inches.

The emphasis is on close fit. "Trousers should be like a second skin—those old grey flannels for leisure wear are out," said the master of ceremonies.

But suit jackets, mostly single-breasted, have an American-inspired semi-drape back and the jaunty topcoats — all knee-length—swing freely. The tight-waisted, starchy look that visitors associate with British baggy has gone.

Women who complain that men's clothes are always dull should see Amies' bold checks in blue and black or chestnut, black and white.

There's a return to Edwardian opulence with the slip-on buttonless evening topcoat in contrasting maroon, scarlet or white that can be worn with the dash of an opera cloak.

ST. ANDREW'S GUILD

WELLINGTON — St. Andrew's Guild held its first meeting for this season at the home of Mrs. W. Kling on Thursday evening, Sept. 7th, with 11 members present.

Mrs. W. Divern presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. B. A. Evans, who was ill.

The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. J. J. Rogers. Dues and flower fund were collected, also talent money for July and August. A discussion followed and a motion was carried that $300 be paid to the budget apportionment.

Thank-you cards were received from Gerald Knox and David Rogers. A rummage sale of good used winter clothes will be held in the near future. A food sale was planned for a Saturday in September to be held on Mrs. Lambert's lawn.

The meeting was closed by Mrs. Divern with the Benediction.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Dorothy Post and a social half hour was enjoyed.

Successful Living

By Doris Clark

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

How Can I Break Off?

DEAR DORIS:—I left the farm to go to college last year. About two months before that I had started going out with a girl who seemed to me to be understanding and a good conversationalist.

We corresponded, and when I came home at Christmas I took her out. She also came to two college dances with me during the year, and I took her to her school party in May. Now I find I am bored of her. She bores me and we no longer have anything in common.

DORIS CLARK

How do I break off without hurting her? I tried going out with another girl but the folks who live around here started to gossip and it got back to her. Her feelings were hurt so I apologized. I think she loves me and has a right to me.

Do I just start taking out other girls or do I try to explain things? Or do I work to exasperate her to the point of giving me the air?—SOPH.

DEAR SOPH:—Don't waste any more of her time. Has it occurred to you that she may also be hanging on because of what people will think? A one-sided attachment has no future!

How to break off? In the best face-saving way possible for both of you. Write her a letter—or tell her. Thank her for past companionship. Assume she will be relieved—which she will, eventually. Start clean this fall.

This is the time when young people date, make connections, break them, at a great rate. When you finally marry it lasts for a lifetime and the choice better be good!

Missionaries at Work' Topic At Cannifton-Corbyville WMS

The Cannifton - Corbyville W.M.S. resumed its regular meetings after the summer recess, on September 7th. There was an attendance of 24 with two visitors and one child present. Mrs. Harvey Hartman, president, opened the meeting with a few words of welcome to all.

A short business session followed in which it was announced that a meeting would be held in Cannifton United Church on September 19th at 8 p.m. in order to make arrangements for the catering to be done at the Fleming Match. The ladies were also advised of the change in dates for the April meeting, which will be held on October 12th instead of the 5th and the W.M.S. members were requested to bring their autumn thanksoffering envelopes to this meeting.

MISSIONARY TALK

Mrs. Beverly Foster gave a short talk on "Missionaries at Work" and told the group about a missionary in Japan, Mr. Isobel Leith. "West March the end of the five years during which Fukushima received a grant from pioneer evangelism funds. The small group of Christians here are gradually realizing their financial responsibilities. They cannot raise a great deal but they have raised enough to make up the cut from the central fund.

The missionaries in Japan have been working there for a century. It has been encouraging to see the broadening of vision which has resulted in the acceptance of a wider field of responsibility on the part of many laymen in the church.

Mrs. Foster then illustrated her talk with one or two stories, which made the whole talk most interesting.

The worship service was taken by Mrs. G. Stone, assisted by Mrs. Ray Pound. Mrs. Pound read the Scripture selection, Psalm 90, and the meditation as found in the new book of worship. Mrs. Stone conducted the worship service and gave a reading on the theme, "The Day of Beginning Again."

SIGNALS FOR THE 60's

The study period was in charge of Mrs. Douglas Bryan, who gave a most enlightening talk on the plan of action to be taken by the church for 1952. The title of the new study book, from which her talk was taken, is "Signals for the Nineties."

"As Canada moves into a new decade, the church has a strategic opportunity to review its past, study its present and then to plan a course of action calculated to make the church a vital force in the life of our nation.

"Church attendances are increasing. New churches are being erected everywhere. Church budgets are climbing. In fact it would look as if Canada is undergoing a religious revival.

"Did not Christ preach a practical Christianity of justice, mercy and faith? Was He not concerned with human souls and human welfare? Christ did not let His swift sword Him, while He isolated Himself from the problems of His day, nor can the church today fail to accept its responsibility in times of change and challenge. It could be that Canadians have too much interest in religious observances, and not enough genuine Christianity. Let us pray that a church big enough to meet demanding situations."

Following the conclusion of the study period, Mr. Dawson, minister of the Cannifton United Church, pronounced the benediction and the meeting closed. A social half hour followed with refreshments being served by the lunch committee.

Mrs. Beverly Foster sang a solo, "Follow in Jesus' Footsteps," at the end of the worship service, which was much appreciated by all.

Mrs. Empson performed the duties of pianist throughout the meeting.

Moments in History

Belleville's "first moment in history" was the discovery of the site in 1615 by Samuel de Champlain. Then it was known by its Indian name: "Asaukhkouk" which means "The place where the rushes end." Naturally, no homes had to be heated in those days and the explorers kept warm as best they could. Today, modern heating units keep Belleville homes in cosy comfort; and perhaps the pioneer of the heating industry in Belleville was the predecessor of the Schuster company which began at the turn of the century. Let Moira-Schuster supply your heating needs. Call WO 2-4504 today.

Dance Training Benefits Says Girl Returning to Ballet

By ALAN WALKER

TORONTO (CP) — When Janice Mercer was first she started taking ballet lessons. Two years later she quit.

Now she's 15, goes to high school, likes rock 'n' roll, automobiles and boys. And she is thinking of resuming her ballet training.

Not that she has any real hopes of becoming a professional ballerina. But she says she now realizes that her dance training benefited her in a way she never was aware of before.

She took a look at herself and her friends this year and noticed she was different.

"I walk straighter, I move better; I don't seem to be as awkward."

She is more graceful and poised than many of her friends and this is noticed by the boys. CAN BE FUN

Janice is like hundreds of girls who take ballet lessons when they're young but never become professional dancers.

For this reason the academy is not particularly concerned with training career dancers. As a matter of fact, the possibility of dancing in Swan Lake is never mentioned to the student.

"We don't encourage them to think professionally," Miss Hawkins said.

The ballet instructor's main problem is to keep the students interested. It's difficult to make the complex exercises of a professional ballerina seem like fun and the academy sprinkles rigid, silent, limb - stretching movements with folk dances.

MANY RETURN

Some of the academy's 300 students have at one time or another stopped lessons and then have returned to the fold years later.

"They're annoyed with themselves because they quit," said Miss Hawkins.

The National Ballet School, connected with the National Ballet of Canada, is, on the other hand, primarily interested in turning out professionals. But Principal Betsy Oliphant uses the same methods to maintain interest among the students.

"The beginning of formal ballet is too static for young children," said Miss Oliphant. "They must see a reason for what they are doing."

Young people like Janice can come back to their lessons after a lapse of a few years and can recover some of their previous proficiency. But maestro have to be caught young and trained rigorously over a period of time.

Ballet teachers have a constant struggle to convince their students of the benefits of ballet training. Janice is one of the lucky ones. She realized before it was too late what she could gain. So it's back to the practice bar.

RETURNS TO BALLET

Janice Mercer, 15, is taking ballet lessons again after a 4½ year layoff and it's all because of a recent discovery. She found that two years previous training had made her more poised and graceful than many of her friends. Janice doubts she will ever become a professional dancer but believes the training—sometimes done on the barr of her backyard swing—is valuable. (CP Photo).

FINED FOR ASSAULT

LUSAKA (Reuters) — A 28-year-old white man today was fined 250 (£140) or two months' imprisonment for assaulting G. Mennen Williams. Stuart Finlay-Sieseit, a recruiting agent, was given the sentence in magistrates' court here for punching the American assistant secretary of state at this Northern Rhodesian capital Aug. 28.

Roslin

ROSLIN—Roslin school reopened on Tuesday for the fall term with 36 enrolled. Mrs. Harvey Goodfellow of Roslin is the teacher this year.

A number from here attended the funeral of Mrs. J. Preston on Friday from the Bush Funeral Parlors in Belleville with service in St. Thomas Church, Rawdon.

Miss Phyllis Sills has returned home from Belleville General Hospital where she has been a patient for the past few weeks.

Mr. Charles Chapman is a patient in Belleville General Hospital as a result of a shake-up he received recently in a car accident. Mrs. Chapman is also in poor health, and their three children are home at present.

The Woman's Auxiliary held their September meeting on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. F. Weeks.

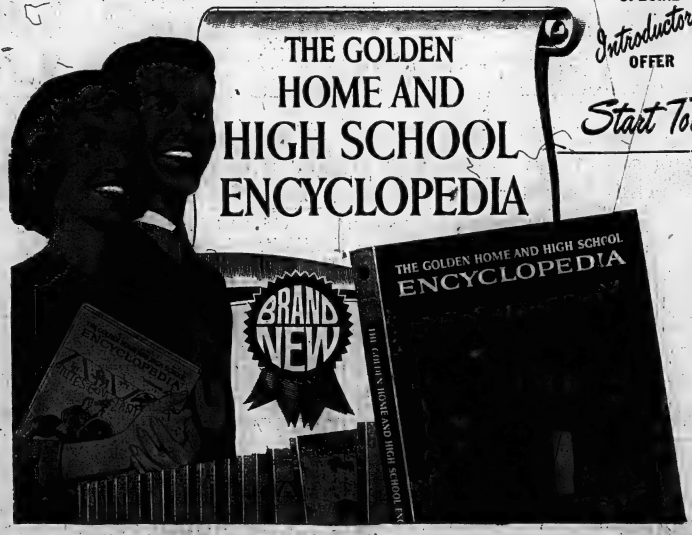
A presentation was held in the hall recently in honor of Captain and Mrs. J. Willoughby who are leaving for Manitoba shortly and going to the Brandon Diocese. Members from Christ Church, Thomasburg, St John's, Mosemore and, St. Paul's Roslin were in attendance. The honored guests were presented with a gift of money and gifts from the Sunday School and St. John's Guild.

The Rev. Gordon Black of Peterborough is in charge of the services in the Parish for the month of September with services at the usual times.

A large number were in attendance at the service in Roslin United Church on Sunday morning. The church has recently been re-decorated inside and out and was closed for that and also while the Rev. Nicholls was on holiday. Sept. 17th will be Rally Sunday and the following Sunday will be the anniversary service, at Roslin. Sunday School will commence the first Sunday, in October.

Lack of Parts May Close Oshawa Plant

OSHAWA (CP)—Lack of parts from strikebound General Motors plants in the United States may force a production stoppage at the General Motors of Canada Limited plant here, a company spokesman said Monday.



He said automobile and truck production will be curtailed possibly before the end of the week if key GM plants in the U.S.

Harry S. Truman Continues To Live Life With Zip, Zest; Enjoyed Self in White House

This is the second of three stories on living ex-presidents of the United States.

By SAUL PETT

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — When a man has been president of the United States—and only 34 have—he usually forfeits the right to be ordinary.

Somehow you don't expect him to drive his own car or carry out the ashes or help with the dishes or, like ordinary citizens of a great democracy, clutch occasional hell from his wife.

But Harry Truman does all those things. And in the 77th year of his remarkable life and the eighth of his retirement, he continues to enjoy life with a zip and zest usually denied more ephemeral figures.

He still can scarcely draw a breath without pronouncing a judgment in concrete. He still enjoys overtaking a case if only to pile up the animals. He still loves to wear John a public cal opponent with all the joy of sticking bayonets about to take out the second basemen. And, when the dust clears, he still seems an innocent amazed that someone complained of being spilled.

CARRIES CHIP

He still combines a smiling, folksy cordiality with a genial chip on his shoulder, as if daring you to deny who he was. And behind the bifocals, there still dances mischievous twinkle, as if the poor boy from Independence had played a monumental joke on history by becoming president and then being elected in his own right in 1948 when everyone else had written him off.

"I have a good time," Harry Truman says in the easy singsong of the midwest, about things small and large.

He uses the comment to describe the fact that on Wednesdays and Sundays the Truman's call their daughter, Mrs. Margaret Daniel, in New York to serve of their two grandchildren.

"I had a good time," Harry Truman says of his days in the White House, choosing not to recall that he also has referred to the Washington mansion as the "big white jail."

"I enjoyed myself very much. I always had a good staff and if they were any worries, they had to assume them."

This idea of a good time apparently implicit in almost everything Harry Truman does, in his pugnacious pride, in his contact with ordinary citizens, in the notion he has to foster that Mrs. Truman do the real work of the house.

MIXUP WITH DULLES

In 1955 he went to San Francisco for the 10th anniversary of the United Nations, which he helped found. An aide of State Secretary John Foster Dulles called to say the secretary wished to pay his respects. Truman agreed to a time but, through some mixup, Dulles failed to show up.

Next day, the two men met at a reception.

Dulles: "How do you do, Mr. President."

Truman: "I do as I goddamn please and I guess you do too."

Action, Reaction. Harry Truman moves unconcluded into daytime. Why nurse a beef when you can get rid of it?

He was driving his 1960 Dodge back from Kansas City when a tire went flat. The former president pulled over, removed his coat and began work himself when two young men, one a sailor, stopped to help. They obviously didn't recognize him and Mr. Truman, enjoying their mutual fleetness, waited for just the right moment.

STUNS SAILORS

When the tire was fixed, he drew out a silver dollar, handed it to the sailor, saying "this is from your old commander-in-chief." Harry Truman thoroughly enjoyed their stunned double-take.

After a dinner party in the home of friends, the men retired for cigars and Truman was holding forth over the male talk. Out in the parlor, an envious woman gushed to Mrs. Truman:

"I wish I were a man so I could be in there listening to all that fascinating talk from the president."

Said Mrs. Truman: "Well, I'll tell you, my dear, I've been listening to him for 40 years and you're not missing much."

Harry Truman appears to enjoy his wife's needling. It gives him democratic status.

Once exposed, some men never recover from power and glory; breathless, some hard to them at the lower altitudes. But for the Trumans, the switch from the White House on Pennsylvania avenue to the white house on Delaware Street involved no emotional break. History, they knew all along, was interpreting them only temporarily.

Truman explained to a recent visitor: "Leaving the White House involves no problem of adjustment if you were a common citizen before." Then he added pointedly, "But how many residents can you name who were common citizens before?"

"As for me," he said, on a day when he wasn't recalling how he labored the job, "I don't miss any part of it. I was damn glad to get rid of it."

Today the Trumans have blended back easily into the soft, friendly hum of life in Independence, Mo. While no one is unaware of their eminence, the town doesn't fuss over them.

It is only when he travels, space in hand, to Washington or New York or other news centres that reporters recall Mr. Truman on his morning walks. At home, few people pay much attention to the familiar figure of the 33rd president of the United States as he sets out on his sturdy ritual, swinging his cane, wearing a natty blue suit and a pleased self-satisfied smile at yet another dawn.

The Trumans' financial position is secure as a result of his literary earnings, presidential pension and sale of family farmland for a shopping centre called "Truman Corners."

HE WAS WANTED

Had he been willing to exploit the office of president, Mr. Truman could have been far wealthier today. On leaving the White House he was flooded with offers of lucrative, fancy titles and no work.

He turned them all down.

The Trumans live in comfort and no display. They prefer it that way. They treasure their privacy to a large domestic staff. True, they have only one regular in-help—a cook— and the occasional use of a gardener.

Mrs. Truman does the beds, the dusting and other housework. The former president does the cooking, hauls in firewood, helps with the dishes, moves furniture when the "boss" decides on a new arrangement and because he tires earlier than anybody, frequently makes his own breakfast.

Harry Truman's working days now are spent at an office in the Truman library, a mile from his home, where he papers books and historical manuscripts of his administration are kept for public viewing and scholarly research.

WRITING BOOK

Here, he is now working, with the help of two assistants, on another book. This one is a retrospective appraisal of American presidents through Franklin Roosevelt.

He insists on being interrogated to greet and briefly address visiting groups of school children. He is persuaded that his desire to pass on to younger people his sense of the importance of American history.

His little lecture is brief, folksy and colorful. He reminds the kids to read the constitution, invites their questions, pokes out that one of them could be president, that he never expected to be himself and, when he is thanked for the little talk, says "Why, you couldn't be nicer to me."

For adult visitors, Harry Truman sometimes basks on guiding them through the library himself. It is a rare experience. With gusto unaltered from give points out the dedication of a rare first edition of Luther's Bible in Europe to Harry S. Truman, "with lasting respect, admiration and friendship — Dwight D. Eisenhower."

HASN'T SEEN IKE

To a question, he responds that he has not spoken with Eisenhower since the general succeeded him as president in 1952 simply because Eisenhower never invited any conversation.

Going by a huge rug, he says the shah of Persia gave me that. It's only worth about $50,000 . . . I couldn't use it.

At a case containing priceless jeweled swords and daggers given him by King Saud, he confides a secret: one of the White House reception he promised Mrs. Truman the biggest emerald in the lot if she would kick a certain Republican senator out of town.

And at a huge opera grand piano, which once was in the White House, he suddenly stops, sits down and plays a minuet "the way Paderewski taught me to play it."

The years soar in over. The visitor thanks the distinguished aide profusely.

"Why, you couldn't be nicer to me," Harry S. Truman says, waving an arm and sweeping back toward his office.

Aussie Voices Concern About Common Market

ACCRA, Ghana (Reuters)—Australian Treasurer Harold Holt Thurs. told Commonwealth finance ministers that his country has been concerned at the weakening effect a British decision to join the European Common Market might have on the Commonwealth relationship.

"This is more than a matter of trade and financial relationship," he said.

"It would be a most unhappy outcome if the long-established trade within the Commonwealth were not fully maintained and, indeed, given adequate opportunities to expand."

Holt spoke at the opening of a three-day meeting of ministers expected to mirror continued resentment against Britain's application to join the Common Market.

The 13-country talks were not expected to provide an occasion for negotiation or working out what concessions are needed if Britain joins the six-nation low-tariff union.

Britain will not know until talks with the Six begin next month whether it can obtain any concessions for its Commonwealth allies.

OFFERED JOB

LONDON (AP) — Angela Riley, the 12-year-old London girl who stowed away on an airliner to the United States two weeks ago, has been offered a job as an air hostess—when she is old enough. W. H. Lyons, the British sales manager of Pan American, made the offer in a letter to Angela.

Service Station Leases, Other Policies of Big Gas Companies Again Under Fire

OTTAWA (CP) — Wholesale and retail organizations Tuesday urged legislation to ensure that service stations can stock a wider variety of tires, batteries and auto accessories.

The restrictive Trade Practices Commission, continuing with an inquiry that has impact on the public interest of certain petroleum company policies, heard evidence on subjects ranging from higher-than-necessary consumer prices to service station leases.

Oil company agreements with certain wholesale, manufacturing companies who paid a commission for the privilege of getting access to the petroleum firm's retail outlets—were described in testimony as increasing consumer costs.

Witnesses alleged that Texaco Canada Limited has provision for eviction within 24 hours without cause in its leases and that higher rents are used generally by the industry as a direct pressure to make dealers handle lines of goods from specified companies or supplied by the oil company itself.

Kenneth Langdon, executive secretary of the Ontario Retail Gasoline and Automotive Service Association, said one Toronto dealer last spring was evicted for not selling a certain line of batteries.

Mr. Langdon said a tire was recommended at the wholesale price of $25 when the same tire, bearing a different name and tread but made by the same rubber company, was available at $15 wholesale.

He suggested the public is "paying on average about 10 per cent more than it would if there were no tire, battery and accessory kickbacks (to the oil company by the wholesale supplier or manufacturer)."

The Ontario association submitted replies to a questionnaire circulated to service stations—covering oil-company policies on agreements with certain suppliers and in other cases of dealers handling only the company's branded line of tires, batteries and accessories.

The names were kept confidential.

Commission chairman C. Rhodes Smith said it would be much more useful if the operators themselves could come to testify although he was aware that it had been stated several times during the hearing that operators feared economic reprisal.

New Hump Yard at Montreal Is Officially Opened by CNR

Canadian National Railways' new electronic "hump yard" officially opened today. It is situated on some 300 acres of land adjacent to the steadily growing industrial area of Pointe de Liesse, about 10 miles northwest of the centre of the city of Montreal.

Designed and built by C.N. after study and research by a departmental design team organized in 1951, Montreal yard has potential to meet much heavier demands that are bound to come.

Montreal yard puts trains together hours faster than it took previously in flat yards. Terminal delay once considered an unavoidable part of yard marshalling, has been reduced substantially.

Already the impact of the new yard is being felt as a new impetus has been given freight traffic moving between Montreal and the Atlantic provinces, Montreal and Western Canada, and Montreal and the United States.

REPLACES 18 YARDS

Before Montreal yard was built, 18 flat yards were in operation in Montreal terminals. Southwark, on the south shore of the St. Lawrence River, near the Lasalle, with a 1,200-car capacity, and Turcot yard on the north shore, between St. Henri and Lachine, with a 3,000-car capacity, were the two largest.

Montreal yard is capable of classifying up to 7,000 cars a day and of despatching the freight, waybreight and transfers, every 24 hours. It has a standing capacity of 11,000 cars.

RAILWAY YMCA

A Railway YMCA, described as a "home away from home," has 72 single bedrooms, a cafeteria seating 80 persons and a huge recreation room complete with TV sets, Freight train crews from such places as Cheraw, Que., Ottawa, Brockville and St. Albans, Vt., are accommodated overnight here. The Railway "Y" is three stories high, fireproof and faced with brick.

Montreal Yard is unique in design in that it actually contains two classification yards. The main yard comprises 84 tracks, while a local yard totals 40 tracks. Two tracks over the main hump enable two trains to be humped at the same time. In all, there are 186 miles of track in the new yard

NINE CONTROL TOWERS

Yard operation is controlled by personnel in nine towers where with push-buttons and toggle switches, they direct movements of all cars entering and leaving, as well as the flow of traffic over the humps. Lighting at Montreal Yard, enough to illuminate 240 city blocks, has been erected on 362 poles which support 407 individual lights. Total illumination reaches 400,000 watts. The entire lighting system is of the new mercury vapor type. It comes on automatically at dusk and turns off by itself at daylight returns.

SPEND $100 MILLION

During the past decade Canadian National Railways has awarded contracts totalling more than $100,000,000 for new hump and flat yards located in various parts of Canada.

The yards are the result of research and study by a terminal design team organized by the railway in 1951.

New or improved flat switching yards have been opened at Centre Brook, Nfld., Saint John, N.B., Joffre and Garneau, Que., Sarnia, Ont., Battle Creek and Flint, Mich., Calder (Edmonton) Alta., and Port Mann., B. C., as well as other key points across the system.

In addition to Montreal Yard, an electronic hump classification yard was opened last November at Moncton.

Another new automatic yard at Winnipeg will be ready for test operation soon and is scheduled to be officially opened in 1962. In addition, another electronic hump yard is planned for the Toronto area in conjunction with a complete reconstruction of CNR's rail services there.

Army Provost Corps Lieut. Killed in Crash

KINGSTON (CP) — Barry M. Lowe, 23, of Kingston, a lieutenant in the Army Provost Corps at Camp Petawawa, died Tuesday night when he was thrown from his car after it collided with two others.

The driver of the third car, Carl Sanders, and passengers David Hurgott and Herman Cooke, all of Petawawa, were not injured.

CANOEIST SAFE

HALIFAX (CP) — RCAF Search and Rescue headquarters here said Tuesday night that Quebec adventurer Ward Sealy in his 17 - foot kayak, landed on St. Paul's Island, 15 miles off the Cape Breton coast early Tuesday morning on the last lap of a 1,700-mile voyage from Toronto to his birthplace of Belleoram on Newfoundland's south coast.

Premier Frost Commends Army For CD Work

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost Tuesday commended the Canadian army for bringing "stability" to civil defence and said he is certain the province now possesses a good Emergency Measures Organization.

At an army briefing of top provincial and municipal figures Mr. Frost said the army has brought "order out of chaos." He said the Ontario government will do all it can in the future to help improve the EMO program.

Maj.-Gen. H. A. Sparling, officer commanding Central Command, said Ontario's civil defence program has reached the point where more specific plans can be put into effect. He said a top secret briefing at Camp Borden last weekend gave orders for detailed exercises by militia and regular army units.

He added that Ontario's detonation reporting posts and upper air reporting station still have only limited capabilities and the siren network is not yet perfected.

ASK FOR HELP

Both the premier and Gen. Sparling called for the people and municipal officials to help educate the public in civil defence.

Brigadiers K. H. McKibbin, H. E. Brown and A. J. B. Bailley, commanding the west, central and eastern Ontario emergency measures areas, described plans for spotting fallout and re-entry operations in disaster areas.

Gen. Sparling said permanent military planning groups are being established in the target cities—Toronto, Windsor, London, Ottawa, Hamilton and Niagara Falls. Food, medical supplies and other essentials were being stockpiled in reception areas to be used in rescue operations.

He said civil defence plans are aimed at the current situation in which it is believed any attack will be by manned bombers. This will permit a warning of up to three hours. But he said the military is keeping in mind the advancement of the missile age which will mean a 15-minute warning at the most.

SUES OTTAWA STATION

TORONTO (CP) — Jack Kent Cooke Institute Suit Tuesday against radio station CKOY Ottawa seeking $500,000 damages for breach of contract. Mr Cooke, who recently sold his radio and publishing interests in Toronto and took out United States citizenship, said in a statement of claim that under a 1949 contract he was to receive 40 per cent of the Ottawa station's gross operating profits in the return for his services as a consultant.

Reds May Be Testing Missile To Stop Approaching ICBMs

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

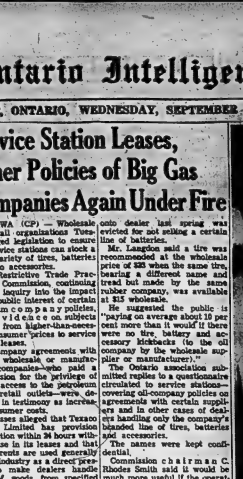
Just as military experts believed the first country to develop an intercontinental ballistic missile would acquire a "unbeatable "ultimate weapon," so the experts now consider the first country to devise a workable defence against this weapon would win "tremendous leadership in world military power.

For this reason there is a great underlying fear in American military quarters that the series of new Russian atomic detonations may be an indication the Communists are testing a missile which could seek out and destroy approaching ICBMs before they could damage essential Soviet installations.

Despite the colossal array of weapons acquired by the United States and its allies, American military chieftains in the United States would be virtually "blind naked" in the face of such a missile missile. A member of the U.S. Senate armed forces committee last week warned that if Russia produces this new defence before the U.S. does, it will expect military action or threats of action almost beyond imagination.

So complex is the creation of a system to detect and destroy what American military fear of Russian achievements also is accompanied by an inner conviction that perhaps after all the Communists are not as far ahead of the West of the U.S. in this field.

At best, the United States may not be able to deploy and operate an effective anti - missile system before 1966 and there is no assurance a system will be ready by that date.



Meanwhile Russia has shown tremendous technical ability in deploying space rockets and Soviet Premier Khrushchev recently stated in an interview he is satisfied with the work his scientists are doing on means of combatting the ICBMs.

Main Western effort is concentrated on the American army's Nike-Zeus project, which the army would lock onto an enemy missile within 20 minutes after it was launched. Its task would be to destroy an enemy weapon by detonating a nuclear explosion in space before the approaching missile could come anywhere near its target.

So far the United States has spent four times and more than $1,000,000,000 on this project and still no effective weapon is in sight. Experts estimate the final cost about $10,000,000,000 to produce and deploy sufficient batteries of the Nike-Zeus just to protect key American targets.

Recently, in tests, two of the missiles were fired off the California coast and while the first stage ignited, the test proved a dud. The weapon is to be used to annihilate an enemy ICBM over the mid - Pacific next year. Meanwhile President Kennedy is withholding production orders.

It is a fair bet he will rush in with limited Nike-Zeus production, without waiting for the final tests, if Russia reports she has created an effective anti-missile-missile.

General Workers Back Revolt of Mine-Mill Local

SUDBURY (CP)—Local 598's revolt against the national office of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Sceltter Workers (Ind.) appears to be spreading to elements of Mine-Mill's general workers' union. Local 902.

Dissension in the ranks of Local 902 was revealed at a meeting of the Lobiaw and Dominion Store workers Monday night. A statement issued Tuesday said the meeting ousted chairman Romeo Lachance. Local 902 business agent, and called for a special general meeting of the local membership to pass a resolution condemning Mine-Mill's recent financial settlement with the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (Ind.).

The meeting was called by Lachance to deal with the action taken by Local 598 against the ICBM over the mid - Pacific next year. Meanwhile President Kennedy is withholding production orders.

It is a fair bet he will rush in with limited Nike-Zeus production, without waiting for the final tests, if Russia reports she has created an effective anti-missile-missile.

Constitutional Formula Nearly Ready for Signing

OTTAWA (CP)—Virtual agreement among the attorneys-general on a formula for amending the Dominion-provincial constitutional statute was reached that may prove to be its last meeting on amending procedure.

Legislative action, hoped for such agreement would end the deadlock which has existed since of all 12 nations of the commonwealth, still has to seek United Kingdom approval for changes in its basic constitutional document.

Justice Minister Fulton told reporters after the closed two-day meeting that there was a possibility that next year the federal government and parliament will pass the formulas for amending the British North America Act.

These formulas would be written into a resolution and sent to the U.K. parliament then would be asked to authorize. Thus, the BNA Act would lose its colonial career as a British statute and be handed over entirely to Canada.

It is a chore that Westminster parliament has been reluctant to undertake. Only once before, in 1949, has it done so, although since 1867 and those in more recent years have embarrassed both Ottawa and London in view of Canada's dependence in all other matters.

First, though, officials have a draft for the U.K. to put before it in London with a request for passage. This will be made public shortly, revealing for the first time the details worked out in the current meetings that began Monday night.

The draft will be sent to the provinces for study and, if there is disagreement, provincial governments will submit the bill to their legislatures for approval and then Parliament will be asked to channel it to London.

There appear to be two barriers, neither insurmountable, to such action.

1. Saskatchewan has objected to the principle of amendment in some of the present articles of the BNA Act spelling out provincial jurisdiction. Ontario and Quebec or Ottawa and the other nine provinces could proceed without Saskatchewan if such agreement.

2. Some of the provinces—it is understood Ontario among them—are to fall in line with the conference's proposed draft bill until Ottawa agrees to re-open for discussion a 1949 BNA Act amendment which the government felt power over all articles which are strictly federal.

FLOOD KILLS 95

BOMBAY (AP)—Unofficial reports from Surat Tuesday night said 95 persons, including 35 women, and 50 children, lost their lives in a boat disaster on the swollen Narmada River in Gujarat state. The Times correspondent said the boat was carrying 130 evacuees from the flood-destroyed village of Gopali Monday.

Now Would Be Propitious Time if Govt. Wants to Acquire Nuclear Weapons

OTTAWA (CP) — If the Canadian government plans to announce — again — that it will accept American nuclear warheads, now would be the propitious time because of the Berlin crisis.

But in the last six days the government has declined four golden opportunities to make any such announcement.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker last Thursday announced a modest manpower buildup in the armed forces and new national by survival measures.

On the same day External Affairs Minister Green launched a foreign policy debate. On Monday Mr. Diefenbaker entered this debate and Tuesday Defence Minister Hellyer was opened a defence debate.

The government seized none of these chances to say definitely whether it will acquire the nuclear warheads.

The most obvious reason for this cliff - ranger is this:

Mr. Diefenbaker entered and had hoped that after Russia resumed nuclear testing the U.S. Mills's annual presidential and three of his national officers were remained to Oct. 16 on the General Assembly meets Sept. 19.

The government therefore could hardly announce acquisition of nuclear warheads while preparing to talk about a new Western disarmement plan in the UN.

The point here is that no decision is necessary at least until the armed forces have in operation the carriers for nuclear warheads: the Bomare anti-aircraft missile, Honest John artillery rocket, CF-100 Marvel jet bomber and the CF-101 jet interceptor. These carriers won't be in operation for several months yet.

The government has never announced its decision—announced by Mr. Diefenbaker Feb. 13, 1959—to acquire nuclear warheads from the U.S.

There has been a lot of backing and filling since then on the question of control of these weapons, mainly because Mr. Green has firmly resisted their acceptance by Canada.

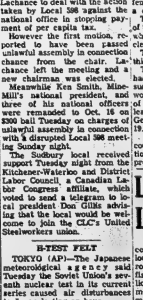
On Jan. 18, 1963, Mr. Diefenbaker said Ottawa shall be Canada's control of use in Canada" of American nuclear warheads.

On July 14, 1963, the prime minister modified this to "joint control" by Canada and the U.S.

There is a separate but related problem in connection with Canadian permission for U.S. interceptor squadrons based in Canada to be armed with air-to-air nuclear missiles.

Even in the present Berlin crisis, the government has declined to announce any decision.

Licensing of Clubs to Sell Liquor by Glass Suggested



FREDERICTON (CP) — Licensing of clubs, taverns, hotel lounges, beverage and dining rooms, restaurants, bunting and bottle rooms.

Low-cost licences were recommended for non-profit groups such as veterans' clubs, legion, fraternal, sporting social and hospitality clubs with membership of 40 or more.

Other types of licences recommended were taverns, for sale of beer by the glass to adult males for on-premises consumption, dining room, permitting sale of spirits, wine and beer with meals; lounge, allowing hotels with a dining room licence to sell liquor by the glass, and restaurant, for sale of beer and light wines with meals.

PROTEST BOMBINGS

ROME (Reuters)—Italy sent a protest note to Austria Tuesday drawing attention to the "grave responsibility of Austria" in weekend incidents in which bombs exploded in Rome and other Italian cities. Italian newspapers linked the explosions with previous violence in Bolzano, Austria's autonomy demanded by the province's German-speaking population.

East, West Grid Scoring

Cookie, Parker Top Loops

TORONTO (CP)—Cookie Gilchrist's rampaged in the reins for the Big Four Football League scoring title got some unofficial aid from Canada himself as he muffed chances Sunday to add four converts to his Skyride total.

The usually accurate field goal and convert kicker for Toronto Argonauts was off the mark as Argos whipped Saskatchewan Roughriders 37-7 in an interlocking schedule game. Nevertheless, he lost no ground in the scoring battle for he went over for one of the touchdowns and his margin over his nearest rival is five points, one more than he had he had last week.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show the hard-hitting fullback's 34 points are made up of two touchdowns, five converts, five field goals and two singles.

Another field goal and extra-point specialist, Gary Schreiber of Ottawa Rough Riders, made the biggest advance. He moved up to the runner-up spot from fifth place by booting a field goal and a convert as the Rough Riders lost, 32-26 to Edmonton Eskimos Saturday. He now has 30 converts and three field goals for 39 points.

SUTHERIN MOVES UP

Don Sutherin of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, a defensive standout in Texas' 59-35 win over Edmonton Monday night with four interceptions, also kicked a field goal and four converts to vault into a four-way tie for third place with 34 points.

WINS BATTING TITLE

NEW YORK (CAP) — Ted Savage, rookie outfielder for Buffalo Bisons, won the 1961 International League batting championship with a .325 average, final statistics reveal. Savage, owned by Philadelphia Phillies, also had the most hits, 178, and scored the most runs, 111.

John Powell of Rochester was second in batting with .320 followed by Tom Tresh, Richmond, .315. Powell captured the home run crown with 32 while Frank Lela of Syracuse had the most runs batted in, 98. The awards were compiled by The Associated Press.

WINNIPEG (CP)—Rhinestone Bamford is trying a fullback, Johnny Bright scored three touchdowns in two games during the last week to gain on teammate Jackie Parker in the Western Conference scoring race.

Bright's performance boosted the former Drake University star's total to 52 touchdowns and 312 points, five fewer than Parker's league-leading total.

Parker picked up 13 points in the two games, collecting a touchdown, six converts and a single. Figures compiled by The Canadian Press show his total for eight games is 65 points.

Saskatchewan and Jack Gotta made the only other big advance, picking up a touchdown as each of the Roughriders' two games to vault into fourth place with 30 points, behind Winnipeg halfback Leo Lewis, who has 36.

Indians May Oust Mr. Dykes

CHICAGO (AP) — Jimmy Dykes will not be retained as manager of Cleveland Indians, The Associated Press learned today.

One of the current Cleveland coaches, Mel McGaha, is expected to become manager for 1962 with Dykes shifting to a National League club as a coach.

"I don't know anything about it." Dykes said in Cleveland. "I haven't heard, that my job was in jeopardy from Gabe Paul." Pau, the Indians' general manager, would neither confirm nor deny the information.

McGaha, who joined the Indians' coaching staff this season after leading Toronto Maple Leafs to the 1960 International League pennant, was unavailable for comment.

The 64 - year - old Dykes, now in his 40th consecutive baseball season, went to Cleveland last year when he was traded for Joe Gordon by Detroit in an unprecedented swap of managers. He is not his first season as a major league manager, having previously handled Chicago White Sox, Philadelphia Athletics, Baltimore Orioles and Cincinnati Reds.

Dart League Sets Deadline

Lew Evans, president of the Belleville Services Dart League, announced following a general meeting of the league this week that next Monday, September 18, is the final date that entries will be accepted for the 1961-62 season.

Twelve teams have filed entry to date but apparently there is room for more, providing they have made application by Monday.

A special meeting of all team captains has been called for Monday night at the ANAF Hall at 8.15. This meeting is for team captains only and it is important that all be present.

Weighed 14 Pounds, 12 Ounces

Lands Huge Pickerel

PICTON (Special) — Tom Hearn of Toronto, hauled 14 pounds, 12 ounces of potential piscatorial gold from Lake Ontario waters off Indian Point, Prince Edward County, early this week.

Call it what you will, pickerel, walleye, dore, it is the largest of its breed to be taken around here for upwards of 100 years.

It measured 33 inches in length and had a girth of 20 inches.

With Hearn, when he made the big haul, were Bill Howe and Ed Rogers, also of Toronto.

The big fellow beats the record pickerel taken in Ontario, in 1960, according to results of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters' Associations' Molson contest.

The first prize of $100 of the OFAHA for pickerel went to Mrs. J. B. Ogden, Lebanon, Indiana, whose catch weighed 14 pounds, 4 ounces.

Second prize of $75 went to Edwin Thorpe of Newmarket, with a 14-pounder.

The top-spot muskie of 1960 worth $100 went to Lee Gauthier, Moose Camp, Carbiet, Ontario, while second prize of $75 went to Tom Thompson, Kenora, Ontario, with his fish weighing 39 pounds 2 ounces.

MAY RETAIN PILOT

TORONTO (CP) — General manager Frank Selke of Toronto Maple Leafs promised Tuesday to give "deep consideration" to retaining catcher Tim Thompson as coach of the International League baseball team.

Flyers Ousted By Toronto

The Trenton RCAF Flyers saw their hopes for the OASA Senior "B" championship go down the drain last night when they dropped a 3-0 decision to Toronto Ontarados in Trenton.

Toronto won the series two games to none.

Andy Anderson pitched the win, allowing five hits, while Ken Kibblewhite gave up 12 hits in going the route for the Flyers.

An error paved the way to Toronto's last two runs late in the game, killing the Flyers' chances of overcoming the 1-0 lead.

Critics Find Controversial Paar Program Below Par

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—After all the expressions of alarm, headlines and reprimands growing out of the taping of a Jack Paar show on the Berchtesgaden of East Berlin, the least a viewer could expect Tuesday night was an enlightening, informative show.

Alas, the well-publicized program telecast proved as dreary and dull as the Berlin weather.

Paar, jaunty in cap and raincoat, stood with his back to East Berlin during most of the show, carelessly rehashing stories already thoroughly explored in newspapers and calling attention to passing traffic and remote buildings.

For about two-thirds of the longest hour in recent TV, the most interesting sight was East Berlin cameramen capacity taking pictures of Paar and his aide, actress Peggy Cass.

NOT WORTH RISK

Had it not been for the excitement surrounding the taping, the program would have attracted no attention at home at all.

It certainly was not worth taking chances of inflaming relation for a program like that.

The furore stirred by the filming had caused Secretary of State Dean Rusk to call Paar "a fool" and Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson to declare that "exercising poor judgment" in providing troops filmed by Paar.

Paar said earlier in Paris that he was "just sick about the whole thing."

"Imagine all that ruckus in the press—and in Congress, too—over my filming of a TV show in Berlin. This thing has been blown out of proportion."

Paar maintained that he received no undue co-operation from the army—that many officers at the scene were curious spectators, and that the soldiers were there for a changing of the guard.

Lacrosse

PORT CREDIT (CP) — Goalkeeper Bob Bavage will probably ride all the way to the West Coast on the shoulders of his Brampton teammates as the Ramblers seek the senior Canadian lacrosse title.

Bavage was instrumental Tuesday night in Brampton's 7-4 victory over Port Credit Saints last year's Mann Cup champions, in the seventh and deciding game of the Eastern Canadian final. He held the Saints to a single goal in the first two periods as Brampton went ahead 5-1 before relenting to allow final - period goals by Florie Tomchychen.

The Ramblers play for the Mann Cup against the winner of an Inter - City Lacrosse League final between Vancouver and New Westminster. Vancouver leads 3-1.

Ron Brown scored Port Credit's other goal.

Bert Naylor and Gord Thompson each scored two for Brampton. Bob Debbie, Joe Carlisle and Jack Madgett added singles.

Net Biggies Play Today

TORONTO (CP) — The big names in singles play will take it easy at the Canadian tennis championships today as the less important doubles matches get caught up.

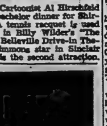
So far only two upsets have been scored. Montreal's Bill Carpenter won 6-3, 6-8, 6-0, 6-0 over sixth-seeded Roland Godin of Montreal and Sharon Caldwell of Toronto beat 10th ranked Denise Hamelin of Montreal 6-1, 6-2. Both reverses came Tuesday.



Carpenter, ranked 10th in Canada, and Godin had met 10 previous times during the last five years and Godin had won every match.

Mike Sangster of Torquay, England, top - seeded in the men's draw, downed Keith Carpenter of Montreal 6-1, 6-1, 6-2 to make the third round.

In another second - round match, Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., second highest import, trounced Fred Reaume of Chatham 6-1, 6-0, 6-1.

Gone With the Wind Best Grossing Movie of Year

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The biggest grossing movie that ever was in one that first was released in 1939—Gone With the Wind.

MGM reports that the all time screen classic, still the finest movie ever made, has grossed more than $12,000,000 worldwide in its fifth re-issue. It surpassed another studio blockbuster, Ben Hur, now in its third year of showings.

The all-time genre for GWTW has passed the $75,000,000 worldwide mark and it rolls doubtedly will be the first movie ever to gross $100,000,000. It's re-issued every few years or so—and with those grosses, you'll never see it on TV's late show.

I have always felt that Hollywood could cure most of its headaches if its producers would be required to see a six-week study course of Gone With the Wind before being allowed to make a picture.

COST $2,000,000

Selznick gave GWTW a lavish production but he also had a full one. It had a $3,000,000 budget, high for 1939, but peanuts now with films that size.

But where Hollywood could really learn a lesson from Selznick was in his genius at casting. GWTW was the best-cast picture in history. Over the years, there is not a part in it that could have been played better.

Rhett Butler was a cinch to Margaret Mitchell's obviously had Clark Gable in mind when she created the great, growling movie hero. There is one that first was released in 1939—Gone With the Wind.

Everybody thought so but Gable.

I could never see myself as Rhett Butler," Gable once told me, "but Selznick just wouldn't take no for an answer. I was always glad he's such a great salesman."

Scarlett O'Hara was harder to find. Selznick's aide recalls that a two-year search for Scarlett was much more than good publicity for the picture.

ETED WAITRESS

"Selznick couldn't order a cup of coffee from a pretty waitress without musically casting her for the part," the aide says.

Most of the biggest stars in the business begged for the role but Selznick knew what he wanted and turned them all down.

"This part had to be cast perfectly," Selznick recalls. "I would not be pressured. I would not compromise my conception of the girl."

Agnes Moorehead, Selznick's sister-in-law, brought an obscure English actress on the set one day while they were learning Atlanta. It was about the 500th girl Myron had shown his face to.

This time, David's face lit up and Vivien Leigh became Scarlett.

Umpires Quit OBA

SIMCOE (CP) — The Norfolk Umpires Association Tuesday withdrew from all further Ontario Baseball Association games after the OBA reversed an umpire's decision.

The NUA supplies umpires for all OBA, Ontario Amateur Softball Association and local league games from Dunnville to Aylmer.

The dispute arose when umpire George White ruled a Campbellville base - runner had been hit by a batted ball in the second game of the OBA Intermediate A playoff game against Simcoe. The decision scrubbed two - Campbellville runs and Simcoe won 6-5, squaring the set at one game each.

The OBA upheld a Campbellville protest and ordered the game replayed from the point of the disputed call, in the ninth inning with one out, two aboard and Campbellville leading 5-4.

Simcoe, meanwhile, has launched a counter - protest that the OBA decision is contrary to the association's by-laws.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Peter Del Grosso retired Toronto contractor, made the largest claim ever recorded in Canadian racing Tuesday when he paid $36,000 for Accuchi a two - year-old horse, out of the fifth race at Old Woodbine.

Accuchi has won once, finished second four times and third three times in 11 starts this season.

Cards Get Guglielmi As Quarter

ST. LOUIS (AP)—St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League Tuesday erased some of the uncertainty around their quarterback position by acquiring Ralph Guglielmi from Washington - Redskins.

Walter Wolfner, the Cards' managing director, said: "We want to be sure we have an experienced quarterback until we're certain about the condition of Sam Etcheverry's sore arm."

The Cards signed Etcheverry last winter and made no bones about counting on the nine-year vet from the Montreal Alouettes to pitch them into NFL contention.

SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

But Etcheverry, 31, developed a sore arm at the start of training and has been of little help. He showed signs of regaining his passing form in a workout Monday, however, and both Wolfner and coach Frank (Pop) Ivy believe he'll be all right.

Guglielmi, 27, turned in the seventh-best performance in the league last year with 125 completions out of 232 pass attempts for 1,547 yards and nine touchdowns. He is a running quarterback, having topped NFL quarterbacks in rushing yardage in 1960.

Wolfner said the trade is conditional on Guglielmi's recovery from a sprained back. If the condition doesn't clear up, the Cards will receive the Skins' No. 1 draft choice in 1962.

Izo, 24, was hampered most of his rookie season last year by a knee injury.

Etcheverry will probably start at quarterback for the Giants in New York Sunday, if he's ready.

Bisons, Jets Win Openers

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Columbus and Buffalo drew first blood in the opening round of the International League semi - final playoffs Tuesday night as the league champion Bisons defeated Rochester 4-3 and the Jets forced Charleston

Jim Umbricht, a nine - game winner for the Jets, fired a six - hitter. He lost his shutout in the seventh on doubles by Fred Valentine and Stan Jok.

Back - to - back home runs by Clendenon broke the scoreless deadlock in the fourth inning as the Jets scored three runs. Clendenon also drove in the final Columbus run in the fifth with a double.

Buffalo scored two runs after two were out in the ninth to derail Joe Marlins and Ray Washburn. Washburn retired the first two batters but Don Mincher unloaded a home run to tie the score. Felix Torres doubled and Cal Hoeman walked. Bob Tiefenauer relieved Washburn and Bob Wine touched him for a double to score Torres with the winning run.

Alvin Jackson (13-7) will pitch for Columbus tonight against Rochester's John Anderson (14-9) in the second game of the best-of seven set. Paul Brown (3-2) or Bill Smith (9-7) will get the call for Buffalo against Charleston's Dean Stone (12-8).

HODGE PODGE

The Latta baseball team of the South Hastings League has pooled its diamond resources to help out a teammate. Next Sunday Latta will play the league all-stars on the Latta diamond in an exhibition game. The entire proceeds will go to Roy Crankwright, the Latta second baseman, who has been having more than a double share of bad luck . . . Crankwright who has been consistently one of the better players of the team, had an illness that made necessary the collapse of a lung. He won't be playing baseball for a while, and won't be able to work for a long time. The loss of his income and medication added to his troubles . . . South Hastings League fans can help a fine player by attending the game next Sunday.

Handsome Tony Marino, the Number One Boy in a lot of wrestling fans' books hereabouts, and in other places, takes on "The Great Kudo" here Friday night in a test of speed versus brawn and skullduggery. Last Friday the "Whipper" won over the Kudo when the latter called on Stan Stasiak for help in the third fall . . . Stasiak meets Gino Marello Friday in the semi-final while Man Mountain Campbell engages Pat Flanagan in the opener.

The CAHA joint rules committee has approved a new type of skate featuring special protective device in the heel of the tube. The device consists of a plastic plug permanently attached to the heel of the tube and blade. All new skates will incorporate it. Manufacturers advise that supplies will be available through skate sharpeners and suppliers so that standard skates can be converted quite simply. Cost of the "guard" for present skates is 75 cents the pair . . . The CBC has purchased the television rights for the world championship hockey tournament in 1962.

Ken Soden with his junior "A" champions on the move toward their second provincial title, wants to keep the youngsters "hot" for the next stopping place. The Kenmores are booked to play the Canadian Clippers in a "Special exhibition" game at the Fair Grounds tonight starting at 8.15. Should be a tidy tilt.

Harry Morgan, district softball league vice prexy, and a coach with the Joyces Real Estate squad is in hospital recovering from a cartilage removal from a knee. Nothing serious I hope, Harry m'lad . . . Picton Walts meet Waterford tonight at 8.30 under the klegs in Picton in the first tilt of the OASA Intermediate "B" quarter-finals . . . Don Head, former Windsor Bulldog, now up with Boston, set a penalty record for the last season with Portland. Head received 100 minutes. He doesn't like anyone encroaching on his territory. Ask Ted Power, former Chatham coach.

YES, WHAT?

What is going on softball-wise as regards the District League? Is the Cobourg outfit trying to pull the circuit down at the tail end of a good season? Charges of game fixtures, and denials have tossed the loop situation into a tizzy. League officials have been quoted as refusing to act another year. One coach has quit and there are threats of another tossing in the sponge.

One Cobourg official is stated to have arranged a game fixture with Joyces Real Estate. Another official of the same club denies that such "a deal" had been made.

It is said that the game in question was left to officials of the participating clubs. When the first hint of disagreement on dates was aired the executive should have stepped in and handled the situation with a firm hand. That is what executives are for.

And is it merely coincidental that Cobourg stalled for a later date when some of the key players of the Joyce team would either be unavailable or prevented from playing by school commitments?

It looks to this corner that Gerry Joyce, sponsor of Joyces Real Estate club, is showing good sportsmanship. Despite the stalling of the Cobourg club and a first refusal to play out the series, Joyce said: "We'll play it out if only for the fans' sake. Our youngsters want to play—and as far as I am concerned they will. Cobourg has everything it asked for."

Yankees Have Everything, Even Rain

M And M Homerless

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle were held homerless Tuesday night by Chicago hurlers, but the American League leading New York Yankees edged the Chicago White Sox 4-3 in a rain - shortened contest that cost each slugger his best at-bat in their battle to break Babe Ruth's record.

Reduced to a three - game edge over Ruth's record 60 homer pace of 1927, Maris cited Soar for what he called "poor balls and strikes calls."

Both Maris, who now needs four homers in the next nine decisions to tie the Bambino's mark in the allotted time of 154 games, and Mantle were held homerless by Billy Pierce and Frank Baumann, but each had a single before the game was called in the last of the sixth.

LOWERS MAGIC NUMBER

The triumph kept the Yankees 11½ games ahead of Detroit Tigers, but lowers their magic number to seven. Any combination of seven wins or Detroit losses will bring New York its 11th pennant in the last 15 years and the first for rookie manager Ralph Houk.

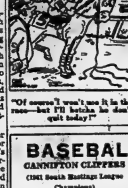
The Tigers kept pace by beating Kansas City 7-1 for Frank Lary's 20th victory, and Washington whipped Boston 5-1 on Fritz Dumalski's 4-hitter.

The Los Angeles - Minnesota twin bill was postponed by rain. Baltimore and Cleveland were not scheduled.

Maris and Mantle were instrumental in the Yankees' 13th consecutive triumph with Maris wheeling home with the winning run in the fifth on Elston Howard's single after opening with a single and moving up on Mantle's base hit. Maris, who went to the plate four times, also walked in the first and scored, while Mantle, who has 32 homers, struck out and flied deep to centre in his other at-bats.

Ralph Terry (14-2) won it for the Yanks although tagged for eight hits — one the game's only homer by little Luis Aparicio. Roy Sievers' single in the third drove in two unearned runs, but Terry needed the rain to end a delicate situation.

Al Smith began the final inning with a double to left centre and Nellie Fox moved him to third with a sacrifice. The Yanks pulled the infield in and held Smith at third while Luis Landis grounded out. Then the rains came.



LATTER ONE ENDING

Pierce (9-9), who lasted one inning — he gave up three runs and four hits — was charged with the loss, his third without a win against New York this season. Terry is 3-0 against the White Sox.

Lary (20-6) won his 20th on the fourth go - round with a five - hitter when the Tigers came up with two in the eighth against Jerry Walker (7-12). Billy Bruton's triple, a walk, Norm Cash's sacrifice fly, and singles by Dick McAuliffe and Steve Boros got the job done after Dick Brown tied it in the fifth with his 12th homer. Homer No. 8 for Deron Johnson accounted for the A's run.

Burnside's second complete game in his last three starts brought his record to 3-4. Bill Monbouquette (13-13), the loser, had a no - hitter until the fifth when the Senators scored four runs on singles by Jim King, Ken Retzer, Chuck Cottier, Coot Veal and Danny O'Connell.

Aggravates Old Injury

Olmstead Said Out For 6 Weeks

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Veteran Bert Olmstead is become the hard luck boy of Toronto Maple Leafs.

In the second game of last season's Stanley Cup semi-final against Detroit Red Wings, Olmstead injured his left knee when he was checked by Detroit's Gordie Howe.

The left - winger found the injured knee has gone gimpy again Tuesday and went from the National Hockey League club's Peterborough training camp to Toronto for a checkup. Doctors told him he'll be off skates for 6 weeks and ordered the leg into a cast immediately.

Speculation was that Olmstead, always a sparkplug for the Leafs and one of the most impressive players in training so far, was trying too hard.

Others said the injury had no relation to last season's ailment.

Chicago Black Hawks, skating off the pounds at St. Catharines, also had an injury Tuesday, but not as serious as Olmstead's. Defenceman Bob Turner, obtained from Montreal Canadiens in a summer trade, took two stitches under his left eye and two on the bridge of his nose to close cuts picked up when a stick accidentally swung high.

ALL SPOTS OPEN

General manager Tommy Ivan warned players at a special meeting that all 17 spots on the Stanley Cup champion club are open. He said after the meeting that when a team wins a championship there is apt to be lethargy among club players and "we don't want any of this nonsense around here."

The most impressive rookie in early stages of training has been Dale McCourt, a 22-year-old centre from Saskatoon. He's expected to play this season with either Calgary Stampeders of the Western League or Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds of the Eastern Professional League, both Chicago farm clubs.

Detroit manager Jack Adams said Tuesday the Red Wings are going to go again this year with two goaltenders. Top contenders are Terry Sawchuk and Hank Bassen who shared the netminding last year, and Dennis Riggin, with Edmonton of the WHL.

Fledgling coach Doug Harvey started toying with New York Rangers' established patterns Tuesday as he switched stay-at-home Andy Bathgate to right-winger and Dennis Hull to centre. The former Montreal Canadiens defenceman, who is plans to play as well as coach, started

Lightfoots Win Opener

Lightfoot Construction scored seven free tickets to first. six runs in the first inning last night and went on to whip Trudeau Motors 9-3 in the opening game of their Commercial softball league finals.

The second game in the best-of-seven series is slated for the CNHA Park at 6.15 Thursday night.

The Lightfoots sent ten men to the plate in the first, scoring their six runs on three hits, two walks and three Trudeau errors.

Trudeaus pecked away with single markers in each of the first three frames but Lightfoots wrapped it up with another rally in the fourth. This time they scored on two walks, two singles, a double and a triple doing the damage.

Jim Jones picked on the Lightfoot hill but gave way to Percy Long in the third. Long blanked the losers over the remainder. They gave up five hits to all - Long fanned six and walked none while Jones struck out three and walked four.

Larry Hull was tagged for all the winners' runs off eight of their nine hits in the game. Junior Day pitched the seventh. Hull struck out two and issued

Chuck Rowbotham hit a double and single and Jack Carvin had two singles to spearhead the Lightfoot attack. Don Wood tripled, Percy Long doubled and one-baggers went to Rusty Garvin, Ralph Plane and Don Dolan.

Ab Wright and R. Sise garnered doubles in the losers' cause while singles were split among Jack Whiting, "Shaker" Baker and Bob Wright.

Hits 3 Homers, Single, Reds Win

Phils' Demeter Routs Dodgers 19-10

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Staff Writer

Darrell Johnson, acquired by Cincinnati in mid-August, drove in three runs with a pair of doubles Tuesday night as the Reds beat the Chicago Cubs 7-2 and boosted their edge over second-place Los Angeles Dodgers to 4½ games.

Johnson, a 34-year-old with a .333 career league batting average at the start of the season, has been hitting a .271 clip since he was purchased by the Reds. But his exploits Tuesday night had to share top billing with those of Don Demeter of the Philadelphia Phils.

Demeter crashed three homers and a single, driving in seven runs in a 19-10 rout of the pennant - chasing Dodgers. Joe Gibbon's three - hitter for Pittsburgh blanked San Francisco 3-0, and a five - hitter by St. Louis' Bob Gibson checked Milwaukee Braves 4-1.

TEAM FOR WIN

Johnson and Wally Post formed a formidable 1-2 punch for the Reds against starter Dick Ellsworth (8-11) and hit successively off Cincinnati's best its No. 1 nemesis for only the ninth time in 21 meetings between the clubs. Post hit his 19th homer in the fourth and Johnson hit his clincher off Jim O'Toole (15-9) with a sixth inning single that scored Elio Chacon.

O'Toole was in command throughout although he allowed a single tally in the sixth on George Altaman's single and Andre Rodgers' double, and another in the seventh on a walk and singles by Don Zimmer and Ernie Banks.

In a game that had nine homers — five by the Phils — 29 hits and the most runs scored against the Dodgers since they moved to Los Angeles in 1958, Demeter's performance was easily the standout. The former Dodger hit a two-run homer in the first, drove in a run with a single in a three-run second, homered with two on in the seventh and hit a solo shot in the ninth.

RALLY TO WIN

The nine - run second inning won it for the Phils, who trailed 4-0 at the point, and chased starter Sandy Koufax (15-11). Clay Dalrymple hit two singles and batted in three runs as Philadelphia broke the game open on six hits, three walks, an error and a hit batsman. Chris Short (6-10) picked up the victory in relief.

Charlie Smith, another former Dodger, and Ruben Amaro also homered for the Phils while Wally Moon, Gordon Windhorn, Frank Howard and Charlie Neal connected for Los Angles.

Dick Stuart hooked twice, driving in all Pittsburgh's runs off Mike McCormick (12-13) as Gibbon (11-10) completely subdued the Giants' bats and snapped their four - game winning streak.

Run - producing singles by Charlie James and Don Taussig and an error on a throw home won it for Gibson (11-11) as the Cardinals chased Milwaukee starter Bob Hendley with three runs in the seventh. Hendley (4-4) had blanked St. Louis for six innings on two hits, and led 1-0 on Eddie Mathews' 27th homer.

Poor Calls at Plate

Maris Blasts Umpire

CHICAGO (AP) — Roger Maris criticized plate umpire Hank Soar for making what he called "poor balls and strikes calls against me" in New York Yankees' game against Chicago White Sox Tuesday night.

The Yankees won 4-3 with rain ending the game in the bottom of the sixth inning.

Maris, who started the game with 56 home runs, was walked by southpaw Bibby Pierce and Frank Baumann in his attempt to gain ground on Babe Ruth's record of 60 homers in a season.

In four times at bat, he walked, was called out on strikes, singled and fouled out.

In the Yankee clubhouse while the teams were waiting out the delay, Maris complained:

"I didn't get too many strikes tonight. I've been getting called strikes. I was swinging in self-defence."

Reminded that his beef might be construed by some as an alibi, Maris replied:

"I know that. But what I said still goes. I haven't said anything against the umpires all year. I tried to lay off them tonight but it just kept up time after time. Soar made at least three bad calls on me. "I knew an umpire can have a bad day, just as a player can have one and I realize that umpires have it tough, but all I'm asking for is a fair shake."

Maris now is three homers ahead of Ruth's pace of 1927.

TV Package Deal for Pro Teams

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill to permit professional football, baseball, basketball and hockey leagues to enter into package television agreements was approved Tuesday by the House judiciary committee.

The bill would restore a National Football League contract with the Columbia Broadcasting System that was held by a federal court last July to be in violation of previous anti-trust rulings.

Whether the bill can be pushed through the crowded calendars of the House and Senate before adjournment is problematical. In any event, it is not expected to have any effect on this year's NFL season.

Police testified they raided the house and found a table covered with dice, cards and a small amount of money.

Play Here Tomorrow

Joyces Meet Cobourg

The rabbid Joyce Real Estate-Cobourg Merchant feud switches from the committee room back to the ball diamond tomorrow (Thursday) night when the two clubs tangle at the Fairgrounds here.

This will officially be the third game in the best-of-seven Belleville and District Softball League finals for the Bill Ott Trophy. Game time is 8.15.

Joyces lead the series two games to none.

The fourth game will be played back in Cobourg on "Bob Neil Night," Saturday, at 8.15 p.m. As usual, the ball park there will be packed and if the Joyce players are as good as their word, "that will be the last game of the season."

Manager Bill Shaw will likely send Doug Ellis to the pitching mound here tomorrow night. The Joyce squad will be without Bobby Hull, Guy Austin and Stu Muirhead but the latter two are expected to travel from Hamilton and Peterborough for Saturday night's game.

STRENGTHENS POSITION

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Philadelphia's Joky Giardello, 161¼ pounds, scored a unanimous 10-round decision over Jesse Smith, 159½, of Chicago Tuesday night. Giardello's victory makes his record 86-21-5 and secures his position as the 10th-ranked middleweight contender. For Smith it broke a string of six wins and put his record at 46-6-2.

By JIM PEACOCK

DAWSON CREEK, B.C. (CP) — Ellis Gislason is the father of the 1,500-odd-high Mile O pole that spouts in the centre of this city's main intersection.

"I was in the sign business and a member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at the time, and this was the idea," explains.

The job was to come up with a publicity-attracting symbol for tourists heading north on the 1,523-mile highway which runs from Dawson Creek, 400 miles northwest of Edmonton, to Fairbanks, Alaska.

The Jaycees decided upon a large mile post, considerably more elaborate than the 1,522 others between here and Fairbanks on the famous highway built in two years by the U.S. Army during the 1941-42 Japanese threat to Alaska.

In 1946, Mr. Gislason constructed the original—a square wooden post 10 feet high with a rectangular flat-surfaced board atop it listing the highway mileages. It's set firmly in a concrete base.

TARGET OF DRUNKS

In the ensuing years, he's maintained it, frequently repainting it and repairing the damages done by late-wielding drunk, souvenir hunters and sharpshooters who shot out the signs just as it is often that the lamp was abandoned.

"The post has proven itself a tourist attraction," said Mr. Gislason, now 52, as tourists clustered over the asphalt to photograph the flag-bedecked pole.

To the residents here, it's become a symbol of the life breath of the city, which grew from a population of 900 in 1940 to its present 12,300, because of the highway.

Mr. Gislason, a 30-year resident of the community, having come here in 1943 from Rosebank, Sask., to open a radio shop and then the Mile Zero sign-masser, has made the mile post pay off financially, too.

Since 1946 when he first began making miniature posts for sale to tourists and collectors, he's sold nearly 30,000 of them at $1.75 and up.

"A Japanese firm wanted to get rights to make the posts a while ago," Mr. Gislason said. "But the junior chamber holds the copyright on the design and they thought it was better that it be made locally. I think so, too."

Police Probing Death of Man Found in Bay

PARRY SOUND (CP) — The Provincial Police criminal investigation branch has ordered an investigation into the death of 72-year-old Kenneth C. MacPherson, whose body was recovered from Georgian Bay Sunday.

MacPherson went to his cottage on Eeben Island, 14 miles northwest of here, Aug. 29 but was not there when a water taxi called for him Saturday.

U.S. Can Avoid Atomic War Or Win It if It Comes by Taking Necessary Measures

— Dr. Teller

Dr. Edward Teller, world-famous nuclear scientist, believes 80 per cent of the U.S. population could survive an atomic war if necessary precautions were taken. He's the first of a three articles on the subject.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The date is none dreadful tomorrow.

The holocaust of nuclear war suddenly sweeps the United States.

But 90 per cent of Americans would probably survive, declares Dr. Edward Teller of H-bomb fame.

And in three to four years, they could rebuild decalcted industries, cities, schools, homes. Democratic institutions would function again.

Lingering radiation would be a problem, but not insuperable, he says. The human would not perish. Nor would future generations be destined to be born misshapen monsters.

Dr. Teller is convinced the U.S. and other nations could survive despite the "doomsday" fear which grips and paralyzes millions of people in the face of nuclear war.

ATTITUDE 'TEMPTATION'

Indeed, he regards this attitude and lack of defence as a temptation for a well-prepared nation to launch thermonuclear war.

And it is an invitation to suicidal wholesale, needless loss of life if bombs ever fall, says the famous physicist of the Lawrence radiation laboratory of the University of California.

Three steps could create the defence for insurance against war, or for national survival if it comes, Dr. Teller said in an interview challenging many geneticists' conceptions.

The Soviets have open testing areas in Siberia, he noted. The United States into more testing, and arouse adverse opinion.

But an edge won through secret testing could mean "they are so far ahead in weaponry they don't care what we do."

Dr. Teller says "if we don't prepare, 100 million Americans could die in the first days of an all-out nuclear war. Thirty to forty millions more could die from starvation and disease. The United States would cease to exist."

MANY WOULD DIE

"But I firmly believe 80 per cent of our population could be saved. It means 20 million would die, and that's terrible to contemplate. But why not try to give 80 per cent a decent chance for survival?"

He is dismayed by "those who say that a nuclear war necessarily means the end of everything."

Police later found his body 500 feet from the cottage, after discovering a quantity of liquor, some guns and his car keys were missing from the building.

In Parry Sound, police found MacPherson's car door open. Friends said it was unlikely he would have forgotten to lock it.

"The fear of radiation is much greater than it deserves to be. It is not true that radiation, even from an all-out war, would destroy all forms of life.

"And it is simply not true that if war came, everything is hopeless.

"We can prepare.

"One third of our people would not even be in danger, because they don't live near targets the bombs hit.

"One-third could be protected well enough by fallout shelters.

"One-third would be in trouble, but they could have a 70-per-cent chance of survival, if given decent shelters."

(Tomorrow: Shelters, stockpiles, and civil defence)

General Tendencies— A fine day to discover whatever you do not understand and to make a point to investigate all phases of the interests that are of special concern to you, especially in the manners stated for your own sign following. Make a point tonight not to make any drastic changes or to be sarcastic with anyone you are with.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Concentrate upon getting monetary affairs ameliorated so that your income will be greater — co-operate with key persons more. Also, be particularly understanding and courteous with loved ones. You have been too opinionated in the past.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) —Sit down and talk over with associates the plans and policies that are best for the future. Be very careful you do not get into any arguments when you are out in the evening. If you carry through with diligentica, all will be well.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) —Labor diligently and more efficiently today than you have in the past, and you will make great strides forward. Evening is best spent at home improving surroundings, wardrobe, health and finally avoid taking any untoward risks. Be eagey.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — A fine day to bring your particular talents before the public and commercialize on them. Be sure you first take the beauty treatments you need. Important you are economical in P.M. where entertainment you need. Important you are economical in P.M. where entertainment is concerned.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — An ideal day to handle any property or money matters today, but it behooves you not to invest too heavily or gamble in any way. Then evening is fine for bringing greater harmony into your home life so that you are happier, more energetic.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) —If you spent some time conversing with associates at leisure, you will hit upon fine, new ideas that are constructive and lucrative. Later, fine for purchases, sales, activity of all kind. Take care while out driving in P.M.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Be sure you know what your true financial standing is so that you can make constructive plans to get a greater abundance in the future. Talk over ideas with your banker or worthwhile advisor. Get budget set up.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) —A day to follow on inclinations pretty much. Be sure you first get health better and are nicely dressed, then off to the races, as it were. P.M. clear of any foolish spending or gambling. Be courteous with everyone.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — You are able to find the right answers to puzzling problems today and can then plan a more prosperous future. P.M. strive for harmony at home. Quietly watch television or read worthwhile literature. Be happy.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Seek out the most dynamic and progressive friends you have so that you can combine your efforts toward some constructive, corporate venture. It is best to steer clear of social affairs in P.M., but if compulsive, be unobstructive.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) —It is important that you labor diligently now and seek greater prestige, though you much want to go out for a good time. Be sure you do not make any heavy investments in P.M. and lose credit you have laboriously built up.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) —Here is a day when much that is modern and progressive comes to your attention and you should immediately study into these systems and ideas so that you will be able to make them work to your benefit in the future. Make new contacts, too.

If your child is born today ... there will soon be evident a most wonderful ability to appraise others correctly and this quality alone will take your progeny far in life, provided there is also a good academic education to go with it for the great promise in this most unusual chart. The banker is here, whether male or female, as well as the scientist, doctor and professor. Give fine spiritual training to bring out the leader in this horoscope.

NORTHERN BIRD

Defence Minister Sees Attempt To Frighten People

Says Some Following Terror Tactics of Mr. K.

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Harkness says attempts are being made through exaggerated talk about Soviet nuclear capabilities to frighten Canadians into adopting pacifist or neutralist attitudes.

Those behind the attempts are "carrying to the Canadian people the terror tactics" of Soviet Premier Khrushchev, he told the Commons Wednesday.

Mr. Harkness was speaking during the second day of debate on his department's 1961-62 spending estimates. The debate continues today.

He said he had read in a newspaper where 1,000 nuclear bombs could be landed on Canada by intercontinental ballistic missiles.

"It is a complete impossibility," he went on. "I am afraid that many of the people who are talking this way are doing so deliberately with the idea of creating in some people and frighten them into adopting a pacifist or neutralist attitude.

TROOPS IN EUROPE

Mr. Harkness reiterated that the important thing to consider in the matter of the nuclear bomb is "not the total number that you can land in one place in a stockpile but the means of delivering it." Russia had a "very limited" number of ICBMs capable of delivering bombs on North America. The chief means of delivery would have to be by manned bomber.

The defence minister said the Khrushchev terror tactic of threatening to drop 100-megaton bombs on the West "is being helped, I think, by a lot of people who do not understand the difference between talk or for granted that if a one megaton bomb does no more damage than a megaton bomb will do 100 times as much."

"This is not the case, and as anybody who is familiar with explosives knows, the blast from the explosion dissipates quite rapidly."

The debate ranged over a wide range of topics including NATO, the Korean war and the possible acquisition of nuclear weapons by Canada's armed forces.

DEFENDING QUALITY

Mr. Harkness defended the quality of Canada's armed forces in replying to his parliamentary secretary the day before.

Those points:

1. Canadian military equipment is "excellent" and so are Canada's forces. Canada's anti-

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said the government is considering training "great numbers" of people for duty in the event of nuclear attack—in addition to 600 militiamen.

Paul Hellyer (L — Toronto Trinity) declared the ICBM as a "broomstick army" and said the government has taken inadequate civil defence measures.

Walter Pitman (NDP — Peterborough) said it is a "national disgrace" Canadians have to pay $300 for a fallout shelter.

Defence Minister Harkness said Newfoundland's Premier Smallwood refused to sign a document and asked that $1,100 troops to fight forest fires, instead, be provided in equitable over costs.

J. W. Pickersgill (L — Bonavista-Twillingate) urged the defence department to donate the services of its troops.

Jeanne Sauvé (NDP — Prescott) said the Diefenbaker government should have developed before the Peace River power scheme in British Columbia.

External Affairs Minister Green said no Canadian troops are involved in the current fighting in Katanga province in the Congo.

THURSDAY, Sept. 14

The Commons meets at 11 a.m. to debate defence expenditures. The Senate sits at 3 p.m.

Today's Clucks

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: The end of the warm humid weather over Southern Ontario is in sight. The remnants of hurricane Carla (vi) is moving across the province today will bring cool, dry weather accompanied by showers and thunderstorms.

Firefighting Bill to Nfld. Causes Squabble

OTTAWA (CP) — Another squabble—this time over firefighting costs — appears to be brewing between Newfoundland and Ottawa.

The matter came to light in the Commons Wednesday when Egan Chambers, parliamentary secretary to Defence Minister Harkness, revealed that the defence department has billed Nova Scotia for $60,125 "out-of-pocket expenses" for helping fight forest fires in that province in September, 1960. More than 400 troops were used.

It is understood that Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland found out about this federal bill to Nova Scotia before he was asked by the local military commander to sign a document pledging he had asked for 1,000 troops to help fight fires in Newfoundland.

Defence Minister Harkness said it is always the practice for the local civilian authority to sign the form when asking for federal help such as this. Mr. Harkness added he was sorry to say Mr. Smallwood "refused" to sign.

The implication was that Ottawa may make a charge next time preventing Newfoundland with a firefighting bill.

J. W. Pickersgill, Liberal MP for Bonavista-Twillingate, one of the Newfoundland seats, urged the defence department to donate the services of the 1,100 soldiers sent to Newfoundland last month when Gander airport was threatened by a forest fire. Mr. Harkness said he would bring up the suggestion at the next meeting of the Cabinet defence committee.

Mr. Harkness said that in such cases the civilian authority is requested to pay the cost of transport and of any equipment used up or destroyed.

OIL COMPANIES CALL EVIDENCE 'DEFAMATORY'

Trades Association Under Bitter Attack

OTTAWA (CP)—Bitter accusations of slander and defamation were voiced Wednesday by oil company legal counsel before a restrictive trade practices hearing on service-station merchandising.

Three companies attacked the sworn testimony and submission of the National Automotive Trades Association as "purely hearsay," "defamatory," "vicious" and "ill-considered."

Counsel for Canadian Automotive Wholesalers and Manufacturers Association also opposed to some oil-company retail marketing policies, in turn questioned the oil company practice before the commission of making "defamatory" reports insensitive without summoning witnesses.

Commission Chairman C. Rhodes Smith repeated that the three-man board will give hearsay evidence the limited consideration it deserves. He also expressed disappointment at information by all companies that they lose money on retail sales but they charge licences for service stations.

Prof. Brian Dixon, economist of Queen's University, said exclusive dealing facilities may not be used to full capacity.

OIL DEALERS HAPPY

Oil companies contended that competition is increasing in retail service station sales, that consumer choice, most dealers are happy with existing conditions and that there's access to agreements with certain suppliers don't mean higher consumer prices as alleged.

Hearing began Monday is expected to continue today and Mr. Smith has said there have been as many as 50 requests for hearings elsewhere.

The hearing follows investigation under the Combines Investigation Act which voiced concern about certain marketing practices in service stations. Such involves the practice of directing customers to certain operators to handle tires, batteries and other items or accessories from specified suppliers with whom the oil company has an agreement.

The other practice called into question is that of exclusive service stations to handle a line supplied by the oil company, under its own brand as in the case of Imperial Oil Limited, or supplied under other brands as in the case of British American Oil Company Limited, which acts as its own wholesaler.

ATTACKS TESTIMONY

Tzazco Canada Limited is a special statement Wednesday attacked the Dixon and Smith opinion testimony by protesting reference to a 24-hour cancellation clause in the service station leases. The company repeated as it did Tuesday that the clause also can be invoked by the tenant.

Imperial Oil said "wild statements" had been made by witnesses and that the oil company newspaper headlines than responsible testimony.

Gulf Oil Canada said it protested "smear statements." It said the clause in effect the consumer pays more for service-station tires, batteries and accessories than he would if the company had no market-access agreement with suppliers.

Both companies attacked claims that service-station operators were reluctant to appeal because of economic reprisal. Elected officials of the National Automotive Trades Association were operations who executed the petitions and questions and who had attended the hearing "Obviously fear evident, the companies said.

"The United Kingdom cannot have its cake and eat it—cannot retain the freedom of action which is incompatible with membership of the Commonwealth."

Selwyn Lloyd, the U.K. chief-pollor of the exchequer, outlined the day-long discussion, took issue with Fleming's basic argument.

Lloyd said he didn't think the U.K.'s membership in the Commonwealth and the European Common Market are irreconcilable.

"If it came to a choice, you know what our answer would be," Lloyd told the ministers of other Commonwealth countries in Ghana's School of Law. Informants said Lloyd did not predict that Britain would be to stay within the Commonwealth.

Lloyd also said he envisages a conference of Commonwealth

Two Soviet Marshals Warn War Would Become Nuclear

MOSCOW (AP) — Two Soviet marshals warned today that any war between Russia and West would turn into a nuclear holocaust.

Defence Minister Marshal Rodion Malinovsky wrote in Pravda that Soviet forces would be at an advantage because their rockets can deliver no-clear bombs that "will reach the aggressor in his own den."

Malinovsky and Marshal Rotmistrov have great nuclear arms "amounting to may millions of tons of TNT."

Western correspondents received a similar view in a piece that with another marshal, Vasily Chuikov wrote, commanded victorious Soviet forces at Stalingrad. He is deputy defence minister and inspector-general of the Red Army.

Rotmistrov spoke to newspaper men while flying back to Moscow from a visit to Stalingrad. He recalled that two months ago he wrote in the Soviet magazine International Affairs that U.S. officials were boosting their conventional forces to avoid forcing into a nuclear war.

He told the correspondents it will not work out that way—small wars will develop into nuclear conflicts.

To support his view, the marshal said the First World War began with rifles and machine - guns but ended with tanks; the second began with rifles and ended with nuclear weapons, and the third would start with rockets carrying nuclear warheads.

Malinovsky wrote:

"The aggressors should remember that the powerful rocket of the Soviet Union, not the Vostok I and Vostok II ships into orbit can lift and deliver to a target bombs to any point on earth."

Western Foreign Ministers Prepare to Talk With Reds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Western big four foreign ministers will hold a conference here today to chart the Allied stand to Russia next week on negotiations for a Berlin settlement.

U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk and Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville of France arrive today to discuss the facilities that may not be used to full capacity.

BIG DEALERS HAPPY

Oil companies contended that competition is increasing in retail service station sales, that consumer choice, most dealers are happy with existing conditions and that there's access to agreements with certain suppliers don't mean higher consumer prices as alleged.

Fleming, Hees Hit British Bid for Common Market

ACCRA (CP)—Finance Minister Fleming of Canada said Wednesday that the United Kingdom is irretrievably "launched on a slippery slope" in membership in the European Common Market. As a result the Commonwealth never will be the same again.

In an impassioned speech the Commonwealth economic ministers conference, the Canadian minister said Britain is free and sovereign—is the indispensable leader of the Commonwealth.

But Canada could see no prospect that the U.K., having opened negotiations for Common Market membership, could withdraw now.

Whatever the result of the negotiations, he said, relations between Britain and the Commonwealth members never will be the same again.

"We are to look at the possibilities of negotiations with a degree of realism, we cannot fail to see that economic and political relationships within the Commonwealth will be fundamentally changed."

In an hour-long statement to the closed conference, Fleming also said:

"The United Kingdom cannot have its cake and eat it—cannot retain the freedom of action which is incompatible with membership of the Commonwealth."

Selwyn Lloyd, the U.K. chief-pollor of the exchequer, outlined the day-long discussion, took issue with Fleming's basic argument.

MANY CIVILIANS MAY BE TRAINED IN CIVIL DEFENCE

Could Perform Numerous Duties

OTTAWA (CP) — Training of "great numbers" of civilians for duty in event of nuclear attack on Canada is being considered by the government, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Wednesday in the Commons.

He said this would be in addition to present plans to train 600,000 militiamen for six weeks each for rescue operations.

Paul Hellyer, Liberal defence critic, described the 100,000 as a "broomstick army" and said the government had taken only partial and inadequate civil defence measures.

Walter Pitman (NDP—Peterborough) said civil defence measures would be effective only if the government told it to the public that it is serious about them.

The debate arose when Mr. Diefenbaker presented the appropriations for the Emergency Measures Organization which comes under the prime minister. He outlined the organization's national survival plans, something he said, no one relished.

CALL TENDERS

He made these points:

1. Tenders have been called for construction of a variety of bombproof fallout shelters at the Civil Defence College at Arnprior.

2. The works department has surveyed 4,830 federal buildings in Canada to determine what fallout shelter or blast protection they have and how much accommodation could be made available to the public.

3. More than 1,000,000 copies of the pamphlet Emergency Preparedness have been printed and another large printing is on order.

4. An emergency organization for the Ottawa area under brigadier has been established.

5. Plans have been made for 1,000 lifted in Ottawa in an emergency.

6. Plans have been made for communications system.

7. The fire protection department has planned the organization of a war supplies agency for control, requisitioning and distribution of all supplies and the establishment of rationing and price controls "if required."

Never Received Any Goods, Racks for $1,200

TORONTO (CP) — A farmer told court here Wednesday he lost $1,200 in a merchandising deal that never got off the ground on trial for fraud involving $300,000.

Leon Wilson of Foxboro, near Belleville, said he posted a $1,200 certified cheque with Canadian Dealing Limited in a deal the company would involve receiving racks of merchandise for sales in 10 Belleville area stores and stocking the racks at a profit.

He said he never received any goods or racks or repayment of his money.

The jury trial started Tuesday before Judge Gordon Wismer. Some 170 witnesses were expected to testify.

The accused, all of whom pleaded not guilty, are Anthony Kozanic, 34, Stanley Pickard, 35, Earl D. Black, 30, Donald Pickard, 39, William C. Goddard, 36, David F. Cashen, 35, Thomas Norman, 40, and Brian Cassidy, 37. They all live in a Toronto, Nordman in Ottawa and Cassidy in Montreal.

Receptionist, Who Sheltered Pole, Wants to Exchange Lives

MONTREAL (CP)—A 27-year-old receptionist who defied Premier Franzisk Tobiasz after he defected from the Polish passenger liner Batory Friday said she would exchange "my life for his."

Sophia Horan said in an interview she was "prepared and willing" to make the exchange if it would help Tobiasz remain in Canada."

Miss Horan said she has written a letter to Prime Minister Diefenbaker asking him to intervene.

Tobiasz, who claims there is no democracy in his native country, is awaiting the outcome of his appeal against an immigration deportation order by department Minister Sharp.

Tshombe Hides, Offered Refuge In Rhodesia

Guerrilla War Threat Against UN Kept Alive

LEOPOLDVILLE — Katangan troops and armed civilians today kept up sporadic resistance to the United Nations takeover of their capital of Elisabethville.

But the UN claimed the troops control all strategic points in the city.

Firing continued throughout the night and it was reported that the Katangans cut off all electric power from the Katanga capital.

Radio monitors picked up a declaration calling Radio "Radio Free Katanga" which claimed the UN controlled only half of Elisabethville and that resistance would continue.

The whereabouts of President Moise Tshombe of Katanga was a mystery.

The threat of guerrilla warfare in the rich province, whose mineral wealth is vital to Congo economy, remained.

Tshombe was offered refuge by Sir Roy Welensky, prime minister of the neighboring Central African Federation of Rhodesias and Nyasaland. Welensky said he'd make troops to Katanga's border.

"It is not enough to lament Katanga's fate. The British government is powerless to this sort of brigandage," the Rhodesian-Nyasaland power; it supplied him with funds.

But the pro-Labor Daily Herald in London the day Mr. Hammarskjold is attacked by the Russians as the lackey of imperialism. Now it seems he is in danger of being branded as agent of Kremlin.

"Reasonable people will condemn that he is neither, but a man trying to do an almost impossible job fairly and successfully rather than we have any right to expect."

The right-wing Paris Aurore says: "Without the support from the security council, which is consulted in infinitely more people would be dead (Hammarskjold) has taken a very hazardous and disturbing responsibility.

"For the first time since it was created, the United Nations organization, messenger of peace, brings the use of force. It has taken the risk of making blood flow."

The London Times, independent, declares the UN action "looks more like the enforcement of a settlement of Congolese political differences than a mere peace-keeping action."

DEATH TOLL

In the short run the United Nations group intended strife where there was order. Its effects must be dangerous for countries on Katanga's borders."

Child Saved By Quick Action Of Grandmother

KINGSTON (CP)—A 60-year-old woman Wednesday gained her three-year-old grandson at the bottom of a 16-foot well, pulled him to safety, then proceeded into chin - high water, lifted her self and prayed until two neighbors fed men hauled them to safety.

Freddie Compeau was in observation in hospital here. His condition is said not to be serious. His grandmother, Mrs. Gilbert Compeau, said she was going to the cellar to get some pork for the child in her arms.

Rockefeller's Son-in-Law Jailed On Mississippi Prayer-Pilgrimage

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Mississippi authorities jailed Rev. Herbert Darrow, 30, son-in-law of New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller—and 14 other white and Negro Episcopal priests Wednesday after they failed to attempt to desegregate a Jackson bus terminal.

The 15 priests—12 whites and three Negroes—entered the bus terminal, public waiting room.

The 15 were participating in N.Y.

After a meal in jail of cornbread, peas and meat, the ministers said they had been hospitable and that the treatment was satisfactory.

He said he had no plans to get out of jail but hoped that churches around the nation will be concerned enough to come to our help.

"I consider all of them," Rockefeller said in Rochester,

PASSENGER SUFFERS FRACTURED JAW AS CAR HITS POLE

Orval Burr of, Northport suffered a fractured jaw and face lacerations when the car in which he was a passenger, driven by Robert Clayton Minarick of Lonsdale, struck a hydro pole about five miles east of the Second Concession of Thurlow.

Minarick told Ontario Provincial Police, who investigated the accident, that a tire rod end fell off the steering mechanism and caused him to lose control of the car.

Provincial police said the car was a complete write-off. They said there was no damage to the hydro pole, and Minarick was unhurt.

GOOD NEWS FOR MOTORISTS Belleville

The Canadian Tire Corporation advises that their Parts and Service Departments will be open until nine o'clock every Thursday night.

Customers have found Friday night opening a great convenience especially those who wish to relax at home while their car is in for service. So much so, that it will be necessary to now remain open on Thursday nights as well.

Another popular feature of this is that "Do It Yourself" Mechanics may pick up their parts. All the customer need do is to call early as possible, then sit back and relax.

Only government licensed mechanics will touch your car. Original equipment quality parts are used at Canadian Tire popular prices. Which can be had on the budget or 30-day "No Interest" Charge Plan.

New Drive-In Restaurant Opens Here

A new drive-in restaurant which opened recently in Belleville at 173 Dundas St. East, just east of the Community Swimming Pool, is known as the A and W Drive-In. It is a large family of drive-ins from coast to coast, and over 3,000 stands in the U.S.A.

This new drive-in is managed by Mr. Robert Wingrave. The chain is noted for its draft root beer and "burgers."

As one drives in on the spacious, paved and brightly-lit lot, one is welcomed and served by a courteous car hostess dressed in the prescribed A and W uniform. The order is taken and rushed into the spotless, bright kitchen and the food is prepared with the latest and fastest equipment on the market today There is no pre-cooking done, to lose the delicious flavor of the selected foods. Drink orders are filled from sterilized and refrigerated dispensers and served in chilled and sterilized mugs. The order is then rushed to the car and one enjoys the finest of foods and drinks in the comfort of one's own car.

The initials A and W stand for the last names of the two gentlemen who originated this famous draft root beer, Mr. Allen and Mr. Wright, who, back in the year 1919 opened the first A and W Drive-In at Lodi, California.

There are now approximately 3,000 A and W stands in the USA and 71 A and W stands in Canada.

The official opening starts today and continues all weekend.

Members of Crowe Valley Authority Visit Projects Run Under Moira R. Body

Members of the Crowe Valley Conservation Authority, together with township officials and other municipal officials and their wives, toured the Moira River Conservation Authority's watershed when they viewed the Authority forestry and other projects.

Close to 60 persons took part in the tour headed up by the Crowe Valley Authority chairman, Walter VanSteenburg, reeve of Belmont and Methuen township. The tour was arranged by Granville Mckelvey-John, chairman of the Authority public relations committee.

The tour started at Marmora with the first stop being at the O'Hara Mill. The tour buses then continued along township roads visiting forest plantations along the way with stops being made at the Price Conservation Area at Actinolite and at forest projects in Elzevir and Huntingdon townships.

During the stops at the Huntingdon forest plantations Bill Hiscock, timber forester with the Department of Lands and Forests, discussed thinning and pruning of trees and answered questions put to him.

Other stops were made at the Skootamatta River and at the Tweed Community Park where discussions were held on the fluctuating levels in Stoco Lake and on pollution problems. A visit was made at the suggested site for the proposed lake level control dam at the south end of Stoco Lake.

The Moira River Authority were host at the noon lunch on enjoyed at the Col. Vandervoort Memorial Arena, and lunch being provided by the W.A. of Thomasburg United Church. C. C. Graham of the Tweed, chairman of the Moira Authority reforestation committee, expressed the welcome in the absence of Authority chairman Earl Rollins.

During the afternoon stops were made at the Forbes canning factory where that firm's spray irrigation system on the east side of the Moira River was viewed, and at Belleville where the site of the proposed dam at Stoco flood control dam was viewed. Flood problems in Belleville were discussed before the party wound up the tour at the Moira Authority office in Belleville.

Ald. George Wishart, chairman of the Moira Authority resources committee and Authority secretary James McLeod, were the party for the noon luncheon.

Canadian Legion Receives New Members, Hears Reports

The regular September meeting of Branch #9 Royal Canadian Legion was held last night with a good turnout of members present.

The Trust members were initiated into membership of the Royal Canadian Legion with the initiation ceremony being performed by President Les Bigley, assisted by 1st vice-president, Ed Smits, and 2nd vice-president, Bill Heasman.

Building committee chairman, Len Taylor, informed the meeting that all contracts had been awarded and the new building extension would be commenced as soon as the general contractor had been able to get men and materials on the job. Comrade Taylor reported that the bond sale was progressing favorably, and that the bond had all been deposited with the Trustee — the Victoria and Grey Trust Company.

Following the Building Committee report, treasurer, Joe Werner, then formally made the first bond to its purchaser, Steve Stepp.

During the course of the meeting, the Branch accorded a hearty welcome to George Hilarby, who was now active again after several weeks in the Belleville and Kingston hospitals.

SUBSCRIBERS OFFERED

The Branch approved the recommendation of the executive to offer a bursary each of the four high schools within the city.

Sports chairman Ross Steeves, reported that a team had been entered in the city dart league and the house dart league had been re-organized for the coming season. Arrangements would be made to carry out the sports program without interruption during the construction of the new building.

Ross Aitkens, chairman for the recent draw, made his report which showed the project had been successful. He then presented a cheque to Belleville Minor Sports Association president Bob Blair, for half of the proceeds from the draw. The remainder would be used for Liber Legion community youth work including the high school bursaries.

It was reported that the Legion Service Bureau Officer, Ian Grant, would be in attendance at the Canadian Legion hall at 123 Pinnacle Street on September 19th from 2 p.m. onwards to discuss pension and welfare problems with any veteran or veteran's dependent.

Following the meeting, Provincial Public Relations Officer, Mrs. W. (Phyllis) Bowen of Wilsonforce; two sisters, Mrs. L. Lockhart of Cobourg and Mrs. R. Newey of Highland Grove; and four grandchildren.

Resting at the Bowden Funeral Home, Marmora, funeral arrangements appear elsewhere in this edition.

Arts and Crafts Club Ready For Year's Work

The first executive meeting of the Belleville Arts and Crafts Club was held at the home of Mrs. John Grant, 12 Cleveleys Ave., when work was turned to the office of president for a third term.

Mrs. Grant introduced the slate of officers for the 1961-62 season. They are as follows: president — Mrs. John Grant; vice-president — Mrs. M. Douglas; vice-president — Mrs. D. McDonald; secretary — Mrs. W. Bowerman; treasurer — Mrs. L. Gelsthorpe; publicity — Mrs. J. Harwood; bulletin — Miss Kay Dair; program — Mrs. R. Wright; social convener — Mrs. Ken Brown; membership — Mrs. O. Bingleman; weaving convener — Mrs. R. Gibson. The conveners for the other crafts will be announced at a later date.

An active year has been planned for the coming season. The opening class will be in Adult Art, conducted by Pearo Alrola, starting Thursday, September 21st. The Children's Art class under the direction of Mrs. Dolly Cain, starting Saturday, Sept. 23rd. These two classes will run continuously during the season.

Floral arrangements (table centres, corsages, etc.) will be introduced for the first time this year. This new craft will be under the leadership of Mrs. G. L. Ayre and should prove to be most interesting. Classes in Rug Hooking, Mosaic Tile, Ceramics, Leathercraft, Home Decorating, Weaving, Metalcraft and Enamelling on Metal will also be held again this year and will run for a 10-week period commencing the week of October 2nd.

Mrs. Grant announced the registration dates for these classes had been set for Sept. 18th, 19th, 21st, and 22nd from 2.00 to 5.00 p.m. and from 7.00 to 8.30 p.m., at the Corby Public Library where demonstrations and sales will be conducted by craftsmen from each group.

A feature attraction during the week will be by Mr. Pearo Alrola, who will exhibit some of his paintings. Mr. Alrola has expressed his desire to welcome beginners in the Art Classes and will be extremely happy to answer any questions from all those interested in art, between the hours of 2 to 5 on Thursday, Sept. 21st.

Refreshments were served by the hostess Mrs. J. Grant, with everyone expressing their appreciation and thus bringing the meeting to a close.

Sheepshead Now Swimming Right Side Up

The sheepshead started swimming on its back when it arrived at a public aquarium 10 days ago.

Experts said this was due to a fish clearly not built for a fish - time basis, would be foolish for any fish wishing to live out its allotted span.

Aquarium curator Elmer Taylor devised a life - jacket for the sheepshead out of a fish-net's cork and tied it by a ribbon just aft of its gills, with the result that the fish could look at the rest of the aquatic world right-side up.

It took only three days for the fish to learn. Mr. Taylor thinks it took just that time to rid the fish of toxic gases built up during transportation to Calgary—gases which upset its proper balance.

Ald. Dr. George Wishart, Belleville, Finds Only Male Skeeters Attracted by Sound

BY JOHN P. REID

OTTAWA (CP) — Scientists picking apart just the "carry" of mosquitoes with sensitive electronic equipment have determined that certain sounds appeal to the pesky insect.

And they have produced one artificial sound that puts the love call of the female skeeter right up there as alluring to male mosquitoes that they fly in swarms to its source—a death trap.

By finding ways to entice the male mosquito from its mate, scientists have added greatly to the fund of information in their search for a method to control this foe of the fisherman, the hunter and the summer vacationer.

The electronic gear that can produce a better mating call than that of female skeeter has been developed by Dr. Curt Lavoipierre, chief of the Entomology Research Institute for Biological Control, a unit of the federal department of agriculture.

MORE SEX APPEAL

Dr. Lavoipierre's institute says tests they have conducted make it obvious that their complicated equipment produces a sound that has more sex appeal than that put out by female mosquitoes.

Scientists working under Dr. George Wishart, senior research officer at the institute, placed a fly that makes the male's sex organ or "ear" of both male and female mosquitoes. The fly's electronic sound makes the mosquito's hearing organ, tuned to the size of the head of a small pin.

In this test, Dr. Wishart found that the male and female mosquitoes have the ability to hear sounds. But while microphonics are set up in the "ears" of both sexes, only the male mosquito responds, or is attracted by sounds.

Dr. Wishart then simulated the flight sound—mating call—of the female mosquito. This attracted male mosquitoes at distances of up to 30 inches. However, artificial sounds produced by Dr. Lavoipierre's electronic equipment attracted males from much greater distances.

NOT PRACTICAL

Controlling mosquitoes by luring the male mosquito to the female is not expected to be practical or economic. The number and male mosquitoes that would be prevented from mating would not be enough to justify the cost of the complicated equipment required.

However, the present work forms part of an over-all research effort to find a satisfactory method to control mosquitoes. Any information about their habits aids in this work.

Another part of this research involves control of mosquitoes by means of static electricity. This would prevent them from flying or resting places bleeding reproduction.

Meanwhile, best results in mosquito control continue to be through biological methods. Small parasitic worms are distributed in mosquito - infested areas to feed on the larvae of mosquitoes.

World Literacy Seminar Hears Herbert D. Kern

Herbert D. Kern, Belleville, trustee of World Literacy (Canada) presided over the first half of the afternoon program which included a presentation of the history of World Literacy by Miss Ethel Dean of Toronto, and a question and answer period taken by Miss Dean and Mr. Hadley Perrin. Mr. Kern introduced Mr. D. R. Poole, Vancouver, B.C., promotion secretary for World Literacy in Western Canada.

Hadley C. Perrin, Brantford, president of World Literacy (Canada) welcomed the delegates to the morning session and he introduced Dr. A. McQueen, London, former Moderator of the United Church of Canada, the first speaker of the day.

Mr. Perrin introduced Mr. Kern, who spoke briefly on various aspects of his display, including various photos of Literacy Village, and literature on health, education, agriculture, family life and citizenship printed in Literacy Village. He distributed a large chart depicting Literacy Day.

W. S. Eyres, Sarnia, also a trustee, presided over the second portion of the afternoon program. He introduced Mr. Perrin who showed very interesting color pictures of his recent trip to India for World Literacy.

Mr. William Moule, Brantford, gave an informative and inspiring talk on past, present and future activities of the Brantford World Literacy group.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market dropped in profit-taking after Wednesday's meteoric rise in light morning trading today.

Utilities, banks and financial institutions and refining oils were mainly responsible for the general industrial decline as widespread fractional losses predominated.

Walker - Gooderham had the biggest industrial loss, down 8¼ to 57¼, following official denial of stock split rumors.

Among utilities, Bell Telephone, BC Power, Consumers Gas, Gatineau Power, International Utilities and Northern Ontario Natural Gas all fell in the ¼ to ½ range.

Imperial Oil, Interprovincial and Trans-Canada all dropped as much as 25 cents, while Bank of Montreal, Nova Scotia and Imperial Bank of Commerce had similar falls. Investors Syndicate A bucked the trend and equalled its high of 54½ with a rise of ½.

On index, industrials fell 1.89 to 608.46, golds .02 to 89.54 and base metals .50 to 203.58. Western oils gained .05 to 97.21 and the 11 a.m. volume was 327,000 shares compared with 475,000 at the same time Wednesday.

The senior base metals showed losses to ½ going to Gunnar, Labrador, Noranda Ventures and Falconbridge.

Wednesday, the industrial index reached the highest point since its start in 1934, closing ahead 4.56 at 610.35.

Base metals were up 1.26 to 204.08 and western oils .04 to 97.16. Golds slipped .47 to 89.56. Volume was 2,000,000 shares compared with 2,051,000 Tuesday.

A handful of new highs of industrial stocks and widespread fractional gains accounted for the general industrial rise. Refining oils, foods and liquors led the pack.

New highs went to Walker, Gooderham, up 2¾, and Ford of Canada, Distillers Seagrams and Industrial Acceptance Corporation, all ahead in the ¼ to 1¼ range.

Among refining oils, Interprovincial gained 1%.

Mining trading was steady amid rising prices, in the senior list, Falconbridge, Consolidated Mining and Smelting, Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting and Labrador all rose as much as ⅜ in light turnover. Area Mines suffered from profit-taking following Tuesday's climb and lost 11 cents on a volume of more than 100,000.

Gold trading was weak and sporadic with Giant Yellowknife off ¼ and Hollinger and ⅛ respectively.

Western oil trade was light.

DEFENCE

submarine vessels, he added, are "just as good as any that exist."

2. Confidence he had read in advocacy and approved a speech in Toronto Sept. 1 by NORAD chief, U.S. Air Force Gen. Laurence Kuter, which discussed the military advantages of manned attack-air missiles for air defence.

3. Deplored attempts to "stir up and play on" anti-German feelings, referring to objections against the possibility of Canadian NATO forces taking orders from a German general.

4. Termed "completely inaccurate" an assertion by H. W. Herridge, (CCF—Kootenay West) that the projected 1,100-man increase in Canada's NATO brigade would merely replace soldiers transferred to non-combat jobs.

Mr. Harkness said the Liberal defence policy changes from week to week—as Liberal Leader Pearson amends it in his speeches.

The New Democratic Party policy that Canada should quit NATO if it "were required to wear weapons was "nonsense of the worst kind." Several NATO nations, other than the big three nuclear powers, had joined the alliance on the clear understanding weapons under joint control on their soil.

ASKS RE NUCLEAR

Paul Martin (L—Essex East) pleaded with Mr. Harkness to tell the House before it prorogues in a month or so whether the government intends to equip the armed forces with atomic weapons.

Mr. Harkness: "I do not propose to accept directions from the member for Essex East as to what I should say or not say."

Mr. Martin asked — without getting a reply — whether Canada would get nuclear weapons from the United States under the new form of agreement Britain does. He had been getting indications "at every turn" that "there is now ready an agreement formulated by the United States, with the full knowledge of the government of Canada, with respect to this matter."

The ground-to-air Bomarc missile, which Canada is acquiring from the U.S., was described by Mr. Hellyer as "junk—useless junk."

SAYS RANGE SHORT

It had a 400 - mile range whereas Russian bombers could fire missiles carried under their wings when still 1,000 miles from target.

"This is like trying to fight a word with a toothpick," Mr. Hellyer declared.

H. W. Herridge (CCF—Kootenay West) expressed fear that German generals are becoming the dominant influence in the NATO alliance. He called NATO "a military organization dictating the foreign policies of its member states."

Replying, Mr. Harkness said he deplored attempts to "stir up and play on" anti-German feelings. "They do a great deal of harm," he said.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter prices were reported unchanged today.

Wholesale dealers are quoted by the federal department of agriculture as Canada grade eggs delivered Toronto, in fibre cases: A large 34; A medium 47; A small 36; B and C grades no market.

Butter prices: Canada first grade: Ontario tenderable 63; non-tenderable 61½-62, in light trading; wertern 62½ nominal.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP)—The U.S. dollar was at a premium of 3 3-32 in terms of Canadian funds near noon today. Wednesday the noon rate was $1.03⅛.

Town Briefs

TRENTON — Repairs to the heating system in the Trenton police station have been completed at a cost to the town of $1,000.

START PAVING FRIDAY

Town Engineer Eric Aldersey said yesterday that paving operations on Division Street were scheduled to start on Friday. It had been planned to begin next week but a piece of equipment had broken down, resulting in the day's delay. Curbing at the intersection of Division with Front Street has been moved in conform to the original pattern. At the same time that paving is being carried out on Division Street, workmen will pave a section of Fourth Ave. and will widen McGill Street by paving along the sides.

TAX RESPONSE GOOD

G. Alan Weaver, tax collector, said on Wednesday that while all supplementary tax bills carried out on Tuesday there had been a good response to the bills which had been mailed. He said that in cases if there was any "griping" in the streets about the size, levied last month by town council to cover a $40,000 deficit on reconstruction of the civic centre, he had heard no complaints. He said that general tax collections were on a par with other years.

CALL TENDERS

Tenders have been called for the construction of a school for the Trenton-Brighton district's exceptional children. Closing date for the submission of tenders is September 22. It is hoped that the school will be ready for the class after the Christmas holiday. The building fund has reached $10,000. All proceeds from this Saturday's Garo-Rama, sponsored by the Trenton Kiwanis Club, will go towards this fund.

KIWANIANS VISIT

Trenton Kiwanians play host to members of the Port Hope Kiwanis Club tonight. After the usual meeting at the Quinte stalwarts will oit themselves against the two clubs in a baseball game at Bayshore Park.

SIDEWALK LACKING

Mrs. Dufferin Ave. resident complains about the lack of any type of sidewalk or pathway in the area south of the Prince Charles School. According to reports, Sidney St. residents are up in arms about the lack of a sidewalk for their children in that area. The Dufferin Ave. resident says that at least there is a sidewalk on Sidney St. On Dufferin, children would have to walk to the others if they didn't walk on the road. The resident claims that cars coming down the Dufferin Avenue into town at this point exceed the speed limit.

Legion Hall Broken Into

According to police, vandals gained entry to the hall by breaking a window. Articles in the bar area were broken and thrown around.

Inspector R. J. Rutherford said that he could not say if anything had been stolen until an inventory was taken. However, Kenneth Craddock, president of the Legion branch, said after an initial check of supplies that he believed a quantity of cigarettes had been taken.

Iron Cross Given Legion Branch

TRENTON — This week, Kenneth Craddock, president of Trenton Legion Branch, No. 178 of the Royal Canadian Legion, received a letter from Henry Burton of German's Landing, near Frankford.

"Dear Mr. President," the letter read, "When I say, Mr. President, I mean all the Legionnaires. I wish to thank you for the wreath you placed on the cairn at the hospital in my wife's memory. I am sorry I could not be there. Fifteen miles is too far for a man in his 87th year to walk. I have no other means of travel.

"Maybe I can remember father back than most of you. As a child, I can remember the Chinese-Japanese war, also the Boar War and the depression after it in England.

"My wife was nursing in Queen Mary's hospital during the First World War. I don't know if you remember that a Zeppelin was brought down in the River Thames and one of the survivors was brought to Mary Mary's Hospital. My wife nursed and looked after him. My wife told me that, on his deathbed, he gave her his Iron Cross and one of his shoulder straps as a memento. I am sending these to you. I think that maybe the Legion Hall is the best place for them. After some time, whoever gets hold of them might not take much interest in them, so I am sending them to the branch for safe-keeping.

"You are welcome to call on me at any time at German's Landing. I will try to welcome you to the best of my ability.

"I am an old-age pensioner; your for every success.

"Henry Burton."

Mr. Burton died of cancer several years ago and Mr. Burton erected a cairn to his memory on the grounds at Trenton Memorial Hospital. Her ashes are buried beneath the cairn.

The Iron Cross and Mr. Burton's letter will be suitably framed and hung in Trenton Legion Hall.

Is Mr. K His Own Dupe?

C. L. Sulsberger, a distinguished prize-winning reporter with the New York Times, has had a long interview with Nikita Khrushchev. Much of the interview, in question and answer form, has been published verbatim.

No open-minded person can read Khrushchev's replies to Sulsberger's questions without being struck by the reasonable, logical, moderately-worded nature of the Russian leader's answers. Only when he attempts to justify the resumption of nuclear tests by Russia did Khrushchev appear to be twisting the truth as we in the West accept it.

The overwhelming concensus in the West is that Khrushchev is insincere, that he deliberately uses soft words while planning harsh action, that his promises cannot be trusted, that he is a liar and a cheat.

A man has to be a very clever liar not to let the mask slip once in the course of a lengthy interview, with such a skilled interviewer as Mr. Sulsberger. Yet only occasionally, when he echoes some phrases from the Communist propaganda machine, is there to be detected even a hint of a false note in his answers.

It would be to be believed everything he said to Mr. Sulsberger, and yet has been so taken in by his own propaganda that his deeds vary so widely from his words without him ever being aware of this fact?

And, if this is so, are we also in danger of being deceived by our own propaganda, of accepting as the whole truth what at one time was an over-simplification of our position, an over-simplification made necessary, we argued, to give the real kernel of truth to people lacking the background to properly weigh and judge a host of conflicting facts and attitudes?

Is it ridiculous to suggest that Khrushchev can believe in his heart that Soviet Russia is a land of sweetness and light? Surely no other type of self-deception has happened before. Ask an American when his country became the Land of the Free and he will reply 1776. He will ignore the fact that when the founding fathers said "all men are created equal" with rights to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" what was meant was all white men—and that it took a civil war, almost a century later, to extend the same rights to men of Negro blood. If you told him the truth, that the Americans revolted not to gain independence but to avoid paying taxes without representation, he would look at you in amazement.

Is there any reason to think that the Declaration of Independence is a stronger opiate than the works of Marx and Lenin?

Of course, if Khrushchev is not a conscious liar and rogue, but merely a self-deceived man, this does nothing to make him less dangerous. Indeed, it probably enhances our peril. There are none so blind as those who will not see.

The Record of MPs

Last week, when Hon. Howard Green, Canada's minister of external affairs, opened the foreign affairs debate in the House of Commons, only about a third of the 265 members were in attendance.

The Hamilton Spectator calls the absentees guilty of "crass stupidity."

But Mr. Green, and Lester Pearson who followed him received from the members recognition of their special grasp of international affairs. Some 80 members heard them. Only 50 were present when Wallace Nesbitt, parliamentary secretary to Mr. Green, rose to continue the debate Monday.

There are only four possible conclusions to be drawn from this performance.

Either over 80 per cent of the members of Parliament feel certain that they know everything about foreign affairs.

Or they feel that no member of the House knows anything which they do not know.

Or they are convinced that things are in a hopeless mess and no amount of deliberation and effort will enable the Canadian Government to improve the situation one iota.

Or they just don't give a damn.

None of these possible explanations provides much incentive for any person to bother to vote for one of the absentees, when the next federal election is held.

Youth is happy because it has the ability to see beauty. Anyone who keeps the ability to see beauty never grows old. — Franz Kafka.

The memory and conscience never did, nor never will agree about forgiving injuries. — Lord Halifax.

Conservatism Evaluated

Wall Street Journal

It is a familiar phenomenon that any movement will generate its own instruments or abstractions, by which, and the world being as it is, the extremist enunciations get more publicity than the real representatives of the movement.

The "liberals," as the word is currently used in American politics, have been the big problem. And now the "conservatives" appear to be in the country if not in Washington, are having a taste of being hailed as extremists.

So perhaps it may be useful to take a brief look at what does constitute the main phrases of contemporary conservative thought. It is not, of course, no single, rigid body of doctrine; as Professor David McCord Wright writes in "Modern Age" magazine, it is "a spectrum of thought not a single beam." In other times each one would today be called conservatives or even liberals, and today some of the conservatives view find the conservative label dissatisfying. The label is only a convenience; what matters is the thinking.

• • •

In any case, conservatism is the view that it takes places in overlooking—a highly intellectual movement. Both historically and currently it advances under whatever label, some of the world's most brilliant minds in the field of economics and politics. Locke, Burke, Mill in their times, Hayek, Röpke and a host of others today. Many articulate conservatives teach at universities, and in recent years there has been a new surge of conservative thought among college students as well.

Most conservatives would agree on certain fundamental principles, whatever their other differences. They start from a philosophy of man which puts the stress on his individuality and responsibility for his life. It follows that his fullest development will be in conditions of maximum economic and political freedom.

• • •

How is it, then, that conservatives are sometimes viewed as reactionaries hankering for an unattainable past? Partly, no doubt, because of the extremists. As for the main stream of conservatism, this view is misapprehension.

Conservatives do indeed value order in a society, and only a fool or knave would not; devising institutions that combine order with maximum individual liberty is one of man's more complex intellectual undertakings. They also value the teaching of the past, as it would not be very intelligent to ignore them. While they do not oppose change, they are the opposite reckless of thoughtless political and economic tinkering.

In other words the old Anglo-Saxon maxim that a man's home is his castle, the case of the Ontario Liquor Control Act is qualified by the laws of the castle.

And under the circumstances as they developed in court, any attempt to convict this zealous enforcement of the letter of the law with the justifiable campaign to rid Algoma beaches of boodlumism and the Queensway Prevalence is as silly as the law itself.

STRENGTH for the DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

TRUE WISDOM

Have you ever come in contact with a highly educated person who lacked a fund of sense in his head? This often happens and we never encounter such a situation without being filled with incredulity and wonder. How can it be that people who know so much often turn out to have no real wisdom at all?

Information and wisdom are two entirely different matters. A person may become a walking encyclopedia of knowledge. He may become a computing machine on legs. He may have read all the books in the library twice, yet still know nothing.

Wisdom is more than mere information. Wisdom is the capacity to make sure choices are knowledge. Some of the great leaders in every century have been men of meagre education. They had few facts at their disposal, but they had a wonderful capacity to put into practical use the information they had. These people were truly, and are truly wise.

No college diploma ever made anybody wise. Wisdom signifies that a person has absorbed certain information. That person will be wise or foolish depending upon the capacity he has to apply that knowledge to use whatever information he has. He may be surpassed by people who have no diplomas at all. Wisdom is the capacity to use learning.

Let us get as much learning as we can, but in our getting let us make sure that we are developing the capacity to use this learning. For the use of such learning constitutes wisdom.

Liquor Law Pretty Silly

Sault Ste. Marie Star

Ontario's liquor regulations frequently have appeared pretty silly, but they've seldom looked sillier than they did in magistrate's court here recently when three people paid fines for having beer in a place other than their residence.

The "offence" in two instances took place in a provincial park campsite. In one, four people sat around and drank around a campfire within five or six feet of their tent. In the other, there was a couple of bottles of beer on the table between two occupants of the nearby tent also used for eating.

In both cases the accused were on the plots they had hired for camping purposes. It is easy to understand one's explanation that since this was their "residence," they had no thought they were breaking the law and made no attempt to conceal the beer.

Ignorance of the law is no valid excuse, we're frequently told by those whose livelihood is dependent on the knowledge of it. Attaining and retaining familiarity with the convolutions of a law like this certainly would seem to rate as a full-time occupation.

It seems that in the three subsections of the provincial section of the Ontario Liquor Control Act, (1) defines houses and buildings and lands appurtenant thereto" as legitimate places for consumption but (2) prohibits it in private guest rooms in hotels, motels and the like, and (3) which refers to a "trailer, tent or vessel," bona fide and actually used as a private dwelling are not so "liberal" in their scope.

It seems reasonable to assume from this — but for heaven's sake don't take it as authoritative — that in the case of a summer cottage, owned or rented, the occupants would be entitled to consume their beer on their guest appurtenant thereto." But in the case of a tent or a rowboat you'd better take it under the blankets.

In other words, the old Anglo-Saxon maxim that a man's home is his castle, the case of the Ontario Liquor Control Act is qualified by the laws of the castle.

And under the circumstances as they developed in court, any attempt to convict this zealous enforcement of the letter of the law with the justifiable campaign to rid Algoma beaches of boodlumism and the Queensway Prevalence is as silly as the law itself.

Robespierre Tried It Too

St. Thomas Times-Journal

Premier Khrushchev's announcement that Communist Party members and government officials are expected to live in effect on poor, loyal, thrifty, obedient, etc., brings to mind an incident of the French Revolution.

It will be recalled that in 1794, Robespierre, head of the Committee of Public Safety, decreed the "Republic of Virtue."

All Frenchmen were henceforth going to be morally perfect, if he had to guillotine them into it.

Conservatism is Merriment Doesn't Jell

By SIDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices:

Mothers who complain that their "cute little thing" with a child don't really want to do a thing with the child; they use the child's blindness as a beautiful excuse for their own martyrdom.

What a there is good sense and bad sense, there is good nonsense and bad nonsense, and it requires considerable taste and training to be able to distinguish between the two.

If you want to know what a man is really like, let him drive you home in the rush hour on a rainy day; the combination of a car, human frailty and bad weather is certain to bring out his true character.

The public's conception of a "killer" is a swarthy Sicilian, but my regular acquaintance the most dangerous and brutal man had light hair, pale blue eyes, soft voice and were named something like "Floyd."

Whenever I hear of a woman bemoaning a romantic breakup I am reminded of the Chinese proverb: "He who sits long fishing down the river of time. The fish are all caught by the head of a woman who lost her man to another." "Do not grieve," the proverb continues, "for in the tear of the woman who got him."

I have found that the two big all great men are simple at heart — for the simplicity of the sage is a million miles removed fro mthe simplicity of the shop-soiled; the latter has gone beyond sophistication while the latter has not reached it yet.

Logic and reason have no necessary relationship; the mad man can think and speak with irrefutable logic, but since he does not begin to touch reality, all his logic only takes him further from the truth.

One of the dangerous consequences of brief newspaper stories is that they make us tend to judge strangers in the news on little evidence and with no personal knowledge; reading such stories, it is well to keep in mind the comment made by saying of the Sioux Indians: "Try to judge no man until you have walked at least two weeks in his moccasins!"

Adults who plan parties for small children should realize that there is no more hopeless contradiction in terms than "organized merriment."

It is easy to hide a secret — what is hard is to hide the fact that we are hiding one.

Producers Essential

Brooks Bulletin

A nation cannot be prosperous if too many of its people seek to earn a living by rendering services. The economists facetiously term it "doing each other's washing." It is the producers of new wealth who keep the economy running smoothly.

The main wealth producers in Canada are the farmers, the miners, the lumbermen, the fishermen and the efficient manufacturers. The remainder of the people make a living in specialized occupations and in various kinds of services.

Rough Peace

To Your Good Health

What Better Gift Can Be Given Than Sight?

By Joseph C. Molner, M.D.

Some time ago I wrote a small item in response to a letter which said, in effect, "I hope I leave my eyes to as eye banks."

It so happens that this column appears in a lot of states and provinces in the U.S and Canada.

While the immutable facts of science pay no attention to political boundaries, laws do. And the laws vary somewhat. Therefore, I can't answer definitely on what legal steps are required in various areas to leave eyes to eye banks.

The basic fact remains: For certain types of blindness, no cure is possible except by the use of human eyes. That is, the corneas, the "windows" of the eyes, are used to substitute for corneas that have become opaque or scarred. What better gift can one leave, than eyes which will permit someone else to see again?

The laws vary, but that's a matter of local detail.

Here are a few samples of letters. I have received from readers. J. H. R., of Virginia, contacts the Medical College which is based on the old English Common Law which says that a deceased person cannot be cut away any part of his body. The law is that the person who signs a card giving consent for removal of his eyes, after death.

So in Virginia, and some other states, cards have been printed stating that the signer has advance by closest relatives, giving permission. This is an excellent plan.

Another letter mentions that Buffalo has a well-organized plan for collecting and distributing eyes. So have New York, Detroit and many other large cities.

A newspaper editor in Iowa, W. B. S., points out that highway patrolmen throughout the state "are in a unique way time to take donated eyes to the eye bank."

He adds that "140 persons have actually received transplants in the five-year period in which the bank has operated," and 92 per cent have been successful. Besides that, 9,000 cards have been signed, promising eyes in the future.

In many states, there is one common, convenient and useful element: The Lions Clubs sponsor these banks. So that's one more reason why all legal steps are required in a given locality to arrange to donate eyes. Just ask a member of the Lions Club.

If this doesn't happen to apply in some locality, then inquire of any ophthalmologist (eye specialist) or at any major hospital or large medical centre.

Any of these sources will gladly give the information. And in case there is any question about it, both of these sources cooperate with the idea of profit. The whole purpose is to restore eyesight to those who have lost it — even though, of course, the one who gives the eyes cannot know which person will benefit. Somebody will.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have been itching terribly for a long time in the vaginal area for years. What causes it and what do you recommend for relief?"

This usually happens at night when I'm asleep. — Mrs. H.

Commonest causes are various vaginal infections (no, I do not mean the so-called "social diseases"); sugar in the urine, and pinworms. With this variety of possibilities, it's fruitless to look for a remedy until cause has been established. Avoiding tight clothing, such as pajamas Buffalo has a well-organized plan for collecting and distributing eyes. So have New York, Detroit and many other large cities.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

HANDS THAT REACH AND LEAD

I don't know what we should do without those invisible substitutes for ourselves, but I'm afraid, not to falter, not to fail.

In wakeful hours of the night I know of no more touch of long vanished hands — my mother's. They are still warm with the glow of her love. They have always reached down to me, telling me to rise.

Sometimes those hands are a little firmer, a little surer, sometime slip as dear.

The fact remains that we are led, uplifted and inspired by invisible forces that in our loneliness and suffering tell us what the busy world has so time to tell us.

It is a comforting thing to think of the hands that reach out and lead while the world so unthinkingly passes on.

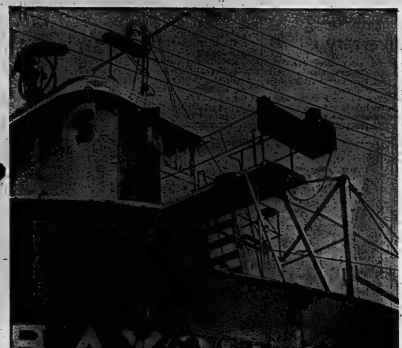
THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It was with some astonishment last spring that I heard from one of my fishing companions that he had fired his assistant manager, as the small but profitable import agency he runs. Any time I had encountered this man previously, he seemed an extremely agreeable and capable man.

"He was small, all right," said my crony. "But he wasn't smart at all. I thought he was."

"Well," I suggested, "he was a very pleasant sort of character."



"He was charming," said my friend, "but not as charming as he thought he was."

That was it. He was one of those people who like charming and work at it. They practise assistant manager, in the small, like the art of modelling clothes or figure skating. And it has a way of not coming off.

This week, I was astonished anew to find the former assistant manager back on the job.

"Well," said my fishing companion ruefully, "it seems a little charm is needed in this business and we have been twelve per cent over last year, and the only reason for it I think of was a lack of charm."

Lines on Life

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosebury

A lot of people are confused about the meaning of prayer. Some people consider it merely as a supplication or petition, or what someone has called "hobby-ing in the halls of the Divine."

True, some prayer is like that. Some prayer reflects "asshole religion" — the shriek and the fright in the midst of emergency and crisis. But let us not be so intellectually snobbish that we read these out of human life.

One might as well say never cry; it is non-rational to cry. Yet just as man is made to laugh, he is also made to cry; and there have been many tears through which we have learned to smile.

still more important is the power that comes to the human heart when we learn how to pray, not only in moments of crisis, but also in the hour of triumph.

The high purpose of real prayer may be summed up in this phrase: to evoke the best in us to meet the worst about us.

This kind of an attitude reminds us that it is impossible to expect prayer, to be effective or self-realizing at once. The prayer which looks for immediate results is really not prayer; it is magic.

Real prayer induces within us an abundant, expectant and hopeful attitude about life. Yet it is always tinged with the recognition of our frailty and of a world much broader and bigger than the little orbit of our own special concerns.

The prayer which seeks immediate perfection from the hand of the Divine, which demands sudden and swift response to personal requirements, misses the vital and majestic quality of high religion.

We cannot win all the time: we had better learn how to lose. We cannot find all the answers to our questions; we had better learn how to view the problems!

Moses never did get to the promised Land. He died at the mountain top viewing his dream from afar. But he was no failure: he was a significant spiritual success.

More of us need to remember these things. We cannot achieve everything that we set out to achieve. But we can move closer to the lands of our own promise. And when we do we learn from the challenge to make it possible for our children to come still closer to its fulfillment.

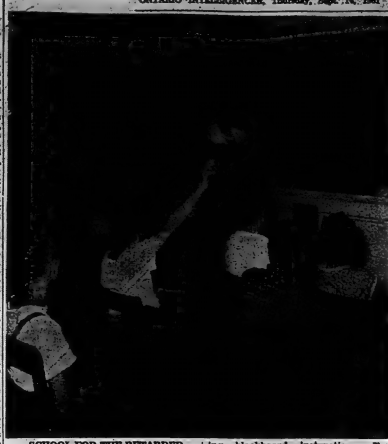
Someone has said that prayer is not like a case presented in a Supreme Court. The Supreme Court does not pass on hypothetical matters: it deals only with the real issues placed before it.

So with prayer. We cannot pray for peace hypothetically. We cannot find out the cure for the abolition of poverty in some hazy, vapid way without relating ourselves personally to the poor whom we know.

If it is world peace we want, then we must search for it, not only in the abstract, but in the concrete ways in which we pursue it in our own little world.

Here is the sum of it: He who does not love prayerfully cannot pray vitally. For prayer is not a manner of speech: it is a way of life.

Schoolmates Hold Reunion



MARMORA — A pleasant afternoon was spent by Mr. Lewis R. Green (Louie) on September 8th when he was visited by four of his old schoolmates of S.S. No. 6 Sarnedon, on the same day as their visit of last year. The visitors were: Mr. Sherwood Green, New York, N.Y.; Mr. John Farrell, Moira, Ontario, Mr. Harper Rollins, Stirling, and Mr. John McMullen, Harold, Ontario.

Mr. Sherwood Green brought with him a photo of the rural school group taken in 1892 in which all were present except John McMullen, who was somewhat younger.

Their school reminiscences were interesting and amusing, the two Greens had vied for the attention of the same girl — and, wondered where she was now. The school boys found that three of them were born in April, while one was two days early, another in June.

All of these are in their late seventies except one who is 72. The school they attended is the Sine School on Concession 3, Rawdon, east of Highway 14. It was built by the grandparents of the above mentioned group and is being attended now by one of the parties grandchildren.

Retarded Children Happy As Classes Here Resumed

The opportunity to attend day school classes and at the same time live at home with their families, is one which the mentally retarded children of Belleville have had only for the past three years.

But the 25 local children attending the Belleville School for the Retarded were among the happiest last week when classes re-opened for the 1961-62 season. The school at 251 John Street provides instruction for 25 children under the direction of three capable teachers.

The local school for retarded children was made possible by the hard work of parents and friends who appreciate that all children deserve a chance to prove what they can do.

But expenses are heavy and the public support is desperately needed to keep the local school operating.

In support of the school, a fund raising campaign is planned for Belleville and immediate areas between September 15th and October 6th with a blitz door to door canvass scheduled for October 2nd.

Coaler 'Bayquinte' Back In Service After Repairs

One of the more or less taken-for granted features of Belleville's waterfront scene will probably have disappeared, temporarily at least, by this evening. After a summer's leisure out up alongside the government dock the coaler "Bayquinte," belonging to the Bayswater Shipping firm, has been undergoing a clean-up to flash-up routine preparatory to going to service again.

The early completion of this operation was held off yesterday, however, when a couple of steam pipes or flash tubes split when the boiler was fired up. After an extensive and hurried search of the dialect shipyards tubes of the proper size were found in Kingston, rushed to the scene, and installed by a Foley Foundry crew.

This work was completed several hours after the scheduled 4.00-p.m. sailing time yesterday evening. "Bayquinte" is expected to sail by this evening, however, after Captain Stan Deeks has had a chance to look out the repaired boiler over a break-in period.

The recall of "Bayquinte" into service after a fairly lengthy period of idleness has been due to the increased use of Nova Scotia coal in this area. The Bayswater firm supplies the transportation of this commodity to a number of plants in the Bay of Quinte area. Indeed, it we due to the extent of travel done in this area that this firm's ships start off with the letters b-a-y, according to Debbi Muir, company representative.

BUILDER-OF-THE-MONTH — AND THE — HOUSE-OF-THE-MONTH

This is not merely a house, but a house of distinction which you will be proud of always. The charming interior effect is achieved by modern handling of brick, shingle, cedar board, sparkling bow window and a generous roof overhang, all combining for a distinguished color appearance. The home is designed to suggest a comfortable living that only a split level can give, with added extras that will delight every family. The house is a wide, welcoming foyer from which easy access is provided to the remainder of the house. The spacious living and dining areas blend gracefully into an "L" with a bow window at the front, and a picture window at the back overlooking lawn and patio. Service areas in the kitchen are plentiful and a cheery corner is provided for a dinette nook. Seven steps up from the living level are three large bedrooms with a dual bathroom to give the services of master bravery and family bathroom at the cost of a single unit. As a bonus to surprise and delight the owner is a den on the ground-floor, a two-piece washroom, finished recreation room, and built-in garage. This is a home that promises lovely living from first glimpse of its handsome lines.

This attractive home was built for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Graham, and is located at 3 Southwood Crescent in Belleville.

The architectural design was provided by Alvin Cassens, Jr. of New York, and construction by Delville Construction Limited. Arrangements for lot, plans, contracts and financing were made through W. J. McCormick Realty Ltd., Exclusive Agents for the Delville Company.

'Kindergarten Program Integral Part of School Education, Topic at Avondale H-S

"The Kindergarten Program" was the subject of a most interesting address heard by members of the Avondale Home and School Association at a meeting held in the school on Tuesday evening.

The guest speaker, Mrs. Wanda Sine, primary supervisor for Belleville Public Schools, pointed out that the kindergarten program was an integral part of school education and that it was designed to satisfy the specific needs of four to five-year-old children.

She also noted that while there are still many who feel that there is too little formal education for five year-olds, the Army, Medical Association reports made during the last year bear cheer the importance of recognizing the needs of younger children. As a result, modern educational development is emphasizing the old adage that the first seven years are the most important years of life.

The kindergarten program may appear on the surface to be just play, but Mrs. Sine emphasized that this play has a purpose and it is carefully designed to meet the needs of 4-5 year-old children. All kindergarten activities are linked together by one of several pre-arranged themes such as "Homes", "The School", "Families".

LEARNING TIMES

During the "talk time" children learn to express themselves clearly; "clean-up time" teaches them responsibility; "rest time" helps them to learn that a relaxation period is necessary every day; and "lunch time" teaches them manners. Kindergarten children also learn to participate in a group, they begin to learn how to organize and evaluate their work and they are prepared for reading through the "reading readiness" program.

"Since children do not live separate lives at home and in school," said Mrs. Sine, "the parents must work with the teacher for the good of the children. There are many ways in which parents can help their children to derive maximum benefit from the kindergarten program. They can encourage their children to come in contact with "helper satisfaction"; they can help them to develop a feeling of security during the day away from home; they can give them wholesome companionship with others in their own age group; and they can teach them to assume responsibility for their own belongings.

"There are other things too, that a child should be taught before he comes to school. These include his name, his dress and telephone number and how to tie shoelaces, use a handkerchief, care for his own toilet needs and take off and put on his outer clothing. Children who know how to do these things feel more "at home in school," said Mrs. Sine and "thus the development of a positive attitude towards school is encouraged."

Mrs. Sine was introduced by Mrs. K. Irvine and thanked by the Home and School Association president, Mrs. H. Heslip.

Reports were read by executive members, Mrs. D. S. Brown, Mrs. M. McLean, Mrs. W. Coates, Mrs. I. Knight, Mrs. D. E. Harvie and Mrs. C. Lucas and by Mr. R. A. Wright, the principal of Avondale School.

At the conclusion of the meeting lunch was served by the social convener, Mrs. F. Carr assisted by Mrs. W. Cameron and Mrs. C. Lucas.

Quintebelles' Weekend Held At Orillia

On September 8th, 9th and 10th, four members of the Quintebelles Chorus of Sweet Adelines attended a harmonypacked weekend at Fern Resort, Atherley, Ont. This was the 9th annual Barbershop Weekend, sponsored by the Orillia Chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America." Chorus and quartet members were there from Colombus, Ohio; Rochester, New York; Montreal, Quebec; Ottawa, Kitchener, London, Toronto, Kingston and Belleville.

Saturday afternoon the Barbershoppers and Sweet Adelines rode in shiny convertibles through the main streets of Orillia, forming a parade, and sang over radio station CFOR at its mobile unit on the main street, entertaining the downtown shoppers. That evening, a Barbershop Show was sponsored by the guests of Fern Resort and the town of Orillia in Harmony Hall. A most delicious buffet lunch was served at midnight, and chords could be heard ringing until the wee small hours.

Early Sunday morning the entire resort was awakened by the shrill of bugles and everyone rushed to see the pipers in full dress uniform, marching all over the premises of Fern to make sure all were up in time for the pyjama breakfast, which is presided over by the executive of the Orillia Chapter.

It was another wonderful Barbershop Harmony weekend at Fern Resort, and each year it gets better and better.

Uniform Meat Inspection Objective of Association

By EDNA BLAKELY

TORONTO (CP)—A campaign for uniform meat inspection within all provinces and a study of packaging and deceptive advertising will be two of the main projects by the Consumers Association of Canada during the forthcoming year, delegates agreed at their annual meeting Wednesday.

CAC members had praise for some preliminary action by packagers but asked for co-operation for frequent consumer complaints of:

Packages too large for the contents; use of odd ounces and of fractions of ounces in weights of packages; misleading label such as the half-price sale label which in fine print indicates that only one in three or four cakes is actually half price; and the reduction of content of packages while the package and price remain the same.

Thorough health inspection of animals both before and after slaughter was the plea for Mrs. R. W. Mordegrafe of Toronto. She asked delegates to write their members of Parliament in a campaign to have no unInspected meat sold in domestic outlets.

She said that each year 20,000 dead, fallen or diseased animals "mysteriously disappear" in Ontario.

These animals were picked up by the Ontario Licensed operators for rendering plants But the plants were not receiving them, she said, and the most was going for human consumption and "not just in cut - rate stores."

Mrs. F. W. Plimptre of Ottawa was elected president of the 30,000-member association. She is the wife of the assistant deputy minister of finance.

Weekly Editor and Turkey Farmer Says Women Should Enter Municipal Affairs

By DAVE PIKE

HALIFAX (CP) — A woman who wanted to be a teacher, became a turkey farmer and now publishes a small Ontario weekly, says women aren't paying enough attention to municipal affairs.

Mrs. Kay Marston, publisher of the 2,100-year-old Khaa Express for the last 20 years says small-town women should be as willing to join school boards and councils as they are social organizations.

Mrs. Marston herself has set an example. She is a former president of the Elora Chamber of Commerce, a vice-president of the Wellington County Historical Society and Canadian Women's Press Club president for Ontario.

But at 65 she is tapering off and taking life a bit easier in Western Ontario town of 1,500.

With three years of extra-mural credits from Queen's University at Kingston, Ont., Mrs. Marston decided to become a teacher.

"Unfortunately the place was crawling with teachers then, although it wasn't very long before they would have been darned glad to get me."

She helped her husband run a turkey farm. When he died she decided to look for a new business. A friend, Mrs. Ann Anderson Perry, was looking for someone to buy The Express.

Mrs. Marston plunged into an alien world of type, deadlines and news.

With four children aged four to nine, "It was a pretty hectic first year."

"It was so cold the ink froze in the inkwells. I was at the mercy of printers. Since then it's been catch as catch can."

She has built The Express from 360 subscribers to a modest 700 and also does commercial printing, a necessity for survival.

Mrs. Marston, who does all the writing, has also won 16 newspaper awards, most of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association conventions' sake to leave home because sons of the burden of running the paper, especially the business end, has been assumed by her son David, now a partner.

Although the area is saturated with newspapers—five weeklies within 10 miles and dailies in nearby Guelph and Kitchener—Mrs. Marston is not concerned about the papers' future.

"Neither television nor dailies can ever give the local background coverage that weeklies can. It's the names that sell newspapers; Mrs. So and So visiting her sister in Vancouver for the week."

Next to editorials, Mrs. Marston is noted for her conservation campaigns. She has been the only woman member of the Grand Valley Conservation Authority for years.

This year she did 26 weekly shows over CFTO, the Toronto television station, dealing with stories and pictures culled from the files of Ontario weeklies. She had a similar show for three years over radio station CJOY, in Guelph.

FINEST LACE

Richest and most luxurious of historic needlepoint laces was that made in Venice in the 17th century.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Dodson Hamilton are shown signing the register following their marriage in Eastminster United Church, Belleville. The bride is the former Miss Hilda Alberta Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Danecourt Thompson of Belleville. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hamilton, of Peterborough. (Photo by Lambers Studio, Belleville.)

HAMILTON — THOMPSON

Eastminster United Church, Belleville, was the setting on Saturday, September 2nd, at 1:00 p.m., for a lovely summertime wedding, when Hilda Alberta Helen Thompson, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Danecourt Thompson, was united in marriage to Vernon Dodson Hamilton, Peterborough, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hamilton. The Reverend Alexander McDowell, pastor of the church, officiated before a beautiful background of pink gladioli mingled with white and yellow chrysanthemums. White satin bows marked the guest pews.

The wedding music was provided by Mr. H. G. Rendall, of Belleville, who also accompanied the soloist, Mr. Thomas Hinchey, of Shannonville, in his rendition of "Because," before the ceremony, and "The Wedding Prayer" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Mr. Danecourt Thompson, was charming in her floor-length bridal gown of French Chantilly lace over imported silk organza, featuring a bouffant skirt gathered at the back and held by matching panels. The softly sculpted neckline and bodice were trimmed with tiny seed pearls and net, sequins, a matching crown headdress held her waist-length illusion veil appliqued with lily-of-the-valley, and the long Chantilly lace sleeves were pointed over the wrists. She carried a white lace-covered Bible, crested with baby-pink roses.

Mrs. Ronald Keller, of Belleville, attended the bride as matron of honor, gowned in mint-green silk organza over silk taffeta, fashioned with rounded neckline, cap sleeves, and full skirt, accented by a wide-pointed lime cummerband which ended in a long streamer at the back, held in place by two matching rosettes. A leaf hat with back bow and matching veil, white gloves and shoes and a nosegay of three pink roses encircled with white baby mums and ferns, completed her ensemble.

The two bridesmaids, Mrs. Fred Soules, of Belleville, in ice-pink silk organza, made on identical lines to that of the matron of honor, with matching accessories; and Miss Phyllis Thompson, of Frankford, also was gowned similarly to the matron of honor, with matching accessories. Both carried nosegays of three pink roses centring white baby mums and ferns.

The little flower girl, Miss Judy Fox, of Trenton, was in ice-pink silk organza with misty-lines cummerband, fitted bodice having a tiny collar and puff sleeves. The full skirt was trimmed with lace embroidery. She wore a pink floral hat, white gloves and shoes, and carried a tiny basket of pink roses, white and yellow baby 'mums.

Master Gregory Heward of Peterborough, natty in his grey trousers, navy blazer, white boutonniere, white shirt and navy bow tie, performed his duties as ringbearer in a most dignified manner.

Mr. Glen Hamilton, of Peterborough, attended his brother as groomsman, while Messrs. Howard Thompson of Belleville, brother of the bride, and Robert Wilson of Peterborough, ushered the guests.

The reception was held at Club Canara, where the bridal table was appointed in the traditional manner, and centred by a three-tier wedding cake topped with wedding bells, white bow, lily-of-the-valley and two white doves bearing wedding rings. Pink doves adorned the four corners of the top tier, while pink roses accented the four corners of the lower tiers.

The bride's mother received gowned in a mauve sheath with lace top and bodice accented by wide front bow and rounded neckline. A matching three-quarter duster, beige hat, gloves, purse and shoes, with corsage of yellow roses, completed her ensemble. The bridegroom's mother, in blue silk organza over silk taffeta sheath, with matching cummerbund, matching three-quarter duster, beige hat, gloves, purse and shoes, and corsage of baby pink roses, assisted.

For the honeymoon to the United States, the bride wore a two-piece suit with three-quarter sleeves, and wide collar, beige accessories, and corsage of yellow roses.

Guests were present from Fox Boro, Frankford, Arden, Tweed, Rossmore, Flinton, Napanee, Picton, Trenton, Toronto, Peterborough, Belleville and Point Anne.

Previous to her marriage the bride was the honored guest at a miscellaneous shower held by her co-workers at the Northern Electric, and at a presentation of a hanook from the former Department of the Northern Electric. A miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Mrs. T. C. Young, with Mrs. Garry Little, Mrs. Garry Gee and Miss Brenda Robitaille as co-hostesses.

The bridegroom was also presented with an electric frypan, table lamp, cocktail stand and glasses from the Haybertee Manhattes, of Peterborough, where he is employed.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton will reside at 436 Cameron Street, Peterborough.

Public Relations and Industry Topics at River Valley W.I.

By MRS. PERCY MacMULLEN

STIRLING — Mrs. Ross Bush was hostess for the September meeting of River Valley Women's Institute and the rooms were a flower of beauty with bouquets of dahlias and other blooms. Fourteen members and six pre-school age children were in attendance.

Mrs. Kenneth Myers, president, opened the meeting with the Institute Ode and the Mary Stewart Collect in unison. The assistant secretary, Mrs. Percy Utman, read the August report and the correspondence. The senior training school, based on "Meat Cookery," will be held in Stirling, November 7th and 8th. The 4-H Girls' Club centred on "Cotton Accessories for the Bedroom." convenes September 19th and 20th, in Stirling. Leaders names were suggested for both groups. There were four thank-you notes read and others expressed personal thanks.

An invitation from Chatterton, W.I. to attend a safety meeting on the evening of October 12th, in Stirling Community Hall, was read. There will be movies on highway safety by Mr. Murray K. Reve, accident prevention organizer, of Ottawa. It is hoped that the meeting will be well attended. Owing to the International Plowing Match, the date of the October meeting will be Monday afternoon, October 2nd, at the home of Mrs. Alex Bush.

After a brief discussion the group decided on their Christmas gift for the members of their link Institute in England and the order will be placed at an early date. Plans were made to have an Institute display at Stirling Fair with Mrs. Vernon Harry in charge of arrangements. Two cards were signed to be forwarded to folks who are ill.

PENNIES FOR FRIENDSHIP

Mrs. Roy Tucker, A.C.W.W. convener, was unable to be in attendance and this is the first meeting she has missed since she joined the Institute a few years ago. She sent the "Pennies for Friendship Jar" and reported 62 cents for August. The regular collection and the pennies were then gathered.

Mrs. Fred McDonell read two interesting items from the August "Countrywoman." The latest publication is "Ceylon, Its People and Its Homes." The author loves her own country and gives a vivid description of the history of the island.

At Oregon, U.S.A., the Institute women take their magazines after they are read to foreign ships hoping it will make for better understanding of their country. The men enjoy the pictures and are thrilled to have these magazines to carry home to their wives in such places as India, Ireland and Australia.

The roll call centred around new industries and its products and several were mentioned and the program was in charge of Mrs. Percy Utman and Mrs. Don Donohoe and the former presided.

PUBLIC RELATIONS

The topic on the subject "Today's problems are widening thus, a new approach to public relations" was given by Mrs. Percy MacMullen. She gave a brief summary of the A.C.W.W. executive meeting held in England and said that four days after the secretary B. Heemden prepared the report it was in her mail box in Canada. At the meeting South Australia sent a tapestry cover for the president's chair in a design of Australian wild flowers. The Irish group brought a tea towel and ticky doll and Ceylon sent exquisite embroidery. Many branches in Canada are displaying the A.C.W.W. linen tea towels and the F.W.I.C. office in Ottawa has a unique display of gifts. A.C.W.W. has sent out a request for good photographs and other display material from Canada. The demand from children's institutes is increasing rapidly as all are anxious for a glimpse of other Institute workers.

Mrs. MacMullen gave a brief outline of the A.C.W.W. annual meeting held July 30th in Kingston Central Library Building when speakers from all over the world were heard. A.C.W.W. gives all members many privileges but it also lays on great responsibilities, one of which is the building of understanding and goodwill among women everywhere. This year great stress is being laid on "Pennies for Friendship" and there is a special competition on the theme "Best Idea for Collecting Pennies for Friendship" and the speaker announced that she was arranging a special display, as her general entry in this worthwhile enterprise. Any voluntary contributions will be appreciated, perhaps fairgoers could drop them at the Fair next Saturday.

At the National Convention at Vancouver, Mrs. E. J. Royce, retiring president of the F.W.I.C., had World Institute Cookies for Friendship" and the speaker announced that she was arranging a special display, as her general entry in this worthwhile enterprise. TIPS ON DATING OBLIGATIONS

When a bachelor asks a girl for a date, his obligations are pretty clear-cut.

He must call for her at home, pick her up, pull out chairs, help her in and out of cars, and foot the bill for the entire evening.

And what do you, the young lady, do to deserve such gallantry?

In the first place, you can get the evening off to a proper start by being ready to leave when your date arrives. If he may have corsaged tickets to the theatre, and missing this act may not be his idea of fair play.

Another obligation you assume when you accept a date is to dress properly for the occasion — a skirt for bowling, for instance, generally speaking, is not the best choice of a restaurant should be the second alcoholic. There may be a budget in the background, but who knows better than he what the traffic will bear?

While he does handle the exchequer for the major expenses, certain minor items are your responsibility. If you go to a dance and there are separate checkrooms, you pay your own fee when you claim your wrap. If he has the powder-room attendant, and may phone calls you have to make, you pay for the whole bodkin of out of-pocket expenses, so check your change purse to make sure you've covered before you leave home.

Here's a friendly reminder: While your date has the right to call the turns during the evening, it is your obligation to suggest "calling it a day." Here's one time when you do properly have the last word.

Successful Living

Seeks Relief in Drink

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—Nineteen years ago I married a well educated man. He started off with a good job, but sought relief from the pressures of business in drink. This went from bad to worse, until I found I had an alcoholic on my hands, but an alcoholic who would not admit he had any such problem.

When he was drinking he was cruel to me and the children. At one point my oldest daughter had to call the police to make him stop beating me up. He was brought into court and told such a good story—backed up by a drinking pal—a professional man who did not really know him—that the judge let him off with a warning.

My daughter was really broken up about this and shortly after left home. I let her go because I knew there was no happiness there for her. In any event we lost our home because my husband kept drinking and losing jobs. I now have left him and for the moment my three other children are staying with relatives.

Now he is pleading with me to return. I learn from friends that he has made no improvement although at heart he knows how much wrong he has done. He just wants somebody to keep house for him and pot up with him as I have always done. I no longer love him, but I fear he may become a derelict if I, in effect, leave him to his own devices. Do you have any advice for me?—MARY.

DEAR MARY:—Which is worse? One derelict or four?

An alcoholic has to hit bottom before he stages a comeback—if ever. What is bottom for your husband is hard to say. Loss of job, home, wife, children—seem like enough, doesn't it?

He was immature and spoiled to start with. Then you continued to let him have his own way. Some women would have given back blow for blow, and perhaps brought him to his senses.

This is not your fault. But it is evidence that you may not be the one who can help his recovery. For the sake of your children do not go back unless there is a complete change in him.

For helpful literature on the nature and effects of alcoholism, write to the Alcoholism Research Foundation, 24 Harbord Street, Toronto 5, Ontario.

To Sift or Not to Sift? It Does Not Matter Much

By Mary Moore

All this trouble about not sifting pre-sifted flour would be solved if we Canadian cooks used scales to measure our ingredients. We would do ourselves a tremendous favor if we copied our British and European friends and weighed out ingredients when we cooked.

To help those of you who have written earnest letters asking what to do: "SIFT" "Not sift!" I have some words of encouragement.

Dinner Menus
by Mary Moore

THURSDAY

SUNDAY

Stuffed Shoulder of Veal (see Wednesday); Sliced Zucchini; Cauliflower with Grated Cheese; Iceberg Lettuce with Ripe Olive Mayonnaise; Pear Upside-down Ginger Cake with Pouring Cream; Coffee.

Actually the sifting does not make as much difference as the buoyancy of measuring methods. Seventy-five women were enlisted in a test to discover just how accurately the average cook measures her ingredients. Their habits of knocking the cup on the counter to level ingredients, or using a curved spoon handle to level the top, or using a serving tablespoon instead of a measuring tablespoon to remove 1 tablespoon of flour, etc. made the eyes of the tribulators pop.

I have just finished making two 2-egg cakes. I sifted and carefully measured the flour for the first one lifting the sifted flour into the measuring cup and tipping it slowly into it to prevent any packing. I did not sift and still carefully measured the flour for the second. The resultant cakes were both baked in the same size of pan and were both good. But 1) the first one (sifted flour) rose higher and more evenly and was less time to bake, 2) the second one (unsifted) had packed firmer but a little more finely-textured crumb and was thinner.

I will give you the recipe for the cakes I made—ingredients were the same in both cases. Now you where the changes occurred, I want to stress this one factor — use a measuring cup that holds only 8 ounces so you can level off the cup with back of straight knife.

TWO-EGG PLAIN CAKE:

1-3 cup butter or margarine, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup granulated sugar, 1¾ cups sifted all-purpose flour (see notes), ½ teaspoon salt, 2½ teaspoons baking powder, 2-3 cup milk.

Cream butter or margarine until it is soft and creamy and add vanilla while creaming. Electric beater is fine. Gradually add sugar and beat until mixture is light and fluffy. Add eggs and beat thoroughly. Remove from bowl and set aside. Mix flour, salt and baking powder and sift 3 times. Add dry ingredients alternately with milk, making 3 or 4 additions, beginning and ending with dry ingredients. Stir gently and quickly until batter is well blended, but do not overbeat. Spread carefully into a well-greased and paperlined 9 x 9 x 2" pan and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 35 minutes. Allow baked cake to "set" for 10-20 minutes before removing from pan. Cool and spread with any desired icing.

NOTES:

1. I made my first cake as above and it was a fine average plain cake. I made a second cake with unsifted flour — dipping the measuring cup into the bag of flour and levelling it with the straight back of a knife. The second cake was good by most standards but took 30 minutes to bake, was closer-textured and not as high or even as number one.

United Church Marks 68th Anniversary

RYLSTONE—Rylstone United Church, celebrated their 68th anniversary, in the brick church, which was built in 1893. Before that, services had been conducted in the frame church, across the road.

The church was well filled for the service, in spite of the hot weather. Mr. H. D. Pillen, the new minister of the Rylstone, Springbrook and Stanwood Churches, was the speaker and gave a splendid sermon, entitled "A Religious Boon and A Moral Bust".

The choir of Springbrook Church rendered two anthems, and led in the singing of the hymns. Mr. Pillen expressed the thanks of Rylstone, congregation to the choir, for their music and to the Connor family, for the beautiful baskets of flowers while pastoril which they had placed in the church in memory of their father, who was laid to rest in the cemetery on Saturday.

American Airlines STATISTICS

Here is a refreshing change of pace for American Airlines. You may call it dialogue and off-beat, but it's relevant! We think it may be of interest to both you and your clients.

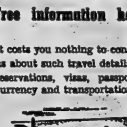
As you know, Metrecal has become a very popular diet control product with "Weight Watchers". Beginning August 23rd, American Airlines started an experiment making Metrecal available to First Class passengers on all Jet meal service flights. A limited number of servings will be provided on each flight. The experiment, will run through September 23rd.

The makers of Metrecal have provided small attractive announcement cards, which the stewardess presents to the passenger along with the regular menu cards. If passenger reaction proves favorable, the experiment will be extended.

And, since we are discussing food . . . and its substitutes — did you know that American Airlines serves more than 14,500 meals daily to its passengers? More specifically, last year our passengers consumed more than . . .

1,458,000 pounds	Meat and Poultry
1,895,000 pounds	Vegetables
547,000 pounds	Bread and Rolls
62,875 pounds	Butter
1,752,000	Eggs
1,642,500	Servings of Milk
21,900,000	Cups of Coffee

Although food service is not our basic product, it is a pleasant plus to be gained by your clients routed on American. Truly, food service on the Toronto-New York run is excitement in' Food! An unexpected way with an omelet . . . a deft touch of unusual seasoning . . . colorful new garnishes . . . menus that please the eye as well as the appetite. There is nothing like it except in a better club or restaurant. Gracious service has come to inflight dining on American.



The only Jet Service to New York — distinctive and exciting menus—and customer orientated employees contribute to the atmosphere "flying with American is the best."

Hoffa, King of Truckers, Makes Bid to Add Canada To Growing Membership

By HAROLD HORRIGAN

WASHINGTON (CP)—Jimmy Hoffa, king of the truckers, has knocked over a maze of legal roadblocks along the highway toward increased labor power and national political influence. His aides say he won't stop at the Canadian border.

The hard-fisted coal miner's son who bashed his way up from Detroit's grocery docks to master North America's biggest union—the 1,500,000 - member International Brotherhood of Teamsters—sees new vistas ahead: leading a national council of all transport unions. Perhaps even running a rival labor federation if the 13,500,000-member AFL-CIO doesn't readmit the evicted Teamsters.

While AFL-CIO officials scoff and federal legislators plan new snares, the chunky Teamsters president sees the possibility that men like him may exert major pressure on a national political party, perhaps by 1964.

"We will go into politics on block - by - block basis," Hoffa said after his recent re-election to a five-year term of office and a salary boost to $75,000 annually, the world's highest pay for union leadership.

Hoffa, product of depression slums who has been accused by a congressional committee of being an associate of the underworld, sees an ore silo on the potential of Canada and the Canadian control that may be available there.

One of his 16 vice-presidents says:

"The wage rates for Canadian truckers are too low. They've got to be brought up to those in the United States. We've got to look after the welfare of Canadian Teamsters."

In the U.S.A. at least, he hopes to persuade other transport unions to join in a national transport council that would keep its own identity, Hoffa says, but it takes only one guess as to who might wind up boss of lunch, sea and air transport labor under such a setup.

The AFL-CIO which tossed the Teamsters out four years ago on corruption charges, says Hoffa is pipe-dreaming; that he has reached the pinnacle of his turbulent and somewhat shady career and that he will go no way farther. But congressional investigators who tangled with him in a three-year inquiry fear that he may gather sufficient power to impose a stranglehold on the country's economy.

Attorney-General Robert Kennedy who as a congressional committee counsel once charged Hoffa with operating "a conspiracy of evil," is mapping strategy to reopen a mail fraud charge against the man he figures should be behind bars.

Senator John L. McClellan, Arkansas Democrat who headed the Senate rackets committee investigation, is drafting proposed new legislation aimed at stopping the trucker chief from extending his control over other unions.

"If he gets hold of all the transportation unions—and that's his intention—then he will be in a position to call a national transportation strike and paralyze the economy," says McClellan, maintaining Hoffa still has been exaggerated in the public eye.

But a veteran Canadian labor expert who has been watching Hoffa for years says: "Those who underrate him are stupid. He is completely ruthless. He will allow nothing to stand in his way."

How did Hoffa get where he is and what gives this man who has never driven a truck his fistfight on the Teamsters?

After his father, an Indiana coal miner, died from an occupational disease, he quit school at the ninth grade to work unloading produce at a Detroit warehouse. He was 17 when he pulled his first strike there, eagerly getting his unorganized fellow workers to quit handling a load of perishable strawberries.

Faced with heavy loss, management quickly capitulated. Hoffa got a charter and an agreement for the Teamsters. He spread out as an organizer of automobile carrier workers—quickly getting the knack of fists, brass knuckles and clubs as organizing aids — and his success led to his appointment as Teamster organizer for highway truckers in the midwestern states.

He was vice-president and strong enough to move in when corruption charges forced out Dave Beck, subsequently jailed.

He holds the loyalty, if not the teamsters by a variety of affection, of the bulk of the central deliveries of bread, milk and other essentials.

Hoffa plans to extend his control over other transport unions and exert greater influence on national political parties. (CP Photo).

Port Colborne Mine-Mill Local Orders Vote Despite National Executive Threat

PORT COLBORNE (CP)—The Mine - Mill union's executive faced a new threat Wednesday night as the Port Colborne local ordered a vote on whether the national office of the independent union should continue to act as its bargaining agent.

Local President Jim Babirad said the members would be asked by vote Sept. 21 despite threats by National President Ken Smith of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers to place the local in trusteeship.

Mr. Smith, asked, however, that the meeting would be held to make "preparation for bargaining rights of Port Colborne refinery workers ..."

In Sudbury Wednesday an official of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) claimed the union is doing a land office business in recruiting members from Mine-Mill's rebellious Local 598.

The hard - pressed executive came under attack from another direction.

DEMANDS APOLOGY

Colin Bates, president of the Sudbury branch of the Royal Canadian Legion, demanded a public apology from the executive for using the Sudbury Legion tagh as a speaker's platform Sunday night.

He declared that executive members had desecrated the ground consecrated to rest of those who died."

The 2,000-member Port Colborne local last week voted to withhold its $30 monthly dues to Mine-Mill in line with the pattern set early this year by the Sudbury local, which held back its $25,000-a-month payments.

Mr. Babirad said the executive decided Tuesday to hold a vote on whether the national union should continue to represent Port Colborne members in negotiations with the International Nickel Company of Canada Limited.

At the request of Mr. Smith, the executive met with him that night and the national president protested that the stand of Local 637 was destructive to the interests of the workers.

Because only six of the nine executive members were present, another meeting was held Wednesday night and the Sept. 21 voting date decided on.

'WILL BE FORCED'

Mr. Babirad said Mr. Smith told him that in view of the situation in Port Colborne he would be forced to bring his forces into the city. He quoted Mr. Smith as saying "if your attitude does not change I will be forced to set up trusteeship for the Port Colborne local."

Said Mr. Smith: "I am sure that when bargaining commences with Inco, Port Colborne will and Sudbury will be at the same table jointly bargaining as they have for 17 years under the Mine-Mill banner."

The national president, who had attended the union's national convention opening at Edmonton Monday, added: "I am sure our members will unite to defeat the Steelworkers raids and assist Port Colborne and Sudbury in coming bargaining."

In Sudbury, Jim Robertson, Canadian Labor Congress representative, claimed Steelworkers' union cards were being snapped up "like hot cakes" by Mine-Mill members.

At the same time, six supporters of Mine-Mill's national executive were arraigned in court on charges of unlawful assembly in connection with a meeting Sunday in Memorial Park, where the conotaph is located.

Later a union meeting in the Sudbury Arena attended by CLC and Mine-Mill officials was disrupted.

Eight men arraigned Wednesday were released on $300 bail each and remanded to Oct. 18, along with five men arrested and bailed Monday.

Police Believe Man Drowned

PARRY SOUND (CP) — Corporal J. P. Mackay said Wednesday an extensive search for a man believed drowned in Georgian Bay 14 miles northwest of here, has been called off.

Inspector James McDermott of the OPP criminal investigation branch here said police previously believed missing from the cottage have all been accounted for except for Maj. MacPherson's wallet, which, he said, might be in the water.

THREATENS TEACHER

LIMA, Australia (AP)—Police said today Karl Nagenkeogt, 17, facing failure in shorthand that would have thrown him back into the same class for another year, pulled the gun on his teacher and said: "I don't want a thing. But if you want to go on living, better sign this." He presented the teacher with a paper certificate that Nagenkeogt—and his entire class of 15—had passed. The teacher signed. Nagenkeogt escaped.

New Zealand Plans to Start Army Draft

WELLINGTON (AP) — New Zealand will institute selective army service next year for 21-year-olds under a revised defence plan, Defence Minister Dean Dyre told Parliament today.

In a white paper, he said the plan will permit rapid deployment of a maximum initial force of 13,000 men-to support extensive operations in Southeast Asia.

It provides for the building up of the strength and standard of readiness of the regular and territorial army forces. The new army will consist of 3,000 regulars including an infantry battalion now serving in Malaya. In addition, there will be a territorial force of three reduced brigade groups, to be built up in the next four years to 10,000 men. A third component will be a static regular force of 3,250 including young soldiers in training.

In a future conflict the spearhead of the New Zealand force —the battalion in Malaya—could be in action in a matter of days, with substantial follow-up forces on the scene within weeks.

WILL REACT FASTER

"New Zealand's initial reaction would be swifter and more effective than in past wars," the defence minister said.

The selective army training program will induct 2,000, 21-year-old trainees into the army each year for 14 weeks' full-time training a year for three years, plus part-time training.

'Carla' Death Toll Climbs As Clean-up Task Is Begun

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — Fresh details of death and destruction from killer hurricane Carla unfolded in the ravaged gulf coast sector today, and weather observers from the departed storm widened more than 1,000 miles northward into the middle western United States.

Bodies of eight persons—all members of the same family—were discovered Wednesday night at inundated Freeport, one of the hardest hit among cities suffering most—a million dollar losses along 350 miles of Texas and western Louisiana shore line.

The death toll, which could count still higher, climbed to 31 in three states—22 in Texas and five each in Louisiana and Kansas.

Flooding continued in south Texas, doused by post - Carla downpours up to nearly 10 inches.

Vicious winds, another barricane after-effect, smashed at scattered points from Texas' southern tip through Missouri and into Michigan.

But these echoes from the massive tropical storm continued, National Guardsmen, public officials and a horde of refugees trudged through mud and debris to seek promise of a long and wearying struggle back to normal in coastal areas.

Threats to public health caused widespread concern. Water supplies were contaminated in dozens of towns and cities.

Typhoid shots were being given to tens of thousands returning to devastated areas. At Houston's Municipal Auditorium, still peoked with evacuees, doctors found 14 cases of measles.

Officials feared there would be more grim discoveries like that at Freeport, 40 miles down coast from Galveston, where exhausted Robert Dunn, 15, may be the only survivor of a 12-member family group.

The youth saw a giant wave sweep away his parents, an uncle and aunt, and six children. Robert survived by clinging to the roof of his home.

Bodies of the father, R. W. (Shorty) Dunn, Sr; Robert's uncle, Joseph J. Dvrar, 56, and six children were recovered in a muddy bayou. Wives of the two men and another youth were missing.

A mountainous wave came rolling in, Robert said, as his family huddled in the attic of his home.

"We all started trying to get on the roof. I managed to get up there. The wind was blowing terrific, 90 miles an hour, and I tried to reach dogen and help two of the children "So. But something seemed to pull them away from me."

Deaths charged to the hurricane included five Wednesday in Kansas. A family of four drowned Monday in a car accident off a road near Waverly and another victim was drowned in a car swept off a causeway at Fort Scott.

At Port O'Connor, inhabited by 850 people before the hurricane, Associated Press staff writer Ronnie Thompson found the Baptist church was the only building left standing above the debris. The few homes still standing were declared technically wrecked for repair.

A unique piece of wreckage floated in the Galveston beach—a piece of steel tube 100 feet long and 6 feet in diameter. Coast guardsmen said it was part of a tunnel, but nobody knows its origin.

Leader Lester Pearson Says Liberals Ready to Take Over

DEMERS CENTRE, Que. (CP)—Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson said Wednesday night the Liberal party is prepared to "get Canada out of its stagnation and back into prosperity."

Addressing an overflow meeting of more than 700 at a dinner rally in his Allumette Island community across the Ottawa River from Pembroke, he said Liberals across the country are getting ready to fight the most important election in the party's modern history.

Mr. Pearson arrived at the rally after an afternoon motorcade from Ottawa through 60 miles of Pontiac County, a major section of the federal riding of Pontiac-Temiscamingue now held by Conservative Paul Marineau.

Hotel manager Sylvio St. Jean said 700 seats were sold for the $3-a-plate Liberal party dinner. The crowd overflowed into an adjoining room.

Mr. Pearson said four years of Diefenbaker government have led to a stagnation of the Canadian economy. "The paradise promised by the Conservatives has not been realized."

"Canada must not stand still like this," he said, after outlining the progress of other Commonwealth countries. "We must mean to tell me that our rich nation cannot keep up with the these?"

During the motorcade tour, the new policy Wednesday.

Judgment Will Be Given on October 20th

HAMILTON (CP)—A verdict by the Hamilton Building Trades Council and the union executive on charges of calling an illegal strike Tuesday will be handed down Oct. 20 by Magistrate Albert Marck.

The officials charged are Angelo Cugliano, business agent for Local 18, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners (CLC); Domenic Addessor, business agent for Local 506, Operative Plasterers and Cement Masons International Association (CLC) and Alfred Dejohnson, general secretary of Local 1, Bricklayers and Masons International Union (CLC).

They are charged with counselling an illegal strike and performing acts the "reasonable consequences of which would lead others to strike. Charges followed a call for a one-day strike of 5,000 Hamilton construction workers last November.

Before the trial ended Magistrate Marck ordered a search for Marvel Filiatrault, Carpenters' union steward.

Magistrate Marck wanted to find out whether Filiatrault had written a letter quoting Wilfred Beaudoin, superintendent of Pigott Construction Company. The letter thanked Mr. Dawson for helping to avert a walkout of carpenters. Filiatrault was not found.

Earlier, Magistrate Marck ordered Robert Campbell, labor reporter for the Hamilton Spectator, to divulge his sources of information in connection with the walkout.

Mr. Campbell gave the information after objections by defence lawyer John Mupro were overruled.

Wally Downer In Race for PC Leadership

TORONTO (CP) — A. W. (Wally) Downer, 37, member of the legislature for Dufferin riding since 1955, Wednesday announced he will seek the leadership of the Ontario Progressive Conservative party.

Mr. Downer, an Anglican minister, told a press conference his decision to run for leader at the party convention Oct. 23-25 was not made with a view to any personal honor or prestige.

"I recognize there is no substitute for experience and maturity in the effective direction and coordination of responsible government," he said, "I feel that I have a duty to serve my party and my province particularly if invited to do so when called upon by so many to do."

He said he had received a large number of messages from fellow legislators and urban and rural party members for him to seek the leadership since Premier Leslie Frost announced his resignation as leader last month.

Hollis Hickett, member of the legislature for York East; W. Ben Lewis, member for York Humber, and A. A. Mackenzie member for York North, were present at the conference to offer their support.

Mr. Downer becomes the fifth person to stand for the leadership. The others are Attorney General Kelso Roberts, Health Minister Dr. Matthew Dymond, Energy Resources Minister Robert Macaulay and Education Minister Roberts.

Notion No Really Effective CD Is Possible Against Nuclear Attack Nonsense

-- Dr. Teller

Editors Note: The notion that no really effective civil defense is possible against nuclear bombers is dangerous nonsense, a top atomic scientist says. This second of three articles discusses practical steps for protection against nuclear fallout.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE,
Associated Press Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Edward Teller has grave respect for the aim of Soviet rockets bearing nuclear warheads.

"They are accurate," says the University of California physicist.

Warning systems promise to sound about 30 minutes advance notice — time enough for most people to take shelter.

Half—per cent fallout.

Dr. Teller strongly urges a huge effort to build public and private shelters in every city to hamlet in the United States.

With them, nine out of 10 could survive, he declares.

Without them, six or eight out of 10 will die, says the physicist whose genius contributed to fashioning the H-bomb.

Millions of people live in the fatalistic fear of being utterly doomed by radioactive winds and fallout.

Dr. Teller calls this dangerous nonsense.

He says many regions of the U.S. need only fallout shelters in basements for protection against radioactive clouds sweeping downwind from A-blasts.

The greatest danger would last only a few hours or a day, since radioactivity of the cloud declines rapidly with time and distance, he explains. Closed windows could keep out fallout radiation and make a sizable difference. Stores of water and food could carry millions through the time of real heat.

Simple shelters could be made of wood or sandbags, or dug into the foundation.

A prime need, everywhere, is for cheap cheap radiation detectors to judge hazards, and for battery-powered radios to hear official reports.

For big cities and towns, mass shelters are the safest answer, with enough of them "so people would walk to them in five to ten minutes."

NEED AIR CONDITIONERS

"In many areas, it would be important that these shelters have their own independent air supply, and air filters at this could be done at not too high cost."

Basements of big buildings could provide shelter for millions of city-dwellers.

A prime requirement is for a well - planned organization for leadership of life in shelters, and afterward.

With underground stockpiling of food and strategic materials in dispersed locations, people in areas not likely to be hit—the country would have the starting for tools to get industry going again.

(Tomorrow: Radiation hazards.)

W. Germans Ready to Vote In General Election Sunday

Of Press Reader

BONN — West Germans vote Sunday in a general election made a suspenseful by rising Communist menace over the fate of West Berlin.

They will name either 86-year-old Chancellor Dr. Konrad Adenauer, whose advanced age may well mean his last term, or Willy Brandt, 47 - year-old mayor of West Berlin.

Until the Berlin storm blew up a month ago, it seemed certain that 4-to-1 a ruling Christian Democratic Party would be returned to power for another four years. Now the issue is more in doubt.

The 496 deputies will elect upwards of 494 deputies to the Bundestag (lower house).

Neither has been three general post - war elections and Adenauer's Christian Democrats have won them all.

Party standing in the last House was:

Coalition of Christian Democrats and Christian Socialists 278; Social Democrats 171; Free Democrats 42; Deutsch Party 4; total 497.

Brandt is running in this election as a social Democrat Candidate.

Other than the Christian Democrats and the Social Democrats, the Free Democrats are the only important force on the political scene. Their force is 44-year-old Erich Mende, whose best chance to wield influence in the next government is to be if his party can gain enough votes to hold the balance of power.

The Berlin crisis has caused many to question Adenauer's handling of it.

Brandt has criticized Adenauer's failure to show up in the divided city immediately after the Reds cut off travel between East and West Aug. 13. He accused him of failing to stand up to the Russians and insists he is even more dangerous aspect of foreign policy, instead of the Communists.

Adenauer, on the other hand, is urging cool deliberations at a summit conference backed up by a high state of Western preparedness.

Underground Nuclear Testing To Start in U.S. in Week or 10 Days

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is expected to resume underground nuclear testing within a week or 10 days.

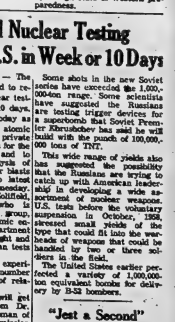
This became known today as the joint congressional atomic committee called a private meeting to go over plans for the new American series and to hear a top-secret analysis of the Russian series that began last since Sept. 1. The two latest Soviet shots came Wednesday.

Representative Chet Holifield, California Democrat who is chairman of the joint group, told a reporter that atomic energy commission and defence department experts are "working night and day" to get the American tests started.

Holifield said that the experiments will start with a number of underground explosions relatively low yield.

The joint committee will get its secret briefing from Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, and Maj. - Gen. F. J. Rodenhauser, deputy chief of staff who handle the military phases of the bomb test series.

LOW POWER EXPLOSIONS



Various explanations have been advanced for the wide range of power yield detected from the nine Russian blasts. Wednesday's shots were reported by the AEC as being in the low to intermediate range.

The medium explosions, low range could mean a force comparable to the Hiroshima atomic bombs that blasted Hiroshima and Nagasaki. They had the explosive equivalent of 20,000 tons of TNT.

Some shots in the new Soviet series have exceeded the 1,000,000-ton range. Some scientists have suggested the Russians are testing trigger devices for a superbomb that Soviet Premier Khrushchev has said he will build with the punch of 100,000,000 tons of TNT.

This wide range of yields also has suggested the possibility that the Russians are trying to catch up with American technology in developing a wide assortment of bombs—a thing the U.S. tests before the voluntary suspension in October, 1958, revealed were yields of the type that could fit into the warheads of weapons that could be handled by two or three soldiers in the field.

The United States earlier perfected a variety of 1,000,000-ton equivalent bombs for delivery by B-52 bombers.

"It's disgraceful the way it goes out and, leaves her husband to do the housework. Husbands never do it properly unless you watch them."

Dwight Eisenhower Enjoys Absence of Responsibility Of Office But Misses It

This is the last of three stories on living ex-presidents of the United States.

By SAUL PETT

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — One of the rarest emotions in the world—a 34 stam have not known. It—is to wake up one morning and realize you are now president of the United States.

Even rarer and as full of impact—fewer men have known this feeling—is to wake up one morning and realize you are no longer president of the United States.

Suddenly it is over. Suddenly you are riding down Washington's Pennsylvania Avenue with the new man and they swear him in and there are goodbye and you're gone. Suddenly you're supposed to pick up your life. How does it feel?

It feels, William Howard Taft once said, "like a giant locomotive pulling a toy wagon. The momentum remains. The payload is gone.

For seven months, Dwight David Eisenhower has been bearing down, seeking a new rhythm. He remains very much in demand, active, productive and interested.

But the big job is gone and that takes adjustment.

HARD TO ADAPT

Like other men in retirement, he both enjoys the absence of heavy responsibility and at the same time misses it. After 30 years of war, power and politics in the main current of great events, the human system does not suddenly adapt to a beach chair, however comfortable.

While he still corresponds with Harold Macmillan and Charles de Gaulle and other important people around the world, the correspondence now has a single text—golf. Not writing. It lacks the office behind the name.

While he still retains a deep interest in national and world affairs, Dwight Eisenhower has had to learn to subtimate his lack of authority. This is one way he does it:

Reading of some new national issue or problem, he picks up the phone and calls several friends, usually experts in the appropriate field. To each, he presents the problem and asks what the other fellow would do about it. And then they match judgments and send an innocent modestion and decide, if they can, on a solution and then they hang up.

That's as far as it can go. It's a dry run, poker for match sticks.

MISSES MUCH

Dwight Eisenhower misses the big job in many ways. He misses the power and ability to affect events which deeply concern him. He misses the direct contact with unfolding history. He misses the vast convenience of the office, the huge machinery geared to his wishes, the experts who kept him informed, the planes that flew him, the Secret Service men who cleared his path.

But the shock of transition from the White House to the farm house in Gettysburg has, friends agree, been heavily cushioned by one fact. He left Washington hailed by the affection of his countrymen. He had his critics. But he remains widely loved and, on the record books, the biggest vote getter of all time. This is a comforting annuity in retirement.

Also, he was surprised to find that out of office there was still a great demand for Eisenhower. More people than he can ever see want to see him, talk with him, get his advice, seek his help, get him to speak or pose just once for a picture with a man running for office.

In retirement, he remains a Republican mecca. From the halls of Congress to the smallest precinct, they still come, or try to come, in the hope of taking back with them a little reflected glow.

Gen. Eisenhower had expected little of this. He had thought Richard M. Nixon now would be president, that the Eisenhower philosophy of government would be relatively safe, that the party and the country would have little need of him in retirement.

Like many other men of 70, like the retired school principal and the shop foreman who has just been given a gold watch, Dwight David Eisenhower clings to the pattern of his past. He still rises early and arrives about eight in his carpeted office, in the handsome brick building that used to house the president of Gettysburg College.

TOURISTS APLENTY

The tourists clot around the front gate of the Eisenhower farm. On the rare occasions he uses it, they sing out "Hi, Ike," and, with an American ruthlessness that can be both moving and irritating, move in for autographs and pictures.

Eisenhower seldom ventures into the life of the community. The one social occasion he attended was a stag dinner, served on card tables, given by a Gettysburg attorney to introduce him to the local pillars. The conversation, one gathers, had its awkward lulls. After all what do you say to a former president and a general of the army?

He made Eisenhower and a maid occasionally appear in the local supermarket to shop.

At his office Eisenhower keeps a staff of six busy.

The day is given over mostly to answering heavy correspondence (a single morning's mail brought equally fervent invitations from a prime minister and a sorority house reunion) and to work on the general's book about his presidency. He dictates and then edits forcefully in a flurry of chicken scratches.

His appointments calendar is flexible, often with substantial games.

From this office, Eisenhower also runs his personal affairs. He confers frequently with his friend, Brig.-Gen. Arthur S. Nevins, who supervises his farm. From this desk, he also has turned down some fat offers, including corporate directorships which would pay him $100,000 a year each for a few hours a month. He refuses to lend his name to commercial ventures.

In addition to his $25,000-a-year presidential pension, Eisenhower enjoys a sizable income from investments. His first book, Crusade in Europe, earned him between $400,00 and $500,000 after taxes.

It was not ever thus. Early in 1948, before the book came out, Gen. Eisenhower retired as army chief of staff at what appeared to be the peak and end of his career. He bought a car and as he and Mamie were being driven out of Washington in the new purchase, he said, "We're riding out of town on our entire capital."

Today, the Eisenhowers have the use of several cars.

In or out of the White House, Dwight Eisenhower has many devoted friends, any of whom would still drop everything to come play golf with him. But geographically, Gettysburg is a awkward place to get to and so he has fewer golfing companions these days.

"Just a Second"

"Isn't it going to be funny—not having anyone to buy chocolates and flowers for?"

GOLFS ALONE

On days when no one is available, Gen. Eisenhower plays alone. Unless, of course, Master David Eisenhower, age 13, is not too busy.

The former president is fond of all his four grandchildren but he has a special affinity for his only grandson, who reserves him and would not exactly disappoint his grandfather by going to West Point someday. The two have always been close.

The biggest evening in the Eisenhower's week is the one on which their four grandchildren spend with them.

On other nights, when the general and his wife are alone, he usually spends his evening reading foreign affairs' pamphlets biography, historical novels or westerns. Mrs. Eisenhower watches television. The general occasionally wanders over her way.

Dwight D. Eisenhower is not a man overly given to reminiscence but when he does it usually is about his sunny days.

BIGGEST JOB

When he thinks of the biggest single day in his long career, he thinks always of May 7, 1945, when a terrible war ended in the schoolhouse at Rheims. It was, as he thinks of it, the day he was raised for, the day he fulfilled his orders.

As president, had he been able to sign an effective, lasting peace treaty with the whole world, that moment would have been bigger and the one to remember. But with all its power, with all its grandeur, the presidency of the United States in mid - 20th century could not match the day at Rheims.

Man, Woman Charged With Entering Home

OTTAWA (CP)—A man and a woman were charged Tuesday in connection with a daylight robbery in the home of Health Minister Monteith.

Charged with breaking and entering were Mildis Otis, 34, of Oshawa and Gerald Roy, 22, of North Bay.

Thieves broke into Mr. Monteith's suburban Rockcliffe home Monday morning while he was at his office and his wife was visiting the dentist.

The burglars, who smashed through a rear door, parked their car in the Monteith lane-way and loaded it with jewelry, silverware, a TV set, radio, camera, binoculars and most of Mr. Monteith's clothes.

Mr. Monteith, whose home is at Stratford when the Commons isn't sitting, was left Tuesday with the clothes on his back, two pair of shorts, a tuxedo and a tails.

The thieves must have been planning to set up house," said Mrs. Monteith. They also stole sheets and two pillows.

Nine Out of 10 American Homes Have TV Sets

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — The inconolatable pollsters and survey takers have been querying their way through the long hot summer.

Inspecting a two - month accumulation of mail that piled up during vacation followed by a working visit to Hollywood, I find there are statistics available to prove that:

Nine out of 10 American households have television sets, and that now there are two homes with two TV sets than there are homes without any. One out of eight homes, in fact, are "multi-set households."

About half of the TV viewers cannot give an accurate definition of a television network; that one out of four is unable to name even one of the three major networks.

TV "specials" on an average receive lower audience ratings than regularly scheduled programs. Most popular specials are variety shows—comedy and music — followed by dramatic programs.

And finally, that most TV viewers are not influenced by reviews of shows and opinions expressed by TV columnists.

ABC's first musical variety special of the new season Wednesday night, the Comedy Practicis Show, started things off in bright, bouncy fashion.

The hour served as a theme-sounds, ranging from a cat's snarl at Art Carney to a piano solo by Tab Hunter. It was an amusing device for a light-hearted, unpretentious show.

Connie Francis, the pretty young singer whose records are nough by teen - agers by the millions, was officially the top attraction of the show. She really didn't do much except sing and smile.

Nicklaus Carr Still In Race

Nicklaus disposed of Bill Edwards 3 and 4 and Dave Smith 2 and 1. Carr ousted Urban Thompson 3 and 2 and Sam Marsh 2 and 1.

Patton eliminated Dan James 3 and 1 but was stopped by Dick Siikas, 36-year-old coach of the University of Arkansas golf team, 4 and 3.

Coe lost 1 up to Gene Francis and Ward was eliminated 4 and 3 by Dudley Wysong Jr.

Two 18-hole rounds today will provide the opponents for Friday's 36-hole semi-finals.

HOLDING AT THE BELLE — A painful argument — Brian Keith, as the man listening dismally to an argument between the two women in his life, Maureen O'Hara and Joanne Barnes, in this scene from Walt Disney's Technicolor romantic comedy, "The Parent Trap", is holding, literally. Hayley Mills, as identical twins, is co-starred. "The Parent Trap", is holding over Friday, Friday and Saturday at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

Hastings Squares Series

PORT CREDIT (CP) — Hastings Legionnaires go into the third game of the Mid-Ont Cup lacrosse finals Friday night with hopes boosted but minus one other player.

The Legionnaires bounced back Wednesday night from their first-game loss to Burnaby Hasties and took a 13-11 victory, but in the process they lost defenceman Bob Stickle for at least two games as he was struck in the eye by the ball in the second period.

The decision tied the best-of-seven junior Canadian final at a game apiece.

Hastings had previously lost stars Grant Sherman and Ken Rattan. Burnaby appeared to have emerged without injuries.

Only 225 fans were on hand at Hastings took a first-period lead of 3-0 and Burnaby rallied for a 4-4 tie at half time. The Legionnaires moved in front again 8-6 in the third period and clinched the win with two goals in the final three minutes.

Scandal Touches Football?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State football coach Woody Hayes said Wednesday night he believes collegiate football has been touched slightly by the same type of gambling scandal which has rocked college basketball.

"It has happened—to no great degree—but I think it has happened," Hayes said during a talk to a group of touring sports writers on the responsibility of coaches, school officials and writers in protecting college gridders against gamblers.

"Ironically, one place it did happen was in a small college," said Hayes, "and a guy who kicked football was supposed to have kicked at least one football game last fall."

Hayes said the current investigation of bribery in New York in which only basketball fixes have been aired will unveil some football disclosures before it's all over. He did not identify the player supposedly involved in both basketball and football fixes.

Will Remain Member Of NBA

QUEBEC (CP)—Gene Lelourneau, national commissioner of the Canadian Boxing Federation and a member of the rating committee of the National Boxing Association, said Wednesday the federation must remain affiliated with the NBA.

He acted in a statement that during the recent NBC meeting at Hershey, Pa., CBF President Gererd Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., said he would move that the federation drop out of the NBA. Lelourneau said he would oppose such a move.

He said the reason behind the talk for a split was that Charlie Mayer of Montreal wis ruled ineligible for election as NBA president.

Lelourneau said: "I suggest that the federation must stay as an associate member of the NBA for the good of boxing in Canada.

"The sport of boxing is bigger than any individual. Nobody is bigger than the sport he represents, not even a world champion."

CHILD STAR

Lori Martin, diminutive, blue-eyed star of NBC-TV's National Velvet, was one of 1,000 girls auditioned for the part.

George Burns Taking Benny For Command Performance

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Gracie Allen won't come out of retirement even for the Queen of England—so George Burns is taking Jack Benny in a wig for a London command performance in November.

"Jack will be Gracie," says George. "He'll play it straight."

Or as straight as Benny can in a blonde wig, high-heeled shoes and Don Loper gown.

The two old friends have done the same Burns and Allen routine at parties around town. Someone took a picture. It appeared in a London newspaper and soon came to the ears of the palace—Buckingham.

Gracie retired in 1958 and George has been doing a single ever since. He makes guest TV appearances such as hosting and narrating next Sunday's Laughter U.S.A., the first of the new Dupont shows.

PLAY STRAIGHT MAN

"I play straight man to the together film clips of Chaplin, W. C. Fields, Laurel and Hardy, the real Burns and Allen and the real Jack Benny, among others.

"I think this show will prove that machines and science and the atom bomb may progress, but people—and especially the things that make people laugh never change.

"We use a monologue of Bob Hope doing a routine on the Berlin crisis. I'll tell you and swear he did last night. It was made in June."

Burns says his wife is retired for good and the happiest she has ever been.

"She'd die if she ever had to go back to show business," Benny and I are the opposite. We'd die if we ever had to leave it. That's why we're doing an act together.

"Audiences are our daily bread. I sing in an elevator if there were two people in it.

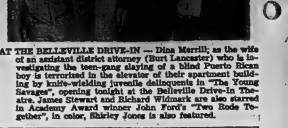
"Gracie was 35 years in show business and never knew there was an audience out front. To her a theatre was just four walls where she concentrated on her dialogue."

GRACIE THE ZANIEST

Gracie was perhaps the greatest of all the zany, nonsensical comedienne, but George says she still doesn't regard herself as such.

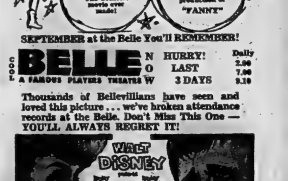
"Gracie always had a kind of illogical logic about her. She always thought my questions were stupid — never her answers. She really believed that — and that's why she was so great.

"Even at home, when she cooked a big roast in the oven, she always would put a little piece in a small pan and ask her why:



"'Silly,' she answered, 'when the little one is burned I'll know the big one is done.'"

AT THE PARK — Jack Lemmon (left), comedian, and Barry Sullivan are the key cast to emerge from "Cry-Baby Killer", a suspense film, in The Park Drive-in theatre, Belleville, starting Friday. Lemmon was filmed in Chesapeake and Ohio railroad yards in Virginia at the air conditioned Park Theatre. The picture co-stars Joe Weatherly and Jacky Mann. Also starred are Jack Ging and Jackie Coogan.



AT THE BELLEVILLE DRIVE-IN — Dina Merrill, as the wife of an assistant district attorney (Burt Lancaster) who is investigating the teen-gang slaying of a blind Puerto Rican boy is terrorized in the elevator of their apartment building by knife-wielding juvenile delinquents in "The Young Savages", opening tonight at the Belleville Drive-In Theatre. James Stewart and Richard Widmark are also starred in Academy Award winner John Ford's "Two Rode Together", in color, Shirley Jones is also featured.

Wins Senior Tennis Match

TORONTO (CP) — Defending champion Ned Stafford of Niagara Falls, N.Y., won his opening singles match Wednesday in the Canadian seniors tennis championship, defeating Paul Bedard of Montreal, 6-1, 6-2.

The tournament is for players 45 years and older.

In another men's singles contest, Bun Cooke of Kitchener defeated Nunzio Rizzo of Niagara Falls, N.Y., 6-0, 6-2.

Bisons Up Two Games, Wings Even

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bobby Veale, a 14-game winner during the regular season, tries to get the Columbus Jets back on right track at Rochester tonight as the International League pennant winners continue their bid for the league's playoff title.

Rochester, even with the Jets at one game apiece after a 3-2 triumph at Columbus Wednesday night, will start either Art Quirk (10-8) or Johnny Kucks (10-14).

In the other best - of - seven semi - final playoff, Buffalo has Bill Smith (9-7) ready to go against Charleston's Leroy Gregory (13-10) at Buffalo. The Bisons took a 2-0 lead in their series with a 7-4 victory at Charleston Wednesday night.

Right - hander Johnny Anderson scattered five hits for Rochester, four of them infield scratches, and beat the champs when Joe Durham singled and Fred Valentine hit a two - run homer with two out in the fourth. Al Jackson was the loser.

Buffalo scored five unearned runs with two out in the third to beat Charleston's Dean Stone who had pitched two straight shutouts and had won his last seven games of the regular season. Felix Torres and Bob Wine each drove in two runs in the big inning.

Picton Wins Over Waterford

The Picton Walls squeezed out a thrilling 3-2 victory over Waterford at Picton last night to take the opening game of their OSSA Intermediate "B" playdown series.

Picton trailed 1-0 going into the bottom of the sixth inning. First baseman Denny Hayden smashed a tremendous home run to tie the score 1-1.

The game went into extra innings before third baseman Ron Weese hit another bases-empty homer in the 11th frame to end the hard-fought battle.

Picton outhit the visitors 6-3 with Roger Chapman blazing third strikes past 20 Waterford batters. The Waterford pitcher struck out 17.

The second game will be played in Waterford Saturday night at 8.30.

Junior Habs Will Play In OHA

TORONTO (CP) — Montreal Junior Canadiens have been given approval to play in the Ontario Hockey Association junior A series in the 1961-62 season, the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association announced today.

A vote of CAHA branch presidents was held to decide whether the Canadiens would be allowed to play in the Ontario league.

The junior Canadiens, former members of the Quebec branch, are moving into the OHA to give the junior A series six teams. After last season, the Memorial Cup champions, Toronto St. Michael's College Majors, and Toronto Marlboros withdrew to play in a newly-formed Toronto Junior A league.

After All They Pay The Taxes

VANCOUVER (CP)—Reeve Allen Emmott of suburban Burnaby has a geography tip for Canadian lacrosse fans.

Burnaby is a municipality completely separate from the city of Vancouver.

"Every time a team from anywhere near Vancouver goes to Eastern Canda, it becomes a Vancouver team," Reeve Emmott complained Wednesday.

"For the sake of the civic pride of 100,000 Burnabians, Norburns should be referred to as a Burnaby team," he said.

LAY DOWN LAW

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The National Boxing Association's world championship committee Wednesday told heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson to defend his title against the top NBA challenger within six months or lose the crown.

In letters sent to Patterson and his manager Cus D'Amato, the committee said the champion must comply by March 31 — the first anniversary of Patterson's last title defense.

Henry Cooper of England is currently the top NBA challenger.

WATERLOO (CP) — Bob Celeri, a veteran of the National Football League, the Ontario Rugby Football Union and U.S. college play, was signed Wednesday as head coach of Waterloo Lutheran University Hawks of the Ontario Intercollegiate Athletic Association.

Celeri quarterbacked University of California in two Rose Bowl games and played three years of pro ball with New York and Dallas Texans of the NFL.

He moved to Kitchener seven years ago and was quarterback of Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen in the ORFU until the club folded two years ago.

Riders Lose Davey West

TORONTO (CP) — Davey West, pass - catching halfback with Ottawa Rough Riders of the Big Four Football League, is in a Toronto hospital suffering from a serious kidney ailment.

West, 32, became ill during Ottawa's game against Edmonton Eskimos Saturday when his weight dropped to 175 from 186 pounds.

West, who lives in Toronto, entered hospital Sunday. His condition was reported as good Wednesday and it was said he would be ready to play again in two weeks. He has suffered from kidney trouble before.

Other members of the CIAA League are Ryerson Institute of Technology, Hamilton Institute of Technology and Royal Military College.

Jay Hurls Reds Closer To Pennant

First Nat To Win 20

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Staff Writer

Joey Jay, the Ellis leaguer who became a big leaguer, today savored his 20th victory and that is a full measure of revenge after mowing Cincinnati Reds a giant step closer to their first National League pennant since 1940.

The 26 - year - old right-hander, discarded by Milwaukee Braves after he completed an unspectacular 3-8 record last year, blanked his former teammates 4-0 with a four-hitter Wednesday night and became the first National League pitcher to win 20 this season.

Jay, one of those most unpromising Sec Chandler's amazing rise from a sixth - place finish in 1960, joined Whitey Ford of New York Yankees and Frank Lary of Detroit Tigers as the only 20 - game winners with his fourth shutout and 13th complete game.

He also scored the game's only run in the 28th inning, made it his fifth victory and a defeat over his onetime mates and lowered the Reds' magic number to nine with the aid of Pittsburgh Pirates.

The defeat, with reliever Harvey Haddix pitching two-hit ball over the final eight innings, beat second - place Los Angeles 5-3 and dropped the Dodgers 9½ games back of the Reds. Any combination of nine Cincinnati victories and/or Los Angeles defeats will give the Reds' the NL flag.

THE FOR THIRD

San Francisco Giants moved into a tie for third place with the Braves by defeating the last - place Philadelphia Phillies 4-2. The Chicago - St. Louis game was rained out.

Jay (20-9), first Cincinnati hurler to enter the 20 - game circle since Brett Blackwell won 22 in 1947, handcuffed the team that signed him for $20,000 in 1953 and wrested him to the Reds in the last winter. Jay scored the Reds' run on a two - out single by Vada Pinson, who was batting for him in the eighth. Carl Willey (5-14) was the loser.

Major leaguer's second homer, with one on against reliever Dick Farrell (3-7), enabled a 3-3 tie in the eighth inning and sent the Dodgers crashing to their 10th loss in six games. Dick Stuart also homered for the Pirates, his 29th. Haddix (9-6) came in when Bob Friend retired due to illness in the eighth, giving up two runs in the first.

Rookie right-hander Jim Duffalo (4-6), recalled from Tacoma Monday, practically got the job done for the Giants' sleepbankrupcy in his first major league start. He limited the Phillies to six hits and drove in four runs — three with his first big league home run, a double (3-4) took the loss.

Halts Yankee Game, Tigers Win

'Carla' Stymies Home-Run Battle

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Staff Writer

Hurricane Carla has stuck a finger into that home run chase and both Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle figure the naughty miss has hampered their chances of surpassing Babe Ruth's record.

Carla tossed her fringe effects into the mildewed Wednesday night, forcing postponement of the New York Yankees-Chicago White Sox game with Maris at bat in the third inning and causing the American League contest to be rescheduled as part of a doubleheader today.

"Somehow I've never done too well in doubleheaders," said Maris, the leader with 58 home runs and a three - game edge over Ruth's record 60 pace of 1927.

"I'd rather play them one game at a time," said Mantle, who trails Maris by three home runs behind the Bambino with 53 homers.

While the Yankees were idle, the second - place Detroit Tigers took the opportunity to replace the American League season's margin to 11 games by blanking Kansas City Athletics 8-0 behind Jim Bunning's five-hit pitching and home runs by Rocky Colavito and Norm Cash.

SNAP LOSING STREAK

Cleveland Indians snapped a six-game losing streak by beating Baltimore Orioles 5-0 on Gary Bell's four - hitter. Washington Senators won two in a row for the first time since Aug. 17 by whipping Boston Red Sox 4-2. A wet - night doubleheader between Los Angeles Angels and Minnesota Twins was postponed.

Maris and Mantle each got to bat once before the all - day rain made the field unplayable in the third with the Yankees leading 2-1. Maris singled and Mantle drew a walk off the catcher in the first inning.

The postponement left the Yanks' magic number at seven. They'll be trying to extend their 13 - game winning streak today with Roland Sheldon (9-6) and Jim Coates (11-5) scheduled to go against Chicago's Joan Pizarro (13-6) and Ray Herbert (9-12).

The Tigers jumped out to a 4-0 lead against starter Jim Ascher (8-13) in the first four innings, then put it away with a four - run fifth as Colavito smacked his 42nd homer with two on and Ash followed with his 35th. Bunning (16-11) allowed only two hits after the fourth inning in pitching his fourth shutout.

Bell (10-12) held the Orioles after the third inning, struck out three and walked only two, as the Indians pounded Steve Barber (16-11) for 10 hits. Woody Held hit his 20th homer for Cleveland in the ninth with one on.

Chuck Cottier tripled across two runs for the Senators while reliever Joe McClain closed the door when the Red Sox threatened in the ninth against starter Bill Monbouquette (9-13). Tracy Stallard (3-5) lost it.

CUBAN DEFECTS

LIMERICK, Ireland (AP)—A Cuban baseball player, member of a team which toured Eastern Europe, Wednesday night was granted political asylum in Ireland, He is Rafael de Lorreyes, 20, of Havana, who slipped away from other Cuban athletes and their managers at Shannon airport. He told police he feared his life was in danger, so he was sent to Dublin by automobile.

The Training Camps

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Coach Phil Watson has scanned his Boston Bruins training camps in Niagara Falls, Ont., and come up with a tentative 18-man lineup for an exhibition hockey game here Friday night with Toronto Maple Leafs.

Watson indicated Wednesday he plans to let Don Head go the whole game in goal, contrary to the usual pre-season practice of alternating goalies. Ed Chadwick is scheduled for netminding chores the following evening in Peterborough against the Leafs and Bruce Gamble will be ready for service Sunday against Hull-Ottawa Canadiens of the Eastern Professional Hockey League.

Watson's most impressive forward line is likely to be one centred by Charlie Burns, with Earl Ingarfield and Dick Meissner.

At Peterborough, the Leafs went through a pair of intra-squad games. In the first game, Bob Pulford, Dave Keon and Stan Smrke scored for the Whites in their 3-2 victory over the Blues. The second workout saw the Whites trim the Blues 7-3. Gerry Ehman, Earl Johnson and Ed Lawson got two goals apiece for the winners.

BOOST TEXPO

New York Rangers boosted the tempo of their training at Guelph Wednesday, the second day of workouts. George Agar, coach of Los Angeles entry in the Western Hockey League, and general manager Eddie Shore of the American League's Springfield Indians attended the Ranger workouts, shopping for talent.

Seven players in the Chicago camp at St. Catharines were called in by Black Hawks general manager Tommy Ivan for preliminary contract talks.

Rightwinger John McKenzie, 20, from Fort William, Ont., Bentley Bears last season, appeared to have made the National League Detroit Red Wings. He showed up well at the Wings' camp in Detroit.

Pitching: Joey Jay, Reds, shut out former Milwaukee mates on four hits and became first National League pitcher to win 20 games this season as Cincinnati beat Braves 1-0.

Hitting: Bill Mazeroski, Pirates, hit two homers against Los Angeles, the last breaking up the game in the eighth inning and powering Pittsburgh to 8-2 victory over second-place Dodgers.

YANKS MAY TOUR

MELBOURNE (AP) — J. Ellis, secretary of the Australian Baseball Council, said Wednesday negotiations have been going on for some time concerning a visit to Australia by New York Yankees. If the deal is completed, the Yanks will play two games in Sydney and two in Melbourne against Australian teams. The last American major league team to visit here was New York Giants in 1910.

BOBBY HAYWARD

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

"Greater love hath no man . . ."

Did Bobby Hayward, Canada's world's speedboat champion, killed in a driving accident Sunday, give up his life to save that of a fellow driver?

The accepted version in a lot of quarters is that Hayward attempted to drive "Miss Supertest II" at a terrific rate of speed between Bill Muncey driving "Miss Century 21" and Dan Wilson piloting "Miss U. S." He shot into the lead, lost control, the boat flipped and he was fatally injured as a result of water impact.

Frank (Rod) Salle who was driving "Miss Thunderbolt" in fourth position astern and to the outside of Muncey, Wilson and Hayward, had the closest, most scientific view of the accident.

Salle told newsmen: "Hayward was driving between and quite close behind Muncey and Wilson holding a line. This is normal and quite safe. By staying up tight and between the racetrack of the lead boats a driver avoids getting washed down—and also turbulent water."

"I thought," Salle said, "he had the intention of going between them because at this point I'm talking about there was a good 40-50 feet there. But you must remember when cars are that close—you are driving on what the front fellows are doing, and if they make a mistake you make one automatically."

"Muncey and Wilson slowed down suddenly for the turn," Salle said, "and Hayward had nowhere to go. He did the only thing he could to avoid running over Wilson — he cut hard to the right and headed for the outside. That is dangerous because these boats are designed to always turn left on counter-clockwise courses."

"With luck he would have made it, but it wasn't Bob's day. His left sponson dug in hard . . . and I mean hard. He was killed right there. The impact of a sponson going in at his speed is like driving a car into a concrete wall at 80 miles an hour. His body tore the cockpit to pieces."

Salle leaped overboard and swam to the stricken boat. He untangled Hayward from the mass of twisted steel. "Everything was ripped away," he said, "including Bobby's life jacket."

Wilson said "Miss Supertest's right side actually shot over as it went by. It was airborne and doing about 30-40 miles an hour more than Muncey and I. I ducked down in the cockpit when I saw Hayward fighting to control the boat."

The fatality was witnessed by Hayward's mother, his only immediate relative.

This department agrees with Jack Dulmage, Windsor Star sports editor, who wrote: "I cannot conceive of Hayward shooting his boat at 150 miles an hour between two closely riding boats, endangering their lives. He has never done such a thing, and his racing career is dotted with incidents of high sportsmanship in which he scorned opportunities to make gain at the risk of a fellow driver. It was not in the man to do, what has been imputed to him."

The general version is not consistent with the facts and is wholly inconsistent with Hayward's driving. He could do things with his boat no other driver could do, but he was in no way reckless. Impish, yes, such as trenching the official stand and the press area like he did a year ago at Picton.

During one of his talks with the press Bobby said that when confronted with two lead boats at the start of the first turn he would use superior engine power to pass on the outside. He did exactly this when he raced the Dupont boats, "Nitrogen" and "Nitrogen, Too" at Picton in 1960.

"I think," said Dulmage, "that Hayward died to save another man's life, but eyewitness accounts are conflicting and lacking in precision and the true chain of events may never be known."

I agree with our contemporary. Bobby Hayward was that kind of a man.

Oshawa Holds Answer

East. Hockey Undecided

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

To be—or not to be, is still the question in Eastern Ontario senior hockey.

However it should be settled one way or the other over the coming weekend.

Four teams signified entry at a meeting held here last night and hopes are high that a fifth club will round out the circuit come Friday or Saturday.

Belleville, Kingston, Napanee were personally represented, while Toronto Marcediennes provided their intention to enter.

Oshawa, the fifth club of the proposed loop, is practically "in" said OHA member Jack Devine. A sponsor has been secured and it is merely a matter of convincing him that the new circuit is what it is — not only a semi-pro senior "A" league.

Devine and Jean Paul Lamirande, in the event OHA president Lorne Cook who chaired last night's get-together cannot go, will visit Oshawa Friday or Saturday and talk with hockey officials and the sponsors on the matter.

Devine told the meeting that OHA member Mel Lyon of Oshawa felt sure the club would enter after matters had been explained to the sponsor.

Leyden in turn had informed the proposed Eastern group he had deferred the annual meeting of the Lakeshore Intermediate League until he had learned the results of the eastern senior circuit meet.

In the event that Oshawa could not submit an entry it was proposed that the eastern seniors merge with the Lakeshore circuit in a general eastern league.

This did not meet with general approval, the consensus being that Lakeshore teams would not prove to be drawing cards.

Another suggestion, that the Trenton RCAF be invited to enter the loop and make a six-club circuit, did not meet with general favor.

It was felt the RCAF could not enter a club of a calibre commensurate with other teams of the area.

PREFER "DOLLAR HOCKEY"

Harold Langabeer, one of the Kingston representatives, said he would not go along with a four-team circuit. "There might be a weak sister in such a setup and the loop might fold before season end."

Gordon Yanover, another member of the Kingston delegation, agreed. He said there are a lot of Kingston fans who want senior hockey back. They prefer the dollar kind to the two-dollar professional type. A recent hoist in pro-hockey prices in Kingston, he said, has not met with general fan approval.

On the assumption that Oshawa would round out the five-club circuit, the meeting discussed generalities regarding the operation of the league.

In a cost-cutting decision, the loop endorsed the two local referee system instead of the one-referee-two-linesmen set-up, with the exception of Napanee. There, the delegates agreed, would use two Kingston referees against Belleville and two Belleville officials against Kingston. Referees must meet the approval of the OHA.

The clubs endorsed a motion to provide $1,000 bonds as backers of good faith, and insurance for the league.

October 20 was the tentative date set for the opening of the league. The five-team group would play a 40-game schedule.

A league pool and other matters were discussed at some length but definite decisions were laid over pending the successful organization of the league.

And there the matter lies. It seems the operation of an eastern senior hockey loop lies in the hands of Oshawa hockey interests.

Jean Paul Lamirande represented Belleville and stated he definitely would enter a club.

WINS YACHT TROPHY

MONTREAL (CP) — Harry C. (Bud) Melges of Lake Geneva, Wis., Wednesday won the Mallory Cup for the North American yachting championship for the third time in the 19-year history. He emerged from the three - day, eight - race event on nearby Lake St. Lou's with a slight edge over Bob Monbacher of Detroit, Mich., and John McNamara of Marblehead, Mass.

Will Play Benefit Game

The Point Anne Cementmen of the Commercial softball league, and Belleville Joyce Real Estate will play a benefit softball game at the Point this Sunday to aid an injured member of the Cementmen.

Infielder Ron Hull, who suffered a broken jaw during the Cementmen's league semi-finals, will receive the money collected from the game to help with medical expenses. Hull had no insurance.

The game is slated for 2.00 p.m. on the Point Anne diamond.

Point Anne manager Ron Ferguson says that "arrangements have been made for Pal Marcelle to pitch for the Cementmen and for Ken Kibblewhite of the RCAF Flyers, to pitch for Joyces.

Quinte Trap, Gun Club

The Quinte Trap and Gun Club held its final regular Wednesday shoot of the year yesterday with John Welsh topping the list with a score of 24.

The Sunday shoots will continue but because of darkness the Wednesday shoots will be discontinued.

Other high scores yesterday were: Earl Marvin 23, Harry Farrell 22, Doug Johnston 22, Ed Peake 22, Jim Shortt 22, Lorne Lambert 22, Larry Harrington 22, Glen McConkey 21, Bill Drulak 21, Bob Peake 21, Don Dalrymple 20.

HAYWARD BURIED

EMBRO (CP) — Speedboat driver Bob Hayward, 33, killed Sunday during the Silver Cup race at Detroit, was buried Wednesday in the cemetery of this village of 700. Loudspeakers were set up outside Knox Presbyterian Church to enable the overflow congregation to listen to the service.

Disagrees With Frick

Cronin Says Homer Mark Will Stand

CHICAGO (AP) — American League president Joe Cronin said today if New York's Roger Maris or Mickey Mantle hit 61 home runs in the regulation 154-game schedule, it must be regarded as a record.

Cronin said he did not wish to become involved in any dispute with baseball commissioner Ford Frick.

At the same time, he added, he could see no logic in the commissioner's ruling which specifies that Ruth's 60 homers in 1927 must be topped in 154 decisions to count as a new standard.

"After all, Ruth hit his 60 in 153 games," said Cronin, a contemporary of Ruth when he was the star shortstop and manager of the Washington Senators in the early 1930s.

"Therefore, if a person wants to be technical he can say the record counts only if either Maris or Mantle hit 61 homers in as many games as Ruth did.

"I respect the commissioner's feelings about the matter, but as far as I'm concerned, it will be a record if either or both do it in 154 games."

Earlier, Hank Greenberg, who along with Jimmy Foxx, came closest to overhauling Ruth's record, said he think: both Maris and Mantle will top the Babe's mark — but not in 154 games.

"I think the time limit of 154 set by Commissioner Ford Frick will hurt them out," he said.

OPENS HUGE YARD

MONTREAL — (CP) — Transport Minister Balcer Wednesday officially opened the Canadian National Railways' new 800-acre Montreal freight yard, which the company calls its largest most modern in the East. Operation for several months, the new yard gives the CNR a fully automated system for marshalling the thousands of freight cars which pass through the city daily.

More Private Firms Doing Road Work

BANFF, Alta. (CP)—Provincial governments are finding it doesn't always pay to do their own road work, a Toronto contractor said Wednesday.

E. R. Waterhouse, representing the Canadian Construction Association in a debate at the Canadian Good Roads Association annual convention, said Canada's road departments are without exception handing more of their contracts to private firms.

He offered statistics from every province indicating a trend away from government ownership of equipment for building and maintenance.

He rejected a suggestion by Edward Sokolowski, engineer of Ontario's Lincoln County, that the average municipality could build and maintain roads more cheaply because it doesn't need a profit or have to pay taxes.

He said Sokolowski's sales are for public tenders on almost all its work and New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island have sold most of their grading equipment. "Nothing proved in New Brunswick that the government-owned own cost estimates on its road construction including "such items as materials for temporary structures, tracking, engineering supervision and overhead," Mr. Waterhouse said.

NEEDS COMPETITION

Quebec, he said, has started competitive bidding on all its projects, and in Ontario, 97.3 per cent of capital road construction is done by the contract method.

Mr. Sokolowski said a municipality can keep its engineering and construction personnel busy all year around on both building and maintenance, but the contractor must keep paying his key men through the idle winter months, and add the costs to his bill on summer jobs for the government.

A municipality can rent its equipment and save paying the salaries for inspector and project superintendent by combining the jobs in one experienced employee, he said.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Friday, September 15, 1961

General Tendencies: Now you have an unusually good day in which to hold steady to whatever you have already agreed or promised to do without taking any chances or acting in that unpredictable or angered manner that suddenly arises. Show complete self-control. Thus you could solve problems with great ingenuity through unusual methods now.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Family ties experts, friends all seem to disagree where certain plans are concerned that you believe in, so be sure not to take any action today. Think matters over well and await a better time to reach positive decision. Retire early.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Avoid argument with a partner since it could mean much unpleasantness and the severance of a valuable alliance. It may be that you are too stubborn and not understanding of the views and feelings of others. Be co-operative and you prosper.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Speaking or acting thoughtlessly could cause a good deal of damage today, loss of friendships, etc. Get yourself in hand and co-operate instead to know what you are doing and then this becomes a happy day full of constructive labor and ideas.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) It really isn't necessary to spend so much in order to enjoy yourself now. You must learn to relax and let things come to you that are worthwhile, and this can only happen if you are poised and full of faith. Forget the past.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) Family ties are irate today, so be sure you do not add own temper to the melee and really upset the applecart. If you are pleasant instead and take matters into your own hands, you can save the day and bring prosperity where there could be chaos.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) Important that you drive carefully and walk circumspectly, as well as choose your words wisely throughout this day and night. The planets are more what against you and if you exercise will power, all will be well. Be forwarned.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Keep a watchful eye on your holdings, and see where you can economize more. If you want to later make that investment that will bring in a far greater income in the future. Don't take chances now!

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) If you are not forceful with others now, you avoid arguments and get what you want in the end. Don't forget that they have feelings, too. Keep busy at duties and improving surroundings and appearance instead. Be happy.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Instead of feeling that others are imposing on you, go busy investigating what is wrong that keeps you from getting ahead as, you would like. Also, get new and fine ideas from your newspaper or other periodicals of note. Grow.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you do not control your temper and use the right words, you can become estranged from those who are truly your good and kind friends. Take that chip off your shoulder. Stop high falutin' gentilities. Be ok so others themselves.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Important you do nothing to take away from your good name today. See that you get a higher evaluation, too. Not a good day for taking chances either - just keep plodding away diligently at regular duties. Stay at home if P.M.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Do not allow things seem to be pressing in on you that you want to get away from it all. But if you handle the situation wisely, this will be a blessing in disguise. Also, incorporate new methods so that you achieve real efficiency. Grow.

If your child is born today . . . he, or she, will show every ability for managerial work either in business or in the field of entertainment, where it is necessary to maintain law and order, provided that you make it your business to give your progeny the finest education possible to fit him, or her, for such work. It is imperative that your progeny be taught to control temper early in life in order that the greatest success possible be realized.

VALUABLE PLANT

Medicinal castor oil is prepared from the first pressing of seeds of the castor bean. Industrial oil from later pressings.

seemed certain—the UN was taken by surprise by the Katanga resistance.

The UN plans apparently lacked cut and the Katangese were ready to combat it.

Reports indicated that Conor O'Brien of Ireland, head of UN operations in Katanga, arranged a cease-fire through one of President Tshombe's military combined world press, said the sides. But it was broken a few hours later.

Reports reacing Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia, said UN troops have set up a roadblock between Elisabethville and Northern Rhodesia stopping cars entering or leaving Katanga.

One Western correspondent who made his way to Northern Rhodesia at the height of Wednesday's fighting said: "Elisabethville looks like a war-battered city."

STILL RAGING

Raymond J. Moloney, in a dispatch filed from Ranorola, Northern Rhodesia, for the Ind the fold under the Leopoldville government.

"I am still prepared to meet fighting began at 4 a.m. and was still raging when he left shortly before noon.

Official reports reaching Leo-Swedish major and an Indian lieutenant of the UN force, and 12 Katangese. But Moloney said final casualty figures might Riddle Rochaly-Davidson, to run the province, whose mineral riches, cattle ranches and industry the UN of deadlocreating him. But he gave no indication whether he would carry on his fight to keep his rich territory independent.

Premier Cyrille Adoula of the central government put out a feeler to Tshombe to come back with President Tshombe if he comes to Leopoldville," Adoula told reporters.

Adoula proclaimed the Congo lasted once again. His deb- ridden government, quickly named a follower of slain former premier Patrice Lumumba, tries yield $600,000,000 a year.

The sudden coup in Elisabethville came as UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold arrived here.

The United Nations announced it still recognizes Tshombe as Katanga's president. Adoula said, however, he is making arrangements for the assembly in that province to meet and elect a new government.

TSHOMBE RAISES TRIBES AGAINST UN

2 German Jets Blunder Into Berlin

Embarrass West Just As MiGs Buzz Airliners

Use of Allied Fighters Reported Under Study

BERLIN (AP)—Concern rose today over use of the vital Western airlanes to Berlin after two West German fighters blundered into the city and Soviet MiG jets shadowed two U.S. commercial airliners.

Spokesman East Germany called the landing of the two West German F-84 jet fighters in the French sector Thursday "a monstrously provocative act" in a statement. The East Germans charged the two pilots were on a spying mission.

At about the same time, the American airliners flying from Berlin to Hamburg-drew either shadowed or buzzed by Soviet MiG jet fighters. The United States filed a protest with the Soviet representative at the Berlin air safety centre.

The case of the two West German pilots, who said they lost their way on a training mission and landed at Tegel airport, also was discussed at the air safety centre. This is one of the few remaining occupation establishments in which the Russians still co-operate.

After a four-hour meeting, an Allied officer said "there is nothing to worry about."

LANDS INADVERTENTLY

The incident was a source of embarrassment to the Western Allies as well as the West German government. Under four-power accords on Berlin that the Western leaders insist must be kept, West Germany is not allowed to have military installations or aircraft or planes into the city.

The West German government apologized to the three Western powers and to the Soviet Ambassador in Bonn.

Accounts of the airlines' incidents differed.

A Pan American Airlines official said a Soviet MiG flew about 1,000 feet off an airliner's wing for a minute or two. The plane, a Convair 880, landed safely in Hamburg with 40 passengers.

In Washington, the state department cited two instances. It said one buzzed fighter flew only 20 feet off the wingtip of one Pan American plane, and a MiG zoomed only 100 feet in front of the nose of another.

There are four 20-mile-wide air corridors from Frankfurt, Hamburg and Hanover to Berlin. These are the only routes from the former German capital not controlled by the Communist Road and rail routes passed through Communist checkpoints in East Germany.

ESCAPES CONTINUE

Escapes from East Berlin continued Thursday. Communist police fired into West Berlin after a man crashed through the Red border. Behind a truck, the man was hurt and the driver reached the French sector of West Berlin safely.

Further along the barrier, two women and a boy were helped over the five-foot wall dividing the city by an East German police sergeant who followed them to freedom. Three other East Berliners broke through the cordon of a house on the boundary.

CRITICIZE TESTS

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Defence Minister V. K. Krishna Menon said Thursday the Soviet Union would not have made the nuclear tests moratorium "whatever the provocation." Menon added: "We don't like it. We don't like anyone exploding bombs."

Today's Chuckle

Learn from the mistakes of others. You haven't time to make them all yourself.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Cool northwesterly winds brought Ontario's summer weather to an end Thursday. Cool weather will continue over the whole province on Saturday.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Soviet buzzing of U.S. airliners in the corridors to Berlin spurred consideration today of possible Western countermeasures.

Two incidents involving Soviet fighter planes were announced by the state department Thursday night shortly after Western foreign ministers completed the first session of a three-day conference here on Berlin policy planning.

One of the ministers major considerations since the Berlin crisis started has been to decide what steps would be taken by the Western powers if the Soviets or Communist East Germans began harassing aircraft using the Berlin corridors.

Diplomatic informants suggested that the buzzing of two Pan American airliners, including quick deviations on the part of the Soviet jets, offered arguments about protective measures which could mean the use of Western fighters defensively in the air corridors.

STUDY FOREGOING

Within the U.S. government, it was pointed, military leaders have been studying the possibility of stationing fighter planes near the air corridors between West Germany and Berlin. Moves from ready for instant action if it appeared that an incident in the corridors was endangered by Communist fighter plane buzzing.

U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk, Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville of France, Foreign Secretary Lord Home of Britain and Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano of West Germany plan to go into Berlin on Friday morning for a visit to the scene of their meetings.

Officials declined to give details of Thursday's opening meeting. They described it as "general and confidential" and "big problems, including developments in Laos and in the Congo, and the current situation in Berlin."

Shortly after the conference in his office Rusk received Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin. The ambassador who had returned to Washington earlier this week from Moscow, flew to Rusk's home. The state department declined to discuss the nature of the Menshikov visit.

HARKNESS GIVEN STIFF GRILLING BY OPPOSITION

RCN Under Fire By Two Members

OTTAWA (CP)—Two dogged opposition MPs likened themselves to pre-war Churchills Thursday and prodded at what they said is the navy's inability to find and destroy missile-carrying Russian submarines in the event of war.

Liberal defence critic Paul Hellyer said Russian atomic subs can "swim circles" around Canadian destroyer escorts and scuffed at RCN exercises with a 20-year-old American sub which "no one in his right mind would send out to sea."

Walter Pitman (NDP—Peterborough) said government explanations had "an air of unreality." Mr. Hellyer agreed and said Canadians have "no feeling of comfort" that the RCN could find and destroy enemy present subs — let alone future ones.

An angry Defence Minister Harkness said the statements were wrong. Canada's anti-sub forces—particularly when they are equipped with helicopters by quicker sub - sighting—"have the capability of destroying submarines at any time."

Mr. Harkness said the ships

Former Premier of Turkey And Aides Sentenced to Die

UP from Reuter-AP

YASSIADA, Turkey — Ousted Premier Adnan Menderes, former president Celal Bayar and 10 top Menderes aides were sentenced to death here today at the wooden island prison after a trial of nearly 600 members of Menderes' toppled regime.

Fourteen other former government officials were dealt terms of life imprisonment in the verdict handed down by a special nine-judge civil-military court after a trial that began last October.

Just hours before the sentence was pronounced Menderes suffered a severe nervous collapse and was unable to appear in court.

Menderes and Bayar were convicted of violating the constitution during the years they led Turkey under their iron rule.

Hours after his collapse, doctors said Menderes was improving. Newspaper guards were escorted to a hospital room to see him. He appeared conscious but seriously ill. A tube had been inserted in his nose.

The defendants were sentenced in groups of about 20 after being led into court under heavy guard.

PRECAUTIONS TAKEN

Turkish air force jet fighters screamed overhead and offshore a destroyer flotilla patrolled.

Those sentenced to death included former foreign minister Fatin Zorlu; former Speaker of Assembly chairman Refik Koraltan and two of his aides; former finance minister Hasan Polatkan; and Menderes' former political investigator, Ahmet Hamdi Santar, and two of his aides.

Among those drawing life terms were former deputy premier Medeni Berk; former headlieutenant of state Jarat Akcal; former justice minister Celal Yardimci; and former public works minister Tevfik Beri.

Executions are to be carried out privately within 24 hours. There is no appeal to the sentences, but the death penalty requires only approval of the ruling National Unity Committee.

Charges against the accused ranged from planned assassination of opposition members to misappropriation of funds and other offences.

The 77-year-old Bayar stood without sign of emotion and listened to Presiding Justice Salim Bascan read out the death sentences. Bayar then broke down himself with his bell a year ago while awaiting trial. Once in court, he was the most outspoken of the defendants, often engaging in angry exchanges with the court.

The former president was additionally sentenced to 10 and 15 months' hard labor for unlawfully selling an eighan hound to a government public garden.

Menderes was additionally sentenced to six years' hard labor and a fine of 375 Turkish liras (about $36) for organizing the Istanbul riots over Cyprus in September, 1955, and to a year's hard labor and a 400 lira (about $39) fine for being involved in illegal shipping deals. He was acquitted of a charge of procuring an abortion and being responsible for an illegitimate baby which he fathered.

In all, 592 defendants were to appear in court, including 88 tried during the trial. These were summoned to this Marmora Sea island for the verdict.

All were charged in varying degrees with violation of the constitution during the Menderes' regime.

One parliamentary was Mrs. deputy, Hilal Ulman, fainted when she heard herself sentenced to 15 years and eight months.

Menderes, one of the founders of the Democrat party, rose to power battling against government restrictions on the Turkish press and people—curbs he imposed himself later, bringing his downfall.

What got Menderes into real trouble was his thin skin. He could not stand criticism. When demonstrating about some of his policies arose he pushed through legislation to silence his critics under threat of prison. Scores of Turkish journalists were jailed. Judges and university professors fired for daring to challenge the government.

Cobourg Woman Badly Burned In House Fire

COBOURG (CP)—Mrs. Dainty Fitzhugh is in critical condition after suffering burns at a fire at her home early today. She was dragged from a blazing bedroom by her husband who burned his hands in rescuing her.

The Fitzhugh House, known as Northumberland Hall is one of Cobourg's landmarks.

Damage was $5,000.

Tin Lizzie Empire Now Star-Bound As Ford Plans to Buy Philco Corp.

DEARBORN (AP) — The saga of the Ford Motor Company empire reaches from the tin Flivver Ford into outer space.

Fifty-three years ago this fall Henry Ford took his first model T Ford on a 1,337-mile hunting trip to Wisconsin and back.

Now the industrial empire he founded is building a capsule to be landed on the moon next year and within a few years will have set up construction of the Saturn rocket targeted for trips beyond the moon.

The announcement Wednesday that Ford plans to buy the Philco Corporation indicates an even greater involvement in missiles and space exploration.

Philco is prime contractor on the Ballistic missile program, played a part in the Discoverer and Midas satellites and built the courier communications satellite for the army signal corps.

During the past year alone Ford ran the company no one thought seriously about moon trips. But he was a great one for experiments.

"He was always trying something," recalls one acquaintance, "whether it was growing soybeans in Michigan or rubber in Brazil."

He delved into so many varied fields one biographer called him a modern - day Leonardo da Vinci.

One of his most vigorous experiments was with soy beans from which he developed plastics and paints. Once he built a plastic body for a car.

Ford seriously considered entering the appliance field, especially refrigerators, using his soybean plastics for cabinets. Now, some 30 years later, the company will be in the refrigerator business for the first time when it acquires Philco.

Ford pioneered the fourth auto company to gain an appliance division. General Motors has Frigidaire, American Motors purchased Kelvinator and Chrysler has DeSoto, which specializes in air conditioning.

At one time or another the Ford Motor Company has owned Brazilian rubber plantations, built passenger airplanes (a few were used by Admiral Byrd on Antarctic explorations) and operated a railroad in Massachusetts and Michigan.

Earlier this year Ford paid $26,000,000 for the battery and spark plug operations of the Electric Autolite Company.

The Philco acquisition is expected to run upwards of $100,000,000 in Ford stock when the transaction is completed in late November. Ford offered one share of common for 4½ of Philco.

RUSSIAN ROCKET LANDS ON TARGET SOUTH OF HAWAII

Fired 7,400 Miles Into Pacific Range

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia has triggered its 10th nuclear blast in two weeks and has fired a powerful, new rocket close to its target more than 7,400 miles into the central Pacific.

The official Soviet news agency Tass said the rocket, launched from an undisclosed site Wednesday, landed less than five-eighths of a mile from target.

The latest Russian atmospheric nuclear blast was set off Thursday in the Arctic. It had an explosive force equivalent to several million tons of TNT and was the third big explosion in the current series.

Meanwhile, there still was no official word here on when the United States would resume nuclear testing. However, it was learned that the tests are expected to start in Nevada within a week or 10 days.

Neither half of the Soviets' one-two punch came as a surprise.

Since Russia broke its testing moratorium at the start of this month, Soviet nuclear explosions have been an almost daily occurrence.

The rocket test had been awaited since, Russia earlier this month warned shipping away from the target area. About 1,000 miles southwest of Hawaii.

This was the first in a series of tests to try out more powerful and improved carrier rockets than those that blasted two

U.S. Will Not Enter Talks 'Under Ultimata or Threats'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has said the non-aligned nations do not intend to enter into negotiations with the Soviet Union "under ultimata or threats."

The White House made public today a letter Kennedy gave to the president of the republic of Mali and the president of Indonesia at the White House Thursday.

The letter replied to the messages they brought from the conference of nonaligned nations in Belgrade — including the proposal for direct negotiations between Kennedy and Russian Premier Khrushchev. Kennedy's letter said:

"... We see no reason why eventual negotiations should not be successful in coping with the present crisis.

"However, we do not intend to enter into negotiations under ultimata or threats.

"It is also clear that we do not propose to discuss either situation by unilateral withdrawal or renunciation of the modalities of carrying out those responsibilities.

"Nevertheless, we believe it possible to find a solution which can accommodate vital interests on both sides."

Thus the question of direct heads-of-state talks with Khrushchev, Kennedy said the United States is prepared "to use existing and appropriate channels to establish the possibility of surmounting the present impasse."

And, he said, the United States continues to believe it is vital to explore "all possible means," including negotiations at the highest level," to seek peaceable solutions of today's international problems.

However, unless such negotiations are carefully prepared in advance, they risk failure and may lead to "misunderstanding of the situation," Kennedy said.

Katanga Head Calls For War To Last Bullet

White Officers Lead Attack on UN Airfield

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (Reuter-AP) — A station identifying itself as "the Katanga free radio" said today Irish UN troops besieged at Jadotville in the secessionist Congo province had been surrendered to Katanga troops after suffering heavy losses.

The station declared 57 Irish troops were killed at Jadotville before they surrendered.

The broadcast said the officers were made prisoners and will be held as hostages.

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — President Tshombe of Katanga threw planes, armored cars and hundreds of troops into widely scattered attacks on United Nations forces throughout the Congo's secessionist province today.

Tribal chiefs in the hinterland and white settlers in the Katanga capital, Elisabethville, rose to Tshombe's call for a "war to the last bullet" against the United Nations and to keep the province independent of Leopoldville's central government.

Tshombe himself, vowing to resist to the death, directed counter-blows against the UN in his mineral-rich province.

At the big UN airfield and military base at Kamina, Swedish troops fought off repeated onslaughts by Katangese and led by white officers and backed by armored cars.

JET STRIKE HALTED

In Jadotville, a mining centre 60 miles from Elizabethville, 150 beleaguered Irish troops were strafed by a Katanga jet fighter.

Mortar and machine-gun fire raked the north Katanga base at Kamina and the radio station there was knocked out.

Since then, reinforcements with the UN Kamina garrison have been cut off.

Two companies of Swedish troops were flown from Leopoldville this morning to relieve the UN garrison.

Some reports reaching Leopoldville said Katanga forces have an armored train which is shelling the UN base.

At Kolwezi, UN-led troops defied an ultimatum to surrender and were bombed and strafed by a Katanga jet fighter.

The plane swooped low over the Kolwezi airfield and Irishmen have for three days been under repeated attacks by 500 Katangan soldiers.

The United Nations in Leopoldville confirmed that a jet fighter plane — probably a French Fouga Magister — was piloted by a Rhodesian and was based at an airfield at nearby Kipushi.

The beleaguered Irishmen were in radio touch this morning with UN military headquarters in Elisabethville and reported "we will hold out and our last bullet is spent."

A UN relief column which set out Thursday to relieve the Irish is still held up by roadblocks and a broken bridge, defended by Katanga troops armed with mortars and machine-guns.

In Elisabethville's European quarter fighting continued through the night.

Indian troops Thursday resisted savage onslaughts on their stronghold in the battle-wrecked Elisabethville post office. The Indians turned a Red Cross hospital 100 yards from the post office into a fortification. Irish armor helped in the transformation.

A counter-attack by Katanga with mortars and armor drove UN forces from the radio station. Red Cross officials said the bodies of 21 Katanga police lay outside the station Thursday.

Katanga government sources claimed thousands of trained troops and tribal warrior volunteers were streaming toward Elisabethville "to fight for Tshombe's regime.

Indian troops entrenched in the post office Thursday shot up an ambulance and seriously wounded a Negro UN policeman in uniform. It was the second ambulance they reported had witnessed being fired on from the post office.

There was no fresh news today of Tshombe. Thursday night he was reported by the UN to be holed up in his presidential palace and guarded by his troops.

Katanga's Vice-President Jean Kibwe has sent a message to the radio to order all Katangese to cease fire.

It was believed in Elisabethville that Kibwe was not to be misled by foreign mercenaries.

A UN envoy visited the British consulate in Elisabethville but failed to get any understanding to return to UN custody.

RADIO OFF AIR

Katanga radio's words had little effect, and after his speech Radio Katanga, occupied by UN troops, went off the air at 8:30 p.m. in Leopoldville was unable to obtain reports that the station had been recaptured by the Katangans.

Embarrass West Just As MiGs Buzz Airliners

Use of Allied Fighters Reported Under Study

BERLIN (AP)—Concern rose today over use of the vital Western airlanes to Berlin after two West German fighters blundered into the city and Soviet MiG jets shadowed two U.S. commercial airliners.

Spokesman East Germany called the landing of the two West German F-84 jet fighters in the French sector Thursday "a monstrously provocative act" in a statement. The East Germans charged the two pilots were on a spying mission.

At about the same time, the American airliners flying from Berlin to Hamburg were either shadowed or buzzed by Soviet MiG jet fighters. The United States filed a protest with the Soviet representative at the Berlin air safety centre.

The case of the two West German pilots, who said they lost their way on a training mission and landed at Tegel airport, also was discussed at the air safety centre. This is one of the few remaining occupation establishments in which the Russians still co-operate.

After a four-hour meeting, an Allied officer said "there is nothing to worry about."

LANDS INADVERTENTLY

The incident was a source of embarrassment to the Western Allies as well as the West German government. Under four-power accords on Berlin that the Western leaders insist must be kept, West Germany is not allowed to have military installations or aircraft or planes into the city.

The West German government apologized to the three Western powers and to the Soviet Ambassador in Bonn.

Accounts of the airlines' incidents differed.

A Pan American Airlines official said a Soviet MiG flew about 1,000 feet off an airliner's wing for a minute or two. The plane, a Convair 880, landed safely in Hamburg with 40 passengers.

In Washington, the state department cited two instances. It said one buzzed fighter flew only 20 feet off the wingtip of one Pan American plane, and a MiG zoomed only 100 feet in front of the nose of another.

There are four 20-mile-wide air corridors from Frankfurt, Hamburg and Hanover to Berlin. These are the only routes from the former German capital not controlled by the Communist Road and rail routes passed through Communist checkpoints in East Germany.

ESCAPES CONTINUE

Escapes from East Berlin continued Thursday. Communist police fired into West Berlin after a man crashed through the Red border. Behind a truck, the man was hurt and the driver reached the French sector of West Berlin safely.

Further along the barrier, two women and a boy were helped over the five-foot wall dividing the city by an East German police sergeant who followed them to freedom. Three other East Berliners broke through the cordon of a house on the boundary.

CRITICIZE TESTS

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Defence Minister V. K. Krishna Menon said Thursday the Soviet Union would not have made the nuclear tests moratorium "whatever the provocation." Menon added: "We don't like it. We don't like anyone exploding bombs."

Again Offers To Mediate

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost Thursday night renewed an offer to mediate the standing dispute between the Royal York Hotel and its striking employees, but he ruled out any intervention without an invitation from both parties.

The premier made the statement in reply to a request from the negotiating committee of the non - operating railway unions in Montreal that he set up a fact - finding board to make recommendations for a settlement.

The Hotel and Club Employees Union (LLC) has accepted previous offers of Mr. Frost's intervention but the hotel has turned them down.

Mr. Frost said if there was a point at which he could help to bring a settlement he would gladly offer his services.

Some 1,700 employees of the union have been on strike for about 30 weeks seeking wage increases and job security.

Woman Weeps While Testifying In Fraud Case

TORONTO—A Belleville district lawyer's wife wept yesterday as she testified she spent $1,300 building fire for son's university education to one of eight men now being prosecuted on conspiracy to defraud.

Mrs. Leon Wilson told the County Court jury the money was handed over to Anthony Adamson, a representative of General Merchandising Distributors Ltd., and was to be held as a bond for a so-called dealership to sell first aid supplies through display racks in Belleville retail stores.

She said she asked Anthony if there was any risk of losing the money. He assured her, continued, there would be no danger of any loss. Her son is attending university on the forward contract and, Wilson told the court.

Thompson, 38, of Sellers Ave., is charged jointly with David F. Curley, 50, of Hamilton; Eric Harold Thompson, Donald Pickard, of Avenue Rd.; Earl D. Bland, Royal York Rd.; William C. Goddard, of Eglington Ave. W.; Brian Cassidy, 21, of Bramalea; Stanley Rose, of Deloraine Ave., and Toivo Rautiola, 40, of Ottawa.

Mr. Wilson testified Wednesday he paid his money two years ago but never saw the $30 a week he was promised for his investment, or the merchandise the company representatives again.

Vernon Assistant manager of the Toronto Better Business Bureau, said the bureau received many inquiries from New Canadians who thought the company's advertisement led to regular employment.

Mr. Ballard said he discussed the company's operations and their printed inducements with Mr. Adamson because of these questions and determined the advertisements were satisfactorily able to the bureau because they lacked full explanation.

Crown Attorney Lieutenant Harry Deyman charged the men with pleading to Silk that publish and flog advertisements in newspapers for investment with $1,000 or more to purchase in "income opportunities." Their racket, he said, earned them more than $100,000.

The trial, expected to last six weeks, continues today.

OIL SEARCH AREA

The Shell Oil Company of Canada has applied to the federal and British Columbia governments for permission to search for oil off the coast of B.C. The company seeks exploration rights on 11,000,000 acres of submerged land (shaded area on map) from Vancouver Island northward to the Queen Charlotte Islands.

Application was made to both governments because of a dispute between federal and provincial authorities over ownership of offshore petroleum and mineral rights. (CP Newsman).

All Drivers Will Use Same Make of Car

Local sports car enthusiasts who will be attending the final sports car race meet at the Eugene circuit this Saturday and Sunday will be witnessing a unique race in the current Canadian competition calendar.

In addition to the regular program of sports car races there will be a match race pitting the Mosport Park drivers against the best which the Toronto region has to offer. All of the drivers will be supplied with cars of the same make and in a like state of tune. The car to be used as chosen by a spokesman might use to go to and from work in — French-built Renault Dauphine.

Representing Montreal will be Peter Ryan and Ross de St. Croix, well known racing drivers on circuits both in Canada and the United States, assisted by Louis O'Neill, who has been doing so well during the past season in the small fry class races with a modified Renault Dauphine.

The three Toronto drivers who have been challenged to the match are Bill Lunday, Hector Carah, current Canadian Racing Drivers Association o v e r a l l champion, and Bob Bradley, whose efforts aboard the "Miss Wiki" Lola have been the highlight of any race meet he has participated in, and Grant Clark, whose rating has been everything from a very rapid Morris 850 up to the thundering specials by Smith-Sadler-Sadler during the current season.

What the outcome will be is anyone's guess but one thing is for sure, it should be one of the most interesting races to be held on the Canadian race circuits this year.

The St. Eugene circuit is near VanKleek Hill and the feature races start on Sunday at 12.30 p.m.

EXTEND EMERGENCY

COLOMBO (Reuters)—Ceylon today extended the current state of emergency in the country for the sixth successive month. The proclamation was first made in April following the opposition Federal party's civil disobedience campaign in support of Tamil language rights.

Major Portion Of Work Done On Drainage

Drainage improvements have formed a major portion of this week's program for the public works department. The work just east of the Dolcraft Stallite plant and the project on Valleyview Crescent were both completed and work commenced on the Lambert Drive and Glen Road drainage improvements.

On Northwood Crescent work commenced today on a ditching project which is to connect up with the new extension of Victoria Ave. Contract work on the extension of the latter easterly from Factory Ave. has been proceeding favorably and is expected to be completed next week, according to city engineer Malcolm Turnbull.

The College St. widening project is nearing completion and a large number of minor finishing jobs have been carried out. Curbing was put down today.

The widening job on South Bridge St. is also progressing gradually as fill is available and in time this project will be completed as well. Next week work should begin on the proposed road between Bridge St. Station St. east of Stanley St.

At the other end of Station Street the frontage improvements to the new factory building are well underway and this job, including the requirements for sidewalks, will be finished next week.

Other roadwork in the city has included the improvement of shoulders on all entrance highways to the city in anticipation of the increased traffic which will occur during the Canadian National Plowing Match.

Elsewhere within the city the department's general maintenance, sewer and sign crews have been kept quite busy with the many services and allied tasks which they have to handle.

Sea Cadets Hold Term's First Parade

The Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps, "Quinte" held its first parade of the regular fall training season yesterday evening at the Sea Cadet Hall, Victoria Street. Knots and splices, parts of a ship and ship's organization were the first classes on the agenda for the local Cadets.

At the end of the month there will be two extra-curricular events in which the local corps' members will take part. First is the weekend cruise aboard two of the ships of the fleet of H.M.C.S. "Cataraqui" from Kingston on the last weekend of the month. The second is the annual regatta held by Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps' organization of Toronto in which a number of the local cadets will be participating.

The local corps has a number of openings for new cadets, between the ages of 14 and 18 years of age inclusive, and several cadets examine also exist at the present moment. Those interested are invited to attend parading of a part of self-comm "ship" near Thursday evening at 7.00 p.m. The "ship" is located just south of the Belleville Marina.

HARKNESS

are in a state of immediate readiness. Some were always at sea. Canadian vessels in war would come under the command of the supreme Allied commander. Allan Harkness has drawn up plans for using various forces.

The Canadian Navy is not going to protect Canada by itself," Mr. Harkness reminded the House. Protection of Canada and other NATO countries would be by NATO navies in the NATO combined effort.

That didn't satisfy Mr. Bell-Irving or Mr. Pitman. The Liberal MP, member for Toronto Trinity, said the Canadian forces are among the world's finest but they are handicapped by having "many of the most obsolete equipment."

Mr. Pitman recalled that Winston Churchill was accused before the Second World War of creating Royal Canadian Navy's British defence. Mr. Hellyer said that the Churchill navy was not Mr. Pitman were trying to "shake a complacent government to its foundations." She was well known as the world's finest battleship. She was built to match the German "enemy" what plans were there to meet Russian subs?

Mr. Harkness accused the Liberal MP of following a "scare - the - hare" line. He took a long time to design and build the Bismarck and destroyer escorts were among the world's finest.

He knew all kinds of plans," he added. "There are no plans which have been submitted to Cabinet upon approved and funded which I can announce at this time."

The persistent opposition grilling forced Harkness near the end of the night sitting.

Answering doubts raised by W. G. Mollison, Liberal MP for Peel, the minister defended the Bomarc B anti-aircraft missile as "the most effective weapon so far" as shown by recent American tests.

Then Mr. Hellyer accused the minister of misleading the House by saying the Bomarc would be effective against "standoff" bombers and missiles. Only ballistic missiles while still hundreds of miles from their targets.

"I have not made a single statement which I do not sincerely believe or for which I do not have a body of expert opinion to back me up," said Mr. Harkness, obviously burning. Then he exploded: "I've had enough of this."

The opposition probably won't agree with him. Debate on the defence estimates continues today.

HATE 'LYING'

At one point Thursday Mr. Hellyer accused the defence minister of "lying" when he said the Arrow jet interceptor program cancelled in February would have cost $12,300,000 per aircraft.

He withdrew the remark under demands from the chair and the minister but only with the statement that he had a right to vindicate what I have said."

Mr. Hellyer said Mr. Chief Marshal Frank Miller, chairman of the Canadian chiefs of staff committee, had testified before the Commons committee that the cost would have been $6,800,000 each.

"How can we have any faith in Cabinet, in the defence set-up?" Mr. Hellyer asked.

He said Canada - U.S. agreement under which Canada obtained 66 American Voodoo jet interceptors to fill RCAF was "one of the biggest books ever pulled by a defence minister."

Mr. Hellyer said the cost of Canada's role in the trade-off being over manning of some Pinetree radar stations and other commitments now would run up the Voodoo cost to $7,400,000 for each aircraft. This would be more than continuation of the Arrow program would have cost.

GOOD NEWS FOR MOTORISTS Belleville

Only government licensed mechanics will touch your car. Original equipment quality parts are used at Canadian Tire popular prices, which can be charged out on budget or 30-day "No Interest" Charge Plan.

Kinsmen Club Wins Honors In Tournament

A quartet of golfers from the Kinsmen Club took home a team trophy at the annual Interservice Club Golf Tournament held at the Bay of Quinte Country Club this past Wednesday afternoon. Some 45 members from the local Rotary, Kiwanis, Kinsmen and Lions Clubs were present for the tournament and banquet which followed.

Team Hillmen of the Kinsmen Club won the low gross award and Rotarian Bill Gault was the low net golfer. Kiwanian Max Moffatt earned the most honest golfer prize and fellow club member Wil Mills the hidden hole award.

Rotarian Rube Freeman carried off the prize for the golfer exhibiting the greatest degree of sartorial splendor in undergarments. High man on the front nine holes went to Dr. Max McLean of the Rotary Club while Rotarian Dr. Harry Burns beat out his fellow entertainers for the distinction of high man on the back nine holes.

Kiwanian past president George Hume presented the prizes.

Representing the various clubs at the event, which was put on by the Kiwanis Club, were Bob Brain, president of the Kiwanis; past president Jack Pyle for the Lions Club; past president Frank Huson for the Kinsmen Club and vice-president Dr. Harry Burns of the Rotary Club.

In the business session after the banquet it was announced that the Kinsmen Club would be host club for the tournament in 1962. It was also suggested that next year's affair be made as large as possible.

The interclub committee expressed its thanks to the Kinsmen Club for an excellent job and the host club president, Bob Brain, expressed the thanks of the club to the wood Kinsman Charlie Cox had done in making the arrangements for the event.

IN MEMORIAM

CODY. — In loving memory of a dear husband, Frank Cody, who passed away one year ago, 16th September, 1960.
In our hearts he is remembered.
Sweet memories cling to her name;
Those who loved her in life
Still love her in death just the same.
—Always remembered by her husband and family.

EMPEY. — In loving memory of my dear mother, who passed away on September 16th, 1958.
There is no parting from those we love,
No distance can divide;
We only bow our heads in prayer,
We still walk side by side.
Each day I think of you,
Each night I shed a bouquet of her.
At sunrise a prayer,
And in the hearts that loved her,
A memory sweet and dear.
—Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by Ruth.

EMPEY. — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. Ruth Empey, who passed away on September 16th, 1958.
Though her smile is gone forever,
And her voice we cannot hear,
Still we have so many memories,
Of the one we loved so much,
Her memory is our keepsake,
With which we'll never part.
God has her in His keeping,
We have her in our hearts.
—Always remembered by husband and children, Ernest and Ruth.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to thank my neighbors and friends for the lovely cards and flowers received during my illness and Russell Bateman for the kind attention given me while in the Belleville General Hospital and since my return home. Special thanks to Dr. Bruce South for their kindness to me. A special thank you to Mrs. Ethel for the lovely birthday cake I received during my stay in hospital. So thank you all.
—Mrs. Rena Watkins.

TORONTO STOCKS

financial institutions, foods and refining oils all helped to drive the Toronto industrial board lower in light morning trading today.

The market eased Thursday. Fractional losses were recorded in almost all groups.

Hardest hit was Walker-Gooderham which fell 3% to 59%, following official denial of stock split rumors.

Refining oils, banks and foods led the market down but Investors Syndicate A bucked the general trend and reached a new high of 55, with a rise of a point.

Widespread fractional losses predominated as the industrial index fell 3.13 to 605.35. In oils, Canadian Husky, Canadian Oil, Intercontinental, Royalite a n d Trans Mountain all dropped in the ⅛ to ¼ range.

Among foods, Loblaw A and B suffered drops of 82 and 1½; in moderately heavy turnover; while small losses went to Canada Wholesale A and Weston A.

Banks were weak.

On index, industrials fell 3.13 to 605.35; golds 12 to 88.77; base metals .33 to 202.33 and western oils .81 to 96.478. The 11 a.m. volume was 422,000 shares compared with 527,000 at the same time Thursday.

Mining trading was steady amid declining prices. In the senior list, Dentoni, Campbell Chibougamau, Labrador a n d Norando all fell as much as ½. Gold trading was light with Hollinger down ⅛ and McIntyre Porcupine ahead 5.

In light western oil trading, Dome and Pacific Petroleum

Big Surpluses Now Hanging Over Market

OTTAWA (CP) — Butter and butter oil stocks totalling nearly 300,000,000 pounds "have reached unmanageable proportions and heavy surpluses of cheese and skim milk hang over the market," the National Dairy Council of Canada said Thursday.

It said the situation constitutes a Canadian agriculture's No. 1 problem and is one of the most critical dairy situations ever experienced in the country.

The statement said this situation will confront the annual convention starting Sept. 23.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a premium of 3⅛ per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Montreal reported here noon today. Thursday the noon rate was $1.03 3-32.

Pound sterling $2.90 1-16, up 1-16.

Weekend Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Trading was very active with top grades in all classes showing sharp price increases at the Ontario Public Stockyards this week.

Lower grades of slaughter cattle were steady. Cow prices were sharply higher with bulls selling at strong prices. Replacement cattle traded slowly at steady prices.

Veal calf prices were $1 and more per hundredweight higher. Hog prices were unchanged and lamb prices lost .05 cents per hundredweight to sell at the floor price.

Cattle receipts were estimated at about 8,900, some 1,500 more than last week and some 2,100 fewer than the same week in 1940. Receipts from Western Canada were about half those of last week at 497 head.

Slaughter cattle: Choice steers $4.50-$5.50 with sales to 25.75; one lot of fancy handyweight steers to 26; good 23-24; medium 21-23; c o m m o n 16-20; choice dry-fed heifers 23-25.50; good 21.50-22.50; medium 20-21; common 15-18; choice-fed yearlings 24.50-25.50 with sales to 26; good 23-24; good cows 13.50-16 with sales to 17.50; medium 14-15; common 13-14; canners and cutters 10-12.50; good heavy bologna bulls 19-19.50; common and medium 13-18.

Replacement Cattle: Good steer stockers 21-23 with select lots to 26; stock calves 20; common lots of medium and thick heifers 18-20.

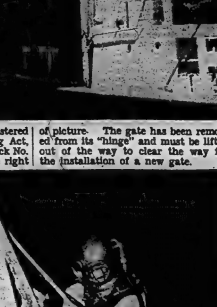
Hogs: Grade A 36.25-30.50; heavy sows 19.65-21.40; light sows grading A 22 premium; stags 17.50 on a dressed-weight basis.

Sheep and lambs: Good handyweight lambs 19.25; common and medium 18-18; good heavy lambs 8-10; common and fat sheep 3-7; feeder lambs 16-18.

Gates Installed in 1911 Are Changed on No. 1 Lock

TRENTON — Treebonians come into play, a series of counterweights on the opposite side of the lifter supply compensation, to guarantee the steadiness of the craft. The lifter is constructed so that the iron structure can be "folded" down, making for the easier travel and passage under bridges.

Mr. Easton said that there are possibly six similar gate lifters in the country. One such machine is used on the Welland canal.



Mr. Easton and his crew are based at Peterborough.

DIVER REQUIRED

One of the interesting jobs in connection with the new lifting program is carried out by Fred James. Mr. James dons a diver's suit and descends to the bottom of the river to make sure that the new gate is dropped into place properly.

Mr. James was a qualified diver with the Royal Navy during the war. He is a native of Somerset, England. He came to Canada 15 years ago and for a week he had become a Department of Transport employee and has worked for the department ever since.

When going below, Mr. James dons shoes weighing 30 pounds apiece, a belt which weighs 30 pounds and a helmet piece weighing 33 pounds. Mr. James weighs 170 pounds, "soaking wet."

By EULA BONTER—Phone 3-2822

This week Mr. Easton has supervised the changeover of water gates at Lock No. 1 on the Trent Canal. Each gate weighs 55 tons, and must be lifted out of its "hinge," edged down the canal and properly against the side of the canal until the new gate is in position and secured. Then the huge gate lifter, the "H. W. Pretty," heaves the gate into play again to remove the old gate and float the canal to the river from where it will be taken to its final resting place. Original gates were put in Lock No. 1 were installed in 1911 and have seen service ever since. Cost per pair for the new gates is $12,000.

Mr. Easton said that the gates at Lock No. 2 would be replaced next week. He said that there was no "emergency" about the change-over, but that it was all part of a department-mental replacement plan. The gates are considerably worn at the lefal where air and water meet. They are constructed of wood, reinforced with steel.

TRAVEL 7 MONTHS

The superintendent and his crew of Department of Transport workmen spend seven months of the year travelling between Port Severn and Trenton carrying out a repair and replacement program. Mr. Easton and four crewmen eat and sleep aboard the tug "The Trent." This craft is powered by a 200 horse power diesel engine, 32 Courageous, deck hand, holds sway in the spotless ship's galley, which is fitted out with a refrigerator. The crew of four sleep in two two-decker bunks and the "captain" in the pilot's cabin.

From December to April, the men are employed in department workshops.

The gate-lifter, the "H. W. Pretty," named for the Trent canal engineer who designed the amazing piece of machinery. It is registered "ship" under the Canada Shipping Act. The huge hooks at the back of the gaffer chains are used to secure the weighty objects to be lifted and moved. Once the "lift" has

18-Pound Baby Given Birth By Que. Woman

ST. HYACINTHE Que. (CP) Mrs. Benoit Beauchemin, wife of a Bolsell, Que., farmer, has given birth to an 18 - pound boy in a St. Hyacinthe hospital, it was announced Thursday.

The attending physician, Dr. Rémi Dansereau, said mother and son, born Wednesday, are doing well.

For the 36 - year - old Mrs. Beauchemin, who weighs 250 pounds and is 5 feet 10 inches tall, it was her 16th child, of whom 12 are living.

In June 1940, she gave birth to a boy weighing 11 pounds 2 ounces and the baby preceding him weighed 13 pounds at birth.

Dr. Dansereau said the average weight of a child at birth is about eight pounds.

Airlift of Army Firefighters Now in Progress

RCAF TRENTON — An airlift began yesterday to return the army firefighters to their units on the mainland from Gander, Newfoundland, where they have been helping to fight the province's worst forest fires in history.

Huge "Hercules" transports from 435 Transport Squadron, RCAF Station Nanaso, Alberta, are shuttling the troops from Gander to Quebec and Fredericton where the soldiers will join with others in their units in Camp Valcartier, PQ, and Camp Gagetown, N.B.

As many as 82 soldiers will be carried by the Hercules at one time until a total of approximately 800 have been airlifted from Gander. One flight each day will depart Gander for Fredericton or Quebec for the next week or so until all the soldiers, and any equipment which is to be returned, have been airlifted.

These soldiers have been in Newfoundland for the past three weeks aiding in the fight against forest fires.

The RCAF airlifted over a thousand troops complete with trucks, jeeps, tents, field kitchens, picks and shovels from Fredericton, N.B., and Quebec City airports. The RCAF Transport Command aircraft, comprising North Stars from 435 Squadron, Trenton, Ont., C119 Flying Boxcars from 426 Squadron, Toronto, and 4 Operational Training Unit at Trenton, and Hercules transports from 435 Squadron, Edmonton, flew day and night to return the army to their units in less than 48 hours.

Woman Found Had Fainting Spell on Road

TRENTON — Trenton police and an officer from the Brighton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police were faced with a conundrum last night when a woman, 30, was found in a state of collapse on the west side of 4th Ave. in Murray township.

Trenton police had the woman taken to the hospital and notified the Brighton detachment.

Identified not readily ascertained as she carried no identification.

A passer-by volunteered the information that he had seen the woman fall-hitting earlier in the evening.

However, when the woman regained consciousness. It was learned that she was a Trenton resident. She was taken under the doctor's care, and that had taken a leisurely walk near her home and collapsed.

SIGN OF THE TIMES

Has the lowly corkscrew, once considered an insignea part of every well-ordered household, become a relic of the past?

Yesterday, two town residents, who declined that their names be withheld, walked the length and breadth of the town seeking vainly for a cork-screw with which to open a gift bottle of "spirituality."

"We might as well tried to buy a buggy whip," said one of them. "I am not known what was finally pressed into service as an opener.

FAILED TO SEE CAR

TRENTON — Trenton, Thursday, cars driven by Leonard Pierce, 19, McMillan Drive, Trenton and John W. Wood, 25, Ford St., Trenton, were involved in a collision at the corner of Princess Street and Campbell St. Damage to the two cars was estimated at $350.

Wood, driving east on Princess St., told police that he failed to see the Pierce car approaching the corner because of the driving rain.

D. C. BOYD

J. R. GLOVER

Dawson Boyd, J. R. Glover Get High Posts in Company

Mr. J. W. Elliott, vice-president and general manager of the International Hardware Company of Canada Limited, announced today the appointments of Mr. D. C. Boyd as assistant general manager of International and Mr. J. R. Glover, A.H.C., as general sales manager of the Corbin Lock division.

Mr. Boyd, general sales manager of Corbin Lock Division since 1939, has held various positions in the Sales department representing Corbin in Western Canada, Ontario and the Maritime provinces. From 1936 to 1939 he was general sales manager of the company's Russwin division.

Mr. Glover started his hardware career in 1913 with Wood Alexander Limited, Hamilton. In 1953 he joined the Peterborough Lock Company as sales representative covering Western Ontario and continued in that capacity for Corbin following the acquisition of the Peterborough Lock by International in 1955. Mr. Glover is a member of The American Society of Architectural Hardware Consultants, the Ontario Builders' Hardware Club and the Hamilton Air Force Association. He will move his residence to Belleville.

Mr. Elliott stated "Mr. Boyd's and Mr. Glover's experience in builders' hardware has been invaluable to the growth of International and Corbin in Canada and I am pleased to appoint them to these responsible positions within the company. These moves are both effective Oct. 1, 1941, and are coincident with a realignment of responsibilities within the corporation."

Central Bridge Erection Crews Join Strike

TRENTON—Following the lead of locals across Ontario, about thirty members of the International Association of Bridge and Ornamental Iron Workers, employed by the Central Bridge Company at Trenton, went on strike this week. These men erect steel in the field. The strike does not directly affect shop workers.

On Thursday, James S. Duncan, works' manager at the Trenton plant told a reporter that his company had two contracts cancelled as a direct result of the strike. He said that 20 shopmen would be laid off next week as a result of these cancellations.

Mr. Duncan said that the men involved in the strike were receiving $3.03 an hour at the present time and that the union had asked for a 37 cent an hour increase in wages.

He said that the company had offered a 15 cent an hour wage increase. He said also that the company had made a major concession in agreeing to grant a welfare plan covering all hourly paid employees. Details of this plan would have been worked out with the union following the signing of a new contract. The company had proposed a three-year contract, incorporating the 15 cent increase, the welfare plan and other contract improvements such as union security.

The package proposal was rejected by the union, following a meeting of executive company officials and union representatives before the Department of Labour, Mr. Metzler and the conciliation officer, R. V. Bradley, on September 8.

United Appeal Needs Canvassers

Mr. Enos David, campaign chairman for the United Appeal, is looking for 450 willing workers.

These men, and women, are needed to conduct the canvasses in the business, public service, professional and payroll savings sections of the United Appeal campaign, which will open Oct. 16 and conclude Oct. 30.

These canvassers are in addition to the women who will stage the house-to-house "blitz" canvass on Oct. 30, designed to wind up the drive and contact those citizens who have been missed by the other sections of the canvassing team.

While the ultimate success or failure of the United Appeal will be spelled out in dollars, these will be only an indication of the type of response which the Appeal has met from Belleville's citizens.

Nor will the result depend solely on how generously they respond to the needs of the agencies which are members of the Appeal. The first, and indispensable, step towards a successful campaign is the procuring of an adequate number of proficient, persuasive and persistent canvassers.

The campaign could fail before it even opened if a sufficient number of citizens do not come forward to undertake this necessary work.

Any person who is himself, or herself, convinced of the worthiness of the United Appeal cause should be able to impart this same conviction to co-workers and business and professional associates.

Many hands will make light work of this canvass which, if left to "George," will impose an impossible burden on a few.

Opening the purse is not enough; the good citizen will give of time as well as of money, and the occasion to volunteer to give time has arrived. Canvassing teams must be organized and prepared well in advance of the opening of the drive.

Mr. David, and those who, under his general direction, are already well advanced in planning for the campaign need immediate assurance of an adequate number of helpers.

Unhappy Judge

Judge Beriram Reece was probably an unhappy man the other day. He would perhaps have willingly changed places with the prisoner whom he was sentencing to jail. But the prisoner would not have accepted any such exchange, had it been offered or had it been possible to offer it. The prisoner was Earl Russell and he was going to jail for his refusal to abandon his civil disobedience campaign in protest against nuclear weapons.

"If you condemn us you will be helping our cause and therefore helping humanity," the 89-year-old philosopher told the judge.

Few men, at 89 or any other age, possess the integrity to welcome a jail term. Whether Russell is indeed helping the cause of humanity is a moot point. There are those who will say that these protests against nuclear arms are being staged in the wrong city. This may not be entirely true, but it is certainly true that as long as they are confined to London or other parts of Britain, they cannot be completely effective. If they were matched by civil disobedience campaigns in Moscow and New York, of sufficient proportions to influence policies, the system might work.

But even Earl Russell must admit that it is safer to stage a sit-down in Trafalgar Square than in Red Square.

"Well Understood"

Sometimes a single sentence is more illuminating than a whole book. The statement it makes does not have to be profound; indeed it may be completely erroneous and for that very reason be more effective, its obvious error unmasking a previously veiled misjudgment.

Drew Middleton, New York Times writer, in an article dealing with the mood of the British people today, says: "Despite the well advertised horrors of nuclear war, well understood by a people punished by bombs and rockets between 1939 and 1945 . . ."

Well understood, indeed. That phrase may raise a bitter laugh amongst some Japanese in Hiroshima and Nagasaki, and even they have only an inkling of what a hydrogen bomb will do.

When well-informed persons like Drew Middleton confuse today's H-bomb with the last war's block-buster, no wonder the world seems mad.

Happiness and beauty are by-products. Folly is the direct pursuit of happiness and beauty. — George Bernard Shaw.

U.S. Loses Enthusiasm?

By Bill Vaughan in the Kansas City Star

"I am eagle, I am eagle," cried Maj. Gherman Titov, Russia's 27-orbit astronaut.

He joked with the listening Muscovites, saying that they could do what they wished, but personally he was going to bed.

After his return, he rhapsodized: "There is nothing more splendid in the world than mother earth on which we can stand, walk and breathe the winds of the steppes. I saw them fantastic sun and stars, the extra-ordinary, unearthly colors. The cosmos awaits its own painters and poets."

Are we to ask a blunt question, in danger of being outclassed by the Russians?

Our own space men have pretty much confined their remarks before, during and after their flights, to stiff-lipped and non-committal statements.

Perhaps the low-key, all-in-the-day's work approach is admirable. Certainly the British built a great empire by valuing stuffiness the keynote of their national image.

But are we quite sure that we have left the world the impression that Americans never get a kick out of anything they do?

Outside of a handful of happy extroverts, most Americans are unrelentingly morose as they play their games. When the slugger hits a home run, winning the crucial series, he tours the bases with his bat set in a mask of indifference.

He accepts the perfunctory congratulations of his teammates with bored disdain.

This attitude of the professionals is reflected in the amateurs following suit. The smallest player in the Droopy-Drawer League, when he gets quite a hit, puts on a bat, who at least knows that the showing of any joy in a blow direct to the solar plexus of Our Way of Sports.

If you saw the televised films of the track meet between the U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A. you may have been impressed as I was by the way the Russians outdid us in the matter of the old pizazz.

Our visiting men took success or failure with an outward nonchalance which, considering that they were expending astounding amounts of energy and cracking records all over the place, I can hardly believe they really felt.

The Russians, on the other hand, were dancing and hugging bystanders, and giving each other flowers and doing impromptu jigs of delight.

When Valeriy Brumpel set a new world's record in the high jump he didn't behave as though it was just another jump.

He, by golly, was proud of himself as that happy word, it's a wonder he didn't beat Maj. Titov into orbit.

There is a Russian word, made popular by Russians some years ago, "nichevo," which means, "So what!" or "You can't win 'em all."

Russia's athletes seem to have tied the can to nichevo, and we have taken it over.

But do we always have to take ourselves so seriously? I suppose it's not all our fault.

For years other nations (to say nothing of our own foolish thinkers) have been telling us that, as a nation, we had to grow up.

"You are the leaders of the world," we have been told, "so wipe the grin off your face, wear a necktie at all times and don't wink at the girls."

Well, maybe that is the right approach, and we can lead the world to democracy by demonstrating how grim it all is.

But the danger is that in our dedicated effort to lead the backward people of the world into the sober-faced glories of freedom we may bore them to death before they get there.

Cannot Buy Fit Nation

Windsor Star

There is too great a tendency on this continent to think a problem can be solved easily. If a large amount of money is allocated to it, it often isn't necessarily so. Indeed it frequently just isn't so.

Much of course, often is essential to pay for research, services, facilities, etc. But many problems are not amenable to money alone. Other attributes are required.

This comes to mind with announcement by Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker of a large federal grant to promote physical fitness and sports comments Hon. M. B. Dyonnyk, Ontario Minister of Health.

Everyone should be interested in physical fitness, both in an individual and national sense. Dr. Dyonnyk is naturally concerned. He believes rightly, however, that society should be spent in a broad program rather than simply to subsidize athletic prowess.

Much has been said of Communist successes in Olympic and other sports and its sole explanation is offered that Russia subsidizes athletes and its state lets do nothing else but train and keep fit.

This is the whole answer, Communist countries do stress physical fitness but not at the expense of credit. But their athletes are inspired by pride in their countries and even in their political and economic system. They have a tremendous urge to win.

Championship teams just can't be bought, as many sports promoters on this continent have discovered. The best of players won't win the championship. He will give me what I deserve, and that will be bad. God will remember all my evil and treat me accordingly.

Certainly nothing in our lives is evil as well as good — except God's scrutiny. But the Biblical teaching of grace is that God's great desire is not to punish us for our sins but to lead us on in an experience of growth in goodness. He will treat us not in a spirit of retribution but in a spirit of love.

Should we fear God? Yes, if we deliberately practise evil and insolently refuse to turn away from our evils. Most of us, however, are not vicious and determined sinners; we are weak sinners.

God's grace is available to us, and extended to us. What we should fear is our own easily indulgent nature; what we should rely upon is God's grace and truth; forgiving by grace and redeem us.

"You should see him hit when he's got a haircut."

His Worship Mayor Glencoe Thompson, City Comptroller Thomas Sexton, City Engineer Charles Mott and Alderman Ormonde Butler and Harry Rollins were a committee representing the City of Belleville who went to Toronto on Wednesday to make application to the Ontario Municipal Board with respect to securing grants with which to begin construction of sewer projects planned for the city.

Although Jupiter Pluvius stepped in to force the cancellation of Wednesday afternoon's harness races at the Belleville Fair, the rain which fell shortly after three o'clock, failed to dampen the spirits of potential fair-goers and the grounds and grandstand were once again crowded. Thursday evening's crowd failed to equal that of the previous night but thousands braved their way into the midway and the fair concluded the biggest three days in its history with attendance soaring to new records.

What Does 'Un-American' Mean?

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

What is "un-American," anyway? I'm getting terribly tired of hearing that word applied to anything and everything the speakers don't happen to agree with.

When a man starts to argue with me, he plays on your prejudices, to appeal to your emotions — pin him down. Make him define his terms — especially nebulous terms like "un-American."

Only the other day, at lunch, a man I had just met was talking about these recurrent proposals that we start a national lottery in the United States. He was violently against them because lotteries are "un-American."

I said nothing at the time, but later in the week I happened to be in the office of a prominent citizen who is considering the possibility of starting a chain of cigar stores in the American tradition.

Here is what I found: lotteries are un-American in that George Washington was one of the organizers of the Mountain Road Lottery; and Thomas Jefferson used a lottery to finance his debts.

In 1832, the money for promoting the Settlement of Jamestown, Virginia, was raised in a lottery by Queen Anne's Company, and several other British colonies in America were founded on the same basis.

From 1750 to about 1825, colonial, state and even the Continental Congress utilized lotteries for raising funds for civic and military purposes. Faneuil Hall in Boston and the Union Bridge in Pennsylvania were rebuilt by lotteries, after fires had destroyed them. So were many bridges, canals, highways and city streets built with lottery funds.

Building funds were raised in this way for such colleges as Yale, Harvard, Princeton, and William and Mary. Churches of almost every denomination in Quakers excepted — held regular lotteries in the early days of the Republic. All this is a matter of historical record.

Lotteries may be immoral, uneconomic and unjust, but let's argue about the subject on its own merits. And if the Washington's sake, let's stop this unreasoned habit of labeling what ever we don't like as "un-American."

We have pointed out that by permitting the national systems to operate, Canada is headed for the same costly duplication of air services that already exists in rail transport. The T.C.A.'s loss is the taxpayer's loss.

To Your Good Health

The Word 'Incurable' Is Not Used Lightly!

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: If a patient's mind deteriorates and he is diagnosed as insane, outside of a miracle what would be the chance of recovery?

"Can such a patient who has deteriorated mentally ever improve to the extent of being able to return to society? And just how is mental deterioration diagnosed? F. Y."

Let's straighten out one important point to begin with: "Mental illness" can come from two broad general classes. However, there are many variations within these.

One is actual physical damage to the brain cells — disease of injury destroys or damages some parts of the brain. These are what we know as "brain damage" cases, and little can be done except, possibly, train the patient to a modest degree to get along with the active brain which remains.

The other, and more usual type of "mental illness" is considered better to be called "emotional illness," because in any of our mental hospitals you will find countless patients in whom no tests can detect anything physically wrong with the brain.

True, current experiments are being conducted in order to try to belief that some chemical or chemicals may be responsible for cases of schizophrenia (the most common type of mental illness). But this is no occasion for hopelessness; quite the reverse, it gives rise to hope that something may be found to help such cases with medicines. I mean more specific medicine than, for example, tranquilizers, which simply allay anxiety but do not get at the cause of the trouble.

Let's put it this way: A person may have anemia. The blood shows distinct changes. But these can be corrected and the blood will be as healthy as it was before. On the other hand, take some physical destruction of the body — say a leg being terribly mangled in an accident. It may heal, but it cannot be restored to its original condition again.

If there is actual physical damage or deterioration of the brain cells, we have no way of replacing them, and a doctor can be just as positive in his predictions as he can be when he says that a mangled limb cannot become straight again. In emotional illness, where there is no brain damage, a prediction is more difficult. However psychiatrists, having seen and studied and followed many patients, can tell from repeated experience that some individuals, generally those long mentally ill, have a good prospect of getting better.

The testing is quite involved and includes such things as observing patterns of behavior, responses to questions, attitudes toward whatever occurs, and a history of the patient's illness.

When, or if, a doctor has to tell relatives that a patient is incurable he is not using it in a spoken lightly. It is better for relatives to know that their Uncle John is pretty certain to remain emotionally ill for the rest of his days than to let them go on grasping at straws, hoping for things that won't happen. Believe me, there is no pleasure in telling people to stop futile hoping. Sometimes it is the honest thing to do.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is one tablespoon of honey at all daily harmful to the system? — J.K."

No — but why take it? If I object because you like it, that's a good reason, but if you think it's medicinal or tonic, I think you're wrong. (It adds extra calories!)

"Sir: Fear of false: Shaving causes a more rapid growth of hair! — T.C."

False. If it were true, most who don't shave wouldn't have such luxurious beards. And people who are getting bald could shave their heads to encourage hair growth.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

TOUR ATTITUDE

Every person in this world has an attitude that must make him and his world.

If you look at it of a single human being you plant a secret spring of poison in your heart. Your whole attitude will affect every thought and action that you express.

The happiest friend I have is one from whose lips I have never heard an unkind word or expressed about another fellow being.

Unkind, bitter, revengeful thoughts do far more damage to the body than we realize.

Beauty is reflected in attitude of mind.

If you feel that the world is against you it will be. But just the minute you believe that the world is for you, it will take on a new and kindlier aspect, and lead you on to undreamed-of happiness.

Every successful man thinks success. Every happy person thinks happiness.

These are simple facts told over and over again ever since the days of Job, but it is the neglect in considering the vital that Elbe this world such so much sorrow and disappointment.

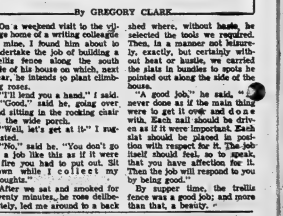
Your attitude toward life makes your life what it is.

Be sure that you love beauty the more beauty you will see in everybody and everywhere you go. And everybody will see it in you.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

On a weekend visit to the village home of a writing colleague of mine I found him about to undertake the job of building a new fence along the south side of his house on which, next year, he intends to plant climbing roses.



"I'll lend you a hand," I said. "Good," said he, going over and sitting in the rocking chair on the wide porch.

"Well, let's get at it!" I suggested.

"No," said he. "You don't go at a job like this as if it were a fire you had to put out. Sit down and talk to me. I like my thoughts."

After we sat and smoked for twenty minutes, he rose deliberately, led me around to a back shed where, without haste, he selected the tools we required — and in a manner not leisurely, exactly, but certainly without any sense of hurry. The job itself should feel, so to speak, that you have affection for it. Then the job will respond to you by being good."

By supper time, the trellis fence was a good job; and more than that, a beauty.

Teen-Age Canada

New Trend Against Going Steady Seen

By JACK HUTTON

I couldn't help overhearing a brown-eyed high school girl last week who sent a shiver through all her nearby friends. While flouncing down the front steps of her school, she shrilled:

"Sure, I know which courses I'll take— but who's going to be my steady date?"

A harmless remark? Or was it part of a trend among Canadian teen-agers which has sent shivers through principals, teachers and most students for the last few years?

Should you go steady during high school? If so, how old should you be and how long should you let the relationship last? Isn't four years a rather long time to go around with one person?

I'd like to hear what opinions you have on the subject. But first I sampled the opinions held by social workers, teachers, a few students and several interested groups. Here were a few of them.

Miss Violet Munns, marriage counsellor for the Neighborhood Workers said: "From what I've seen, going steady too young can sometimes lead to early marriages before either person has really had a chance to grow up."

Part of growing up is knowing a great number of people and developing different interests. You don't get a chance to do that if you're restricted to seeing one person night after night, never dating anyone else.

"The United Church has urged a ban on marriage for anyone under the age of 21. And some of its members have said the practice of going steady at a young age contributes to early marriages.

"In Toronto, at least, the students I talked to seemed to be against going steady.

Don Norton, a student council president, feels there is a new trend developing. "No one in their right mind would go steady and hope to be a top student," he said.

Herb Graham, another student council president was in agreement. "I just don't think I'd have time for going steady and doing the preparation for going to university."

"Neal Hudson, 16, said his school has a new slogan: "Go steadily—but not steady," he said. "The trend I've noticed is for people to go out with three or four friends regularly, not just one."

Gail Barwick and Bob Hann, both 17, are probably an example of this philosophy. They describe themselves as good friends. But while they see each other a great deal, they don't say they are going steady.

TEACHERS UNTROUBLED

Canadian teachers and principals have nothing against the practice of going steady in high school. There are many top students who have a steady date without letting schoolwork slip. What frightens them is another group—who may be a minority.

Said one principal: "Every year I see young couples who apparently are looking for some kind of security by going steady. They look like young married couples walking from class to class together."

"What bothers me," he added, "is that they too often drift away from their other friends, missing the experience of learning about things with a group."

"Every so often a young couple start dating somewhere in high school and wind up getting married in their early teens. Some make the adjustment—but others feel trapped within a few years. I really feel sorry for them."

The final conclusion? I don't believe it's possible to make a black-and-white general statement to fit everyone. The question of going steady is something each high school student must decide personally.

For interest's sake, let's hear what you think. Are the adults right who think going steady is wrong for Canadian teen-agers? Write me your opinion and we'll print as many as possible.

UNKNOWN CHAMPION

One of Canada's latest champion athletes is an attractive 17-year-old girl with freckles—but how many Canadians follow her sport?

Beverley Bowers of Toronto last month rocked the roller skating world back on its heels by winning the North American Senior Ladies' Freestyle Roller Skating Championship in Fort Worth, Texas.

This means who will represent both Canada and the U.S. at the World Congress Amateur Roller Skating Competition in Japan next month.

If she goes as the U.S. representative she will be sponsored and have her way paid. Beverley wants to represent Canada—but she is still looking for a Canadian sponsor.

Beverley, a Grade 13 student, has been skating since she was 8 years old and collected more than 100 cups and medals with an older brother. Her last trophy was almost as big as she was.

JUST NOTES—Didn't realize how brilliant you all were until the letters started pouring in figuring the average speed of Yuri Gagarin during his space flight. Just for interest, I decided to try it—and got the wrong answer!

Arthritics Get Free Treatment If Unable to Pay

The board of the Quinte branch of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society met at the YMCA Tuesday evening. A splendid attendance was delighted by the presence of Miss Betty Draycott, Eastern Ontario supervisor of physiotherapy, and of the Quinte branch physiotherapist, Miss Margaret Miller.

The Board devoted considerable time and discussion to a misunderstanding which has apparently confused some public thinking. It was reported to the meeting that calls had been received complaining about a fee alleged to be charged arthritically by the society for treatments. The Board was disturbed to learn that this alleged fee was being compared with other fees. Miss Draycott explained clearly and emphatically that the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society assists arthritic and rheumatic sufferers in their homes or elsewhere no matter what the patient's financial status. If a sufferer is recommended by his or her doctor to the society and is unable to pay any fee, then he or she will never be barred down. On the other hand if a patient is recommended to the society by afford to pay a fee, maybe as a doctor and that patient can afford to pay, then the Society hopes some fee will be paid.

Miss Draycott made it abundantly clear that if a patient was unable to pay any fee, he or she would receive treatments from the society for as long as the doctor recommended such treatment. If a patient could assist by giving fifty cents, a couple of dollars or even five dollars then it was welcome and seriously needed.

The Quinte Branch, Miss Draycott remarked, has a deep and abiding right to be proud of its aid along the lines she explained above. A local district girl has been admitted to the Queen Elizabeth treatment centre in Toronto and is making progress. The society will continue to aid this young woman and when she is finally released will stay by her until she is rehabilitated and established once more in society. Any sufferer who entertains any doubt is requested to contact the local physiotherapist or any member of the local branch.

The annual dinner meeting of Quinte Branch is to be held at Tabernacle Church on October 12th.

Mrs. A. W. Hume was welcomed by the president as the new president of the W.A. She takes up Mrs. Elizabeth Jarvis's duties because Mrs. Jarvis is moving to Ottawa with her family.

COF Plans Annual Prov. Assembly

Quinte District Council of the Canadian Order of Foresters met at the home of Mrs. Frank Ray, Pringle Drive, to complete arrangements for the 2nd annual Eastern Ontario Provincial Assembly to be held Saturday, September 23, 1961, at the Hotel Quinte.

Over 300 delegates from Toronto to the Quebec border including Mr. S. C. Berridge, High Chief Ranger, Mission City, B.C. and other High Court officers from Brantford will be in attendance.

District Deputy High Chief Ranger, Quinte District, Mr. Douglas Pickering, of MacDonald Gardens, Belleville congratulated the local members of Court Sharron, Court Belleville and Quinte District Council for their enthusiastic support in this undertaking.

MEASURING CAREFULLY are these two young students of the Belleville General Hospital school for laboratory technicians. Glenna Sprague of Trenton pours colored liquid into graduate as Deanna Hill of Deseronto looks on.

Laboratory Technicians' Course Opens at Hospital

There is a group of nineteen young trainees at Belleville General Hospital who will not need to worry about finding a position when their one-year course is completed next year.

These people are members of the hospital laboratory technicians' course commenced this year at the Belleville hospital on a classroom and teaching basis.

The hospital laboratory technicians' training school was officially opened this afternoon in the nurses' residence by Governor Werner Daechsel; Dr. A. N. Rois, director of pathology, and Mr. C. A. Stone, chief technologist at the hospital.

Following the official opening of the school, tea was served by members of the Hospital Women's Auxiliary.

The laboratory technicians course at Belleville has been started as the hospital's contribution toward filling a great need for laboratory technicians.

SERIOUS SHORTAGE

Mr. Daechsel stated there was a serious shortage of such technicians and said that graduates would find ready positions following graduation next year.

Board chairman J. N. Yarrow officially opened the training school.

Mr. Daechsel stressed the importance of proper patient care in hospitals pointing out the necessity of skilled staff with proper training and experience being available to give this care.

The Belleville hospital was helping to provide the trained personnel through its school of nursing, its radiology technicians course and now through the laboratory technicians' course.

Previously laboratory technicians were trained at Belleville on an apprenticeship basis but under this system the number of students was limited to three.

CAN ACCOMMODATE 20

Now, with the new technicians' school operating on an enlarged separate basis a total of 20 students can be accommodated.

The former Harris residence, this year purchased by the hospital board, has been renovated for use as lecture rooms. Laboratory facilities in Education Hall will be used by the student technicians.

The school is headed up by Dr. A. N. Rois as director of pathology with Miss Janet McKinnon as instructress.

Students at the first laboratory technicians course are as follows: Joanne Adams, Belleville; Betty Lou Brickman, Trenton; Mrs. Eileen Cook, Belleville; Janice Coombs, Frankford; Leona Embury, Carrying Place; Sue Haggerty, Belleville; Gordon Hamilton, Trenton; Judith Hazell, Campbellford; Deanne Hill, Deseronto; John Jones, Belleville; Diana Kreat, St. Catharines; Shirley Livingstone, Frankford; Allene Minaker, Belleville; Mrs. Olive Nicholson, Trenton; Glenna Sprague, Trenton; Billie Taylor, Bellevill e; Marilyn Vandervoort, Belleville; Lynda Wardle, Belleville and Arthur Whitehead of Point Anne.

Weddings

MORGAN - DAFOE

The Holiness Church in Roblin was the scene of a pretty wedding of interest at two o'clock in the afternoon of Saturday, September 5, 1953, when Miss Jean Marie E. Southcombe united in marriage Reverend Ernest Dafoe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Dafoe, and George Milton Morgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Morgan, all of Roblin.

Mrs. Charles Emmett played "O Perfect Love" and "The Wedding Prayer" and Miss Linda Young of Roblin was soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of lace and net over taffeta. The scalloped neckline was trimmed with seed pearls and had long lily-point sleeves. Her shoulder length veil of nylon illusion was held by a tiara of seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of pink roses and white stephanotis.

Maid of honor was Miss Marilyn Hannah, of Enterprise, in a street-length gown of blue organdy with matching bolero, wide chiffon sash, featuring a large bow at the back and a halo head piece with short shoulder-length veil. She carried a bouquet of pink and white mums.

The bridesmaid, Miss Marilyn Morgan of Roblin, sister of the bridegroom, was attired in pink organdy with matching bolero, a corsage of the maid of honor and wore a pink seed pearl tiara and carried a bouquet of red carnations and white mums.

Flower girl was Miss Pamela Wilson of Roblin, cousin of the bride, in white silk organza over taffeta with yellow trimmed with applique roses buds and a wide pink chiffon sash at the back. She wore a white tiara with pink rosebuds on it and carried a basket of pink and white mums.

Best man was Mr. Ted Dennison of Hagerman, and ushers were Messrs. Jack Dafoe of Roblin, brother of the bride, and Mr. Douglas McConnell, Enterprise.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Orange Hall in Roblin, where guests were received by the mother of the bride in an all-wool teal blue suit with brown accessories and a corsage of champagne colour roses, and the bridegroom's mother in a navy blue crepe dress with navy accessories and wearing a corsage of pink roses.

Following the reception, the bride changed into a sage-green boucle dress suit with black accessories and corsage of champagne gladioli for a honeymoon trip to Toronto, Niagara Falls and other points. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan will take up residence at Roblindale.

Guests were present from Ottawa, Stittsville, Brockville, Enterprise, Belleville, Cole Lake and Napanee.

Showers prior to her marriage were held at the home of the bride-to-be, with Mrs. Gerald Sedore as hostess and Mrs. Andrew Searle as co-hostess; and at the home of Mrs. Wray Young with Miss Linda Young as hostess and Miss Marion McCutcheon as co-hostess.

GRAY — KENNEDY

Baskets of pink and white gladioli adorned the altar in the Thomasburg United Church for a pretty autumn wedding on Saturday afternoon, the 12th of September the 19th hour when Reverend R. D. MacLean of Belleville, united in marriage Nancy Louise Kennedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brough, Thomasburg, to Mr. Allan Wesley Gray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Gray of Plainfield.

Mr. Fred Porter was guest organist.

The bride was attractively gowned in a street-length dress of white peau de soie with embroidered French silk chiffon overskirt, white accessories and carried a white bible decorated with pink sweetheart roses.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Russell Eaton, sister of the bridegroom, was attired in floor-length dress of forest green peau de soie, matching chiffon overskirt and accessories. She carried a nosegay of yellow roses and mums.

The groomsman was Mr. Russell Eaton, of Marmora.

Following the wedding held in the dining room of Stoco Hotel a delicious wedding supper was served the guests, gowned in turquoise brocade with white accessories and a corsage of pale pink sweetheart roses.

Eastminster WA Plans Barbecue

At a meeting of the Women's Association of Eastminster United Church, held on Monday evening, final arrangements were made for the annual barbecue which is to be held on Thursday of this week. Should it rain, the ladies will be set up in the basement. This is the first time that the ladies have catered to the public and the president, Mrs. George Mayhew, expresses the hope that the ladies will help to make it a success.

Other business meeting was held first, when plans were made for fall activities, and donations received from the various committees.

Mrs. McDowell read letters from Dr. S. Gilchrist, medical missionary from Abyssinia, and Miss M. E. Batchelor, who is continuing his studies in Geology in England.

Money was voted to be sent to aid a medical student working under Dr. Gilchrist, Mrs. A. Glover reported on a letter received from Mrs. Gerlach, of Newcastle, Alberta, the missionary whom the ladies remember the ladies for money sent to her and telling of the many needs in the parish of Mt. Hebron.

The ladies of the Federation branch of the Church protest to the resumption of nuclear testing, and to this purpose decided to join with other branches of the Women's Missionary Federation, and to the United Church Observer.

DEVOTIONAL PERIOD

The devotional period was in charge of Mrs. Ernie Maybee and Mrs. Mildred Armstrong. Mrs. Armstrong read an excellent poem based on the "Parable of the Loaves and the Fishes," which had been written by Mrs. Myrtle Broadbent, of Stirling.

"Holidays in Pictures" was the theme of the program which followed the meeting, when several of the members showed slides and movies taken during their holidays. These included trips to Wales, Nassau, Miami and Prince Edward Island, and were much enjoyed by those present.

A vote of thanks of Mrs. Gladys McEwen's group served lunch.

Wooler Couple Mark 25th Anniversary

A wedding anniversary was recently celebrated by a wellknown Wooler couple, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bate, at their home on the occasion of their neighbors, the wedding attendants and guests of that auspicious occasion 25 years ago.

Following a delightful dinner enjoyed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Nelson, who accompanied them back to their home, the bride and groom were filled with waiting guests and on entering were greeted by the strains of the "Wedding March," played by Mrs. Gerald Curry, of Trenton. Also present were Mr. John Petrie, the groomsman, for the occasion 25 years ago, Clifford Dalmon, both of Wooler, and the flower girls, Mrs. Howard Hall and Mrs. Ruddy Glode, of Oshawa.

The evening was spent in games, visiting and listening to a reading by Mrs. A. G. Austin, given by Mr. Wilbur McColl, amid gay decorations of streamers, balloons and confetti. Following delicious refreshments including, a beautiful anniversary cake which centred the prettily appointed tea table.

Mr. and Mrs. Bate were delighted recipients of many lovely gifts, including a silver candelabra from their neighbors, the bride, as gifts from their family.

Among those present were: their three daughters, Mrs. Ross Ray (Donella); Mrs. Lorne Bate and Miss Patricia; a sister-in-law, Mrs. Gladys Mitchell and Doris, of Brighton; and nephews and nieces, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Mitchell, Wooler; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mitchell, of Cobourg; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hall; Mr. and Mrs. Ruddy Glode and Miss Evelyn Mitchell, all of Oshawa; Mr. and Mrs. John Petrie; Mrs. Helen Mitchell and Mrs. Wilbur McColl, all of Wooler; Mr. and Mrs. Pike, of Bloomfield; Mrs. Gladys Mott of Cobourg; Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Nelson and Mrs. Gerald Curry, Trenton; of Frankford; Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Ray and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Ray, of Harold, Ontario.

Picture taking concluded the happy occasion.

Women's Activities

COLLEGE HILL W.A.

College Hill Church afternoon W.A. resumed its regular monthly meetings on Wednesday at the church. The president, Mrs. C. Bailey, opened the meeting with words of welcome to all present, and the worship period followed.

Mrs. A. Dickens led the devotional period, assisted by Mrs. Pitts. The hymns "Blessed Be My Soul the King of Heaven," was sung and Mrs. Dickens read the scripture lesson from St. Matthew 6:24-34. The meditation, prayed by Mrs. Dickens, had the theme "Whom Do We Serve?"

"The greatest opposing force to Christianity is materialism. When materialism becomes the slave to "things"—becomes "god" either in person or by individuals, when these "things" take over first place there is little room for God. Slowly God is pushed out; trust in love and righteousness gives way to trust in power, wealth and force. Jesus saw this so clearly in the temptation of the desert. "No man can serve two masters."

Mrs. F. Wilson gave a reading entitled "Vacations." All joined in singing "O Jesus I Have Promised." The prayer by Mrs. Dickens closed the meeting.

The Rev. J. Vessey spoke briefly about the new organization. Under the constitution outlining some of the duties of the executive and the committees that could be ordered. A provisional committee of five members was appointed with the first meeting in the near future to discuss plans for fall.

The call showed 21 present. The secretary and treasurer gave reports. It was decided to give a donation to the HI-C group for its weekend at Camp Quin-Kin-Ka. Volunteers were secured for conveners and helpers for the September meeting.

A social half hour was enjoyed after the close of the meeting, when Mrs. Bailey with Mrs. K. Smith in charge of refreshments.

ST. THOMAS' SR. W.A.

The Senior W.A. of St. Thomas' Church held its first meeting after closing for the summer, on Tuesday afternoon in the Parish Room with the president, Mrs. R. Feather, in the chair. Eighteen members answered the roll call.

The devotional service was conducted by the Rev. David Sinclair.

The secretary, Mrs. H. Smith gave an account of the pot-luck luncheon and the meeting at Christ Church to pack bales for Kent Hall, Yukon, in the Yukon.

The treasurer, Mrs. F. Coleman also gave the report.

The president reported that Mrs. Mac Smith and Mrs. Abbey were to take charge of the Jr. J.W.A. and Mrs. A. S. McCreary will continue with the Study Book.

The members expressed their thanks to Mrs. McConnell for her excellent work in the past in connection with the Jr. W.A.

Mrs. Bogle, convener of the Christmas Bale committee said there was a substantial balance on hand.

Mrs. Simpson, Dorcas convener, stated that all the bales had been shipped during the summer and that the Dorcas meetings would commence the second afternoon.

It was decided to send a card to Mrs. Ivor Jones, Mrs. Strawberry congratulating them on the birth of a son.

The next meeting will be held at St. Thomas' Church on October 20th. The arrangements for this will be made at a later date.

The W.A. will entertain the residents of the Hastings County Home on December 15th and was decided to do the Christmas program.

A running tea will be held in the parish house on the evening of September 22nd.

The president led the closing devotional exercises.

International Fair Planned By IODE

New Canadians of the Belleville area are enthusiastically making plans to enter the second International Fair to be sponsored by the St. Julien Chapter, I.O.D.E.

Mrs. R. W. Sutton, the fair convener, reported to the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire meeting that, because this year's fair will be larger, it will be necessary to charge a stall rental. Arrangements have been made to hold the fair in Memorial Auditorium, Centennial Secondary, in October, both afternoon and evening. It is hoped that a program of musical numbers and dances by the various groups will prove an added attraction.

The St. Julien Chapter met at the home of Mrs. William Slade on Goldale Avenue, where they entertained a delightful potluck supper in the garden. Mrs. M. Patterson, regent, welcomed a new member, Mrs. Charles Cox, into the chapter. Mrs. Cox received her pin, the IODE badge.

Regret was expressed at the resignation of Mrs. Ellis, city and chapter of Mrs. G. D. Ellis. A letter of thanks was read from the delegates to the National meeting at Calgary, Mrs. Morrison.

THANKS EXPRESSED

Mrs. K. Putnam, educational secretary, read letters from Mrs. Ellis and Mrs. Ellis, adopted school, expressing their thanks for the prize awarded to Ellis for the prize in the chapter at the June closing. A committee was set up to make decisions regarding the awards of the St. Julien Chapter history prize in the secondary schools of Belleville.

A request was made for more books, preferably pocket type, to be sent to troops overseas. Mrs. Ed Bateman and Mrs. Belleville United Appeal members of the city solicited for the U.A. volunteer for canvassing in the coming campaign.

The rest of the evening was spent in planning the International Fair, after which an enjoyable game, planned by Miss E. Coulter, ended the evening on a gay note.

Springbrook WA Completes Bazaar Plans

The regular meeting of Springbrook Women's Association was held in the church basement on September 7, Mrs. Ed Bateman and Mrs. George Thompson acted as hostesses.

The president, Mrs. Gordon Webb opened with prayer.

Mrs. Ralph Thompson was in charge of the worship. "Whom Do We Serve?" Hymn, "Take Time to Be Holy" was sung. Scripture, Matthew 6: 21-34 was read by Mrs. Delbert Bateman. Prayer by Mrs. Ed Read in unison. A prayer for the missionary, Miss Ella Case. Mrs. given by Mrs. Ralph Wellman. "Lesson Thoughts" were read by Ralph Thompson and by the worship closed with prayer and Hymn "The Lord's My Shepherd."

Roll call — a donation for Mrs. Case was responded to by 19 members.

Correspondence was read by the secretary, Mrs. M. Mason.

Mrs. Gordon Bailey and Mrs. Fred McGowan reported making 13 calls for the special visiting committee. Two boxes and two cards were reported sent to sick members; plans were completed for bazaar to be held late this month, with Mrs. Jaith, Madoc to be guest speaker.

This month's visiting volunteers were Mrs. James Spry and Mrs. Elias Spry.

A committee was named to plan for sale at Hickson Sales Barn on October 2.

Mrs. Thomas Webb gave a donation to be used to purchase something for the church kitchen.

An interesting topic was given on "Missionary" by Mrs. Murray Mason and a reading by Mrs. Bert McCoy, Miss Linda Wellman sang a lovely solo, "I'll Never Walk Alone." Readings were given by Mrs. Spry, "Happy Birthday" was sung to Mrs. Murray Mason.

Mrs. H. Pillen closed the meeting with prayer.

Lunch was served by the hostesses and their assistants.

Voice of Women Groups Protest Against War

By EDNA BLAKELY

TORONTO (CP) — Jo Davis has the zeal of an evangelist when she talks about Voice of Women.

The group—which goes by the initials V.O.W.—calls on the women of Canada to protest against war or the threat of war as a means of solving world problems."

Mrs. Davis, wife of TV's Fred Davis, is one who conceived the idea of the organization out of concern for the future of her three children, Nancy, 4, Terry 2, and Philip, four months.

"I decided I and women could do something—form some kind of a pressure—not a home-for-bomb movement," she said in an interview.

"But we really worked out the social causes of war. Science will tell what is the destruction of war. But in the meantime V.O.W. is trying to do its bit in making the world into one human family. We're playing for time until the politicians get to work on peace instead of war."

WOMEN AGAINST WAR

Jo Davis, wife of Toronto television personality Fred Davis, is the founder of Voice of Women, an organization devoted to elimination of war or threat of war as instruments of international politics. Started last year, the group now claims 4,000 members in Canada and hopes to expand to other countries. (CP Photo).

That was in June, 1951, the first V.O.W. convention was held in Toronto's Eaton Auditorium. Delegates from all 10 provinces, Mrs. Tucker was elected president.

The delegates agreed to urge the government to spend 10 per cent of its defence budget to set up a ministry of peace. Also on the work program: research institute set up as part of the university of Toronto to conduct studies on the political, economic and social causes of war, and to study ways to avoid war. Other ideas include a 1953 International conference of women and a world peace year.

MET CRITICISM

V.O.W. has not grown without criticism. Its most outspoken critic of the word "peace" had led some to say or insinuate that it is following the Communist line.

"Are we red to the word (peace)?" they demand. Mrs. Davis asked when this was mentioned.

She added: "We've ignored all criticism. It's not the spirit of V.O.W."

At the national IODE meeting in Calgary last spring, an IODE delegate urged answering questions from the floor, said V.O.W. was "a group of well-meaning women who were "misguided" in methods of brotherhood in this case. More recently, however, Mrs. Peter L. Robinson of Toronto, IODE president, said the organization takes "no stand on V.O.W. or any other matter."

Marjorie Lamb, who compiles a list of Communist movements through the Anti-Aliens Service in Toronto, says she has never listed V.O.W.

NOT ON LIST

"As a matter of fact I've been bothered to death with a great many requests about V.O.W. but I've always told them the group is not Communist and therefore is not on the list," Miss Lamb said.

At V.O.W.'s first meeting Mrs. Davis, a former BBC script writer, spent much of her time telling the women the image they must try to create.

"We're not selling soap," one of the delegates reminded. But Jo Davis says that if it takes soap-selling techniques to sell peace she is for them.

Mrs. Davis' said membership has reached 4,000 and is growing, with 400 to 500 new members

Parkdale L.M.F. Elects New Executive

Mrs. Ronald Douglas was hostess for the September meeting of the Ladies Missionary Fellowship of Parkdale Baptist Church.

The president, Mrs. Stewart Hicks, opened the meeting with choruses and prayer, and presided over the business, which included the election of officers, as follows: president, Mrs. Snyder; vice-president, Mrs. Sheridan; treasurer, Mrs. Wry; secretary, Mrs. Stone; devotional and prayer, Mrs. Porter; social convener, Mrs. Mitchell; social convener, Mrs. Allen; assistant, Mrs. Nicholls; social service conveners, Mrs. Krnst and Mrs. Douglas; hostesses, Mrs. Ernst and Mrs. Douglas.

Mrs. Porter opened devotions. "Have we lost the real attitude of worship? We should show a special attitude of adoration and respect to the Lord. Prayer being the heart of worship, we should worship Him humbly and speak to Him in all humility and faith. Worship Him in praise with the most eloquent language of praise being music, song and poetry. Worship God with offering. He has given us everything; we should give willingly from the heart. We should give the best we have. Worship Him by reading His word, for He says to search the Scriptures. Worship Him by dedicating our lives to the Lord each day, as a part of our worship of Him. My meditation of Him shall be sweet; I will be glad in the Lord. Psalm 104:34".

Mrs. Blake closed the meeting with prayer and a thute of fellowship followed.

Betty Ingram Wins Ladies' Golf Crown

Mrs. Betty Ingram is the 1953 ladies golf champion of the Bay of Quinte Country Club.

Mrs. Ingram shot a neat 85 over the new 9-hole course to defeat Mrs. Ena Corke, the defending champion 4 and 2.

It was another title for the ace golfer who has been a consistent threat for the new titelist. She won her first crown in 1951.

Thirty-six lady golfers took part in the two-sectional matches. Mrs. Ingram and Mrs. Corke defeated four opponents to reach the title match.

In the golf activities Mrs. Doris Bradford won the low net prize in the second flight at the Port Hope Golf Clinbe' ladies field day. Mrs. Bradford took fifth low net in the same tournament.

At the Picton Golf Club's "Mr. and Mrs." tournament Val and Helen Smith won first low net prizes. Runners-up Leader and Mrs. A. Cuthbertson, Trenton RCAF Golf Club took home with the best low net prize.

Steve and Joy Bowerman came home with the "hidden hole" award.

Skates Way From Farm To Ice Show

PIENSE, Sask. (CP) — Pretty, brown-eyed Beatrice Saal, 20, started her way from a Saskatchewan farm to an international ice show.

She first toddled on to the ice at the age of three, in this town 20 miles west of Regina. Now she is skating in the Ice Capades.

Beatrice was on figure skates at the age of eight and at 14 was taking lessons at Regina's Winter Club. While attending a summer skating school in Calgary she became seriously ill and had to give up skating.

She became a hairdresser but two years later, her health improved, she was back on the ice. In 1950 she became junior professional at Wascana Winter Club in Regina.

She joined an ice show out of Chicago and later was with a small Eastern Canada show which ran into financial difficulties that left the troupe stranded in Newfoundland.

Money from home carried her back to Saskatchewan but she paused in Montreal to audition for Ice Capades and in November, 1950, joined the show in New York state.

As conducted by Mary Moore

Question . . . My husband is very fond of the Boston Cream Pie served in restaurants. We've lived in many places throughout Canada and almost any restaurant serves this same pie or cake, yet I've tried many recipes and while they're good they're just not "it" . . . Mrs. W. L.

Cool. Remove from pans and pull off paper. Split layers. Fillings: Mix the flour, sugar, salt and milk. Beat the eggs well, add the cream which has been scalded and cool. Slowly blend dry ingredients and cook in a double boiler, stirring all the time until thick. Remove and cool and flavor with lemon and vanilla. Put the layers together with filling. Sift a little confectioners' sugar over the top or cover with a chocolate whipped cream.

Question: Since you do receive many requests about cooking and this is relative to you, could you help me with "pastry board" should be used as it is or should it be treated, and if so, how? Also, how often must I have sad notes "dry" and "tough" and I don't want to experiment . . . Edith W.

Answer: No, your pastry board does not need to be treated. It becomes "seasoned" with use, you understand. If the pastry you roll on it gradually becomes dry, the wood. This is all it requires.

Question: Could you tell me what could be used as a substitute for one pound mixed peel in a fruit cake recipe and have it retain the rich flavor. I'm sick of "fruity." I would like it to remain fruity, this way, I am not the head of peel . . . Mrs. L.I.

Answer: I can understand your very keen annoyance and "fruity" cake also calls for fruits and nuts such as dates, maraschino cherries, walnuts or almonds. I would simply omit the peel but increase some of the fruit sufficiently to make up for the peel and this would emphasize the fruits you prefer. Possibly they are candied pineapple, apricots, etc. Divide batter into pans and bake at 275 deg. F.bake. for 30 to 45 minutes.

Pan-Fried Golden Pickerel Fillets; Parsley Buttered Boiled Potatoes; Grilled Tomato Halves; Endive, Watercress and Green Pepper Salad; Peach Melba Dessert with Whipped Cream (using Two-Egg Plain Cake — see Thrifty Recipe); Coffee.

Answer:
BOSTON CREAM OR WASHINGTON PIE

(Restaurant style). This is actually a cake.

2 eggs, 1 cup sugar, 3 tablespoons melted shortening, 1¼ cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, pinch of salt, ¾ cup milk, dash lemon flavoring or vanilla, confectioners' sugar.

Thrifty: 1-3 cup flour, ¾ cup sugar, 1 egg, 1 whole, 2 large cups cream, ½ teaspoon lemon flavoring, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Beat the eggs until light and add the sugar gradually. When well blended add the melted shortening. Sift the flour, baking powder and salt together. Add to the mixture alternately with the milk. Flavor with a little lemon. Line two 8" layer cake pans with waxed paper. Divide batter into pans and bake at 375 deg. F.bake. for 30 to 35 minutes.

New Law Gives Women More Rights in Spain

By HENRY BUCKLEY

MADRID (Reuters) — The status of women of modern Spain is reflected in a new law giving women more rights and greater freedom.

The sweeping powers of the husband over his wife are now abolished by this law, but duties are considerably reduced.

A variety of administrative and other posts formerly closed to women now are opened. From this at least, it will be possible for a Spanish woman to become a bus conductress, or at the other extreme, to be appointed ambassador or head of a government department.

Until now, a Spanish wife had to have her husband's signed authority before she could do even such simple things as apply for a passport or sign a piece of property.

From Feb. 1, the agreement of the husband to his wife's activities will be taken for granted unless he "clearly and explicitly" his disagreement.If he does, the wife will have the right to pursue to court. If the court finds the husband's refusal is based on an "abuse of marital rights" or that he is "acting in bad faith." it can set aside his veto.

STATUS CHANGES

These modifications and the opening to women of almost all civil service careers except some juridicial posts as judges, public prosecutors or magistrates, change considerably the status of the Spanish woman.

Spanish women registered today as employed total 2,360,000 or 18 per cent of the working population. This figure does not include the large number of women who help out on family farms.

But there are still only 13,000 women undergraduates in Spanish universities in a population of 30,000,000 people, though there are a few outstanding careers open, including Senorita Pilar Primo de Rivera who runs the women's section of the Falange movement.

Senorita Mercedes Saez Bachiller is a leading authority on Spain's social welfare problems, and there are some well-known women writers.

But, speaking generally, Senorita is still mainly interested in matrimony and a family.

Club Activities

KINETTE CLUB

The Belleville Kinette Club held its first meeting of the fall session at the home of past president, Selma Sleeman, in the form of a pot-luck supper, with eight members in attendance.

President, Norma Bacon, chaired the meeting and outlined the projects for the coming year, some of which are: bake sale and tag day.

FAMED WRITER

Selma Lagerlof, the novelist who won the Nobel Prize in literature in 1909, was the first woman elected to the Swedish Academy, in 1914.

CHRIST CHURCH P.G.

The Parish Guild of Christ Church held its regular meeting in the Parish Hall, Tuesday, Oct. 3. Jaward, welcomed everyone back after the summer recess.

Correspondence was read by Mrs. Vi Slavin in the absence of the Secretary, Mrs. Mary K. Lazier given the treasurer's report, flowers were given for the wedding, remembrances and get-well cards and conveners.

The Guild will cater for a luncheon for the "Ontario Secretary Guild" in September.

Mrs. G. Wilson closed with the devotional.

After the meeting closed Mrs. G. Livingston showed slides of different activities in the church and the town, all of the rapid growth of the parish in the last five years.

Father Buckley led the closing prayers after which refreshments were served under the direction of Mrs. E. Labelle.

ST. PETER'S W.M.S.

The September meeting of St. Peter's W.M.S., Madoc, was held at the home of Mrs. Charles Spencer and was well attended. Mrs. Bailey presided, opening the meeting with prayer and reading the hymn, "Prayer is the Soul's Sincere Desire."

Mrs. Kilpatrick read a scripture reading followed with reports from the various secretaries. Mrs. Kilpatrick is the secretary of Literature and Mrs. Brown reported sending the allocation for the W.M.S. share in the anniversary for 1961.

The 75th anniversary of St. Peter's, to be held November 2, was planned. A committee was appointed as follows: Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. Blakely, Mrs. Woods, Mrs. Crosby, Mrs. Johnston, with Mrs. Allan as convener. Mrs. Brown is convener of the Thankoffering.

Psalm 100 was sung with prayer offered by Mrs. Blakely.

Mrs. Spencer in charge of the program, the topic being, "Into All the World Together." Prayer in the united mission offered with preaching, and blessed as shown in the Beatitudes. The power of fitness God spoke to people in the Bible and today.

Special mention was made of the seminary in Formosa, also Bible schools in Jamaica. Mrs. Stout continued the program with a reading on Christian work — fellowship is revealed in overseas missions. The number of colleges and hospitals were reduced after the war. Volunteers has five; more financial support is needed.

The hymn, "Work for the Night is Coming" and the benediction closed the meeting.

Lunch was served by the hostess and her daughters, and a social hour was enjoyed by all.

CARS Aux. Plans Future Events

C.A.R.S. Auxiliary meeting was held at the home of Mrs. D. A. McKinney, Scottwood Crescent, with the president, Mrs. Ivan Harris in the chair.

Plans were discussed for an open meeting which is to be held on September 20th at 2.30 p.m. in Recreation Hall, Belleville General Hospital. The speaker will be Miss Winnifred Harrington, Social Service Worker with the Ontario Division for C.A.R.S.

Further business consisted of the arrangements for the auction sale which has been held in October at Tabernacle Church, Mr. Phil Storey, Director, Ontario Division for C.A.R.S. is to be guest speaker at the auction.

The meeting was concluded with a social hour, served by the hostess and co-hostesses, Mrs. A. Wynne and Mrs. W. Lockyer.

St. Joseph's CWL Plans Fall Bazaar

At the September meeting of St. Joseph's Catholic Women's League, plans were made for the annual Fall Bazaar in October.

Convener Mrs. C. Murphy called on the directors of the various booths to report on progress of the booths. Booths include home-baking, knitting, sewing, Christmas, aprons, parcel, white elephant and food. Preparations were well underway for this event to be held in the Knights of Columbus Hall.

The meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. V. Muldoon, and interesting reports were made by committee chairmen.

To date there was a paid-up membership of 304, with more expected when all returns were available.

The regional meeting will take place in Tweed on November 5th, and members were urged to attend.

Retreats will be held in Ottawa, Oct. 6, 7, 8 and in Pembroke, Oct. 13, 14, 15. Anyone wishing to attend should contact Mrs. Helena Clarke for reservations.

The marathon bridge is again in operation with 44 enthusiastic participants. This project will continue until April and is conveyed by Mrs. G. Bell.

Mrs. Muldoon closed the business reports, the Reverend J. J. Buckley spoke of the necessity of unity in the Church and rectory. It is hoped that this will be very true for occupancy in the near future. Seating capacity in the church will be 1,200, an indication of the rapid growth of the parish in the last five years.

Father Buckley led the closing prayers after which refreshments were served under the direction of Mrs. E. Labelle.

SUNBEAM M. B.

RAWDON — On Sunday morning the Sunbeam Mission Band of Mount Pleasant-Lemon met, the president, Mrs. Ada Williams presided and all sang a hymn. The members repeated the Mission Band Purpose and rendered their theme song "Little Sunbeams". Mrs. Stanley Williams conducted the devotional in which Brenda Williams read the prayer, Shirley Potts read the Bible lesson and Barbara Williams closed the devotional with a piano solo.

Brigadier Knight acted as secretary and Janet Spencer gathered the offering which Sally Mahan dedicated. Selections were read by Glenn Spencer, Janet Scott and Brenda Campbell. Mrs. Knight was reminded by Betty McAdam.

The next meeting will be held on October 1, with Barbara Williams and Judy McAdam in charge of the program.

Mrs. Harry McAdam leader of the Mission Band gave the primary story entitled "The Rejected Sunbeam". This told of a little girl in Africa who was given a new name on life when the mission doctor mended her twisted leg. Mrs. Stanley Williams outlined the story to the junior group which was entitled "The Little House". In this small Zulu village in the Transvaal Province of South Africa a small home was in possession of a Bible and that particular mother was given a chance to be a Sunday School teacher and thus teach the children Bible stories and songs of praise.

Mrs. Herbert Smith conducted a few games after which a hymn of thanksgiving was sung.

PLAN POWER SCHEME — Preliminary work is expected to begin soon on the crown-owned B.C. Electric Company's $883,000,000 hydro-electric power project in the Peace River area of northeastern British Columbia (see inset). A rough map locates site of the Portage Mountain dam which will rise 600 feet above the present level of the Peace River near Hudson Hope. Screened areas show extent of future flooding on the Peace, Finlay and Parsnip Rivers. A new road will be built to the site either along the route of the present dirt road from Fort St. John, about 70 miles to the east, or north from Chetwynd across the Peace River, a distance of 40 miles. (CP Newsmap.)

B.C. Govt. Will Undertake Million Dollar Road Program Pilot Tunnel for Project

By JIM PEACOCK

VANCOUVER (CP) — A million-dollar highway construction program, backed by provincial government engineers, will be followed by construction of a pilot tunnel as first steps in the big Peace River hydro-electric power project.

These two tasks, says Dr. Gordon Shrum, head of the Crown-owned B.C. Electric Company, will carry work into the middle of 1982.

When they are well under way, immediate steps in the long-term construction program will be worked out in detail and employment opportunities might become clear.

Meanwhile, no jobs are open on the project because the actual building has not begun on highways or at the dam site.

The B.C. Electric Company, expropriated by the provincial government on Aug. 1 and given responsibility for power development on the Peace, is pressing ahead with plans for construction of the $883,000,000 scheme in northeastern British Columbia.

$1,000,000 FOR ROAD

First requirement in the program is construction and rebuilding of road facilities near the Portage Mountain dam site, 11 miles west of Hudson Hope which lies 60 miles west of Fort St. John in the B.C. Peace River block.

Dr. Shrum said the provincial highways department has undertaken to handle the road construction program because there is not sufficient time to call public tenders on the work and still have it completed in time for tunnel work to begin this winter at the dam site.

B.C. Electric, through a $75,000,000 credit established with the Royal Bank of Canada, will pay the bills.

Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi said these will amount to about $1,000,000 for the road work.

Highways engineers have gone into the Hudson Hope area to make surveys and determine which of two routes will be developed. Adequate highway and rail bridges are needed for transporting heavy construction equipment to the dam project.

EXISTING ROAD POOR

One route would be along the north side of the Peace River from Fort St. John, where a winding, narrow gravel and dirt road now is the only land link to Hudson Hope has with outside points and rail terminals. The other would be across the river and 40 miles south to Chetwynd.

Both Fort St. John and Chetwynd are on the government-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway, but Chetwynd is 75 miles by the rail route closer to Vancouver than Fort St. John.

If the Chetwynd route is selected, a new road will be needed to the pilot tunnel site's heavily-wooded region. If the Fort St. John route is chosen, the existing road will be improved and its bridges strengthened to handle heavy loads as built from Hudson Hope to the site.

Clearing at the site also must be carried out and a span will be needed across the Peace River just upstream from the actual dam location.

Dr. Shrum said this would be needed to take men and material across the river and to permit subcontractors to work on the dam without interfering with traffic it would be flooded out.

Tenders for the bridge, to cost about $250,000, have been called.

First project on the river will be a pilot or tunnel bored about 12 feet in diameter and 3,000 feet long beneath the north bank of the river. It also makes a broad curve through a deep gorge near the Portage Mountain site.

PLAN THREE TUNNELS

From this, engineers would build the main diversion tunnel and other secrets to enable them to plot two diversion tunnels 40 feet in diameter and 3,000 feet long. Eventually, the pilot tunnel would be enlarged as a third diversion tunnel.

Water flow will be diverted through the tunnels to bypass the dam site, allowing workmen to construct the dam without water problems.

The plan is to be a rock and earth - fill structure 7,000 feet across the top and 600 feet above the present river level at its highest point.

Behind it, lying in the Rocky Mountain Trench, a reservoir 200 miles long and averaging four miles across eventually will be filled up, creating a lake with 900-square-mile surface and containing 88,000,000 acre-feet of water.

It will stretch west from the dam along the Peace River valley, north along the Finlay River path and south along the Parsnip River to McLeod Lake, 30 miles north of Prince George.

When the project is completed, possibly by 1978, it will have generating capacity of more than 4,000,000 horsepower. First production of about 1,000,000 horsepower may be available by 1956.

Girl Won't Go Steady

DEAR DORIS:—For a while I went with Marion. Then we broke up three times. Now I have fallen head over heels for her best friend, and want to go steady with her, but one night she told me that when she finds out a boy is interested in her she can't stand him around.

At dances and suppers and other places she and I are always together. But when any of the guys ask her about me she says there is nothing between us; that we are just good friends. I think she may be afraid of going steady because of the hard feelings associated with it when she went steady once before. In the meantime, Marion still likes me and wants to make up.

DORIS CLARK

Now, this is where I need your advice: first, how can I be with her and not hurt Marion? Second, how can I get her to lose her fears about going steady and get interested in me?

My friends say to try anyway but I am afraid of losing her even as a friend.—RED.

* * *

DEAR RED:—If your current glamor girl is getting cagey, take a tip from her.

Obviously she wants you for a friend or she wouldn't bother warning you about her attitude towards "belonging" to anyone.

Your triple-action history with Marion should start you wondering about this "steady" business. You got you like has grown out of it. Why can't you? As you can give constant, reliable friendship, without possessiveness, you have a better chance of getting to know your girl (and other girls) and choosing for life, later.

As for hurting Marion, haven't you done that already?

* * *

DEAR DORIS:—Before I had my four children my bust line measured 34 inches. Now I'm flat as a pancake. Could you give me some advice as far as exercises go? Also, what about the pills that are advertised to fill out the bust? —MRS. Y.

* * *

DEAR MRS. Y.—The experts say too little weight or low vitality is almost always back of the meagre bust. This is a common result of having babies.

While the breast itself is a gland, the fan-shaped pectoral muscles of the chest are the bust-supporting muscles and they can be helped with exercise. The improvement takes several months but should be accompanied by a well-rounded diet and health program. Avoid pills not prescribed by your own doctor.

Get your doctor's guidance about food, exercise and health care. Meanwhile, "gay deceivers" are worth thinking about.

* * *

DEAR DORIS:—I have liked a certain boy for 1½ years but he knew nothing about it. When he was talking to another male friend of mine he said he didn't think I liked him and also asked a lot of questions about me.

I don't think he likes me as he never phones me. I seem to have to make all the moves. What should I do to get him to make the next move? He is 19 years old.—PROBLEM.

* * *

DEAR PROBLEM—Apparently you are his problem, and he is your problem.

The only moves you can make are to be friendly when you meet, or to invite him to a mixed party. You should not be phoning him. Otherwise the way to attract such a one is to have others who swarm around. Learn to mix and associate with boys and girls through church or community groups, school societies and athletic pursuits.

Make your own life interesting, with a number of boys and girls, that you have little time to think about that "certain boy." If 19 is more than two years older than you are, he is too old for you anyway.

Sunday School Lesson

Money for the Church

By ROY L. SMITH

SUDAY SCHOOL LESSON — Jno 2:13-22; 7:6, 13, 14; 8:6, 16, 23; 12:18; Galatians 2:1-3; 2 Timothy 4:10; Titus 3:12.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — Jno 2:13-22; 7:6, 13, 14; 8:6, 16, 23; 12:18; Galatians 2:1-3; 2 Timothy 4:10; Titus 3:12.

It is a matter of religious, as well as historical, interest to discover that the first great collection ever taken by the first century Christian churches was a gathering of funds designed to relieve the destitution of the mother church in Jerusalem.

One of the common charges levelled at the Christian Church is that "it is always looking for money." But even a hurried examination of the record reveals the fact that a very share of the money collected is used, in one way or another, in the relief of distress.

It is a fact of course, that some of the finest (and most expensive) buildings in almost every community are the houses of worship. And it must also be admitted that huge sums of money are spent for stained glass windows elaborate altars, and polished pews, including many minor pieces of equipment which are very expensive.

But by far the major expenditures of the church, Catholic and Protestant, are occasioned by the need the church is making to provide for the care of those who have suffered some kind of misfortune.

HOSPITALS AND HOMES

Consider, if you will, the hundreds of hospitals and homes that are open every day of the year to the sick, the aged, and the orphaned.

Then consider the fact that not one of them is expected to pay a profit — that every such institution which enjoys any margin immediately invests it in additional room and equipment with which to render a larger service.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for September 17: "Titus, A Competent Pastor." Titus 1:5-9; 2:7-8, 11-14; 3:1-8, 14.

In the case of Catholic hospitals, particularly, consider the thousands of Sisters of mercy who serve without salary of any kind, content to render such assistance as their consecrated skill permits in the relief of suffering. Doesn't it seem reasonable to ask the public to support an institution to which so many godly women are giving so much without personal compensation of any kind?

One of the very first institutions founded by the Christians in the New World was George Whitefield's orphanage near Savannah, Georgia, which is still carrying on and rendering an enormous service to the nation in caring for children. Let those who complain that the church is always asking for money consider the loss to the nation in the abandonment of even one such institution.

EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS

Add to the relief agencies the service institutions, and the charitable and healing societies organized under the auspices of the church, all the schools (Catholic and Protestant) and colleges, which owe their founding and maintenance to religious groups, and you have a staggering sum that runs into the hundreds of millions. Is it any wonder that the church is always asking for money?

It is quite true that other institutions do not go about "begging for money." But that is because those same other organizations do not go about doing good.

The tens of thousands of Sunday schools, for example, which are maintained throughout the children free, are making a contribution to the nation of incomparable importance. Yet the doors of every Sunday school in the land are open to any child, without the payment of a cent. If we are to complain that the Church is always asking for money, does it mean that we are ready to cripple those doors because there is no money with which to support them?

The early collection of the infant Christian church ever took was for the purpose of relieving the distress of the poor, and the last doors by close will be those that have opened to the destitute.

The church that is asking for money is doing the most worthwhile thing that ought to be done. Let's give thanks for the church's ability to see the needs.

HOFFA, FAMILY MAN — Jimmy Hoffa, the tough Teamsters Union president who has been almost constantly in the public eye as he fought charges of corruption and conspiring with racketeers, has another side. In private life he lives quietly with his wife and two children, Barbara Ann and Jimmy Jr., in their modest Detroit home. He is shown at a Teamsters convention with his wife Josephine, (left) a former laundry worker, and daughter. (CP Photo).

U.S. Justice Department Has Repeatedly Tried to Put Jimmy Hoffa Behind Bars

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP)—Jimmy Hoffa has a stock answer for those who ask about Congressional charges that he dipped into Teamsters funds for his own use and maintained alliances with the underworld.

"We have courts and we are a country of laws," says the 48-year-old Teamsters president. "Anybody who believes Hoffa has violated the law has a right to take Hoffa into court."

The U.S. Justice department has found it isn't that simple. It repeatedly tried to put the burly Jimmy behind bars but the five - foot - five trucker has slipped out of all charges. In more than a quarter-century of union operations, Hoffa has been convicted and fined only three times—all in early years and all on relatively minor charges.

The International Brotherhood of Teamsters was expelled from the AFL-CIO four years ago for corruption but nobody yet has hung that tag, to the satisfaction of a court, on James Riddle Hoffa.

CHARGES THROWN OUT

All big government charges in recent years either were ruled improperly drawn or ended in acquittal. For instance, Hoffa was acquitted of illegally wiretapping the telephones of his own officials and trying to plant a spy in a Senate rackets committee staff.

"How many times must an American find himself innocent?" Hoffa asks.

President Kennedy dismisses that cry of innocence. In his 1960 presidential campaign he said he never would be satisfied as long as men like Hoffa are free.

Kennedy's brother, Robert, now U.S. Attorney - General, wrote a book describing Hoffa as one of the great evils in American society. A Senate rackets committee said of Hoffa in 1958: He shamelessly abused his trust.

Hoffa was linked through committee testimony and allegations with extortioning in New York, pinball and jukebox racketeers in Detroit, men who connived with the Judges and legislators, men who derived their living from narcotics and prostitution.

There is another side to Hoffa. His father, a coal miner, died when Jimmy was seven. The mother had to raise the four children in a depression-ridden coal town and later in Detroit. Jimmy quit school in the ninth grade to work.

LIVES QUIETLY

He met and married a Detroit laundry worker named Josephine Poszywak and they had two children, Barbara Ann and Jimmy Jr. He got both through college. For part of the year he still lives in a modest Detroit home he bought for $6,800 in 1938.

He allows his business agents to ride Cadillacs but personally avoids displays of lavish living, though he is wealthy through acquisition of various companies and investments.

He eats mostly meat and abstains from drinking and smoking. He keeps his lodging remarks trim in a $60,000 gymnasium in the basement of the Teamsters' $5,000,000 marbled Washington headquarters.

To the great frustration of the government, his most lavish spending is for legal talent. The standing Washington joke is that the Teamsters' many lawyers call themselves the "Teamsters Bar Association."

His lawyers are assured of continued employment. A federal appeals court has upheld broad government powers to subpoena Teamsters books and records in a search for possible corruption. Hoffa called it "relief Sunday" and said he would carry the case to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Tomorrow: Hoffa's plans in Canada.

Thomasburg

THOMASBURG—In the finals of the local Softball League, on Monday night, Lombard of Tweed defeated Thomasburg by a score of 3-1 but on Wednesday, Thomasburg won by a score of 7-3 and on Saturday night Lombard again won by a score of 4-3, thus tying up the series, three games to three.

The final game, which will decide the winner of the cup, will be played on Monday evening and promises to be a real battle.

Thomasburg Public School opened for the fall term on September 5, with Miss Card of Belleville but formerly of Bancroft, as principal and Mrs. A. Bates of Roslin as assistant. A class of seven started for the first time.

The exterior trimming of the I.O.O.F. Hall is receiving a coat of paint at the present time.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Porter of Toronto, Ont. are spending sometime at the home of Miss E. Porter. Miss Sharon Vance who is teaching school, near Perth, Ontario, spent the week-end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Vance.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Gray (nee Nancy Kennedy) who were married in Thomasburg United Church on Saturday, September 9, 1961, at 2.30 p.m. The couple will reside in Belleville.

CHURCH SERVICES

Divine Service took place on Sunday, September 10, in Christ Church (Anglican) at 3.30 a.m. with the Rev. Brown of Peterborough, as speaker. He will be in charge of the Parish of Roslin for the month of September.

In the afternoon at 2.30 p.m. service took place in the United Church, with a supply minister, occupying the pulpit in the absence of the pastor, Mr. George Dyson, who is expected to return home early next week, after enjoying a six weeks' holiday in England.

Frankford

FRANKFORD — Mr. Harold Maguire of Toronto spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Charlesworth.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Kolb and family, of Kitchener, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Stronge.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Smith and daughter, Donna Marie, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Don Thompson in Bailieboro.

Mr. and Mrs. Reg Solmes and baby daughter, Ruth, of Gaspe, Que., spent the weekend with Mrs. Mary Patrick and son, Richard.

Mr. Fred Charlesworth has returned home from Belleville General Hospital.

Mrs. J. Knechtel and son, Paul, of Kitchener, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Ed Stronge.

Miss Carolyn Reichert and Miss Sandra Pürvis spent Sunday afternoon in Peterborough.

Mrs. Blake Cox of Codrington and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Cox and family of Hilton visited Parker and Mrs. Reg Solmes and daughter, Ruth, and Mrs. Mary Patrick and son Richard, on Saturday evening.

Mr. David Stronge is attending Eastern Pentecostal Bible College in Peterborough.

Pastor Reg Solmes of Gaspe, Quebec, was the special speaker in Frankford Full Gospel Tabernacle, on Sunday.

Frankford Full Gospel Tabernacle choir assisted in Friday evening's service in Calvary Temple, Belleville, with the Lorne Fox evangelistic party. They sang "Until Then" and "Let Not Your Heart Be Troubled."

Miss Margaret Sine is attending Teachers' Training College in Peterborough.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hearns on the birth of a baby daughter in Trenton Memorial Hospital on Sunday, September 10th.

W. Coast City Growing at Alarming Rate

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's west coast metropolis of Vancouver, its population now past the three quarters-of-a-million mark—is expanding at an explosive clip of nearly 2,000 persons a month.

Preliminary figures issued today by the bureau of statistics show that Canada's third largest metropolitan area grew to 777,197 from 655,017 at the last census in June, 1956.

The city of Vancouver, however, only showed a moderate increase of 378,896 from the 1956 figure of 365,84, said the report the fourth preliminary survey of population counts from the June census.

Metropolitan Hamilton increased to 361,007 from 358,294 and London to 178,809 from 154,-453.

Within the city limits Hamilton grew to 278,793 from 259,031 and London to 168,818 from 101,-665.

Cities: Chatham 37,447 (37,282) Kingston 52,105 (48,618); North Bay 32,184 (31,080); Woodstock 10,130 (10,240).

Main towns: Ajax 7,709 (5,-623); Blind River 4,038 (3,632); Bowmanville 7,336 (6,544); Brampton 18,325 (12,387); Georgetown 10,150 (5,942); Ingersoll 6,774 (6,811); Kenora 10,707 10,-378; Leamington 8,566 (7,855); Simcoe 8,518 (8,078); Smiths Falls 9,984 (8,967); Trenton 12,-809 (11,492); Wallaceburg 7,790 (7,892).

Golfer Hits $10,000 Hole-in-One

SEATTLE (AP)—Bill Collins took the lead in the $55,000 Greater Seattle Open Thursday with a first-round 68—six-under-par — but the golfer with the triumphant smile was Miller Barber, who had a $10,000 hole-in-one.

Barber, who had never scored more than $818.66 in a tournament, scored his ace on the par-three seventh hole, where today's queries had offered $10,000 for the feat.

Al Balding of Toronto who shot a 68, was tied for second place with Dave Hill and Jacky Culpit.

Argos Forsake Platoons

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argonauts must forsake the luxury of a two-platoon system this weekend to master their best offensive and defensive forces in Edmonton and Vancouver, coach Lou Agase says.

Defensive regulars of the team such as Jimmy Rountree, Art Johnson and Stan Wallace will figure prominently in offensive play out West, Agase said.

Rountree will start as a right flanker. Last Sunday he scored his first professional touchdown on a spectacular 106-yard, pass-and-run play. Johnson will be a defensive starter. He will also be spotted on offence.

Wallace, the club's defensive captain, will be shuttled at end with Norman Sabjewcz, Gerry Philp and Wes Oldham. Agase said Bob Jewett also is a possibility.

To make room for Jewett on the active roster, Agase will reassign placed Harold Dukes on waivers.

18-Year-Old Doll Signs Long Contract With Warners

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Are stars born or made? My theory always has been that stars are born. Starlets are made.

Listen to the story of Mikki Jamison, an 18-year-old doll from Spokane, Wash., just signed to a seven-year contract by Warner Bros.

Mikki, of course, is beautiful. So are thousands of other girls around who have never made it —and never will. Mikki has had no previous professional experience—still she's a natural in Hollywood.

But how she got the contract gives a revealing insight into what makes a girl a born actress.

"Spokane," says Mikki, "is a city where girls follow a set pattern. They graduate from high school, go to college, get married and raise babies.

"The last theatrical person who ever came from Spokane was Bing Crosby — and you know how long ago that was. Spokane always has been different from the herd. I spent all my time reading movie news—not the usual bobby-sox way—but with a purpose. I knew from the start that I wanted to come to Hollywood.

"I dated boys in high school, I kissed them — all high school girls do—but always in the back of my mind I was doing it for research. I knew that I would have to play love scenes someday."

SCORNS COLLEGE

"My father wanted me to go to college. I argued my whole senior year. In high school against it.

"Finally, in desperation, my parents allowed me to enroll at the Pasadena Playhouse — not Hollywood — but closer than Spokane.

"I spent a semester there but it still wasn't Hollywood. I wrote home that here I was 'an old hag of 18 still in school' and not any nearer my goal than I was in Spokane.

"So I moved to Hollywood in the Studio Club, got an agent. He took me out to Warners where I read for the casting people.

"I was taken to William Orr's office where I read again before a whole roundful of Warner brass. Everything went fine. I knew my reading was good. Mr. Orr said: 'We'll take an option on you.' I had to ask someone what that meant as it was one term I didn't quite know the meaning of.

Orr, vice president in charge of production, soon exercised the option and signed her. Orr is betting that she will make it. In a classic of understatement, he says: "I like her drive."

BC Coach Wants New Referees

PORT CREDIT (CP) — Bill Dickinson, hard-rock coach of Burnaby Novaras, wants a new set of referees for tonight's game against Hastings Legionaires in the Canadian lacrosse final.

The best-of-seven series for the Minto Cup is deadlocked 1-1.

Dickinson said after Wednesday night's game that he had just witnessed "the worst exhibition of refereeing I've seen all year."

Hastings won 12-11 as officials handed out 86 minutes in penalties, 48 to the Legionaires.

"I have the right to ask for different referees," Dickinson fumed. "and I'm going to do it."

Burnaby took the first game 13-11 and, with a single goal over - all separating the two clubs, tonight's game could go to the team with the best touch. That would appear to be Burnaby.

Hastings coach Cy Coomb reported that Ken Ruttan, one of his best defencemen, will be out for the rest of the series with a leg infection. Grant Coleman, who missed Wednesday's game because of a charleyhorse, may be back in action but there's a question as to whether he'll be at full speed. Dickie probably will miss at least one game after being struck in the eye by a ball.

CANADIAN VETERAN

Kenmors Meet Kingston Here Sunday

The Belleville Kenmors will play host to Kingston at the Fairgrounds here Sunday afternoon at 2.30 in the first game of the OBA Eastern Ontario Junior "A" Major finals.

It is understood that the teams are using the OBA to make the series a three-of-five affair rather than the usual two-of-three.

The winner of this series will advance into the all-Ontario finals. The Kenmors are the defending champs.

In Western Ontario, Oshawa and Hamilton are meeting in one series while Windsor and Chatham are clashing in another. The winners of these two series will meet and that winner will take on either Belleville or Kingston for the Ontario title.

It is believed that the manager of the four teams will play in Western Ontario, the two remaining Eastern teams should be allowed a longer series, rather than being forced to get, and set for the three game winner.

The Kenmors will start their strongest lineup Sunday in an attempt to get an early lead over their Kingston opponents. Larry Soden will likely pitch for the Belleville squad.

Rain Halts Net Games

TORONTO (CP) — Whitney Reed, ranked 29-year-old trickster from Alameda, Calif., is taking his sixth crack at the Canadian tennis championships—a tournament which has stood sturdy ebded him.

Reed, who was going his best Kek—"this year is the best chance I've had at winning," he said—and it raised.

Reed, third - seeded in the men's singles, showed more flash than in any of his previous matches in this tournament as he took Mike Carpenter 6-2 in the first set and was leading 5-4 when the clouds burst. completed of the 22 rebedded.

Only three matches were completed Ann Haydon of Birmingham, England, seeded first in the women's singles, and Vancouver's 16-year-old Vicki Berner 6-1, 6-2 to move into the quarter finals.

Toronto's Louise Brown, unseeded in the tournament, scored a mild upset over Shirley Hart of Montreal, 6-3, 6-2 to move into the semi-finals.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Back in 1886 when I covered the subway world series in New York, I discovered that a Gotham fan had to be one thing or the other. He was a "Bum" addict on the Ebbet's Field side of the river or a Yankee gentleman in the Bronx area. The "Lyrix" weren't mentioned.

No fan who lived in the fragrant aura of the Gowanus and was a bona fide member of the Flatbush soda bistros, ever tainted his mouth with a kind word for the Yankees or the guys from Coogan's Bluff. That was sheer dam treason.

For pure audacity there was the caper of the Times 'Square colored shoeshine boy. On his stand he had a large sign, "No Yankee Fans Served."

Now there are strange sounds emanating from the Yankee dugout. No longer do the figures on the American League scoreboard interest them. They glue their optics on those of the senior circuit.

And if their once hated and despised foemen from Flatbush now playing in Los Angeles, come up with a victory in Dixieland, half-choked cheer guttorals through the place. Likewise if the Cincy Reds lose. If they win something like greans seep through Yankee lips.

It isn't because the Bronx Bombers think the ex-Brooklyn are a more talented club than the Reds. Nor is it because they think they would gain far more prestige from a world series victory than by beating the Dodgers.

No sir! Those dam Yankees are plain money hungry.

Los Angeles has a seating capacity of more than 90,000. Cincinnati can accommodate 30,000 providing a lot of them are on the slim side. Furthermore this year is baseball's last shot at a monstrous payday because the Dodgers will move next year from the huge O'Malley Alley to neat, but tidy, Chavez Ravine.

Since they're practically a shoo-in for the American League pennant and the world series loot, the Yankees have now a Three-M working for them, Maris, Mantle and Money.

Playing their former Ebbet's Field foemen rather than the Redlegs would mean at least $3,000 extra for each ex-Stengelese. Both winning and losing shares would set records. Hence the Yankee cheers for the former "Bums." But they're wasting their breaths. It looks like a matter of time for Cincy to win their first pennant since 1940 when they went on to whip the Detroit Tigers for the world series title.

A Reds-Yankee world series reunion will be the first since 1939 but the Reds don't like the memories. The Bombers polished 'em off in four straight that year as a brawny freshman, Charlie Keller, knocked 'em nearly as daffy as the Dodgers of the era.

Now it looks like the Yanks and Reds again. Someone speaking on the subject of world series loot the other day asked if the Los Angeles seating capacity being what it is would not the Reds get as big a world series share from inflated Los Angeles receipts by finishing second as they would from winning and having to play in their own park.

The answer is "No." Second-place teams rarely get as much as $2,000 per man. If the Reds win the series they will earn approximately $8,000 apiece. If they lose it will be around $5,000. Hence a Redlegs pennant will not shortchange the Cincinnati team. It will only shortchange the Yankees.

Tonight, Tony Marino, the agile, good-looking young Italian, takes on the pudgy "The Great Kado" in the main effort in Memorial Arena. The fast-moving Marino should take this one as he should be able to dance rings around the semi-massive bloke. Unless, of course, Kado brings in reinforcements from outside. Roughie Stan Stasiak takes on 300-pound Gino Marello in what could steal the show, while Tony Mannis tangles with Pateo Flanagan.

Lose Twice To Chisox

By VIKE RATHET

Babe Ruth can catch Roger Maris tonight.

That's the situation that faces Maris for the first time this season as he moves his assault on the Bambino's home run record over to Detroit, where the American League - leading New York Yankees will be trying to clinch their 11th pennant in 13 years.

Teammate Mickey Mantle, with 53 homers, said after the White Sox twin - bill that he was "about ready to give up. I don't see how I can make it now. I haven't got a chance now - even in 162 games."

Maris, who must hit four homers in the Yankees' next seven decisions to tie or break the Babe's mark under the 154-decision limit imposed by Commissioner Ford Frick, probably will face Ron Kline (6-9) and Don Mossi (14-6).

The Yankees, needing any combination of six victories and-or Detroit defeats to win their first pennant under rookie manager Ralph Houk, will open with Whitey Ford (22-3) and follow with Bill Daley (11-8) and the four - game series gets under way.

In the only other AL game, Los Angeles Angels beat Minnesota Twins 5-4 in the opener of a double header, losing the night cap 3-2.

The White Sox snapped the Yankees' 13 - game winning streak, their sixth of the season, when Floyd Robinson smacked a two - run homer and Jim Landis hit a three - run shot off rookie Rollie Sheldon (9-5) in the first inning. Ray Herbert (10-12) won it with relief help from Billy Pierce and Warren Hacker in the last two innings.

The Yankees took a 3-0 lead in the seventh inning of the nightcap on Elston's Howard's two - run homer, singles by Bill Skowron and Hec Lopez and a Clete Boyer's sacrifice fly. But the White Sox scored three in the ninth after two were out to bang the first defeat on relief specialist Luis Arroyo since June 19.

Arroyo (14-4) winner of 12 in a row, came on in the eighth when Jim Coates tired, and retired the side after giving up a run - scoring double to Landis. With one on and two out in the ninth, Arroyo wrapped it up as Robinson walked and Minnie Minoso, pinch hitter Sherm Lollar and Al Smith sliced. Russ Kemmerer (3-3) got the win.

Wayne Causey slammed a home run for the Athletics and saved Bob Shaw (11-12) with a diving stop of John Wood's liner in the eighth for an inning - ending double play that silenced the Tigers after they had one run in and two men on. Dick Brown drove in both Detroit runs with a single before Causey's play and a seventh - inning six - hitter by Shaw (jacked 10-10) was the loser.

Ted Bonda, the Angels' left - hander from Pentelton, B.C., held Minnesota to five hits, struck out seven and didn't walk a man in the eight innings he started before giving way to a pinch - hitter in the opener, nailing down his 10th victory against six defeats. Paul Wagner's run - producing single and George Thomas' sacrifice fly wrapped it up in the first Jim Kaat countered with a three - hitter in the nightcap to make his record 8-15. Leonie Green's triple, Joe Allison's single and an error chased two Minnesota runs home in the seventh to put the loss on Ken McBride (12-13).

Defeat Pirates, Reds Idle

'Duke' Keeps Dodger Hopes Alive

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Staff Writer

Duke Snider, 35 - year - old grey - haired veteran among a talented group of fuzzy-cheeked youngsters, has kept alive Los Angeles Dodgers' flickering hopes of overtaking Cincinnati Reds in the National League pennant scramble.

Snider did it with a three-run shot - hit homer in the last of the ninth that beat Pittsburgh Pirates 5-4 Thursday night and moved the second-place Dodgers within five games of the league - leading Reds, who were idle.

Snider, who compiled a .301 lifetime average in his 14 previous seasons in the majors, now has hit safely in 16 of the last 15 games and brought his average up to .280. The homer was his 20th of the year and the 382nd of his career. He is the No. 8 man on the all - time home run list.

The Dodger victory left the Reds' magic number at nine. Any combination of nine Cincinnati victories and Dodger defeats will give the Reds their first flag since 1940.

Wes Covington opened the scoring in the 10th inning game for Philadelphia Phillies as he drove over San Francisco and dropped the Giants into fourth place behind the idle Milwaukee Braves, St. Louis Cardinals and Los Angeles Dodgers from Chicago Cubs, 8-7 and 6-5 in 11 innings.

The Dodgers began shooting up when Ron Fairly singled, Wally Moon walked and Frank Howard chased reliever Clem Labine with a run - producing single. Elroy Face came in, tagged out Tommy Davis on a sacrifice play, then got two strikes by Snider before Duke sent one over the right field fence.

That gave the win to Ed Roebuck, his first against no losses since his recent return to the active list. Face, who was making his 28th appearance is 6-10.

Covington's second homer won it for Phils' starter John Buzhardt (6-16) and tagged Dick Lemay (3-4) with the loss after the Giants had tied it 7-7 in the ninth on Willie Mays' 38th homer, with one on. Covington's home run is the first inning followed a two - run shot by Tony Gonzales before 4,328 fans, the smallest San Francisco home crowd since they moved west in 1958.

Stan Musial stroked three hits including a two - run homer in the opener for the Cards, who got the victory for Ed Bauta (5-0) when a passed ball on a Barney Schultz (7-5) pitch let in a run in the ninth. Ken Boyer, climaxing a 7-for-11 performance in the two twin bill, won the nightcap for Craig Anderson (4-3) with a homer in the 11th off Don Elston (6-7) after doubling home the tying run in the ninth.

Won't Move Them Up

M-Boys Strictly On Own

DETROIT (AP) — New York Ford Frick stood firm on his ruling that Maris or Mantle must break Ruth's record within the 154 - game schedule if they hope to be recognized as having shattered the mark. He spoke out after Joe Cronin, president of the American League, said that, if either one of the men hits 61 homers in the regulation 162-game schedule, the feat must be regarded as a new record.

"You don't break the 100-metre record in the 100 - yard dash," Frick said. "There'll be two records — The most home runs in a 162 game schedule and the most home runs in a 154 - game schedule."

The Mantle - Maris chase, setting attendance marks, is bringing thousands of dollars into the coffers of American League clubs. The Yankees are outdrawing the other nine teams so much as 2½ to 1 and their home attendance already is the highest since 1951.

Houk acknowledged today he had given thought to placing Maris in the leadoff spot and Mantle right behind him once the Yankees clinched the American League pennant. After declaring the matter for several days Houk decided against the move, which would have given the sluggers several additional times at bat.

"All reason and logic tell me not to do it," said the freshman manager. "Nobody is more anxious than I for them to break the record. By the same token, I don't think they should receive any special favors."

Mantle and Maris have been the ground Thursday, failing to hit a home run as Chicago White Sox swept a doubleheader, 8-3 and 4-3 at Comiskey Park.

IS ONLY ONE AHEAD

Maris, with 58 homers in 148 games (including one tie), is only one ahead of Ruth's record pace of 1927 and must hit four in the next seven decisions to tie the Bambino's mark in the 154-decision allotment decreed by Commissioner Ford Frick. Mantle, limited to home runs, fell five games' back of the Babe.

Mantle said in Chicago Thursday night he's about ready to throw in the towel in his chase of the record.

Mantle described himself as tired and "without that sting in my step or swing." He spoke after failing to hit a home run in New York Yankees' three-game series against Chicago White Sox.

"I don't see how I can make it now," he said. "When we came in Chicago, I decided I'd have a chance if I could hit a couple here. They stopped me cold. I haven't got a chance now — even in 162 games."

Kingston To Erect Hall-of-Fame

KINGSTON (CP) — Tenders were called Thursday for construction of an international Hockey Hall of Fame here—culmination of 22 years of planning and fund raising.

The hall will be built at the community centre and plans call for a 250-seat auditorium. Chycoucuit Construction Limited grabbed $35,000 to work and construction, bringing the total to $155,000.

A $500,000 Hockey Hall of Fame, financed by six National Hockey League clubs, was opened at the Canadian National Exhibition grounds last month by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

World Series Opens Oct. 4

CHICAGO (AP) — The world series will open Oct. 4 in the stadium of the American League Pennant winner — presumably New York Yankees—if Cincinnati Redlegs take the National League title.

The series will begin in the same place—but one day later—if Los Angeles Dodgers spurt to the National League championship.

The arrangements were announced Thursday by Commissioner Ford Frick.

Yankees and Redlegs were authorized to print tickets.

The CBC Sunday launches nation-wide NFL schedule for its English-speaking network with the Detroit Lions - Green Bay Packers game. Fourteen regular season games are slated to run to Dec. 17 with one final game to be televised Dec. 31.

New Coach Fails to Click

Blue Bombers Twist BC Lions' Tail

WINNIPEG (CP)—British Columbia Lions proved Thursday night they can lose football games no matter who is coaching.

The coast club went down to defeat Blue Bombers 26-15 in a spirited Western Conference game before a crowd of 26,615 at Winnipeg Stadium.

The loss kept B.C.'s winless record intact, a situation the directors hoped to change by eliminating Robinson.

The Lions gave Winnipeg a rough time in the first half and were down only 12-8 halfway through the game. But they faded thereafter as Winnipeg scored nine points in the last quarter.

The bright spot for B.C. was elusive halfback Willie Fleming who scored both his club's touchdowns on dazzling runs.

The Lions drew a 35-yard dash around end on a fake pass play and the second on an 80-yard Tom Hoyard pass - and - run play.

ATTACK FADES

With recent arrival Joe Kapp at quarterback, the B.C. passing attack faded badly in the second half.

For Winnipeg Kenny Ploen handled the club's quarterback and ran over two touchdowns in the process.

Fullback Roger Hagberg plunged over for two more and the fifth and the final Winnipeg touchdown went to End Jerry Fanelli on a pass from Ploen. Gerry James kicked 3 field goal and three converts to complete the Winnipeg scoring. Vic Mickforge kicked two converts and a single for B.C.

Winnipeg had a wide statistical edge over B.C., 25 to 17 in first downs, 201 yards to 141 on ground and 201 to 141 on aerial ground.

The win moved Winnipeg within two points of the league-leading Edmonton Eskimos.

Hoyard, Tom Hinton and Tom Brown both suffered knee injuries. Coach Skrien said Hinton and Brown are his two best linemen. Hinton's injury was believed serious.

Winnipeg back Dick Thornton, used as a kicker, suffered a broken jaw.

Meet Stamps, Eskimos

Tigers, Argos Invade West

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The unbeaten Hamilton Tiger-Cats and the in-and-out Toronto Argonauts launch their last eastern invasion of the interlocking Canadian Football League schedule Saturday.

The Tiger-Cats, last of the undefeated by virtue of their 33-29 home victory over Edmonton Eskimos—Monday, visit Calgary Stampeders while the Argos, with two victories to show in five starts, try their luck against the Eskimos at Edmonton.

At Montreal, the winless Alouettes entertain Ottawa Roughriders in an Eastern Conference game.

On Monday Hamilton takes on Saskatchewan Roughriders, while Argos visit the luckless British Columbia Lions, who have yet to win a contest. Lions lost 26-15 Thursday night to Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

This will be the last swing through the West by eastern teams, in the interlocking schedule. Calgary goes east at the end of September to wind up the East-West schedule.

In the 12 contests between the WFC and the Eastern Conference so far, each circuit has won six times and one game ended in a tie.

Hamilton makes its first trip West without star halfback Ralph Goldston, who bruised his foot in the game against Edmonton. Possible replacements are halfback-end Tommy Moran or defensive halfback Garney Henley. New halfback Larry Hickman, recently cut by Green Bay Packers of the National Football League, may see some action.

Stampeder coach Bobby Dobbs watched three games of Hamilton games early in the week and came away impressed. "They're good," he said. "We have quite a job on our hands Saturday."

Dobbs will go with the same squad that knocked British Columbia Lions a 33-17 defeat last Saturday night.

Jackie Simpson or Ernie Danjean was favored to play the linebeck spot alongside Wayne Harris. Dobbs is expected to re-introduce veteran tackle Lorne Reid to the lineup as backstop for Don Luzzi, who frequently needs relief for his sore leg in a tough game. Argonaut coach Lou Agnone says he will bring such dependable hotshots as halfbacks Jim Rountree and Art Johnson and linebacker Stan Wallace on the offensive attack.

Injuries present a dull picture for Edmonton, All-star defensive halfback Bill Smith and fullback Mike Lashuk will be out with knee and shoulder injuries respectively.

Toronto goes on to Vancouver Monday night to play the Lions who Wednesday night failed to gain a victory for the seventh straight time in losing 26-15 to Winnipeg Blue Bombers. Hamilton Tiger-Cats go to Regina to play the hatchetwan Roughriders the same night.

Chuck Stanley, a three-year veteran with Sarnia Imperials and the Ontario Rugby Football Union's most valuable player last season, will make his debut in the Ottawa backfield. The Riders will have halfback Ron Stewart back in action but will probably have to do without Ernie White, Davie West and Ron Kerr.

Why Not Bring the Band Too?

With the help of yesterday's rainfall, the Joyce Real Estate-Cobourg series has once again been thrown into confusion.

The rain forced a postponement of last night's scheduled third game of the series here, and no other dates have been set.

Joyce manager Bill Shaw said he had questioned Cobourg's Bob Neill about coming here for the game Saturday night. Neill had replied that his club could not play Saturday because "a couple of my players have to play in the band that night."

The fourth game was scheduled for Cobourg Saturday night but Neill said he had had to change that game until Monday. This Neill announced after last night's postponement here, naturally.

So, for the umpteenth time, no one seems to know what Happens next. The only thing definite is that the next home game is Joyces.

TENTED CITY SITE — This 40-acre field on the Vermilyea farm will be the site of the tented city for the International Plowing Match. Picture shows plowing match official going over plans for the tented city as hydro crewmen set service poles in the background. Left to right are: Hastings county plowing match committee chairman Sidney MacDonald, Alston Campbell, Burford, president of the Ontario Plowman's Association, and Arthur Vermilyea on whose farm the match is being held.

Northport

NORTHPORT — Mrs. Jay Belnap, Mrs. Lewis Grier and Lorie were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Redditt and family, Wooler.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Norton were Friday supper guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. Cornell, Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kolcheyaw were Friday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Van Alstine, Trent Road.

Miss Muriel Foster called on Miss Thelma Robinson and Mrs. L. Robinson on Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Keep, Debbie and Martin, Toronto spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Jim Lindsay and Rickey.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Collier, Toronto have purchased the former Herb Gerow home.

Mrs. Graham Gale and Mrs. Wayne Webber were co-hostesses at the former's home for a "Farewell Party" in honor of Miss Elaine Mellett who entered Toronto General Hospital as nurse-in-training on Friday evening last. There were 13 friends present and they presented Elaine with a travel clock. A social time followed and delicious refreshments were served.

Mrs. Beith Barber spent last week with Mr. Bill Sprague and girls, Big Island. Mrs. B. Sprague and baby Jill arrived home from Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital, on Friday.

Mrs. Bill Wills, Belleville called on Mrs. G. Hough on Sunday afternoon.

IN COLLEGE AT 12

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (AP)—Mrs. Sylvia Kerr took her son, Lance, 12, to register Thursday at the University of California at Los Angeles. Lance, who graduated from high school last June, plans to complete his undergraduate work and gain at least one graduate degree in physics. UCLA said he is the youngest student ever to enroll there.

Preparations for Plowing Match Swing Into High Gear

With less than three weeks remaining before the October 4-5-6-7 dates for the big International Plowing Match three miles north of the city, local and provincial committee officials have swung operations into high gear to get everything in readiness for the big plowing event.

The International Plowing Match is to be held on the Vermilyea and Knight farms on the 4th concession of Thurlow township and west of No. 14 highway.

The big "tented city" which will house the dozens of booths and concessions to be set up at the match has been staked out and this week telephone and hydro crews are busy setting poles to carry service to the area.

A minimum of 100,000 persons is expected to attend the match being held for the first time in the Belleville area. Local hotel and motel accommodation is heavily booked to take care of match visitors, while church and other groups have long been lined up to provide hot meals for the visitors.

2 YEARS OF PLANNING

General chairman of the Hastings county Plowing Match committee is Dr. J. Russell Scott of Belleville. The local committee have been planning for the match for the past two years. General vice-chairman is Horace Knight with Agricultural Representative Sidney MacDonald as secretary and Ben Bleecker as treasurer.

Executive committee members include Harry Pound, reeve of Thurlow township, Jack McArthur, Belleville, Melville Hill, Deseronto, Norway Maracle, Shannonville and Griffin Ketcheson of Foxboro.

Fifteen Belleville and district men have been named to head up special local committees.

This week officials of the Ontario Plowman's Association headed by President Alston Campbell of Burford in Western Ontario, are in the city directing the layout for the plowing match site and for the 20-acre tented city.

Golf Marathon Nets Winner Small Bet

SYDNEY (AP) — Golfer Peter Bowen accepted a £5 ($31.30) bet that he could play a golf ball 10½ miles along a country road from Curlewis to Coonabula in fewer than 300 strokes.

Penalties for lost balls and out of bounds were to be counted. Out of bounds was over the fences that skirt the road.

Bowen, 26, holed out at Gunnedah Oval in 198. His marker, Garry Lorkoer, 17, took only 102 strokes.

"Most of our time was spent looking for lost balls," Bowen said.

Senate Adjourns

OTTAWA (CP)—Faced with a blank order paper, the Senate met briefly and adjourned Thursday until Sept. 26, after paying tribute to two senators who died during Parliament's summer recess, Liberal Senators William Euler and Joseph Bradette.

Senator Walter Aseltine government leader, described Senator Euler as a great Canadian. He said the Kitchener Senator had made a major contribution to Canada's progress during the 44 years he served as a member of the Commons and senate. Senator Euler was minister of trade in the Mackenzie King cabinet.

Senator Aseltine said that Senator Bradette, from Cochrane, served 35 years as a member of the Commons and the Senate. He had made a major contribution to the development of Northern Ontario and had played a major role in the Commons in international affairs.

BRIGHT BIRDS

The macaws, vividly-colored birds of Central and South America, are the largest of the parrot species.

Crofton

CROFTON — Mr. and Mrs. Jerold Bongard and girls, of Picton, called on Mrs. Victor Bongard and Miss Gertrude Walmsley, on Monday evening.

The W.A. met at the home of Mrs. E. Crook on Wednesday afternoon and next meeting will be at Mrs. John Aitken's home.

Mr. D. B. Munro spent Thursday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Vangeesen, at Glenora.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hutson spent Sunday with their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Hutson at Roslin.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Salisbury and Mrs. Charles Haight of Belleville, were Sunday guests of their sister, Mrs. E. Crook.

The Harvest Home service will be held on Sunday evening, Sept. 17th at eight o'clock with special music by the Barbershop quartets of Belleville. There'll be a welcome for all.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lefort and family spent the weekend at Patterson Lake.

RUSSIAN ROCKET

Soviet astronauts into space.

In a series early last year the Russians claimed one multi-stage rocket landed within 1.24 miles of its target 7,760 miles from the launching pad. In the summer of 1960 the Russians claimed to have hit close to the target 8,078 miles from the launching pad.

The United States has fired super Atlas rockets at distances of 9,000 miles, from Cape Canaveral, Fla., past the south tip of Africa, but has no close-mouthed about accuracy.

Tass said Thursday night the Russian rocket test was a success, with flight and operation of all stages conforming completely with the set program.

TESTING TRIGGERS?

Some scientists have suggested that the Russians are testing devices for triggering a 100,000,000-ton super bomb which Soviet Premier Khrushchev has said he would build.

Weather bureau specialists estimated Thursday that about half the low-altitude fallout from the Russian nuclear series will fall to earth within the next month.

The U.S. public health service said fallout detection stations at Salt Lake City, Utah, and Boise, Idaho, have reported increases in atmospheric radiation.

But, the agency said, "are not considered significant from a health standpoint" and are far below readings recorded at the stations during and after the 1957-8 nuclear weapons tests.

WOOD FACINGS LEND ATTRACTIVE APPEARANCE TO HOMES. This beautiful house is an example of how the use of wood facings in different widths, designs and color combinations helps today's builder to escape the monotony which always threatens a large housing development.

Firesafe Concrete Provides For Maximum Safety

Canada's annual losses in life and property through fire damage are causing concern to national, provincial and local governments. Because of our climate, which makes it essential to heat our homes more than half of each year, it is up to every Canadian to exercise every precaution against fire.

Choose a home built with firesafe materials for initial protection. Concrete brick or block walls, precast concrete floor and roof decks provide maximum safety, as none of the ingredients in concrete — sand and gravel, cement and water — will burn.

A concrete refuse burner is easy to build and a safe, convenient way to dispose of leaves and trash. The fire is contained and cannot be spread by the wind in a structure properly planned and built.

Next to a home, a car is usually a family's most expensive possesion and it too should be built of firesafe materials.

If the garage is attached it should be considered part of the house when checking against fire hazards. No oily waste or other inflammable material should be stored there.

Barbecues should also be taken into consideration as potential fire hazards. They should be located as far away from the house as possible, where sparks will not be dangerous.

An excellent barbecue can be constructed with concrete block by any handyman, and it can be as simple or as elaborate as the builder wishes. A chimney-makes the barbecue safer, and chimney block with a flu hole are available from any block massfacturer.

On the farm, where fire hazards are often greater due to inadequacy of water supply and fire fighting equipment, all buildings should be built of firesafe materials.

Concrete is often used for this purpose because of its fire protection qualities as well as its ease of maintenance and cleaning, protection against rodents and insects, and greater stability against wind and storm damage.

APPROVE STRIKE FUND

MONTREAL (CP)—Delegates at the annual convention of the International Stereotypers and Electrotypers Union of North America Wednesday approved a motion to levy special assessments to build a $1,000,000 strike fund. The proposition now will be referred for ratification to the 14,500 members in Canada and the United States in a December referendum.

HOLD SUSPECT

MONTREAL (CP) — Police said Wednesday night they were holding a 24 - year - old man in connection with the scratching of paintings described as "valuable" by the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts. The museum said the man, a student, was "frustrated because he had failed to win a scholarship in art." Police refused to reveal the man's name.

Select Builder With Care

Planning on building a home?

If you are, take a word of advice and select your house builder with the same care you would a doctor or dentist. Your builder is a key man in carrying out one of the most important decisions of your life. How well he does his job can have a great influence on your future happiness.

When you hire a builder you are really engaging the services of a first class manager, who will be responsible for turning your dream home into reality and not a living nightmare. Constructing a home is no simple task — ask the do-it-yourself type who has tried.

A good builder is familiar with construction codes and able to assist you in selecting suitable building materials. In addition, he must obtain necessary building permits and hire skilled tradesmen to do the wiring, plumbing, roofing, plastering and painting. Another phase of his job is supervising the construction and assuring that material and labor arrive on the site at the proper time so that you may benefit from a well-planned operation. Needless construction delays due to poor scheduling cost money.

How do you secure a good builder?

Obviously you are not likely to find a dependable man by just picking a name at random from a telephone directory. Your architect, if you have one, or your lawyer can advise you and many people know a friend who has gone through the home building process and is able to help.

Another good source is the local branch of the National House Builders Association. All NHBA builder members subscribe to a Code of Ethics which assures home buyers of their reliability and sound performance. The NHBA builder's reputation is also an excellent guide if you are planning to buy a home already completed for sale. The Association branch office will supply a list of builder members on request.

AFRICAN LAKE

Lake Nyasa in East Africa, most southerly of Africa's large lakes, is 360 miles long and up to 70 miles wide.

CHMC Home-Owner Loans Supplement Lenders' Loans

National Housing Act mortgage loans for new home construction are usually obtained from approved lenders, such as banks, life insurance and trust and loan companies. These loans are insured by Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation, the Federal housing agency, to protect lenders' investments in NHA mortgages. But CMHC is also empowered to make loans for home-owners' housing where loans are not available from approved lenders.

CMHC loans are made to prospective home owners and to builders. Builders must provide written evidence that the houses they intend to build have been pre-sold to bonafide purchasers.

Before applying for a CMHC loan, the prospective home-owner or builder must first apply for an NHA insured loan. Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation cannot lend in large centres unless the borrower produces written evidence that he has tried to obtain an insured loan from at least two lenders, including the bank or insurance company with which he normally does business. In smaller centres and in rural area, where lending facilities may be limited, written evidence must be produced of at least one attempt to obtain an insured loan.

As in the case of an NHA insured loan, a prospective home-owner borrower from CMHC must have a satisfactory credit rating and be capable of meeting the financial obligations of the mortgage loan. The annual mortgage charges for principal and interest plus municipal taxes should not be greater than 27 per cent of the gross income of the borrower.

The applicant must be able to provide the difference between the amount of the loan and the total cost of the house. CMHC requires evidence that the borrower is providing, from his own resources, at least five per cent of the total value of the house and land. This equity may be in the form of cash, or a combination of cash, land and labor.

Since loan advances are made as construction progresses, it is necessary for the applicant to submit evidences of the availability of interim financing, if the applicant is to act as his own contractor, evidences such as letters of credit from a bank or suppliers must be submitted. Where the applicant employs a contractor, a letter is required from the contractor acknowledging that he understands that he will be a holdback of 10 per cent of the value of work completed until expiry of the mechanics' lien period.

Financial terms of CMHC loans are the same as loans made by approved lenders, and may be as high as $14,000 for a one-family dwelling at the current interest rate of 6¾ per cent. Repayment is made in convenient monthly instalments, generally over 25 years.

The term may be extended to 35 years where the borrower would be required to use more than 27 per cent of his gross income to meet monthly payments.

For every $1,000 of loan at an interest rate of 6¾ per cent, the monthly payment in interest and principal is about $7.35 over 20 years, $6.85 over 25 years and $6.10 over a 35 year period. One-twelfth of the estimated annual taxes must be added to determine the total monthly payment.

An application for a direct CMHC loan must be approved before construction of the house is started. It cannot be approved if work has proceeded beyond the bare excavation stage.

See Prefabricated Homes Assembled on Factory Line Cutting Costs by 1970

Imagine trading in your bathtub for one of a new color and decorative pattern to fit in with redecoration of your bathroom.

. . . Or heating your house through wall panels which are painted or papered to be exactly like the rest of the wall surfaces.

. . . Or enjoy a heating-and-cooling system which kills germs and bacteria automatically and makes dusting unnecessary.

These and many other surprising developments are not the fantasies of a science fiction writer, but the careful prediction of an expert on the future of the plumbing, heating and air conditioning field. What's more, he says these predictions will come true not in your great-grandchildren's time but in less than a decade from now — 1970.

As Director of Research for American - Standard, world-wide manufacturers of plumbing, heating and air-conditioning, John T. Burwell, Jr. conducts probing explorations into the future for the corporation's major product lines. He works closely with the research groups of American-Standard Products (Canada) Limited whose four Canadian plants supply much of the demand for this line of products in Canada.

Bright New World: The sum of his forecasts seems to be a picture of a bright new world. Besides a striking series of new product developments that bedazzles the imagination, Dr. Burwell's forecasts seem to be characterized by trends toward home equipment that is lighter, more attractive, far more functional . . . and even less expensive in terms of present-day dollars and value received.

In providing a preview of housing equipment in 1970, Dr. Burwell starts by pointing out that authorities agree we will then have a truly prefabricated house. Substantial cost savings will result when principal components of the home are assembled in a plant production line with a minimum of construction labor on the site.

Describing this trend to prefabrication as "a revolution in the building industry," Dr. Burwell explains that it results from two factors: The continent's "population explosion" and the trend toward the large builder. Officials of the National Home Builders Association say this trend is recognized in the U.S. where one percent of the builders construct a third of all the homes — where a full two-thirds of the houses are built by only 10 percent of the builders, and all the remaining 90 percent build only a third of the houses.

Dr. Burwell points out that this trend will continue and these large builders will have sufficient resources to research and develop prefabricating methods and products, and/or to cause building manufacturers to produce factory-built house components.

This new pattern of home-building is expected to bring many benefits to the home-owner. "Granted," Dr. Burwell says, "the prefabricated house of the future may look and be quite different from the traditional concepts of what a house and home should be. However, through the resulting cost saving it will provide better housing for many more people than can presently afford it, and the resulting market will far exceed the present one, which is impressive enough.

It is against this backdrop of prefabricated housing that the stage is set for Dr. Burwell's dramatic assessment of the future of the plumbing, heating and air-conditioning field. "First," he says, "there will probably be a mechanical core containing most of the utilities which would be assembled in the factory, trucked to the site, and simply put in place. This core would probably contain the boiler, furnace and air-conditioner — or whatever the source of heating and cooling is by that time. It would probably contain the water and drain outlets for the bathroom fixtures, the kitchen sink, and so on, leaving only the connection of these units to be done at the site."

LIGHTER PLUMBING FIXTURES

Dr. Burwell predicts that the best characteristics of today's plumbing fixtures will be retained while greatly reducing their weight through use of a production material, as yet unknown, which is intermediate between today's plastics and ceramics.

"This will reduce on-site labor installations and furthermore," he adds, with a casualness that belongs only to the far-seeing, "they will be so installed that they can be cheaply and easily replaced at intervals.

"For instance, bathtubs will come in a variety of colors and patterns and the housewife will replace them whenever she redecorates the bathroom."

AIR-CONDITIONING WALLS

In the field of heating and air-conditioning, Dr. Burwell foresees the necessary equipment fitting in functionally with the rest of the decor. For instance, both heating and cooling would be provided through panels which are a regular part of the wall construction and are painted or papered the same as the rest of the wall surface. (And these same panels may light the area through self-contained means).

The theory behind these panels will be the recently-developed thermo - electric principle which allows either heating or cooling by simply reversing the direction of the D.C. (direct current) flow by flicking a switch. The heating may be primarily radiant in character and provided electrically. The cooling will be free of condensation because of controls on humidity.

All of this is based on the expected widespread use of prefabricated homes, but Dr. Burwell says the heating and cooling systems may be, even more startling in those homes which continue to be more or less custom-built and can afford the ultimate in comfort.

"To begin with," he says, "the inside air environment will be completely controlled at all times to provide perfect human comfort. For instance, we can already provide complete control of indoor temperature for optimum comfort today in both winter and summer for those who want it. By 1970, air cooling in summer will be universal.

"Control of humidity will come next, and after that, control of dust and germs. It should be possible to almost completely eliminate the periodic dusting of floors and furniture which is so familiar to us today. This will all be collected in a central dust collector which will be emptied very infrequently.

"The same system or a related one will also remove airborne germs and bacteria. This is done to a limited extent in hospital rooms today, but by 1970 it will be extended to ordinary houses, and other living quarters."

Healthy Air For Homes: But Dr. Burwell points out that removing germs is a negative health measure, whereas 1970 may see some positive benefits such as air treated to give an increased feeling of health and well-being. "For instance," he says, "it has been found that the most refreshing and comfortable outdoor air generally contains a certain amount of negative ions (or electrically-charged groups of atoms). When air has an excess of positive ions, it has the reverse effect — depressing, irritating to the nasal passages, and so on. If this is the case, it should be readily possible to treat the air so as to maintain the optimum concentration of negative ions and any other constituents found to contribute to health and comfort."

Dr. Burwell's list goes on and on. In the American-Standard range of products are such inventions such other things as the growing use of snow-melting systems for driveways and sidewalks and of home swimming pools with their necessary general plumbing, water heaters, filtration system and circulating pump, etc.

But a Director of Research is by the very nature of his profession a man with an open mind. And so, with new developments frequently emerging in American-Standard plants the world over and being broadcast to supplement the knowledge of all other plants, Dr. Burwell realistically points out that by 1970, "there will undoubtedly be other systems to provide other services broadly, contributing to human comfort of which we cannot even conceive today.

QUALITY HOMES BY MAURICE H. ROLLINS CONSTRUCTION LTD.

These handsome semi-detached houses employ aluminum clapboard siding, which is being used increasingly in new construction. The siding gained immediate popularity two years ago when it was introduced to Canada as a renovating material.

Aluminun Renovation Boom Covers New Construction

Aluminum clapboard siding, which has gained increasing popularity in Canada's house renovating field since its introduction some two years ago, lately has entered the new construction field with great success.

Chief reason given by builders for preferring aluminum as a house cladding material in their newer designs is its merchandising value. Buyers are impressed by the fact that the metal's durability and baked-on enamel color coat eliminate seasonal maintenance. One major Canadian manufacturer, Hunter Douglas Limited, offers a 10-year guarantee against chipping, cracking, crazing or blistering of the surface.

Aluminum also offers superb thermal insulation and is extremely effective in keeping out noise.

In the renovation field, application of aluminum clapboard siding can work miracles to improve the appearance of a house. In most cases the resultant increase in sales value considerably exceeds the cost of the siding.

The exterior appearance can be altered drastically by well-planned use of the siding, which is available in horizontal and vertical styles and many colors. Window-frames, door frames, eaves and other features all are available in matching or complementary colors in identical aluminum.

Application, which consists mainly of cutting strips of siding to size and nailing them in place on a perviously installed backerboard, can be done by any competent handyman who can follow instructions. Aluminum clapboard siding can be sawn as easily as wood.

Professional application is available through dealers throughout Canada, and major Canadian manufacturers such as Hunter Douglas Limited guarantee these applications of their products by means of a rigorous job inspection system in which the purchaser participates.

A major advantage of aluminum siding in renovation is the permanence of the coat. This permits the homeowner to carry out a long-range plan of renovation, for an installation of aluminum clapboard siding would not differ appreciably in appearance from siding put up the year before. Therefore the main house could be done one year, to be followed later by adding a porch, cladding the garage, and doing a number of other similar jobs over a period of time.

Compactness Is Keyword In Today's Gas Appliances

Last year 1,202,000 Canadians used more than 200 billion cubic feet of natural gas. By 1965 the National Energy Board estimates, Canadians will be using more than twice that amount.

With this rising popularity of natural gas for home heating, water heating, cooking, refrigeration, and drying, (gas consumption is increasing by 20 per cent to 25 per cent per annum per customer) the description "A Natural Gas Home" has become an accolade indicating the last word in modernity and smartness.

Matching the rapid rise in popularity of this modern energy fuel, has been the development of many fine new gas appliances for use in the home. As modern and up-to-date as the homes for which they are designed, today's natural gas units are extremely simple to install and service. They respond quickly and with great efficiency, and are economical to operate.

Room for Modern Living: In addition — and this fact is becoming more important with changing trends in modern home construction — gas-fired units are designed for maximum compactness. They take room for modern living. The latest type of gas fired furnace is an excellent example: it takes up only two square feet of floor space and can be installed in a cupboard or closet if desired. Other models require no floor space at all and can be hung from a wall or ceiling, or be suspended in an attic or crawl space. In basements especially ,this allows the space saved to be used for additional recreation facilities or storage.

The trend in water heaters is also a smaller tank with less storage capacity, but with the extremely fast recovery that only gas can provide. Gas water heaters provide homeowners with all the hot water they can use when they want it. Water heaters that fit in under the sink are now a reality.

Work saving and versatility are the keywords with other natural gas appliances enjoyed by the Canadian homemaker such as the built-in gas range and gas dryer.

The new automatic built-in gas range features a space-saving surface top with top up little space, leaving more room for shallow design, a marvellous thermal eye burner and — best of all — does not interfere with drawer or cabinet space below. Teamed with it as elegant automatic built-in oven complete with "roast tender" meat thermometer, rotisserie and the only smoke less broiler, they are designed to provide the ultimate in freedom of kitchen design that the newest homes require.

New Product: Soon to go into production is a new "flameless" gas burner, displayed recently by the Consumers' Gas Company, which will do an even better cooking job while using 25 per cent gas for equal performance.

Natural gas clothes dryers offer faster drying because the air only can be heated, permitting heat inputs with a faster air flow.

Air conditioners and refrigerators powered by natural gas, will utilize the marvellous principle of absorption cooling, run quieter and require little service since there are no moving parts in the cooling system.

The natural gas industry, through its Canadian and American Gas Associations, is carrying on a continuous and intensive research program in conjunction with various equipment manufacturers. This program has already produced such new innovations as the compact furnace, an individual fan-driven room heater, and a gas clothes dryer which requires no electrical connection; natural gas provides the electricity at considerable savings through thermoelectric generation.

Moreover, tomorrow's home will probably generate its own electricity from natural gas with refinements in equipment which already has been developed by Gas Association Research. This will mean greater economy by eliminating the need for transmission of electricity over long distances and lower cost for homeowners — thanks to natural gas.

GREAT JUDGE

John Marshall, chief justice of the United States Supreme Court from 1801 to 1835, was born in a log cabin in Virginia.

Careful Planning of Financing Ensures Success of New Home

In their anxiety to own a home, too many people give too little thought and attention to the many details that pave the road to successful home-ownership, especially financing. The end result may be confusion, frustration and bitter disappointment.

In planning to build or buy, all the financial requirements of home ownership must be considered. For example, the borrower cannot normally afford to spend more than 27 per cent of his gross annual income for the repayment of the loan and payment of taxes. In addition to being able to make monthly payments, he must be prepared to meet the costs of heating, maintenance, repair and insurance.

Where a long-term house-building loan is necessary, his consideration generally leads to the National Housing Act which is administered by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, the Federal housing agency. Under the Act, CMHC may insure mortgage loans made by approved lenders such as chartered banks, life insurance and trust and loan companies.

NHA financing offer a number of advantages. The loan is equal to a high portion of the value of the property and repayment is made by convenient monthly instalments, usually over a period of 25, 30 or 35 years. The NHA loan may be as high as $14,500 for a three-bedroom house or up to $14,900 for larger houses. The current maximum interest rate on NHA loans is 6¾ per cent and the rate remains constant throughout the term of the loan.

Other charges in connection with the loan include an application fee, the solicitor's fee, the cost of searching the title to the property and registering the mortgage and the cost of a surveyor's certificate.

Under National Housing Act the borrower pays a mortgage insurance fee which is credited to a mortgage insurance fund. The fund is maintained by CMHC to protect the NHA investments of approved lenders. The fee is two per cent of the amount of the loan if progress advances are made during construction. A borrower is entitled to four such advances, but sufficient funds are retained at all times to ensure reasonable completion of the house. Title to the lot must be in the borrower's name before advances are made on the loan. If the mortgage money is not required until completion of the house the fee is ¼ percent of the loan. The fee is added to the amount of the loan and does not require a cash outlay.

Application for a loan may be made to any NHA approved lender included in a list available from CMHC. Complete details of the lot, including a survey, legal description and a breakdown of overall costs and proposed financing must be provided by the borrower. It is important to note that an application for an NHA loan cannot be approved if work has gone beyond the bare excavation stage.

The applicant must provide, from his own resources, the difference between the amount of the loan and the total cost of the house. This may be in the form of cash or a combination of cash, land and labor, and must represent a minimum of five per cent of the cost or value of the house.

For each $1,000 of loan the monthly repayment is $6.85 over 25 years, $6.47 for 30 years and $6.15 for 35 years, including interest at 6¾ per cent. One-twelfth of the estimated annual taxes must be added to determine the total monthly payment.

The NHA mortgage gives the borrower the right to make additional repayments equal to 10 per cent of the original loan on the 1st day and twenty-fourth instalment dates. Part or all of the balance owing may be paid on any payment date after the third year. The lender may charge a three-months' interest bonus on all additional repayments.

During construction of the house, CMHC carries out a number of compliance inspections. Although the home-owner benefits indirectly from these inspections, their primary purpose is to ensure that the house is built in reasonable conformity with the plans and specifications and in accordance with standards specified by CMHC to provide adequate mortgage security. The contract with the builder is the responsibility of the borrower and the onus is on him to see that he gets from the builder what he is paying for.

Average Hourly Earnings Up

OTTAWA (CP) — Average hourly earnings in manufacturing in 1960 rose by 3.5 per cent from the previous year, the bureau of statistics reported today.

The gain was slightly below that of 1959 and was smaller than in most of the post-war years. Average weekly wages rose 2.6 percent, and except for 1954 it was the smallest percentage gain in any year since 1946.

The average hourly earnings in 1960 for hourly-rated wage-earners in manufacturing reached a new peak of $1.78 from the previous high of $1.72 in 1959.

Average weekly wages were $71.86 compared with $70.16 in 1959. The work week decreased to an average 40.4 hours from 40.7 a year earlier.

A House Can Easily Be Judged by Its Outside Cover

Did you, ever wonder why trees are made of wood? Nature chose the most durable, strongest and most beautiful material in its storehouse for the work of building a tree. And man, ever since the first ventured out of his cave, has used wood to protect himself and his family against the elements.

But modern man and woman expect much more than protection from a building material. They want comfort, convenience and beauty and an opportunity to express their own individuality.

VERSATILE APPEARANCE

This is particularly noticeable in the "cover" of a modern house - the siding. Wood siding is a convertible "overcoat." It keeps a home warm in winter, cool in summer, and dry and draftless all year round. With it the homeowner can express his own personality and satisfy the basic urge we all feel to identify our homes with ourselves. The use of wood facings, in different widths, designs and color combinations enables builders to escape the monotony which always threatens large housing developments. And since wood siding is easily painted home owners can change color inexpensively as part of their normal four or five year-maintenance program.

The beauty of wood siding comes from simplicity of line and color. Small shadows created by the overlapped or moulded edges of individual boards form a distinctive pattern of lines on the wood siding wall. The overall effect is created by the spacing and character of these lines, their direction and the color the siding is painted or stained. The size and proportions of wall areas also contribute to this general effect and they should be taken into account before decisions are made as to the pattern and width of siding to be used.

Structurally wood siding has many advantages. All wood is made up of tiny, spindle-shaped cells or fibres which are cemented together with a natural glue called lignin. Because of its cellular construction and the remarkable properties of lignin, wood has great stability under charges of the temperature and different weather conditions. Temperature changes that appreciably affect metals have no perceptible effect on the size of wood. Properly installed wood siding can withstand the wide range of Canadian moisture changes without shrinking or swelling enough to affect its durability or serviceability.

Another advantage of wood siding is its ability to hold fastenings. It can be nailed into place permanently if non-cutting nails are used.

Superior Insulator: A section of wood, seen through a microscope, reveals not only the many thousands of cells that make up its structure, but also a myriad of tiny air spaces within the cells. It is the presence of these air cells which makes wood such a superior insulator against heat, cold, sound and electricity. One inch thickness of wood insulates, as well as about six inches of brick, fifteen inches of sandstone or concrete or nearly 250 feet of aluminum. Because of these air spaces wood siding helps to keep homes cooler in summer and warmer in winter and saves money on fuel bills.

Wood siding also gives the home owner more useable living space inside his house. In a 40 x 30 foot house, for instance, the builder gains at least 60 square feet of additional space by using wood siding. That is enough to change a living room from 10 x 14 to 10 x 18 or 12 x 25 or to provide an extra bathroom or utility room.

Wood's versatility and workability means that design can be translated from drawing board to building with the minimum of difficulty and extensions and remodelling are easily and economically accomplished when a house is finished with wood siding.

THREE MAJOR TYPES

The three major types of wood siding are bevel, drop and vertical. Bevel-siding - also called lap siding--is made by sawing square-edged boards diagonally to produce two wedge-shaped pieces. Standard widths are 4, 6, 10 and 12 inches. Bevel siding is distinguished by the outward slant of each board and by the emphatic shadow line it creates. The other main types of siding are usually flush or flat.

Horizontal drop siding is matched on the edges so that each board joins the next in a shiplapped joint and is usually ¾ of an inch thick and up to eight inches wide.

Vertical siding has the effect of increasing the apparent heights of a building and can be made of several kinds. Perhaps the best known is board-and-batten in which square-edged boards are covered at the joints to give a feeling of strength and height. Other types of vertical siding are made with ship-lap or tongue-and-groove joints from plain or patterned boards. Further variety in appearance can be achieved by using both vertical and horizontal patterns on the same face. Another possibility is to place siding with its rough face out; the use of stain in this case preserves the natural, hand-hewn appearance of the sawn edge.

Wood sheathing, just back of the wood siding, adds extra insulation, strength and structural rigidity to the house.

EXTERIOR TRIM IMPORTANT

Exterior trim adds character to a home at little extra cost. Wood shutters and window boxes give a home a friendly, welcoming appearance especially if they are painted in warm, positive tones against a white or light-colored background. Similarly the use of fascia boards or lintels to emphasize horizontal or shelter lines can add life and meaning to a subdued pattern of rectangles and triangles.

The selection and application of paint or stain is of great importance to the long-time performance of wood siding and exterior trim. One of the advantages of wood siding and trim is the ease and economy with which it can be color-styled when first painted and re-styled according to changing tastes or fashion in subsequent paintings. A good paint job causes rain water to slide off the walls and trim and prevents weathering of the surface.

500 Canadians To Man British Supermarkets

LONDON (CP) — Hundreds of supermarkets will be opened in Britain during the next few years under a $30,000,000 expansion program carrying the personal blessing of Canada's Garfield Weston.

To start the ball rolling, some 500 young Canadians will be brought to Britain by staff the stores. These just aren't enough trained Britons to cope with the expansion.

"To expand the way we want to expand, we need a lot of staff," British - born grocery chief Robert Fox said today. "We've been running full page advertisements trying to get staff, but very few young men today are entering the grocery business. That's the thing in a nutshell."

Fox is general manager of Fine Fare Limited, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Associated British Foods, the mammoth business built up by Weston. Fox said if it was Weston himself who decided to bring unmarried Canadians, aged between 18 and 25 over here to inject a dash of Canadian technical knowledge into the supermarket business.

Canadians will arrive here in batches of 50, Fox said. The first group is expected this autumn. The company is already preparing a register of families with whom the invading super-grocers will stay as paying guests.

RUNS 1,500 STORES

Fine Fare is one of the largest supermarket companies in the world. It operates 1,500 grocery stores of which 150 are supermarkets, established in Britain which up to a few months ago had only about 300 such stores in the whole country. Almost all of these are in the south of England.

Apart from the Fine Fare establishments, Weston controls many other supermarkets in Canada, the United States, Germany and elsewhere through his various holdings. Weston has been described as the world's biggest baker and one of its biggest grocers, and Fox said the description isn't far off.

Contractor Doing Job When Systems Taken for Granted

Among the things most Canadians take for granted are an abundant supply of fresh water, efficient heating systems and safe, efficient sewage disposal systems.

The Canadian Plumbing and Mechanical Contractors Association takes satisfaction in the fact that these things are taken as a matter of course. It proves that they are doing an efficient, unobtrusive job.

Many a traveller from North America visiting continental Europe and Asia has been surprised and shocked to find that their facilities do not match our own.

Lack of central heating, the necessity in some areas of boiling drinking water, and inadequate sewage and waste disposal have ruined more than one otherwise pleasant holiday, the association points out.

Accustomed to our high standards of health protection, travellers fail to take the necessary precautions against diseases almost unknown in this country.

The association's research reveals that Europe and Asia have not maintained their early lead, although they had a long head start in development of water systems and sewage disposal applications.

Rudimentary systems have been traced as far back as ancient Babylon, early records show. Later towns and cities used brooks and rivers for drinking water until these became polluted. Then the stream would be used as an open sewer, and would be finally closed in to become the main trunk sewer of the town or city.

Travellers knew when they were nearing a large settlement because of the unpleasant odor carried by the wind.

The first modern sewer was built in 1843, in Hamburg, Germany. The pipes were laid on grades steep enough to make the system self-cleaning. The storm sewer was separate from the sanitary sewer.

Association research also dates heating systems using a convection warm air gravity feed system almost as far back as the first sewers. The Romans used such a system in their famous baths.

The direct radiation system dates back even further, to when the first cave man discovered fire. Later heated rocks were placed in caves to provide warmth for the sleepers.

Roman aqueducts transported water over long distances, and are still in existence in parts of Europe. Aqueducts were also built by the Greeks, the Babylonians, Egyptians and Assyrians.

Some of these structures, built about the time of Christ, still carry water to serve Rome, and another at Point Du Gard, France, is still almost intact.

It is from the Latin word "plumbum" that the words "plumber" and "plumbing" are derived, the association points out. The Latin word means lead and dates back to the use of lead pipes to carry water and sewage. Copper or brass are now used.

Chicago was among the first of North American cities to have a modern sewer system, in 1855. It was only at the end of the nineteenth century that cities around the world began to abandon cesspools and covered drainage sewers for the modern systems in use today.

With improvements, the job of the plumbing and mechanical contractor has become much more complex, the association points out.

New concepts such as automatic controls, widespread use of air conditioning, the advent of gas heating, and increasing use of electric heating have made their appearance.

Contractors must have the knowledge to completely equip large office and apartment buildings with heating, cooling and sanitary services.

They must maintain good relations with government, labor, suppliers, the construction and building industry and the public.

The Canadian Plumbing and Mechanical Contractors Association exists to assist its members in all of these fields, and to enable them to speak with a united voice as one of the largest and most powerful trade associations in Canada.

National Housing Act Loans Provide Low Rental Housing

More and more the citizens of Canada are becoming aware of the increased need for rental housing for elderly persons and families of low income. Civic authorities, service clubs and other groups interested in fulfilling this need have turned to the financial assistance available under the National Housing Act.

The Act authorizes Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, the Federal housing agency, to make loans as high as 90 per cent of the lending value of projects undertaken by limited-dividend companies to provide low-rental housing. Limited dividend loans are available to companies incorporated to construct, hold and manage low-rental housing projects. Dividends are limited by the terms of the charter, or instrument of incorporation, to five per cent or less of the paid-up share capital. The current interest rate for limited dividend loans is 5¾ per cent and the maximum repayment period is 50 years.

When applying for a loan a company must be able to show that conditions of shortage, overcrowding and substandard housing exist. CMHC must be satisfied that the company's organization and management will be competent and capable of administering the planning, construction and operation of the proposed project.

The company must also be able to prove that it has sufficient interim funds, when added to the loan, to pay for the entire cost of the project built on it may be involved.

The builder may have already obtained a mortgage loan for the proposed house. The loan may have been taken out in his name and you will be required to sign an assumption agreement stating that you will assume all obligations of the mortgage.

Your solicitor will be able to give you advice and assistance in this regard.

Generally, house sales are made through use of a legal document called an "offer to purchase". The offer to purchase is a written contract which usually states that the owner agrees to sell and the buyer agrees to buy. It binds both parties to agreed terms and conditions, and usually sets out the lot on which the house is to be built, the type of house, the purchase price, the amount of mortgage loan, the rate of interest, the amount of money to be made available during construction, the approximate date of completion of the house and the period of time within which you will have your solicitor search the title to the lot.

After clear title has been assured your solicitor, or the builder's solicitor, prepares a draft deed.

The builder's solicitor will prepare a statement of adjustments covering the obligations of all parties to the purchase. This will include: (1) monies due the seller, such as purchase price, share of taxes and insurance paid by him, and details of any extras you ask the builder to put in the house; and (1) credits due to you including down payments, mortgages obtained or assumed and any second mortgage. The difference between these seller and purchaser credits will be the amount payable on the closing date specified in the offer to purchase.

You should make definite arrangements with the builder regarding any adjustments to be made or adjustments required, and have this put in writing. You would be well advised to obtain the opinion of an independent expert regarding the quality of construction.

On satisfactory completion of the house you are expected to complete payment of the purchase price and will receive the deed to the property. This should be registered immediately by your solicitor.

Financing Easier When House Bought From Builder

If you have a limited amount of cash to invest in a new house, you may find that purchase from a builder is the most convenient arrangement. The total cost can be established at the outset and you will know exactly how to plan your finances.

As in building a house, you should make your solicitor your closest confidant. He will be able to interpret legal documents to you, ensure that title to the land is clear and that you are the actual owner of the property. His services can, in fact, save you many dollars.

In buying a house from a builder the problems of choosing a lot and purchasing it is not involved. The choice of a lot in a subdivision and the house to be

NHA Insured Loans Aid Rental Housing

Financial aid for rental housing is available under three different sections of the National Housing Act. One section enables Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation to make direct loans to limited-dividend companies building rental projects for low-income families or elderly persons. Another section provides for joint Federal -Provincial participation in providing rental housing.

However, the most common form of assistance to rental housing comes from NHA loans by approved lenders. This is the plan used by many builders who build rental accommodation for investment purposes.

Insured loans for rental housing may be as high as 85 per cent of the lending value of a project as determined by CMHC. CMHC is authorized to insure such loans made by approved lenders, provided the projects comply with the standards of construction prescribed by the Federal Housing agency.

Maximum loan amount for detached houses are $12,850 for houses of three bedrooms or less and $13,550 for larger houses. For semi-detached dwellings the maximum loans are $13,250 for three-bedroom houses and $13,950 for larger houses. Maximum loans for row family dwellings are $10,850 where the units contain three bedrooms and $11,550 when more bedrooms are included. For a three-bedroom duplex the maximum loan is $16,300 and $16,900 where there are four or more bedrooms.

Apartment construction accounts for most of the rental housing financed by NHA insured loans. For this type of project the maximum loan is based on the individual apartment site with $8,750 per unit the limit for a fully fireproof construction.

NHA loans for rental housing are repayable in equal monthly instalments not exceeding a 35-year period. The current interest rate is 6% per cent.

Charges to the borrower include an application fee of $33 for each unit in the proposed project as well as a mortgage insurance fee. If progress payments are required during construction, the insurance fee is 2½ per cent of the loan, but if the loan is not advanced until completion, the fee is 2½ per cent of the loan. The insurance fee is added to the amount of the loan and does not require a cash outlay.

Other charges payable by the borrower include the solicitor's fee, survey fees and expenditures for searching title to the property, preparing and registering the mortgage, and searches of title necessary for the purposes of advances, and preparing, registering and renewing chattel mortgages and other security.

When application is made to an NHA approved lender, details of the proposed building site, an estimate of the cost of land and construction, and complete working drawings vided.

and specifications must be pro-

required to provide details of the improvements planned and an estimate of the costs involved. The bank will also require information concerning the applicant's income and financial obligations and details of existing encumbrances against the property. In addition the applicant must be prepared to state the assessed value of the property, the amount of fire insurance carried and whether or not taxes have been paid to the last due date. He must also agree that he will not further encumber, sell or transfer his interest in the property without the written consent of the bank until the loan is fully repaid.

It may be more profitable to plan certain improvements for the winter months when labor and materials are more readily available.

EXECUTION POSTPONED

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The execution of a 18-year-old Negro boy convicted of slaying a 70-year-old white farmer has been postponed by a motion for a new trial to be heard Oct. 4. The boy, Preston Cobb, was under sentence to die Sept. 22 in the electric chair. He was convicted of shooting Frank Coleman Dorsey June 1. The shooting allegedly followed a dispute over fish caught in the farmer's pond.

Versatile Venetian Blinds Help Control Temperature

Venetian blinds can be useful allies in controlling temperature, in addition to their traditional roles of controlling light and air.

The aluminum at which most modern venetian blinds are made has high heat-reflecting qualities and can be expected to repel a great deal of the sun's heat rays.

NUMEROUS CUT CHANGES

The venetian blind was already old in the 13th Century when Marco Polo brought it to Italy from China, but the present century has seen a number of changes.

Chief of these is the development of metal louvres to replace the old wooden slats. These aluminum strips are highly flexible, bending easily for cleaning, and their baked-on finishes are both long-lasting and so smooth as to discourage the collection of dust.

While the horizontal venetian blind retains popularity, the new vertical-louvred drape frequently is used for special effects.

The wide range of available colors and patterns have made it possible to feature venetian blinds in a room setting. There are blinds available in printed patterns, scattered with multicolored paint, treated to look like unbleached linen, lacquered in exciting Chinese red. An unusual striped effect can be created by sing alternate slats of different colors.

VARIED USES

Windows are by no means the only location of venetian blinds. Interior designers frequently use them as room dividers, and they also can create a false, unbroken wall to mask an unsightly one. A designer made such a wall out of a large venetian blind in a room so broken by jutting beams and closet doors that there was no single wall long enough to put a bed against it. He even hung a picture on his new "wall" and created particularly attractive lighting by means of a lighting strip behind the top of the blind.

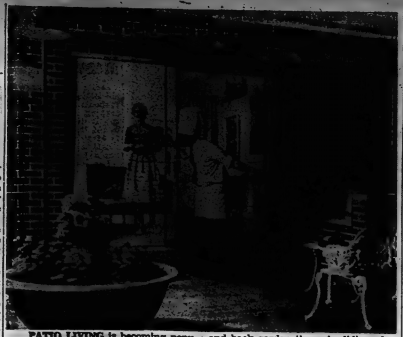
Improve Your House With NHA Loan

Many people have contemplated much needed repairs to their houses and have then postponed their plans simply because they couldn't find the necessary money.

This need no longer be the case. In fact, more and more home-owners are discovering that Federal assistance is available to them under the National Housing Act. The Act authorizes Central Mortgage give a limited guarantee to banks in return for an insurance fee paid by the borrower on loans made for a wide variety of improvements around the house.

For the purpose of home improvement loans, a home is defined as a house, multiple-family dwelling, housing project or building consisting of business premises and family housing units where the repairs, alterations and additions may be fairly considered to be primarily for the benefit of the housing units.

A home does not include a building used as a hotel, motel or summer residence, or for seasonal occupancy. But it does include apartment buildings.



Home improvement loans cover the cost of labor, materials and equipment for many permanent-type alterations, repairs and additions.

Home improvement loans are secured by a promissory note. The maximum loan is $4,000 for a one-family dwelling. A loan of $4,000 for the first unit of a duplex, semi-detached or multiple-family dwelling, plus $1,200 for each additional unit, may also be obtained.

The rate of interest on NHA home improvement loans is 6 per cent and loans are repayable in monthly instalments, together with interest, in not more than 10 years.

Application for a loan must be made by the owner of the property and not by anyone acting in his behalf. A joint owner of a home or anyone renting a property, provided the lease does not expire in less than three years from maturity of the loan, is eligible to apply.

When making application for a loan, the applicant will be

Concrete Shapes And Colors Blossom Out

Concrete masonry walls all looked the same a quarter century ago, but not any more.

The uniform cold gray has become a multitude of colors ranging from delicate pastels of pink, rose, tan, sand and orange to strong browns, reds and greens as well as several shades of gray.

Along with the colors the wall patterns have undergone a transformation. Concrete block and brick used to be laid in a conventional pattern called "running bond." Now they can be laid on end, on lip of one another in stack bond, in a basket weave pattern, or in dozens of other attractive patterns.

Colored mortar can create strong contrasts as well. Black, or red mortar varies the color pattern of the wall and blends well with concrete brick or block of varying hues.

Emphasis on the horizontal or vertical joints between concrete brick and block can create varying spatial effects, helping to raise or lower ceiling heights, making a room appear wider, longer, or higher.

By varying the amount of mortar between blocks or bricks the effect of a wall can be changed 'markedly. Extruded mortar joints, where mortar is generously applied and squeezes out between the units, is effective when judiciously used.

The opposite effect can be obtained with recessed mortar joints, set back from the unit to emphasize the divisions between units.

Solar screen or screen wall block — the pierced units are given different names in various parts of Canada — give a designer tremendous scope. More patterns are appearing on the market every day, and each can be combined in many ways to vary the wall pattern that can be made with them.

Block with raised surfaces and recessed surfaces can also be laid to form many patterns of lighting and texture. A few of these decorative units tastefully used can create dramatic effects in a house front; a garden wall or a patio screen, and add resale value to a house at little cost.

Even block manufacturers do not want to see large unrelieved areas of exposed concrete block, and they emphasize the use of contrasting building materials and walls with block to pick up the interest in both the exterior and interior of a home. Wood, for instance, combines well with concrete block, and has been used with block to excellent effect in the homes of several concrete products manufacturers.

The strong lines and absolutely uniform dimensions of concrete block lend themselves to experimentation, and their scope in design work is limited only by the designer's imagination.

YORK, Pa. (AP)—Harry M. Miller, 64, has left the bulk of his $750,000 estate for the welfare and enjoyment of "poor and worthy" children in York, it was disclosed today. Miller was well known for his habit of passing out chewing gum to local youngsters before he moved to Florida for health reasons in 1951. He died June 9.

Home Buyer Looks for Many Things

People buying a new home are looking for several things. It should be dry safe, easy to keep up, attractive inside and out. It should be within their means, long-lasting and warm in winter, cool in summer. It should be proof against moisture and termites.

If possible, it should contain a basement for extra living space — a work shop, recreation room, laundry facilities, storage space. Basement floor area is the lowest in cost in the home by far.

Concrete satisfies all these requirements. It is made of material that won't burn — cement, sand, gravel, slag, manufactured aggregates — and many fire tests have shown the superior qualities of concrete wall sections in withstanding an open flame applied directly to the wall.

Concrete brick or block walls are easy to maintain. Concrete structures as old as the pyramids and the Roman aqueducts are still in use today. Concrete can't rot or split or be eaten by insects. Several types of paint that are easy to apply will protect it for years from rain and snow.

Builders are moving and more taking advantage of the economy and beauty combined in concrete brick and block walls. They are using striking patterns and the dozens of colors available in concrete to create attractive exposed masonry interior walls. This trend is saving construction dollars and giving the builder an extra selling point.

Concrete block walls contain cavities of dead air space which in itself provides excellent insulation. These cavities or cores can be filled with insulating material for extra protection against summer heat and winter cold.

Concrete floor and roof decks can be precast at the factory, placed quickly at the building site, and used by the builder as a platform for further construction work. Electrical wiring and heating can be run through hollow precast floor slabs.

Basements built with concrete block are warm and dry when properly constructed. They are easy to finish off either at the time the house is built or later. Concrete block is paintable, and a number of attractive finishes can be applied either direct to the block or by conventional furring and plastering methods. Partitioning in basement into smaller units is also a simple matter with block.

ESCAPES CHAIR

CHICAGO (AP) — Vincent Ciocci, 33, who killed his wife and three children eight years ago, escaped the electric chair Wednesday for the 13th time. Judge Julius Miner of U.S. district Court indicated he would hold a hearing on Ciocci's petition charing that the jury which convicted him was prejudiced by newspaper stories.

New Electronic Air Cleaner Eases House Cleaning Chore

For the price of a quality refrigerator you can add to your home "the latest" in modern aids to environment — electronic air cleaning.

A new unit on the market — installed in a home's forced air heating or air conditioning system — automatically removes up to 90 per cent of the airborne particles in your home and yet is "reasonable" in cost, says its maker.

The compact unit (dimensions: 8 inches wide and 22 inches high) can be used with any type forced air heating or air conditioning system, Honeywell engineers who designed the equipment say. A control panel is mounted in the living area of the house to provide at-a-glance information on the cleaner's operation and indicate when the filter needs to be removed and washed.

Easy Installation: Installation can be accomplished easily. The electronic air cleaner can be mounted in horizontal, vertical or even angular positions in the duct-work of either a new or an existing home. Its source of electricity is ordinary house wiring, and no plumbing is necessary. It uses no more electricity than a 50-watt blub, and can be installed in any home with central warm air heating.

Honeywell engineers point out that dust, oily grime, vapors, bacteria, cooking and tobacco smoke and assorted other irritants — in particles so small as to be invisible in most cases — float through the home "in unbelievable numbers."

A single cubic foot of air, for example, can hold 100,000-000 particles. These tiny particles settle on walls and ceilings as well as floors and cause staining, with the result that walls and woodwork must be periodically reapered or repainted, drapes and slip covers cleaned or replaced.

Most of the tiny pollens and other airborne irritants that make life miserable for people with chronic allergies like asthma and hay fever, are removed by the new electronic air cleaner.

The engineers, who spent four years developing the new unit, emphasize that it should not be confused with plug-in air "purifiers" and similar units. Trus electonic air cleaners, they explain, have two stages — an ionizing stage and a collecting stage.

The ionizing stage produces an electrical field between special tungsten wires and grounded plates called an "ion screen." This screen imparts an electrical charge to the smallest dire particle passing through it.

The collecting stage is a series of charged aluminum plates which collect the ionized dirt particles in much the same way a magnet attracts iron filings.

This electronic method removes particles 100 times smaller than the usual mechanical filter can, the engineers say.

90 per cent efficient: Efficiency of the new Honeywell cleaner is rated more than 90 per cent depending on the air flow requirements. An extra collecting cell is available to boost efficiency when the air flow requirements are high, as in larger homes.

The general public is beginning to recognize that clean air is very necessary in today's home environment.

This is not only due to air pollution — an important factor in all urban areas — but also to the need to reduce housework and the expense of frequent redecoration.

Now the homeowner can completely control his environment and make it more wholesome as well as comfortable; he can heat it, air condition it, control its humidity and — finally — clean the air in it.

Look for 'Road Signs' When Buying Home

When buying a home, it pays to look for "road signs" that give an indication of the satisfaction you can expect from your purchase.

Check carefully on the foundations and their surroundings. What is the soil type? Is there any evidence of cracking in the plaster of the house, indicating a settlement in the foundation? Does the soil contain a lot of moisture under pressure that might cause basement leaking? Are the basement walls, if block, properly parged on the outside?

Is the basement tight and dry? Are there any signs of loose mortar between the blocks, or water stains on the floor?

Are the floors firesafe? would they limit the spread of flames? Are they warm, dry and sagproof? Precast concrete floors will fill the bill on all these counts.

Are the walls well-insulated? If you are buying in summer, you can check this simply enough by noting whether the house is cool in hot weather. The opposite holds true in winter.

Concrete block walls contain dead air spaces which acts as natural insulation and concrete does not heat up on the outside to crack and blister paint surfaces under the summer sun.

Is the roof firesafe, and proof against sun, rain, snow and wind? A precast concrete decking is permanent protection against fire and weather damage.

A check of these main points in the home you are preparing to buy can save plenty of grief later. If you fail to note unsound conditions at the time of purchase it is much more difficult to correct the situation later on.

NEW FOR THE HOME is this electronic air cleaner which its maker, Honeywell, says removes up to 90 per cent of all particles in the air, including those too small to be seen. The air cleaner is installed as a permanent part of the ductwork used in any type forced air heating or air conditioning system.

Large Amount of Glass Used in Home Construction

With the housing market becoming more competitive, house builders are today including high cost features in the designs of their lower and medium priced homes.

This trend, according to L. C. Bosanquet, sales manager of Pilkington Glass Limited, has been very helpful to the glass industry. He noted a definite increase in the use of glass: sliding doors, double glazed window units and mirrors, as well as more emphasis on glass for interior room dividers.

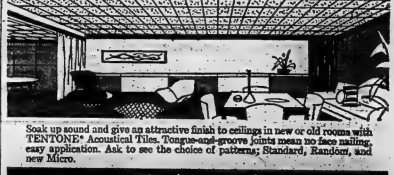
Mr. Bocanquet claims that home builders will be offering buyers more and more "extras" as the market gets more competitive. One probable development will be provision of a landscaped garden with suitable access to it via patio doors, such as those distributed by Pilkington, practically any size of opening could be fitted in standard double-door widths, up to a total of more than 19 feet. In custom made doors any size is possible. Unlike the old, drafty French doors, modern glass sliding doors are fully insulated, screened and where required are glazed with double glazed units to prevent cold transmission.

The picture window will remain popular but more thought will be given to its satisfactory location and some regard will be given to greater privacy for the home owner. Nevertheless, additional glass areas are likely because the trend to brightness and cleanliness in the home will continue.

More mirrors as standard equipment in new homes are a distinct possibility. Already, bathroom mirrors are standard equipment, but in the future these may well be augmented by full-length door mirrors in all bedrooms. A very popular innovation with the housewife and a distinct aid to selling homes.

This is in keeping with the desire for outdoor living and the present popularity of family barbecues and garden entertaining.

In the past, too many lower and medium priced homes have been designed with poor access to the back garden. Even if their home owner wants to add a patio he finds his access is via a backdoor leading off the kitchen or else through a door on the side of the house.



Homes in the future will be designed so that the rear of the house is at ground level and the patio will be easily reached through glass sliding doors via the dining room or living room.

With the availability of the new types of sliding glass doors, such as those distrib-

Only Cries of Anguish Come From Conference at Accra

By DAVE OANCIA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Commonwealth Finance Ministers' Conference in Accra, as expected, has turned out to be a forum for cries of anguish over the modest sums it can afford to apply for European Common Market membership.

Authorities in London viewed the vigorous speeches by Finance Minister Fleming and Trade Minister Hees essentially as restatements of the Canadian government's position.

Fleming expressed the fear that Britain now was on a slippery slope and there was no possibility of withdrawal from negotiations with The Six.

Hees said Commonwealth ties would be weakened by any British action which adversely affected Canada's economy, but even though it benefited Britain. He urged that Commonwealth preferential access to the British market be maintained unchanged.

These speeches presage a tough watching brief on the course of talks when they are later this month on the British application.

The finance ministers," said one London source, "wanted to make it clear that if Britain's area was threatened by possible membership, they'll scream about it."

WON'T HAVE EFFECT

The anxieties expressed in Accra will not likely cause Britain to change her mind about negotiating with the community formed by France, Germany and the three Benelux countries.

British Chancellor of the Exchequer Selwyn Lloyd tried to convince the Commonwealth ministers it would be incompatible in Britain joining The Six and maintaining her Commonwealth ties.

He further assurance to the finance ministers of Commonwealth prime ministers' conference before the conclusion of Britain's negotiations with The Six.

The timing of a top-level conference depends on progress made in the talks. Some statesmen expressed the view that a summit could take place by next spring or early summer.

The meeting would come after clear idea is obtained of commitments Britain must make to get full membership.

It would give Commonwealth leaders the opportunity they have been demanding to examine the broad implications of the moves towards European integration.

CAC Wants Directorate Staff Hiked

TORONTO (CP) — The Consumers' Association of Canada wants the federal government to increase the food and drug directorate staff.

CAC President Mrs. A. F. W. Plumptre of Ottawa told delegates at their annual meeting Thursday there is no use tightening regulations unless the directorate staff is increased accordingly to enforce them.

Some of CAC's pet projects come under the department's jurisdiction—the enforcement of new regulations prohibiting the sale of colorants in food; quality control of a growing supply of domestic and imported drugs; inspection of food in areas where chemical sprays have been used; and the inspection of approved abattoirs, slaughter houses and meat packing plants.

Mrs. Plumptre said the directorate staff was doing all it could but that the staff was inadequate for its expanding program.

Other resolutions endorsed at closing sessions of the three-day CAC m e e t w e a f f i r m e d its stand against trading stamps and endorsed the use of the metric system of measurement.

Focus on Health

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Topics of the week: The danger of the 'other' cold in fall, a poisonous bean on a garden plant and 'stormy' weather.

GET FLU SHOTS

Health authorities warn that there is likely to be a big spring in influenza outbreaks this fall and winter—and they urge vaccination now.

Because various flu-breaks borne in droplets coughed by the U.S. public health service predicts the United States is due for some Asian flu and overdue for type B flu this year. Both types have been prevalent elsewhere in the world this past season.

Persons over 65, pregnant women and persons suffering from heart disease, diabetes or other chronic illnesses are urged to get flu shots now.

The National Tuberculosis Association warns that persons with such respiratory illnesses as TB and emphysema are in especial danger.

Insurance statisticians explain that death rates climb under the influence of influenza and resulting pneumonia. These diseases strike most severely those persons least capable of resisting them.

BEWARE CASTOR BEAN

If you have small children roaming your yard, beware of the castor oil plant and its fruit, the castor bean.

Many gardeners grow these plants because of their decorative appearance and large leaves. They often substitute as a quick growing shrub about new homes.

But if an unwary child should chew the castor bean, fatal poisoning can result, says a University of Minnesota pediatrician, Dr. George H. Lowrey.

Symptoms appear in one to two days. They include vomiting, drowsiness, stupor and stomach ache, with death occurring within 12 days.

STORMY WEATHER

Electrical storms seem to affect the number of patients admitted to mental hospitals, a scientist says. The more storms, and the more intense they are, the more patients.

Foxboro

FOXBORO — Mrs. Lorne Brough entertained recently in honor of Mr. Elmer Peet and family of Kingston; also her sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Elliott attended the Elliott picnic recently, at Cobourg.

HISTORIC AREA

A fort was built by the Portuguese in 1505 at what now is Colombo, capital of Ceylon.

CANADIAN KILLED

MONTREAL (CP) — A Quebec woman was among the 77 persons who died in the crash of a French Caravelle airliner Wednesday near Nabat, Morocco, it was learned Thursday. Miss Nicole Trempe, about 26, of St. Alexis des Monts, Que., was en route to Morocco as a physiotherapy specialist by the Red Cross several months ago.

GENERAL TENDENCIES:

Now you have one of those Saturdays when you would be wise to get away from usual haunts and tasks and onerous duties as soon as you have completed essential tasks and gain a whole new and fresh approach at whatever happens to be your interests. Avoid any criticism without knowing the motive behind actions of all others.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Fine day to indulge in sports or taking a little trip for the purpose of garnering information you need. P.M. remain with new acquaintances and learn much from their background of experience. See that you drive carefully.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) You can get ahead faster in the future if you contact those experts today who are difficult to see during busy work week. P.M. be truly devoted to loved one - - don't take him, or her, for granted so much, as you have in the past.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) If you get out with associates to places of amusement, you will be able to discuss the future informally and leisurely so that you come to a real understanding. Also, you will hit upon clever, new ideas that can prove very profitable.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) Important you do something nice for those who have been good, loyal and kind to you in the past. Show your appreciation for the alliance of some time past. Then off for a good time of whatever pleases you and amuses you. Be full of fun, cheerful.

Leo (July 22 to Sept. 21) If you improve your appearance early in A.M. and then get off with the right people to places of amusement of sociability, there will be very fine results and benefits therefrom. Be charming, courteous and have a wonderful time, too.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) Here is a day when you must handle all family and household affairs with enthusiasm and efficiency. Impress upon your clan that you are truly devoted and a wise manager. Also, accompany close ties to some special appointment.

Libra (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22) Morning is ideal to shop, pay visits or garner the information needed. Look in your paper for valuable and novel ideas. P.M. get out with good friends to the amusements that appeal.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) If you get busy early, you can make fine improvements to property that will increase its value appreciably. P.M. sit down and plan a budget that will permit your business and social, personal life to run more smoothly in the future.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If you are very friendly with all associates and friends today, you can discuss your ideas and ambitions and get them to co-operate with you wholeheartedly. Guard your good name well and be sure your credit remains intact now.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) This is a perfect day for ferreting out whatever is puzzling to you and also get the data that will assist you to get ahead a good deal faster in the future. Then sit down and figure out on paper just how to increase profits appreciably.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Extroverted friends are everywhere about you now and if you make it a point to be with them, there can be an exchange of many wonderful ideas that can be utilized in the future most profitably. Also, make your social life happier.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Concentrate on how you can become more successful, popular, and attain greater civic prestige today. Put aside all that unnecessary Saturday talk with associates and get out to new ideas and interests. Be on the qui vive for fine opportunities.

If your child is born today there is every opportunity for great success here, provided you encourage your progeny in his, or her, desire for travel and study of projects of great scope and vision. Give him the fine education as you can afford, not neglecting the study of Romance languages, high finance, etc. There is leadership in this chart and the ability to bring large enterprises down to a workable and profitable level.

New Move Made to Place Rebellious Sudbury Mine-Mill Local Under Trusteeship

SUDBURY (CP) — A new move by the Mine-Mill union's executive to place rebellious Sudbury local under trusteeship was initiated Thursday as National President Cec Smith laid charges against the local's leadership.

Five charges were laid against Local 598 President Don Gillis and his executive under the constitution of the National Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Can.), A Sept. 28 date was set for the hearing.

Mr. Smith's action was contained Thursday night at a meeting of local members, with eight per cent of about 1,600 attending voting against the motion.

In addition to condemning Mr. Smith for laying the charges, the meeting passed a motion congratulating James Bebbington, president of Local 637 in Port Colborne, for calling a vote on whether the national union should continue to act as bargaining agent. The Sept. 21 vote was announced Wednesday by Mr. Bebbington.

The charges laid by Mr. Smith include accusations that Mr. Gillis and his board held secret meetings with representatives of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC), and promoted secession of the 17,000-member local to Steel and that a Local 598 meeting on Saturday contained obstruction with intent . Mill was not allowed to speak at the meeting.

A previous trusteeship imposed by Mr. Smith on the local was aired briefly until a Supreme Court ruled it had been imposed improperly because the local of those had not been given a hearing.

SAYS OATH VIOLATED

Before leaving Toronto Thursday for the Mine-Mill national convention in Edmonton next week, Mr. Smith declared that Gillis and his supporters have violated their oath of office often enough. Their nefarious plots to secede illegally and for union to the Steelworkers now are coming to an end."

He said the charges are supported by a petition of more than 6,000 members.

Thursday night's meeting followed a similar membership meeting held earlier in the day. In contrast to an uproarious evening Sunday which, as usually habited by police, both meetings Thursday were orderly.

The only incident occurred when a man tried to push through a floor microphone while Mr. Gillis was speaking at a meeting, but was escorted out.

"Take him out of here but don't rough him up," Mr. Gillis ordered.

Both meetings were addressed by William Mahoney, vice-president of the Canadian Labor Congress and a Steelworkers executive, and Robert Roberts, representative , James Roberts on.

Mr. Gillis assured Thursday's meeting his executive had taken no steps to join Steel in an unauthorized manner.

WANTS INTO CLC

"I'm only doing the job I was put here by the membership to do—get into the CLC one way or another. If that means going through Steel, that's the way it will be if the membership wants it."

He told the night meeting: "We, the executive, are not making any recommendations."

Mr. Mahoney declared the national executive was determined to wreck the local than let a democratic decision by which way the local is going.

He said Local 598 has had its charter revoked and placed under Mine - Mill's Headquarters local.

MARSH HILL — The September meeting of Marsh Hill W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Berson Mitts with 13 dent of the Canadian Labor Congress and a Steelworkers executive, and Robert Roberts, representative , James Roberts on.

Mr. Gillis assured Thursday's meeting his executive had taken no steps to join Steel in an unauthorized manner.

Naming Nazi To NATO Post Called Immoral

OTTAWA (CP)—R. W. Herridge (CCF — Kootenay West) Thursday described the appointment of Gen. Adolf Heusinger to a high NATO post as "strictly immoral" and said he should be replaced.

Mr. Herridge said Gen Heusinger, chairman of NATO military representatives in Washington, was a wartime Nazi general named in Nuremberg war trial document as being guilty of atrocities involving thousands of partisans, Jews and occupied countries.

The CCF MP quoted Senator Wayne Morse of the United States as describing the Heusinger appointment as "shocking" and added himself that the West German officer should be replaced by "someone with a clean military record."

The American Jewish Congress has protested the appointment, Mr. Herridge said. The appointment was causing "consternation behind the Iron Curtain and does our cause harm." Many Canadians objected to the appointment.

Five Fires Break Out Aboard Liner

MONTREAL (CP) — The Empress of England sailed for Liverpool on schedule Thursday while police continued to investigate five small fires that broke out aboard the liner at her Montreal berth.

The fires burned earlier Thursday in five widely separated cabins. Because of the damage done, Canadian Pacific Steamships said all 24 cabins in C deck are closed for the voyage.

Police believe the fires were deliberately set.

U.S. HAS NEW DISARMAMENT SCHEME

UN Resistance At Katanga Base Said Weakening

Tshombe Will Execute Ten for Every Fatality

CP from AP-Reuters

LEOPOLDVILLE—United Nations troops were reported resuming today under a massive assault by Katanga soldiers and Baluba tribesmen on Kamina, main Red military centre in rebellious Katanga province.

A radio message from the Kamina control tower received at Usumbura, capital of the neighboring Belgian trust territory of Ruanda-Urundi, said resistance of the 500-man Irish and Swedish garrison was weakening and "it will be difficult to hold out much longer."

White officers led the massed attack.

A bloody struggle, touched off Wednesday by the UN decision to use force to rescue Katanga by the rule of the Congo's central government in Leopoldville, persisted also in Elisabethville, the capital, and at the mining town of Jadotville, 80 miles northwest of Elisabethville.

UN headquarters rushed food and ammunition to the isolated Irish garrison of Jadotville, located by bands of Katangese in six days of savage fighting. A dispatch from Dublin said the Irish government listed three men as missing and presumed dead, 17 wounded and 27 captured from a Jadotville garrison force that originally totalled 150.

GRAVER VIEW

Official Belgian sources in Usumbura taking a much graver view than Dublin or Leopoldville on the Jadotville situation—estimated 65 Irish soldiers had been killed there and said it was "virtually confirmed" that the rest of the contingent surrendered.

In Elisabethville Conor Cruise O'Brien, UN representative in Katanga, denied that the Irish had surrendered.

Katanga President Moise Tshombe issued a statement through his Kolwezi government saying his forces would fight to the last bullet against the heavier attempt by UN "mercenaries."

Tshombe said he would discuss an armistice if the UN withdrew all its troops from Katanga. He accused UN troops of atrocities and "bestial methods."

In Leopoldville the central Congolese parliament, working through Thursday night, resolved to send troops to reinforce the UN's 4,700-man contingent in Katanga.

BOMB UN FORCE

Two jet aircraft of Tshombe's air force bombed and strafed UN troop positions, but there was a lull in the fighting after the planes made no anti-aircraft batteries.

UN headquarters was reported to have asked member governments to send "all possible help."

Casualties have been heavy and UN sources said Katangese regained control of large sections of Elisabethville.

Meanwhile, large monitoring stations reported recording a number of messages from Kamina pleading for reinforcements.

News of the attack came in a UN broadcast from Kamina

West Ministers Make Progress In Berlin Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Western foreign ministers were reported today to have made good progress in agreeing on military, political, and other counter-measures that may be used by the Allied powers against expected new Russian pressures on West Berlin.

State Secretary Dean Rusk and the foreign ministers of Britain, France and West Germany were scheduled to wind up their three-day Washington conference early this afternoon.

Rusk is scheduled to fly to New York Sunday for the opening day of the UN General Assembly, beginning Tuesday, and for exploratory talks on Berlin with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

The foreign ministers meeting with Rusk—the East of Home of Britain, Maurice Couve de Murville of France and Heinrich von Brentano of West Germany —are reported to consider the Rusk-Gromyko probing operation a matter of crucial importance.

SEEK REASONABLE TERMS

Britain and, apparently, the United States favor an East-West foreign ministers meeting on Berlin in October or November if Gromyko brings with him that Soviet Premier Khrushchev is ready for negotiations on what the Western powers would consider reasonable terms.

Informants said the western foreign ministers have considered in their meeting a wide range of possible issues for negotiation, including plans advanced in earlier years, primarily for the Communist side, for creating some kind of demilitarized or de-nuclearized zone in Central Europe that would enclose some German territory east and west.

They are also reported to have talked about the possibility of making Berlin an open city or of establishing Russian and our forces in Berlin as a guarantee of its independence from Communist domination.

The Western position was made known by an official who declined to be identified. He said the plan was reported to call for the "temporary closing" of the border points in Berlin that are still open.

From Bonn came intelligence reports, which some Western diplomats considered reliable, that the Russians may be expected to create new incidents in the air corridors to Berlin and on the highways from inside Berlin in the next few days.

RETURNS FROM WALES

LONDON (AP) — Fred Caldick, 99, was back home today after walking 31 miles. He got lost on an outing in Southport "and rather than sleep out on the beach, I decided to walk home." When Caldick failed to show up at the bus a police search for him was started.

TWO FORMER TURKISH CABINET HEADS HANGED

Menderes Takes Overdose of Pills

ISTANBUL (Reuters)— Two former Turkish cabinet ministers were hanged early today after being convicted Friday on charges of violating the constitution.

They were former foreign minister Fatin Zorlu and Hasan Polatkan, former finance minister.

The two ministers were sentenced Friday after a mass treason trial on nearby Yassiad island.

Former prime minister Adnan Menderes was also sentenced to death. But he took an overdose of sleeping pills Thursday night and died before the act was carried out.

The sources said today that Menderes' condition was "unchanged" and that he was still hospitalized on the Yassiada island.

The three condemned men were among nearly 600 members of the ousted Menderes regime.

Early today Turkey's ruling National Unity Committee confirmed the three death sentence but commuted 12 others to life imprisonment—including that of 78-year-old former president Celal Bayar.

An official army spokesman said Menderes, Zorlu and Polatkan died in their early Friday, and taken an overdose of sleeping pills.

According to reliable local reports, preparations for the execution were made at Israel's behest, which serves as a prison for Eichmann on Yassiada Island in the Marmora Sea.

Of the 592 defendants, 55 had been sentenced to death, 31 to life imprisonment and 466 to prison terms ranging from one to 15 years. The charges ranged from violation of the constitution to planning the assassination of opposition leaders and the overthrow of state funds. The other 128 defendants were acquitted.

Life Sentence On Non-Capital Murder Charge

OTTAWA (CP)—Andre Crispin, 33, of Ottawa Friday became the first person to be found guilty of non-capital murder since Canada's criminal Code amendments dividing murder into two categories came into force in 1959.

Crispin, an unemployed appliance electrician, was sentenced to life imprisonment by Mr. Justice W. F. Spence after Ontario Supreme Court jury found him guilty of the April 11 slaying of 36-year-old Marie Pelfort.

The woman's nude body was found in a downtown rooming house with six deep butcher-knife wounds in her stomach. Her death came after an all-night drinking party in her apartment.

The all-male jury deliberated 6½ hours before bringing in its verdict.

ARRIVE IN RUSSIA

LONDON (Reuters)—A group of peace marchers who left San Francisco last November arrived in Soviet Union from Finland Friday, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

Pearson Suggests Cabinet Ministers 'Stop Squealing' About UK in Common Markt

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Pearson suggested to Prime Minister Diefenbaker Friday that he tell his ministers of trade and finance to "stop squealing" about Britain's moves towards Common Market membership because it is hurting Canada.

He was referring in the Commons for the second straight day to reports of statements made by Trade Minister Hees and Finance Minister Fleming at the Commonwealth economic conference this week in Accra, Ghana.

The opposition leader and the prime minister entered no words in a sharp exchange.

Mr. Pearson wanted to know whether the statements attributed to the two ministers at the closed-door Accra conference were approved in advance by the Canadian government.

Mr. Diefenbaker replied he had been unable to obtain a copy of them.

The prime minister added that throughout the years the Progressive Conservative party has stood for a strong Commonwealth, when "others" in the Commons didn't hold that view.

At Accra, Mr. Fleming said Britain's relationship with the Commonwealth would never be the same again if it joined the Common Market. Mr. Hees warned that such a union might weaken Commonwealth ties.

"Will the prime minister instruct the ministers concerned to stop their public squealing before Canada is hurt?" Mr. Pearson demanded.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he had

First U.S. Nuclear Test Apparently Junior-Sized

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States began its underground nuclear test series with apparently a junior-sized blast packing a punch of about 1,000 tons of TNT equivalent — possibly less.

The conclusion is suggested by comparison of the blast with published figures on the earth-quake equivalent of nuclear devices detonated underground in Nevada.

"President Kennedy announced that Friday's low yield no-shift underground explosion took place in a remote, high guarded section of Nevada. There was no advance announcement and the blast was not audible in the nearest city, Las Vegas, 65 miles away.

In a statement, Kennedy stressed: "The detonation has produced no fallout. This is in marked contrast to the Soviet nuclear tests in the atmosphere."

He added: "The United States once again reaffirms its readiness to negotiate a controlled test ban agreement of the greatest possible scope."

Fifteen days ago, the Russians ended their three - year moratorium on nuclear testing. They have fired 10 blasts into the atmosphere in their current series.

There have been reports from an authoritative source that a series of 24 U.S. weapons was ready for testing as soon as Kennedy gave the green light.

The test shot Friday was the 104th nuclear explosion at the Nevada proving grounds. The 103rd was set off nearly three years ago.

Moscow radio broadcast a report of the test without comment. There still has been no official announcement to the Russian people that the Soviet Union resumed testing Sept. 1.

Irish Are Concerned Over Slaughter of Troops in Congo

DUBLIN (AP) — The Irish, neutrals in war but always fighters for a cause, stood with mixed pride and concern today about reports of the slaughter of Irish soldiers in the Congo.

Word of the bloodshed came as a general election campaign began. Feelings ran high in the capital, but few voiced were raised to demand the recall of Irish troops from the UN forces.

Most politicians and newspapers urged the Irish to be proud of the boys who gave their lives for the United Nations. The troops were sent there in support of Ireland's commitment to the world organization, which Irish diplomats have long been trying to mediate disputes and the Irishman has served for the last year as General Assembly president.

"Our Irish soldiers went to the Congo to help the United Nations in the task of restoring peace and providing ordered government for a young nation on the threshold of its independence. he said. "We hope and pray these objectives may soon be realized."

Dillon avoided attacking Prime Minister Sean Lemass' government on the Congo issue.

But a bitter criticism of the United Nations and its representative in Katanga, Conor Cruise O'Brien, came from Senator Patrick Quinlan of Cork.

Quinlan, a fierce opponent of

HOUSE MIRRORS TENSE WORLD SITUATION

Huge Defence Budget Approved

OTTAWA (CP)—The shadow of the Peace Tower on Parliament Hill was all but obliterated this week by the shadow of the Brandenburg Gate.

Commons debate was focused on the Berlin situation, the $1,655,000,000 defence budget and government measures for civil survival.

There was a running argument all week over the question of possible acquisition of nuclear arms. Disarmament was mentioned rarely once, and then only in a whisper.

The Commons, in short, almost exactly mirrored the tense world situation.

The defence budget was approved Friday after a grueling four-day debate in which Defence Minister Harkness and Paul Hellyer, Liberal defence critic, had at least two bitter clashes.

Mr. Hellyer carried the ball for the Liberals in one of the heaviest one-man assaults in the Commons since Stanley Knowles of the CCF fought the pipeline battle in 1956.

MINISTER FOUGHT BACK

Mr. Harkness did not come to back away from a scrap and he gave as well as he got.

The Liberals pounded away at the issue of nuclear armaments, demanding to know the government's decision on whether atomic warheads will be fitted to the weapons as the Bomarc soil - aircraft missile, CF-100 interceptor, CF-104 low-level jet bomber, Honest John artillery rocket and naval guns on destroyer planes and ships.

Mr. Harkness said he wasn't going to be "bludgeoned" into any reply until the government was ready to announce its decision.

During several parliamentary session, already at a record length of 164 days, began Sept. 5, Mr. Hellyer criticized Defence Minister Diefenbaker's announcement of a $15,000,000 increase in the armed forces and a national survival training scheme for 100,000 millionaires.

Tuesday, Mr. Harkness began the defence debate. Mr. Hellyer said Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Harkness were trying to "have it both ways" — "double insurance" to acceptance of nuclear weapons.

On Thursday, Mr. Hellyer accused Mr. Harkness of "lying again"—he had to withdraw the statement. The minister said he had had "about enough" of Mr. Hellyer's "constant carping."

MODERN CHURCHILLS

Mr. Hellyer said Father Pit-man (NDP—Peterborough) described themselves as latter-day Churchills in their attitude

PROFESSOR DIES

REVERE, Mass. (AP) — Dr. Ve-shaun Hsiang, 51, an assistant professor of engineering at Northeastern University, was identified as sometime chief procurement officer for the Chinese Red army. He killed Friday when his car struck an upright on an expressway. In 1953 Hsiang was charged by the Republic of China with being involved in theft of $600,000 entrusted him as Chinese Air Force procurement officer in Washington. He was cleared.

Kennedy Himself May Set Forth 'Sweeping' Plan

Report Plan Designed To Appeal to Neutrals

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States plans to place before the United Nations what authorities described as "sweeping" new disarmament proposals with a heavy appeal to the neutral countries.

President Kennedy may present the proposals himself at the UN General Assembly which opens Tuesday. He is preparing to make his first official appearance before the UN soon after the assembly reconvenes Tuesday members don't get into an immediate hot-tempered fight over the seating of Communist China.

Kennedy gave a hint of the disarmament plan he has in mind when he told neutral nations in a letter that even the American proposal would ensure that disarmament "is general and complete" and that it is somewhat along the lines proposed by Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Kennedy said also his plan would be designed to abolish war as an instrument for settling international disputes—another Khrushchev phrase — and that disarmament would be accompanied by the creation of "reliable procedures for peaceful settlement of disputes and maintenance of peace."

MAY SUBMIT TO COURT

This may be an indication of United States willingness to submit to the decisions of the World Court at The Hague, Neither Russia nor the U.S. has agreed to do this so far.

The new American proposals would make room for neutral countries to participate in inspection and control procedures. While Kennedy gave no indication of any change in previous Western demands for controls, informants said the new proposals would include some modifications on this point.

Russia walked out of the 10-power East - West disarmament negotiations July 31, 1960, rejecting Western inspection and control demands.

Russia also suggested that in new negotiations the commission be expanded to include neutral countries, including five neutrals to balance Khrushchev's "Troika" demands for balanced representation among the Western, Communist and neutral powers.

In opposing the Soviet 'demands, the U.S. has accused Russia of trying to provide breathing room for itself to carry out treaty negotiated. However, Kennedy now is reported ready to go to Khrushchev himself and propose enlarging the negotiating committee to include countries including about a half-dozen neutrals. Canada would probably be a member of the Western negotiating team.

GETS 10 YEAR TERM

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—A revolutionary court today sentenced former Democratic premier Chang Myon, 60, to 10 years in prison for counter - revolutionary activities. Sunwoo was charged with trying to persuade UN forces to intervene in the May 16 military coup and keep the Chang government in power. He decided the charge.

Typhoon Nancy Brawls Into Japan Crashing Into Big Industrial City

TOKYO (AP) — Roaring up from the Pacific, typhoon Nancy brawled into heavily-populated Western Japan today raking the big industrial city of Osaka with terrifying 115 mile an hour storm winds.

The massive storm crashed into Osaka, a city of 3,500,000 people after jabbing cities and towns in the Wakayama Peninsula.

It slithered the port city of Kobe, 15 miles to the west, and roughed up Kyoto, Japan's ancient capital, to the northeast.

Forewarned 48 hours in advance of Nancy's arrival, millions of city and country residents speeded up their homes, removed loose objects from the streets, boarded up and generally went underground.

Floods touched off in the torrential rains as well as in pamphs Nancy brought fears of death and widespread damage in its wake.

Tokyo, the world's biggest city, appeared to be off the path. The weather agency predicted Nancy would veer sharply northeast toward the Japan seacoast.

Nancy has killed six persons, left 24 others missing and injured 76.

Believe Money Hidden Around Ormsby Cottage

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — A search of the Hastings County bush for $185,000 stolen Aug. 31 from a Toronto-Dominion Bank branch in Havelock was narrowed down Friday to the area around a cottage police think may have been broken into by the fleeing robbers.

Police checked the cottage, about three miles east of Highway 62 near Ormsby, and found footprints corresponding to those on the trail they have been following for the last 10 days.

They also said they found clear fingerprints. Near the cottage police found the cut-off tops of three pairs of rubber boots which are expected to match the boots worn by three men captured a few miles from the cottage Sept. 7.

Two Lalonde, 36 his brother Jean Claude Lalonde, 28, Roger Poirier, 31 and Roger Martel, 31, all of Montreal, and a man calling himself George Wilson, of Ottawa, whose real name police say is Lemieux, were transferred to the Ontario county jail from a Peterborough county jail Tuesday for greater security.

All are charged with armed robbery and possession of stolen money. Lalonde and Poirier are also charged with shooting with intent to wound and assault.

WILL KEEP ISLANDS

TOKYO (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev has said he has no intention of returning the Kurile Islands to Japan, Japanese press reported today. The Kremlin ruler told a party meeting Thursday in Moscow with Hisanari Yamada, Japanese ambassador to Moscow.

U.S. Troops Guarding Border Entertained Nightly by Commies

BERLIN (Reuters)—U.S. soldiers guarding the tense East-West Berlin border are being fed Communist propaganda covered with ebullitions and corpuscles.

A bossy - voiced "Southern belle" entertains the U.S. troops with a nightly midnight talk-session broadcast of American music, chit-chat and, of course, the latest Communist line.

The program's theme song: Don't Fence Me In.

The program, beamed from East Berlin on the wave length of one of the Communist radio stations, includes hit tunes, jokes and short stories.

For a homey touch, announcers with nearly - perfect American accents even mention the names of the soldiers guarding the main Friedrichstrasse crossing point.

The program also invites U.S. soldiers to send in record requests by penning an UNTER Cards. The half-hour is followed by 30 minutes of romantic dance music.

The Communists began the broadcasts Aug. 28, nearly two weeks after the East Germans slammed the Berlin borders shut.

Officials of the East Berlin radio won't say who is doing the nightly broadcasts, but most Western listeners agree it's a Russian job.

AMATEUR RADIO CLUB HOLDS FIRST MEETING

On Wednesday evening last, the Quinte Amateur Radio Club held their first meeting of the season.

The president, Wallace Clarke, was in the chair and after a business session and reports from various committee the chairmen, the speakers for the evening were introduced.

The program consisted of speakers who covered the various aspects of Survey High Frequency Communications on the Amateur 144 megacycle band. The speakers were Eugene Hitchon, Howard Fredrick, Harold Carruthers and Ray Lancaster.

The meeting was well attended with members and guests from Stirling, Trenton, Picton, and Wellington being present.

Mr. Clarke, the president said that he hoped the Club would be conducted their training program again this year and that anyone desiring to obtain their Government Amateur Radio Operators License should attend the classes conducted at the Riwanis Centre during the winter months.

Prices Remain Unchanged on Local Market

Prices remained much the same as last week on the farmer's market this morning, but the crowd was considerably smaller, early this morning.

New potatoes were selling for 50 cents a six quart basket, tomatoes, 60 cents, cauliflower, beets and carrots remained the same as last week, 20 cents - 35 cents.

Squash and cantaloupe remained the same in price, from 10 cents - 50 cents, each, depending on size.

Eggs remained steady at 50 cents a dozen, corn at 10 cents, pumpkin from 10 - 25 cents, according to size.

Peaches continues to come to the market in large quantities throughout the week as well as Saturday, and are selling steadily at 40 cents a six quart basket.

The pastry wagon returned to the market square this morning after its annual vacation, offered with delicious pastries such as pie, tarts, cakes and cookies, with prices remaining the same as last week; pie, 50 cents; cookies, 25 cents per dozen; chocolate cake, 65 cents; delicious lemon and butter tarts, 25 cents per dozen.

Perhaps the cool weather early this morning was the reason for the unusually poor crowd.

Some farmers have said it has been an exceptional year for garden produce. This you could easily see on a Saturday occasion to walk through the market square on a Saturday morning.

Ending of Accra Conference May Be the Beginning of The End for Commonwealth

By ALAN DONNELLY

ACCRA, Ghana (CP)—A Commonwealth plea to Britain not to abandon the Commonwealth rang unstuck — and Canadian fears this may happen anyway—closed up like beacon lights at the Commonwealth economic ministers' conference.

The United Kingdom's decision to negotiate for common market membership produced a strained meeting for the Commonwealth.

The meeting in Ghana's beautiful new school building ended with no agreement on whether this is the beginning of the end for the Commonwealth. Canadian Finance Minister Fleming, reported to have been the most outspoken minister here, put his government's view bluntly privately with results for the Common market negotiations. Commonwealth preference will never be the same again. The communique, leaning far towards the British position, merely poked the fears of others that U.K. membership in the common market would fundamentally alter the Commonwealth relationship.

DISAGREEMENT WIDE

The Canadian and U.K. ministers—on the basis of their statements—disagreed entirely on the basis for their forecast of the future. Fleming said Canada, when the U.K. opens common market negotiations,

"will be the first country launched on slippery slope in Commonwealth. We should be turning back short of compromise which would mean a political defeat."

The U.K.'s chancellor of the exchequer, Selwyn Lloyd, disagreed.

"At the appropriate stage we will be able to take stock," Lloyd told the conference.

He maintained Britain could not know until the negotiations whether she can arrange terms to safeguard the essential interests of the Commonwealth in the British market.

The communique made clear that the Commonwealth members shared Canada's misgivings about the political scene, but gave no advance agreement.

WOULD AFFECT MARKET

The Canadian arguments put forward by Fleming and Canadian Trade Minister Hees said 60 per cent of Canada's $915,000,000 annual British exports be seriously affected by British agricultural subsidies if Britain met the common market tariff program if no special protection were arranged for Commonwealth goods.

Fleming, echoed by others, insisted that the British Commonwealth countries would have to be given special arrangements elsewhere to offset the loss.

But Canada made its strongest pitch on the basis of an appeal to Commonwealth unity.

Britain's membership of the Commonwealth is essential, Fleming said. And Britain can't lead if her sovereign freedom of action is diminished by the political requirements of common market membership.

Informed sources in Britain was surprised at the force with which this type of family argument by Fleming was expressed by many Commonwealth members.

Cooking Course Being Added To Classes

The Bay of Quinte District High School Board is adding a full year sponsoring evening classes in two of the city's secondary schools.

At Moira Secondary School, Cooking and Grade 13 Physics are new courses being offered for the first time. The cooking course is designed to assist cooks in the planning and preparation of food for hotels and restaurants while the Algebra course is intended to prepare students for the regular Grade 13 examination.

Provided there are sufficient registrations, classes will be formed in these subjects and in Advanced Auto Mechanics, Elementary and Advanced Bookkeeping, Carpentry, Grade 13 Chemistry, Grade 13 Elementary and Advanced Electronics, Machine Shop, Sewing and Upholstery. Students wishing to enroll in these classes will report to the school on Wednesday, September 27th between 9 and 9 o'clock. First classes will be held on Monday, October 2, and on Monday and Wednesday evenings until the end of March. W. J. Musgrove, Principal of Moira Secondary School is in charge of these classes.

At the Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School, courses will be offered in Advanced Technology - second year of the three - A.T.E.C.), Art, Elementary Auto Mechanics, Bricklaying, English for New Canadians, Millinery, Advanced Sewing, Shorthand, Soil Engineering (lawnmowers and outboards), Stationary Engineering, Stenotary and Advanced Typewriting, V.L.A. Home Construction, Welding and Woodworking.

START OCTOBER 3

These classes will be held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, and those interested should register at B.C.I.V.S. on Tuesday, September 26, between 7 and 9 o'clock. Classes begin on Tuesday, October 3, with E. A. Orr, Principal of B.C.I.V.S. in charge.

As in other courses, instruction will be provided if at all possible, in any other subject for which there is sufficient demand. Department of Education regulations require that at least fifteen students register before a course is approved. Persons wishing instruction in any subject not listed in the previous paragraph should indicate to discuss the matter with the Principal of either school on registration night. Fees for these and any others interested in the same subjects will be the same.

Certificates of proficiency are awarded by the Bay of Quinte District High School Board to students who attend at least 80 per cent of the classes during the instruction period and whose progress is satisfactory to the instructor and the Principal.

Fees are reasonable, being $5.00 for subjects except Welding ($14.00) and Basic English for new Canadians ($2.00) and must be paid at the time of registration.

Advanced registrations can not be accepted, but students can expect to register for any of the courses should endeavor to be at the school at 7 p.m. on the night of registration since the number that can be accommodated in some of the classes is limited.

School officials say too it is important that those who expect to receive maximum benefit from the course begin to attend classes the first week in October.

Son-in-Law Of Governor Given 4 Months

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A clergyman who is the son-in-law of Nelson Rockefeller of New York and the chaplain of Yale University were convicted Friday night in connection with efforts to desegregate Mississippi jails and given $200 fines and 4-month-of-peace charges at Jackson.

Chaplain William S. Coffin of Yale was one of 27 "Freedom Riders" convicted on breach-of-peace and unlawful assembly charges at Montgomery.

UN RESISTANCE

monitored in the neighboring Baghdu broadcast by Katangan troops and Baluba warriors under the command of Antoine Gizenga, the broadcast said. "Machine-guns are heard rattling from the Kamina military base and the firing is heavy."

UN troops also were holding out at other key points while reinforcements were hurried to the embattled airport and the United National tried to reason with Moise Tshombe, president of Katanga.

The three major centres of military action were the provincial capital at Elisabethville, the mining town of Jadotville, 70 miles northwest of the capital, and Kamina base in northern Katanga. Casualties were light and the fighting appeared centred on Elisabethville, UN sources said.

UN ON DEFENSIVE

Katanga forces, led by white officers, were active in all three places. Friday and put UN soldiers on the defensive in their efforts to break the Katanga gendarmerie's encirclement. Reverses from the mineral-rich province have tried to the Congolese treasury.

The fate of 150 Irish soldiers at Jadotville remained in doubt as contact with headquarters was broken. The Irish troops, reinforced by machine-guns.

UN officials discounted Katanga claims that more than one-third of the Irishmen had been killed or captured in the fighting there. But Conor Cruise O'Brien, an Irishman who is the chief UN representative in Katanga, said enough Katangan prisoners had been taken to set up as exchange for the Irish if necessary.

At Radio Free Katanga, Tshombe's station, declared that 10 UN prisoners would be executed for every Katangan prisoner. 130 Irish UN troops were prisoners when the communique was made Friday. It followed orders from UN officials for the surrender and disarming of any Katangan civilian found carrying weapons.

CAREFUL QUERY

The orders came from Brig. S. K. Raja of India, the UN military commander. He decreed a state of emergency and a 9 p.m. curfew. In a message to Katangans, he said any Katangan civilian found carrying weapons "will be considered as rebels and will be treated accordingly."

"Considerable reinforcements are arriving in Katanga from other parts of the Congo," Raja's message said. "Any resistance will be met by force and you are hereby warned not to shoot unless attacked."

Tshombe was believed still in Elisabethville. He was reported in command in Katanga. Michel Tombelain, said Friday the provincial government was ready to talk with UN authorities. But Tombelain said that after last the world organization "is determined to stand by its decision of February 21 Security Council resolution in order to end the Katanga secession." Tshombe had vowed to fight "to the last bullet."

In Elisabethville, snipers in windows and gardens fired at UN Gurkha troops. Eleven Indian soldiers were wounded in supplies for two days surrounded by the radio station. The reinforcements were sent to the station but were ambushed by Katangan troops. Four Indians were reported killed and 15 captured in the engagement.

UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold was in Leopoldville. He met with Conor Cruise O'Brien, British foreign undersecretary of state who had flown to the Congo to mediate in the crisis. Hammarskjold also conferred with Congolese officials and attended a reception they gave in his honor Friday night.

SEEKS INVESTIGATION

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP)—The United Nations command today accused Communist North Korea of sending an espionage vessel into South Korean waters Sept. 8. U.S. Maj.-Gen. Hamilton Warren, chief UN delegate, said the spy vessel was sunk in an exchange of artillery with South Korean Navy patrol boats. He demanded North Korea make an "immediate and thorough investigation" of the incident.

Lions to Attend Sunday Opening Of Hospital

TRENTON — At Thursday night's meeting of the Trenton Lions Club, members decided to attend the ceremonies connected with the opening of the new addition to Trenton Memorial Hospital, Sunday, Sept. 17, by a body. Ted Hamilton is designed to bring to the attention of the public in general that the Trenton Lions Club was responsible for the original conception of a hospital for Trenton. The mass attendance will also be instrumental in honoring the late John M. Booth, of North Providence, Rhode Island, a director of Lions International, who has been invited to take part in the official ceremonies. A committee headed by Harry Sager and Gordon Hemstreet will arrange entertainment for the evening.

A number of members expressed the opinion that the Lions Club was not aware of the part the club, headed by past president William (Bill) Hemstreet, had had in the initial planning and financing of the original hospital in Trenton. The $1000 necessary to purchase the site for the hospital, comprising nine acres of pasture land, was donated by the Lions Club and the Trenton Rotary Club.

Les Hensen and Earl Forbes were elected as two-year directors to replace Jim Lawson, who has moved away from Trenton. Bernard Fox, who has resigned from the directorship because of business pressures.

Lion Wh Shier told the members that at the next meeting the Lions will give plans which that he meant to propose that the Trenton club donate $1,000 towards the Lions Sight Conservation camp for blind persons, which recently went into operation. Secretary Nostrand Sprague, who is also a member of the area Lions Sight Camp at the camp, which will serve blind persons from across the province, reported that $1,000 of the Ontario Lions Clubs had been asked to contribute towards this cost.

Plan Memorial Chapel Service

TRENTON — On Sunday, September 24, the Battle of Britain will be marked by a parade and a memorial chapel service in Trenton, Ontario.

The Battle of Britain, in August of 1940, saw the RCAF in action for the first time, when officers and airmen from the Canadian force joined with RAF flyers in flying against overwhelming odds. Air Marshal Wilfrid (Wop) Curtis, Air Officer Commanding No. 1 Squadron (later 401 Squadron) was engaged in air battle. In all, 47 Canadian officers and airmen, in the RCAF and RAF lost their lives in the Battle of Britain.

The parade will be under the command of Wing Commander R. Cowan, Officer (Transport) Operational Training Unit, Wing Adjutant will be Flying Officer J. R. Mahaney of No. 2 Air Movements Unit. Band will be supplied by Wing Warrant Officer W. F. James.

The trumpet and drum band of RCAF Station, Trenton, will be in attendance under Flight Lieut. John Budd, Miller, bandmaster, and Flt.-Sgt. A Webb, drum major.

Commence Paving On Division Street

TRENTON — On Friday, paving operations were commenced on Division Street from Dufferin Avenue to Sidney Aldersey said that the operation should take a few days only. Two inches of asphalt will be laid this fall and another inch and a half next spring. Mr. Aldersey said that this would allow any bumps in the surface, which might occur over the winter months, to be repaired, and would leave a fine, true crack-ing on the final surface.

By-Law Ready On Annexation

TRENTON: Trenton's clerk-comptroller, O. W. Larry, said Friday that he was preparing a by-law for reading at next Monday night's council meeting which will incorporate council's request for annexation of land in Murray Township.

If council passes the by-law at the first reading, it will then be sent to the Ontario Municipal Board for approval. Should the board approve council's annexation plans, the intention to annex will be advertised and Murray Township residents may lodge protests.

Drama Body Resumes Activities for Fall

TRENTON — The Trenton Drama Group has resumed its activities for the fall and winter season. Mrs. Frank Downs, president, said yesterday that executive members who had been agreeably surprised by the turnout at this week's meeting.

The group, together with members of the local Little Theatre Guild, plans to present the well-known play, "Inherit the Wind" early in December. The play will be produced in Trenton and Belleville on successive nights. As a large cast is needed, Mrs. Downs said that new members would be doubly welcome at this time. Volunteers are asked to contact Mrs. F. P. Downs or Jim Lawson.

The group meets on the third Wednesday of each month in the Recreation Committee's offices in the Orange Hall on Ontario Street.

Fuse Caused Fire

TRENTON — Fire Chief Cecil Ellis said yesterday that overloaded fuse was cause of Ontario Fire Marshal's office, a recent fire on Golden Street. The blaze, which destroyed garage and caused smoke damage to the house, nearby, was caused by an overloaded fuse in one of the homes.

Plan No Change In Trent System Water Control

OTTAWA (CP) — Transport Minister Balcer said today that no major changes will be made this year in the method of water control on the Trent system.

He was replying in the Commons to Walter Pitman (NDP—Peterborough) who said the water flow at the Peterborough lift lock—Canada's highest—at 300 cubic feet a second less than expected although Haliburton reservoir was filled to capacity up.

Mr. Balcer said there are are bound to be year-to-year fluctuations in the water flow because of the variations in water levels in the Trent system. He said due to "varying needs of different groups."

He said Mr. Pitman "must be aware that there are all sorts of diseases to which pigs are subject."

IN MEMORIAM

BENNETT. — In loving memory of a dear husband, Charles Bennett, who passed away September 16th, 1960.

He is gone but not forgotten.
Deep in our hearts lies a picture.
Of a loved one we will miss.
In memory's frame we shall keep him.
Always.
—Ever remembered by his wife, Mary, mother, Doreen, Charlie and family.

BURNEY. — In loving memory of a dear husband, Charles Burney who died September 17th, 1960.
He is gone but not forgotten.
And to dawns another year.
Days of sadness still endure.
Knowing he is not here.
Days of sadness will endure year by year.
Deeply the will life must be healed.
But they link know the sorrow.
That lies within the heart concealed.
—Ever remembered (wife) Dorothy.

FOX. — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, who died Monday, September 18th, 1950.
Morley Ray Fox, who passed away September 18th, 1950.
In Prospect, quietly sleeping.
Awaiting the last trumpet shall sound.
Then I shall see dad, and loving brother.
The one we could not save.
To take his place was given.
He said goodbye to none.
For he left while we slept.
What he from us had gone.
That night the angels took him home.
On a morning not far from here;
Where sleeps the one we can't forget.
The one we loved.
Sadly missed and always remembered by his wife Lottie and family.

GARRISON. — In loving memory of a dear father, Samuel Garrison, who passed away September 16th, 1956.
We little know when we awoke that morning.
The sorrow life day would bring.
The call was sudden.
To part with one we loved so dear.
Sometimes it is hard to understand.
Why some things have to be;
But God makes no mistakes.
He does all things best.
Beyond our power to see.
God gives us strength to fight it.
And courage to bear the blow;
And when life's race is done.
No one will ever know.
—Sadly missed by wife Olive and family.

seen similar statements by Mr. Pearson to which the same term might be applied.

Would the prime minister, asked Mr. Pearson, consider it proper if the United Kingdom government "indulged in the same kind of public criticism of Canadian policy that Canadian ministers now are aiming publicly at the U.K. government policy on a matter so politically controversial?"

With obvious relish, Mr. Diefenbaker recalled that at the time of the 1936 Suez crisis former Liberal prime minister St. Laurent had said "the days of power insofar as the Commonwealth and France are concerned are over."

Mr. Pearson protested that Mr. Diefenbaker was misrepresenting what Mr. St. Laurent said.

In the Hansard record of the 1936 debate on the armed intervention of Britain and France in Suez, Mr. St. Laurent is quoted as saying "the era when the supermen of Europe could govern the whole world has and is coming pretty close to an end."

That gave rise to the famous retort of Howard Green, now external affairs minister, that it was time Canada had "a government "which will not knife Canada's best friends in the back."

"Our desire is not in any way to interfere with the right of any other member of the commonwealth to determine the course it will take, anymore than other parts of the commonwealth can determine ours," Mr. Diefenbaker said.

"However, we have the right among ourselves to point out the potential or possible effects of the action of any member of the Commonwealth on the other members of it.

"...are is a strong and effective Commonwealth and to that end are our purposes directed and our representations made."

Exterior Kindergarten Wall Has 100 Square Foot Mural

Kindergarten pupils at the new Harry J. Clarke School in East Belleville will have their first introduction to Indian lore even before they get to their classroom.

For the exterior wall of their classroom is a 100-square-foot mural with the theme of Hiawatha, the Indian hero of "The Song of Hiawatha" narrative poem written in 1855 by the poet Longfellow.

Watson and Wiegand, local architects who drew the plans for the new school building, were responsible for the outside mural which is a distinctive feature of the kindergarten entrance wall.

A grid was drawn marking the location of each of the thousands of tile required for the mural, each square being numbered according to the color of tile needed.

The tiles were manufactured by the Frontenac Tile Company of Kingston and installed by Pidutti-Fabbri Ltd., tile installers, of Belleville.

Six Candidates in Running For Leadership of UN Party

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec's once all-powerful Union Nationale party meets next week to choose a new leader, draw up a new platform and shore up a shaky party organization.

Six candidates are in the leadership race, but there is a vague expectation in party circles that some may resign before the 1,367 eligible delegates vote next Saturday night.

It will be the party's first convention since it was founded in Sherbrooke, Que., by the late Maurice Duplessis in 1935 through an alliance of the old provincial Conservative party and a group of dissatisfied Liberals.

Until his death two years ago, Mr. Duplessis ruled the party with a fast quip and an iron hand. Since then the Union Nationale has had four leaders chosen by caucus of party members in the Quebec legislature and has lost power to the Liberal party.

It has since been shaken to its roots by government investigations of political patronage during the Union Nationale's last years in power.

ALL ARE LAWYERS

The candidates, all lawyers, are: Jean-Jacques Bertrand, 45, member of Missisquoi; Yves Gabias, 39, member of Trois-Rivieres; Maurice S. Hebert, 36, Montreal; Daniel Johnson, 46, member for Bagot; Raymond Maher, 40, Quebec; and Mayor Armand Nadeau, 31, Sherbrooke.

A total of 2,387 delegates, including alternates, are expected to attend the convention which starts Tuesday.

The opening ceremonies will include a keynote speech by interim leader Antonio Talbot who is expected to report on his leadership during the last two months.

Eight committees are scheduled to be set up to study and draw up resolutions based on more than 1,500 proposals sent in by constituency associations.

Four committees will report in plenary sessions Friday night and four more Saturday morning.

CANDIDATES TO SPEAK

The candidates will speak to the delegates Saturday afternoon and the winner is scheduled to speak at 10 p.m. on a province-wide radio and television network.

The two top leadership candidates are both former cabinet ministers: Mr. Bertrand in health and welfare and Mr. Johnson in hydraulic resources.

Both have toured the province extensively, seeking support from delegates from the 95 constituencies. But they have followed strikingly different campaign tactics.

In his clean - up - the - party speeches, Mr. Bertrand tacitly recognizes that all has not been right with the party, but he has pledged himself to reform it.

Mr. Johnson, who describes government investigations of UN patronage tactics as a waste of time, has stacked the Liberal government in every opportunity and demanded greater legislative control over government spending.

Mr. Pitman said Friday there is a "tremendous amount of propaganda . . . to the effect that we can survive a nuclear war.

"If it is suggested that the people cannot be told the truth because they would lose their composition or desire to fight, then I suggest that democracy has lost before the first missile has been launched."

Mr. Harkness said his own statements are as truthful as the facts at his disposal.

Russia had a "very considerable number" of nuclear warheads. It had a "large fleet" of submarines, some of them capable of firing nuclear - tipped missiles, and a "very large fleet" of both medium, and long-range bombers.

At the end, the debate shifted from the international plane to the local level.

J. R. Garland (L—Nipissing) said North Bay needs federal financial help to provide school accommodation for 1,000 children of RCAF personnel attached to new defence installations in the area.

Mr. Harkness promised an investigation into allegations that RCAF technicians on a Quebec radar station are employed part time running a gas station, grocery store, snack bar, gift shop and post office.

Judy La March (L—Niagara Falls) identified the station as St. Sylvestre, Que., a Pinetree radar site, and her informant as a former airman there.

She said she was told the chief administrative officer at the station deals RCAF trades men, drawing full trades pay, but does RCAF duties on the station.

With the defence debate concluded, the Commons will spend 35 minutes to approve the $68,000,000 appropriation for the defence production department.

On Monday, the Commons will debate Mr. St. Laurent's proposal to set up the planning machinery for Canada's 100th birthday celebrations in 1967.

Two Railway Policemen Shot, Murder, Suicide

MONTREAL (CP)—Two CNR policemen, one of whom was suspended after accepting the job Thursday night, died of gunshot wounds Friday night in what police believe was a murder - suicide.

Sgt. Bernard Thessereult, 49, member of the force since 1939, was shot twice in the abdomen.

Constable Jean Beauvais, 40, suspended after Thessereult paid him off Thursday, died in hospital from a head wound.

Police said Beauvais was informed early Friday that he was under suspension until Monday as a result of Thessereult's report.

The shooting took place in the CNR police offices in the railway yards in the southwest Point St. Charles district.

Horse Racing Proves Popular At Warkworth

WARKWORTH — Harness racing proved to be probably the biggest attraction at the Warkworth Fair on Friday, when six heats, comprising three races were run off.

The track was fast, and all he.ts went off smoothly.

Judges said probably the best race, and the fastest was the free-for-all, won by Johnny Dale, owned by Jack Ball of Baltimore. The horse placed first in both heats. Bud Phogo, grash, also owned by Jack Ball was last in both heats.

Following are the results of the races:

Wheat Producers In Area Get $6,056

CHATHAM — Ontario wheat producers will share a surplus payment totalling $462,746.00 for Ontario wheat marketed during July 1st, 1960 to June 30th, 1961.

The payment represents the increased portion of the base cent per bushel levy collected on all wheat marketed during the period and amounts to five cents per bushel return, which will be distributed directly to individual producers.

In announcing the payment, Mr. Otis McGregor, Assistant Secretary-Manager of the Ontario Wheat Producers' Marketing Board, said the total amount will be shared by 34,- 525 producers who marketed a total of 9,254,367 bushels of the 1960 wheat crop.

Two hundred and seven Hastings County growers, who marketed 88,390 bushels, will share $2,643.70. In Prince Edward County 286 growers will divide $3,413.00, they having marketed 68,280 bushels.

Building a Home Is Team Operation Says President Of Coleman Lamp Company

Modern day house construction with its multiplicity of trades is a fine example of free enterprize at work.

This was stated Friday by Mr. Sheldon Coleman of Wichita, Kansas, International President of the Coleman Company, as he addressed a dinner party at the Hotel Quinte attended by heating supply men and housing contractors in the city.

Mr. Coleman was in Belleville for the official opening of the new Loewen heating building on East Dundas, Street and later attended the dinner sponsored by Lakeland Natural Gas.

He said the many different components going into the construction of a modern day house called for the utmost of co-operation on the part of the manufacturer, dealers and builders and suppliers of fuel. The end results were better making for happier, more helpful and more comfortable homes.

"It is definitely a team operation," he said. "We are all in it together."

STRIVE FOR BEST ADVICE

Mr. Coleman urged building and heating contractors to strive always for the best construction and installations.

"We are all dependent on repeat business, not on it one-shot sale," he said. "If we depended on one-shot sales we would soon all be out of business."

Also heard briefly at the dinner were C. J. McCarthy, vice-president and general manager of Lakeland Gas at Kingston, Lyle Whaley, vice-president of the Canadian Coleman Company Ltd., and Randy Loewen, owner of Loewen Heating and Air Conditioning.

GREETINGS EXTENDED

Greetings were extended by Deputy Mayor Robert Temple and by Maurice Rollins, president of the Quinte Home Builders' Association.

A native of Saskatchewan, Mr. Loewen already was experienced in gas heating -installations before he came to Niagara Falls 12 years ago.

Since coming to Belleville three years ago, he has done a big share of the gas heating and air conditioning installations in the Belleville and Trenton district. Mr. Loewen is a local dealer for Coleman gas furnaces.

Joseph Connell of Kitchener-Waterloo is to be the speaker at the Sales and Ad Club meeting here Tuesday, September 19. Mr. Connell will speak on "You and Your Personality".

He is the General Secretary of the Kitchener-Waterloo Y.M.C.A., past president of the International Association of Y's Men's Clubs and past president of the Ontario Teachers' Federation.

Mr. Connell is also known as a speaker in Europe, North Africa and Central and South America and was elected as Kitchener - Waterloo's "citizen of the year" in 1959.

the government, said in a telegram to Lemass:

"The black and tan methods of the United Nations, under O'Brien's leadership, are fast putting Katanga — the Catholic part of The Congo—under the heel of the plank regime in Leopoldville, in which the Communist Deputy Premier (Antoine) Gizenga is the real power.

"All Irishmen are shocked and saddened that Irish blood should be recklessly spilled in the diabolical task of spreading communism in The Congo."

The black and tans were the constabulary recruited by the British and used in the Irish rebellion after the First World War.

Lemass instructed External Affairs Minister Frank Aiken to go to The Congo to investigate the fighting involving Irish troops.

Many Irish politicians were believed to have decided to wait for Aiken's report before raising the Katanga fighting as a full-scale election issue.

The main issue in the election campaign is still regarded as Ireland's decision to apply for membership of the European Common Market.

Transmigration

A Canadian psychiatrist, Dr. Ian Stevenson, has left for Ceylon, to carry out research on reincarnation by interviewing children who claim to have memories of another life.

"Dignifying this irrational belief with serious research," says the Peterborough Examiner, "can only bring ridicule and disrepute down on the head of a very worthy profession."

This statement, which might pass almost unnoticed from another source, seems strangely out of character for the Examiner, whose editorials generally display a fine breadth of knowledge and a depth of sympathy.

As the Examiner notes, "the belief that our souls will be, or have already been, reborn in new earth bodies of mind and body is as ancient as civilization." "Plato believed it," says the Examiner, "so did Pythagoras and Cicero and Virgil and Ovid." The Talmud refers to transmigration of the soul, though few rabbis teach this as a truth. It is, of course, a dominant theme in many religions of the East, including Buddhism and Hinduism.

Why, then, term such a belief "irrational?" Is it any more irrational than a belief in the existence of the soul? It is true that, though this belief is ancient, "yet no proof has ever been produced to substantiate the theory." Where, in the field of religion, will one discover a belief which has been "proved"? The belief is a comfortable one, especially to the afflicted and underprivileged," says the Examiner. If this is cause for rejection, how many other beliefs must be discarded also? Is not belief in the existence of a soul in itself "a comforting one, especially to the afflicted and underprivileged?"

The idea of a second, or even more springs eternal in all of us but when we believe that we do not have to seek it in this life, it becomes a superstition, and in the end a disappointment," says the Examiner.

This is a valid argument against a belief in reincarnation only if it is advanced by an atheist or an agnostic. For such, a belief in the transmigration of souls is indeed "irrational." But why lift it from foreign windmills when so many lie scattered about the surrounding country-side?

Will Study Resources

Next month, in Montreal, a conference entitled "Resources for Tomorrow" will be staged.

This could be one of the most important conferences ever held in Canada.

We all know that our country has been richly endowed with natural resources. That we have been told, time and time again. Most of us realize that, in spite of their extent, these resources are not inexhaustible. But that we have seldom been told.

Natural resources are of two types. Some are "renewable" in the sense that man himself can create the conditions which will provide at least partial replacement, at some date months or years in the future, of the material he uses today. Some are other resources which can never be renewed.

If we are faithful to our progeny, we shall not heedlessly reap the wealth we have inherited without some thought of the needs of future generations.

In some cases, this will involve sowing as well as reaping, as with reforestation.

In other cases, we merely need to use the resources carefully, keeping our land from being eroded and our rivers and lakes from being polluted.

In still other cases despite the abundance of raw material we now possess, we ought to consider whether we are using it prudently. The mere fact we can sell it today, at a profit, does not necessarily justify our doing so. In some cases, such as the drilling for oil in Western Canada and the blowing off of vast quantities of gas because we lacked means of transporting it to markets, we have been almost criminally wasteful.

There is no necessity for stripping from the earth today all the rich ores in the land. Future generations will need metals, too. Perhaps there ought to be set aside certain areas where prospecting and mining are forbidden, just as some forest regions are designated as "wilderness areas."

There seems to be something about an antique shop that brings humanity to the boil. According to its individual lights, shrewdness, kindliness, wariness, greediness, craftiness, charm, vanity and sometimes unbelievable rudeness arise in turn, larger than life in an antique shop. If you want to see a woman as she really is, then just let her loose in an old chinashop.—Writer and broadcaster C. Gordon Gloyer on the BBC.

Abortion Flourishing

Vancouver the Centre

Illegal abortion in British Columbia is a flourishing industry with an annual income estimated to be somewhat above that of wheat farmers ($2,200,000 as against $1,700,000) but of knitting mills ($2,400,000).

One out of five B.C. women, at some time in her life, will trust her health, fortune, reputation and life to its practitioners. In doing so, she will be trusting them to an industry in which a syncretized federal law encourages extortion, imposes unjust penalties, bestows privileges on wealth and peril on the poor.

• • •

The going price for B.C.'s 8,000 annual abortions is in the neighborhood of $300 each. tion.

It varies fantastically, and is often determined by what the traffic will bear. The only legal sanction is the one which is necessary to save the life of a mother. Yet reputable physicians are known to have performed abortions free of charge to save unfortunate women from disgrace, insanity or inevitable misery — none of which is permitted under the present law.

In Greater Vancouver, where the bulk of B.C. abortions are performed, the usual prices range from $250 to $350. Because detection is less likely, many women who can afford it go to Seattle, where the price is usually $500. Without the recommendation of a friendly physician who is willing to chide his diagnosis, abortions are illegal. Only one doctor has been procured from $1,200 up, in dubious legality.

The B.C. Medical Association's authorized charge for a legal abortion, in which the mother must include the danger of complications, is $75. This includes skilled diagnosis, hospital operation and aftercare.

• • •

By no means all illegal operators are harpies. Some are expert, conscientious and reasonable in their charges.

But for the rapacious exploiter, the young, inexperienced victim to whom pregnancy threatens most in disgrace and misery is the favorite victim. She has the most difficulty in locating a reputable practitioner and, from her, the most difficulty operator can wring every last penny. And if a wealthier woman should fall into his hands, the opportunity for blackmail is obvious.

This type of operator, who battens of the poor, is naturally the one who is most likely to be a bungler and ignore sanitary precautions, with obvious consequences in injury and death. He will often use the most dangerous types of treatment.

• • •

The law can penalize, but it cannot punish or control.

It falls most heavily on the least blameworthy. A physician who performs an illegal abortion without charge, from sympathy, inevitably loses his license if detected. He may be sentenced to life in jail.

Police are reluctant to prosecute unless a complaint is laid. In Vancouver's flourishing industry, probably 4,000 cases a year, there are only 20 prosecutions with one conviction in 1939 and no prosecutions in 1940.

Penalties are inequitable. A woman who attempted to procure an abortion for a penniless friend with eight children, three of them illegitimate, was sentenced to a year and three months in jail. A man guilty of the same charge got off with a fine of his paramour got suspended sentence. A professional female abortionist got one year.

These are the lunatic injustices on the fringe of an unenforceable law.

Ad Campaign for South

By Eugene Patterson in the Atlanta Constitution

Mississippi leads in a new call for the South to take up a collection and advertise its case against all views nationally. This is an excellent idea which can do great good.

Too many Americans in the North and West have judged Southerners by the activities of leaders who continue to speak, but not for the people.

What a great job it would be for the South to junk the jargon, which for too long has attempted to justify the impossible, and set the record straight.

• • •

Let the ad begin by announcing that every citizen of the South questioned the Supreme Court's decision to desegregate the races as opposed to the limit by every honorable means; but now, with honorable means exhausted, the South has determined to abide its dignity by the law without casting aspersions on the patriotism of the Supreme Court, the legislative, the Executive government or the pride of the Negro race.

In return for that pledge, the South requests an end to the unfair competition based on a beginning of sympathetic understanding for its difficulties and it objects to the attempt to protracted pacing of a delicate change.

• • •

Let the advertisement go on to express the determination of the South that the Negro citizen has the same right to vote as any other American citizen and will have that right safeguarded from intimidation or unfair disqualification by the full powers vested in each of the sovereign Southern states.

In return, it requests an end to the questioning of its fair dealing.

Let the ad inform all of American that Southerners have suffered an understandable anxiety about the rearrangement of a delicate return but are determined to move reasonably to meet the demands of social adjustment as they can or in compliance with law, in such fields as jobs, libraries, hotels, lunch counters, transport terminals, housing.

In return the South asks for mutual reason to reduce such divisive goadings as extended freedom rides and the use of present pressure in pre-sensitive areas such as wade-ins.

• • •

The ad should state that Southern honor has been pledged to accept political speeches based on humiliation of the Negro as a human being and in return for Southern determination to replace radical legislation with a regard for the dignity of all, the South requests a fair regard for itself in place of regional prejudice.

Once these positions are insert and put forth in dignified explanations the South can expect the patience, the understanding and the support of the nation, and an ear for its appeals to keep this whole question from being perverted at their home base.

But if the Madison Avenue of Mississippi happens to have some other kind of advertising in mind—and possibly it may have—the Southerners can save our money because we'll be talking to nobody but ourselves.

WITH GOD FREEDING

Do miracles still occur?

The testimony of the Bible leads us to conclude with considerable assurance that if miracles ever occurred they undoubtedly still continue to occur, and that if they do not occur now, they probably never did occur.

Why should Christian believers find it hard to believe in miracles? That any occurring about us all the time. That animals cell piercing a female cell can produce a human being, and that within these cells are all the potentialities which later make up human life, is great a miracle as any recorded in the Bible. The instinct of animals appears to show divine direction of some kind. The growth of trees, fruit, grass, and grain involve processes of utterly amazing character.

But is not miracle something different from all this? Yes, in many ways yet the natural world, which is the stage upon which miracle of any kind must occur, is part of a vast order some of which is visible, known, and physical, and some of which is invisible, unknown, and spiritual. With an all-powerful God presiding over the universe, with "the great round world in His hand," as the words of the spiritual run, we can indeed believe that all things are possible!

Miracles? Of course. They are only the continuation and extension of what is taking place about us and within us all the time.

New Refinery Cleans Oil

Brockville Recorder and Times

A small oil refinery in Derbyshire, England, is helping the airline industry to economize —by turning old oil into new. However dirty and contaminated airplane lubricating becomes, they can be washed and used again. The inventor, in his company spokesmen point out, is that it never wears out. Canadian Pacific is the latest customer of this refinery located in a picturesque corner of Derbyshire. The airline expects to save about $50,000 a year on oil they used to throw away.

Eggs Match Table Decor

West German Bulletin

You may one day be able to buy eggs to match your table decorations. Hen's eggs of blue and green are the results of experiments by Prof. Herre, are on view at the Kiel Institute for Animal Husbandry and Animals. Dr. Herre discovered, while on a trip in South America, that Araucanian chickens, named after an Indian tribe, lay blue eggs. The whites and yolks are, however, no different from those of ordinary eggs. He then crossed these chickens with ordinary German domestic chickens and their offspring laid green eggs!

Wage War On Insects

Kitchener - Waterloo Record

Entomologists estimate that insects ruin at least one-tenth of man's crops and destroy enough timber each year than forest fires and fungus rots.

Considering the massive destruction by insects, we can hardly help but be greatly disposed toward even those repulsive creatures that play an important part in keeping insects under control.

So let's know something of our friendly but misunderstood animals.

You, even the lowly rattlesnake is a great controller of rodent and insects. It is estimated that a snake eats at least its worth $40 annually as a pest destroyer.

The skunk occasionally likes a chicken dinner. But he earns all that by consuming a great deal his own weight several times a week in crop-destroying mice, grasshoppers, cutworms, grubs, sphers and mice.

Bats, rare as we fear and dislike them, are about one of the most harmless creatures on earth. Their diet has been known to attack a human. They feed entirely on night-flying insects which they capture in flight.

A toad isn't handsome and has warts all over him, but that's no reason to dislike and mistreat him. It is estimated that he eats 10,000 garden insects in one summer. There even brought toads from Argentina to Florida to help combat the sugar cane beetle. The toad licked that situation up in a hurry to every one's satisfaction.

It is good now and then to look at the credit side of these misunderstood animals.

Ingrown Hairs Should Not Cause One Embarrassment

By Joseph C. Gleiser, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am in my early 20's. My problem is my beard. I have been told it is rare would be called ingrown hairs. They don't seem able to penetrate the skin and the hair is thick and tortured me.

"I've obtain relief I have resorted to shaving to scratch the skin and pull the hairs out. I used the cloth about four times a week. I shave daily. I must pull at least 30 or 40 hairs at a time and that leaves my face looking like I've been fighting a cat.

"I am embarrassed to tell my family doctor. — M. E."

• • •

Oh, hey! There is no reason at all for being embarrassed. This can happen to anybody — although even if you have exaggerated a bit, you've got quite a case.

What are ingrown hairs? Internal things. The texture of the skin has a lot to do with it, and this varies a great deal from one person to another. A tough rugged outer layer of skin is a big factor, and so is the way the hair follicle is set in the skin or bristle as it starts to grow out.

When this happens, the hair, instead of growing out, curls up underneath the skin and keeps growing and becomes irritating. It's possible that the natural curliness of hair in some people is a factor. But you can't do anything about that.

Generally, however, men are most likely to have this trouble on the neck — especially down in the back, where the collar exerting friction, or under the chin. But it can happen anywhere that a hair has been shaved off short so that the stub of the hair manages to get back together under the skin. Give it time, and it begins to look like a pimple, and may be mildly infected. It's an itchy sort of nuisance.

Those shaving "shavis" "against the grain," which cuts each hair off very short — actually increase the chance. Company spokesmen point out, is that it never wears out. Canadian Pacific is the latest customer of this refinery located in a picturesque corner of Derbyshire. The airline expects to save about $50,000 a year on oil they used to throw away

A Lift for Living

Life Resembles a Relay Race

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

At the Olympic Games in London one summer a dramatic incident occurred right in front of my section of the stadium. A relay race was on. The French team had started well. But as the baton was being passed to the third runner he dropped it. The incident, of course, put the team out of the running. The runner dropped to the ground, flung his hands to his head in a gesture of despair, and openly wept. His emotional outburst continued as he was led from the arena.

To take defeat so tearfully might seem a bit unsportsmanlike. But one should remember how many persons were involved in that runner's failure. There were his watching compatriots whose hopes were dashed. There were two teammates who had run before him, whose work was ruined by his blunder. And then there was the runner who was to come after, but who never got the chance to run because of the accident.

The whole spectacle made me realize how much life is like a relay race. In the race of life, no one starts from scratch, each for himself. Others have run the course before us and we start from the point where their lives touch ours. Our parents come down the track, and while we run along beside them, until they are able to pass the baton of their work and character on to us. Then we carry on while our parents slow down and eventually step out of the race. Ultimately we come around to the day when we transfer our interest and undivided hopes to our children. Thus generation is linked to generation.

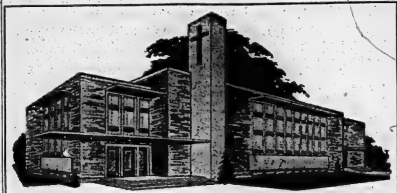
SENSE OF INDEBTEDNESS

This idea of life as a relay race, for one thing, humbles us with a sense of indebtedness. A person of find nature is never humbly grateful. He recognizes his indebtedness to his parents for their nurture during his infancy. When he sits down to eat, he bows his head in gratitude for the bounties of earth, and the services which have brought his food to him. When he stands to speak in public, when he enters a church for worship, when he goes into the booth to vote, he is mindful of the cost by which these freedoms were purchased. He is conscious that the word "blessing" and the word "blood" come from the same root, and that the red blood of sacrifice is on all the blessings he enjoys.

The world does not owe us a living just because we were born into it. The grace of God has been woven into our inheritance and we are recipients of favors not earned by physical birth.

During the presidency of Mark Hopkins at Williams College, some village buildings were defaced. When the culprit was caught, he turned out to be the son of a wealthy supporter of the school. Called before the president, he pulled out his pocketbook and said jauntily, "Well, Doctor, what's the damage?" President Hopkins replied, "Young man, put up your purse. Tomorrow at prayers you will make public acknowledgment of your offense, or you will be expelled." Speaking later of the incident, Mark Hopkins said: "Rich young men come here and take that tone as if they could pay for what they get here. No student can pay for what he gets at Williams College. Can any student pay for the sacrifice of Colonel Williams and all other benefactors? For the heroic sacrifices of half - paid professors who have given their lives that young men might have, at the smallest cost, a liberal education? Every man here is a charity student."

Chesterton once said "He who is conscious of a debt he can never pay, will be forever paying it." Our generation is not only fesis indebted to its forerunners; but we in our time have known those who ran beside us before they gave their lives for our country.



A few years ago a university professor wrote me a letter prior to Memorial Day. He asked me to preach a radio sermon on the theme, "Our Honored Dead." He admitted that he had once thought of that expression as a ceremonial term uttered pompously on Memorial Days. But he lost a son in the Second World War. When he thought of that boy who gave his life so bravely he could not bear to have him forgotten by his countrymen.

Every year as I read the mounting statistics of holiday traffic and tragedies, I realize how we rush along seeking our pleasures forgetful of those who made possible these blessings we enjoy.

To be sure, we pay heavy taxes. To be sure, governments could and should be more economical. Nevertheless, you and I are not paying our full way in this land of the free and the home of the brave." Others paid before we were born.

Only Stars Are Reliable Says Gypsy

VANCOUVER (CP) — The leaves, crystal balls and palms tell no secrets to Gypsy Rose Lee, famous stripper and burlesque queen of the late king of England's Romany tribe.

"Only the stars are reliable, said the 61-year-old princess, here on her way home to England after a visit to Australia.

And she doesn't get her information by gazing at the night sky. She says she bases her long-term predictions on data set out in the officially approved solar charts.

"I want everyone to know that Gypsies aren't unwashed rogues," said the tastefully dressed Englishwoman in an interview aboard the liner Oronsay. "It is against our faith to steal — there are fewer lawbreakers among us than among any other people."

"The term 'Gypsy' is derogatory — Gypsies just don't know about us," she explained.

Miss Petulengro has lived in a caravan most of her life and says she does not enjoy life in a house. She first tried indoor living in 1947 and now has a house in Gloucestershire on the Welsh border.

She became a princess on the death of her brother, Xavier, in 1957. Xavier inherited the Romany crown from Queen Ena whose son bought a brick business and became ineligible for succession.

She said some of her people are doctors, bankers and merchants, but they have deserted the true faith. They are no more Romanies than the ragged hoboes and itinerant thieves, she says.

ADDED TOUCH

LONDON (CP)—West London beauty salon owner Harry Gumbiner applied unsuccessfully for removal of a plastic old street lamp directly outside his premises. Now he has decorated it with flowers and colored ribbons.

Girl Guides, Brownies Begin Registrations

With school once again in full swing, comes thoughts of Brownies and Guides, and the weekly meetings and activities which so many girls enjoy. Brownies, aged 8 to 11, and Guides, aged 11 - 16, will be registering in Belleville West this coming week, and are reminded that the annual registration fee of $1, should be paid at this time.

Leaders are always happy to meet the mothers of newcomers at registration, and in many cases, Brownie Pack or Guide Company is in need of an extra Guider (or Leader). Mothers, or adult friends of these children, can find a great deal of enjoyment and satisfaction in working with Brownies or Guides; so, if you fit into this category, why not come down when your daughter registers, and offer your talents, great or small? Your rewards will be many in seeing the new skills and friendships their children acquire in this "world-wide movement, Brownies who are familiar with Guiding will be only too happy to help you learn what it is all about.

There follows a list of the Pack and Company meetings in Belleville west and their time of meeting.

Pack 2 — Brown Owl Mrs. Watkin, Tawny Owl Mrs. Craighead; Meetings Thursday, Wednesday, Sept. 20, after school.

Pack 4 — Prince of Wales School: No registration at present because of a lack of present vacancies.

Settle, at WO 8-7213.

BINGO ORPHANS

LONDON (CP)—The Young People's Union of Britain has asked Prime Minister Macmillan to bring in a law to protect "bingo orphans." They are says thousands of young children are being left uncared for while their parents are off playing bingo.

Mr. and Mrs. James Grant Corlies are shown cutting the wedding cake following their marriage in Bridge Street United Church. The bride is the former Miss Mary Marietta Sandercock, daughter of Mr. W. E. Sandercock, MPP, and Mrs. Sandercock, of Belleville. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Carl Grant Corlies, of Belleville, and the late Mr. Corlies. (Photo by Lambers Studio, Belleville)

CORLIES — SANDERCOCK

On Saturday September 2, 1961 at 3.30 p.m. in Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, a very pretty double ring wedding was solemnized by the Rev. Harry Ray Davis, pastor of the church, when Mary Marietta Sandercock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Sandercock, was united in marriage to James Grant Corlies, son of Mrs. Carl Grant Corlies, Belleville, and the late Mr. Corlies. Lovely baskets of white gladioli, pink 'mums and gleaming candelabra adorned the chancel, and white satin bows designated the guest pews.

Miss Loretta McDougall, soloist, sang the "Lord's Prayer" by Malotte. Before the ceremony and the "Nuptial Benediction," Mrs. Macdonald during the signing of the register. Mr. S. Alec Gordon, organist of Bridge Street United Church provided the wedding music and also accompanied the soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the radiant bride wore a lovely floor-length bridal gown of silk norganza fashioned with bouffant skirt. The red bodice having a square neckline of Chantilly lace with sequin and pearl trim; short cap sleeves, with matching lace cuffs. Chantilly lace accented the bottom of the graceful skirt. Lace detailed at front back in the form of a vee fitted with bow of norganza. A crown headdress of seed pearls held her elbow-length illusion veil, and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink and white Sweetheart roses mingled with ivy.

Mrs. Earle Nelson, Campbellford, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and the bridesmaid was Miss Sheila Creegan, of Ottawa. They were dressed alike in pure silk organza in fiesta pink with square neckline and cap sleeves. The softly draped bodices were accented at the front by a bow of lace. They wore shoes enhanced by wide French illusion lace bows. They wore matching shoes and headdresses of tulle, sequins and reed and carried semi-cascade bouquets of white shasta 'mums and ivy.

Little Miss Evonne Weese, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl in the wedding party. Her attire reflect was like the bridesmaids in pure silk organza in fiesta pink with square neckline and cap sleeves. The softly draped bodices were accented at the front by a bow of lace. They wore shoes enhanced by wide French illusion lace bows. They wore matching shoes and headdresses of tulle, sequins and reed and carried semi-cascade bouquets of white shasta 'mums and ivy.

Master Stephen Paul Nelson, nephew of the bride, performed the duties as a ring bearer in a most dignified manner.

Mr. George Corlies, Brockville, Ontario, attended his brother as best man, while Earle Nelson, brother-in-law of the bride and Mr. Glen Suddard, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, ushered the guests.

The reception was held in the spacious church lawn at the home of the bride, where the bride's table was appointed in traditional nuptial fashion with a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a vase of white flowers.

The bride's mother received the guests attired in pale rose lace dress with matching cocktrich feather hat and corsage of pale pink carnations and white feathered carnations. Assisting in the receiving line was the bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. Tom Warner, who was attired in beige linen lace, matching accessories and corsage of white carnations.

Guests were present from Toronto; Detroit; Brooklin; Stirling; Campbellford; Belleville and Ottawa.

For the wedding trip to Halifax, N.S., the bride wore a coral wool suit with white orchid corsage and gold and tan accessories, with corsage of white feathered carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Corlies will reside at 1601 Victoria Park Avenue, Apartment 304, Scarboro, Ontario.

Presentations from Hydro social club, Hydro girls' bowling and Consumer Service department staff, honored the bride.

GIRL GUIDE, BROWNIE NEWS

Paris Casts a Magic Light Whether It Be Day or Night

By Shirley and Bob Sloane

Paris — One of the complications of visiting this last of the great sights-to-see cities is that hardly anyone, least of all the Parisians, ever gets around to doing so when he or she should. I averaged less than four hours a night because trotting in more and a totally absurd thing to do.

One of the countless clichés about Paris calls it "the City of Light" and like almost anything else you can say about Paris, it has a double meaning. This one, however, is innocent.

By day Paris has that rare attribute of San Francisco on a clear day). Rome Lisbon, and all of Africa, a luminescent clarity in the air that heightens and sharpens the colors and outlines of things so that you are seeing them in a new dimension. It is this dreamlike quality that for centuries has fascinated artists and, often as not, driven them slightly balmy.

By night Paris becomes a city of artificial light quite unlike any other. The soft elegance of the Champs Elysees and the other dazzling places is bejewelled with arcs. The heroic monuments that punctuate the boulevards are floodlit in spotlights. The Arc de Triomphe, The Eiffel Tower and Notre Dame seem to radiate their own light as the hours of darkness, the hours Paris is awake and the dull liveliong day, finally fall upon the city.

NIGHTS AND NIGHTFALL

The impression is unmistakable that Paris sweats out the daylight hours, the subway running hot and crowded, the parking tickets and exquisitely tuned and tumed fashions and perfume, because it must be done. But all day a voluptuous feeling of anticipation and excitement, hangs impatiently in this luminous air.

One of the things which makes Paris a true night time city is that there are no opening hours. From the ratty beatnik joints in St. Germain de Pres to the Lido and Maxim's every place stays open so long as a waiter can prop his eyelids open and there is one more customer to demand yet another glass of Pernod.

Because the end of the evening is always open, there is never any rush to get a night's fun accomplished. Invariably it begins with a leisurely pre-dinner drink at a restaurant chosen to fit the mood of the moment. There is no rush as in London, where the restaurants don't start serving dinner until 6:30 and the theatre curtains go up at 7:30. Here the Opera Comique or the Folies may wait. If they can't there is always something else to do.

It may be the Lido cabaret, where the last show doesn't even start until 2a.m. Or it may be one of those not-quite-believable night clubs where the decor may range from a Hollywood producer's dream of a Wild West saloon, to a designer's nightmare of a Spanish courtyard. The shows, always playing touch and go with France's schizophrenic obscenity laws, vary, hardly at all.

Neither do the women. Anywhere you encounter them, are inexplicably gorgeous. This is no mere quixotic whim; all the cliches about French women are true, from the women of the night to the showgirls of the evening, to the secretaries, and to the garden variety of housewife.

CRASHING SEX BARRIER

The difference — vive la différence — explains Erlebach lies in the French woman's outlook on sex. Where the American woman spends all her life cultivating an inscrutable mask to be

by HORACE B. POWELL

"CROSSING THE BAR"

Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me,
And may there be no moaning of the bar
When I put out to sea.

But such a tide as moving seems asleep
Too full for sound or foam,
When that which drew from out the boundless deep
Turns again home.

Twilight and evening bell,
And after that the dark,
And may there be no sadness of farewell
When I embark.

For, though from out our bourne of time and place
The flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my Pilot face to face,
When I have crossed the bar.

Two years later he published his first collection of verses, and out of your life's work." In answered, "It came to me in a moment." He explained the "Pilot" was Arthur Hallam and Unseen Who is always guiding us". A few days before my father's death, he said to me, "Write you put 'Crossing the Bar' at the end of all editions of my poetry".

A committee of the Free Church of Scotland engaged Sir Joseph Barnby to set Mr. Tennyson's verses to music to form a processional and School Hymnal" in 1882. The tune first appeared in this country in the Presbyterian Hymnal in 1885.

Two very famous hymns were born in the same year, 1834. One of these was the popular "Crossing the Bar", which was written by Alfred Lord Tennyson, England's beloved poet and man of letters, was its author, and Joseph Barnby, the famous organist, composer, editor and choral director, created its music. It is found today in most church song books.

Mr. Tennyson, whose father was a clergyman, was born August 6, 1809 at Somersby in Lincolnshire. In 1830 he entered Trinity College at Cambridge. Here he published his first collection of verses. But of this collection of verses, little was noticed.

It was his "Poems" which appeared in two volumes in 1842 which really introduced him to the world and started him on the road to wide popularity.

Mr. Tennyson's son and biographer revealed that his father was ill at the time "Crossing the Bar" was written. The verses were made, he said, "on a day in October when we were from Aldworth to Farringford. Before reaching Farringford he had the meaning of them clear in his mind, and after dinner he showed me this poem, written Never and the skeptic, Norman says that there is a good enough for his parents is not good enough for him.

Norman T. — It all makes no sense to me. It's for hard-headed business men.

* * *

Mrs. O. T. — We have five children and we brought up as Godfearing, faithful members of our Church. Though our youngest, is now 18 and suddenly refuses to set foot in the Church. He blames it on his friends, a bunch of beatniks who grow their hair, don't believe in anything except beer and bongo drums.

It's pitiful to see can't have Norman around at family parties. He starts arguments about religion, hands out insults and ridicule. We have three young grandchildren whom we try to keep out of earshot of their blaspheming uncle.

My mother says I argue. But she and the others start it. They're obedient to "save" me. I feel them to save their breath, to leave me alone. If they want the church for themselves; fine. Why force it on me? I think it's all primitive, childish.

And my friends aren't beatniks just because they play musical instruments and take their inspiration from the arts. We find uplift from a Frank Lloyd Wright building or a dance recital.

My mother needn't fear. I'll find truth in my own way. I can't swallow that Bible hocus-pocus.

"THE BUSINESS OF A SCHOLAR"

"Gold has its price, learning is beyond price."—Old Chinese Proverb.

Pretty girls, interesting landscapes or appealing animals glorify the covers of magazines these days. But the cover picture on a Canadian periodical with a poem as an eye-catcher was not only a novelty, but actually demanded a second glance. As it gazed upon the old-fashioned parchment, against a red background, were these words:

"To be at home in all lands and all ages;
To count Nature a familiar acquaintance,
And Art an intimate friend;
To gain a standard for the appreciation of other men's work
And the criticism of one's own;
To carry the keys of the world's library in one's pocket
And feel its resources behind one in whatever task he undertakes;
To make hosts of friends among the dead as well as the living;
Who are to be leaders in all walks of life;
To lose oneself in generous enthusiasms
And co-operate with others for common ends;
To learn modesty from students who are gentlemen,
And form character under professors who are Christians.
This is the offer of the college for the best four years of one's life."

THE BUSINESS

Recently sharp trend in adult education is evident. One educational specialist believes it is because "that which they have to live with didn't exist when they went to school". Classes this fall as there will be high school students and college undergraduates. A few years ago the administration didn't have any estimate on adult enrollment, and are now planning to begin a three year study of "its scope and the courses being pursued."

A special paragraph disclosed this was the work of William Dewitt Hyde, President of Bowdoin College from 1917.

That such advantages be not totally denied Canadian students is the plea of Dr. Murray H. Ross, President of York University, who greatly laments the fact that only four out of a hundred students graduate from university. He suggests more than one path (other than the traditional "precisely the same training for each child should be created to serve the needs of those who have different aptitudes by offering courses consistent with ability. These courses, he feels, should relate to the Canadian cultural and economic life, cover some area of history, geography or literature, and be taught in one high school as opposed to a high status high school and a low status vocational school. Following along the lines somewhat of Bertrand Russell's ideal of a comprehensive school, to transform a heterogeneous selection of mankind into a homogeneous whole." A child cannot afford untrained, wasted capabilities, Dr. Ross warns.

MORE

Other than persons having shorter working hours and greater longevity which provides more leisure for attending classes, why then for learning? Perhaps some inkling should be gleaned from a campus vocation address given recently by Dr. David L. Thomson, Vice

United Church Women Will Be New Name

KESWICK, Ont. (CP) — Representatives of two United Church of Canada women's groups arrived here Friday for a three-day conference that will result in formation of what is described as the largest women's organization in Canada.

The Women's Association and the Women's Missionary Society of the church will merge in January to form a 300,000-member organization, the United Church Women.

Observers came from all over Canada but delegates from 200 delegates are from the church's five central provinces, London, Hamilton, Bay ley Quinte, Montreal and Ottawa. The meeting was arranged for the central groups.

Members of the two organizations from outside the central region are expected to arrange similar conferences with a similar aim—to prepare for amalgamation by "deepening the understanding of the church itself and what function it has to perform," officials said.

Woman Likes Competing in Man's World

CALGARY (CP) — Competing in a man's world is all in a days work for Evelyn Shalansky of Calgary — and she loves it.

Hired as the dispatcher of a small construction firm two years ago, Miss Shalansky soon found her duties being expanded to embrace bookeeping, payroll preparation, job estimates and management of six huge cranes and their operators.

"One mistake on my part in judging the cost of a job or not making sure the cranes arrive on time can throw out at least a whole day's operations," she says.

"It's tricky, it's hectic, but you get used to it."

Miss Shalansky says she misses the occasional talks about dresses that go on in offices where other girls work, but has decided that over a period of time it would be "quite dull."

The men, she says are "really co-operative."

"If they have a beef, they come in and tell me about it. Women usually are not so open."

Being courted is also a part of a novelty for her as she was one of two girls in a family that has four boys. One of her brothers now works for the construction company.

"It may not be glamorous, but it's exciting," she says.

Anyhow, she wouldn't trade it for a nine-to-five job now if it were offered.

Women Use Strange Systems To Get Winners at Tracks

MONTREAL (CP)—Do women have a better sense of the race track?

They do, says a Montreal racing official, who prefers anonimity. "They are there to bet."!

"It wouldn't do you any good to flirt with a pretty girl at the racetrack. She wouldn't know one horse there. She keeps her eyes on the horses."!

Nevertheless, track ticket sellers give the impression of being somewhat unhappy with women customers.

"They want to bet on number three, and they ask for number three. They sometimes get so excited they don't remember what horse they want to bet."

Most observers say women have strange ways of determining what horse they should bet.

"They probably don't rely as much as men on past performance," says Aime Des Rosiers, public relations director at Blue Bonnets. "Maybe they are right. But who is to say?"

Principal of McGill University, entitled, "The Business of a Scholar" in which he said that people are discovering that fame need not necessarily be the spur to acquire learning. Some learning, he find, is a reward in itself, since it exhibits boredom. A life filled with interest is a life too short. Love of learning is filled with the vistas of ever new discoveries in science, art, business and government. Lovers of learning, reminds Dr. Thomson is not escapism; it is one of the best safeguards of life and was chosen from a sentence in Dr. Samuel Johnson's "Rasselas" which so neatly sums this human quest for learning.

"To talk in public, to think in private, to read and to hear to inquire and answer inquiries, is the business of a scholar. He wanders about the world without pomp or terror, and is neither known nor valued but by men like himself."

Question — I've been invited to serve on a committee for a community drive, and the chairman has asked the members to a luncheon at her home to discuss plans and means. Is it correct, should I wear a hat and keep it on all afternoon?

Mrs. R. McG. Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Answer — Usually only the hostess is hatless at this type of luncheon, but customs vary according to the community. Wear a hat, to be on the safe side, and if others remove theirs, you can follow their lead and do the same.

Question — My husband's boss pays us an annual visit and usually stays about a week. But what a week! During that short time she turns the kitchen upside down making his favorite dishes. She insists on helping to clean up after meals and puts everything away bewilderher. I don't want to hurt her feelings, but is there any subtle way I can let her know the kitchen is our "off limits"? — Mrs. B.-K., Chicago, Ill.

Answer — If you have a freezer, you can put up the week's menus in advance and defrost what you'll need as you need it. Or perhaps you could arrange to go out to a restaurant several times during her stay. Since she so obviously enjoys puttering around the kitchen, it would be a little inconsiderate to banish her completely, especially since she's been allowed to "take over" in the past. Another solution would be to let her whip up a few meals, then insist on rest while you handle the remainder.

QUESTION:

I am tired of my pecan pickle recipes and working on the theory that dill pickles do not shrink when packed cold and fresh and the hot vinegar mixture poured over and sealed, I tried that. Wash cucumbers, some small 3" and up to 5" also cut some packed them in jars, and covered with syrup of 1 cup water, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup vinegar with 1 small teaspoon salt, 1 small teaspoon amount of alum. Boiled and sealed. Now the whole cucumbers have shrunk very badly but as yet the cut ones seem alright. I don't know how they taste as it is too soon. Now what I want to know is why did they shrink? Have you a tried and true recipe that I can try along this line? — Mrs. J. T. McG.

SATURDAY
(Cook-Out Supper)

Fried Beef Cakes (from ground chuck) with Onions; Foil-wrapped Corn on the Cob (cooked in the husk); Foil-wrapped Jacket Potatoes (cooked in coals); Sliced Tomatoes; Assorted Fresh Fruits including Watermelon; Toasted Marshmallows; Tea.

ANSWER:

The chief reason for pickles shriveling is age — the cucumbers should be less than 12 hours old when brined. Too much salt or too much sugar also causes shriveling. Vinegar of both 5 and 6% of the following.

BREAD AND BUTTER PICKLES:

Twenty unpeeled medium-sized freshly picked cucumbers, 4 small onions (2"), green peppers, ½ cup salt, 1 quart cracked ice, 5 cups mild vinegar, 5 cups sugar, 1½ tsp. each turmeric and cloves, 2 teaspoons mustard seed, 1 teaspoon celery seed. Wash and slice crosswise, paper thin, cucumbers and onions. Remove and seeded peppers, in large crock gently stir salt into these vegetables, cover with ice, then with plate and weight and allow to stand for 4 hours or cold place overnight. Drain well. Boil remaining ingredients 5 minutes. Add drained vegetables, bring to fast boiling point, stirring 3 or 4 times, but not boil. Pack at once and seal. Ready in one week.

SOCIETY CHIP PICKLES:

Fourteen fresh dill-size cucumbers 4 to 5"). Pour fresh boiling water over washed cucumbers in 1-gallon crock for 6 more days in succession. On the 5th morning slice in about ½ or ¾" slices. Boil with: Have ready the following syrup to pour over them hot: 1 quart vinegar, 3 cups sugar, ¼ cup pickling spices (not too many red peppers), 2 tablespoons salt. Bring this to boiling with spices tied loosely in cheesecloth bag. Pour hot over the cucumbers for 3 mornings in succession, draining off the syrup each morning and reheating to boiling point. On the 9th morning pour syrup in pan, reheat and drop sliced cucumbers into it. Heat through, fill into jars and seal.

Dedicate Stained Glass Window

FRANKFORD — On Sunday, September 18th, a beautiful stained glass window was dedicated in Frankford United Church, to the glory of God and in memory of the late Mr. J. A. Lott.

The window was a gift to the church of Mrs. Lott, who has been a dedicated member of this church for many years. She was previously a member of Scott's Church and has served the churches in this community as a Sunday School superintendent, missionary president, Epworth League leader and in many other ways. Mr. Lott was an elder of the church for over 50 years. The minister's sermon was based on the theme of the window, "The Good Shepherd," and appreciation was expressed of the long association of Mr. and Mrs. Lott with the church.

A newspaper item, 50 years old, commended Mrs. Lott for her church activities at that time and the minister emphasized the happiness and satisfaction that comes to one from service to others.

During the service the choir, under the direction of Frankford United Church's new choir director, Mrs. Jean Hudgins, rendered music specially arranged for the occasion.

The church was filled almost to capacity and the congregation lingered long after the service to admire the window.

Successful Living

By Doris Clark

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Mother in Despair

DEAR DORIS:—When I was 16, I met a man 23 and fancied myself in love with him. He was already married, had a police record, and a list of pregnant girls he had run out on a mile long.

He told me how I was so much different from the others and because he loved me he was going away until his divorce was final. He was gone four months and when he came back the divorce was no closer but I was a lot lonelier. Soon my folks found out about him and forbade me to see him.

DORIS CLARK

By this time I was already pregnant so just after I turned 17 we ran away. I found out right away what a terrible mistake I had made because he left me stranded after a couple of weeks of fights on the excuse that he wouldn't live on my salary (I had found a job and he couldn't.)

He came back, found a job, and our son was born. In the last four years I've left him several times, always coming up back with him for lack of a better home and paid bills. The welfare has helped me at times; I've seen a psychiatrist for attempted suicides. I have three children now and can't support them alone.

When I'm blue he is usually complaining until I'm blue in the face. Then the fights begin. Is it fair to the children to make them put up with this atmosphere at home? You wouldn't happen to have a suggestion up your sleeve, would you?—J.

DEAR J.—Did you ever marry him? In most provinces in Canada you could get support under Common Law legislation. If you are married, you could perhaps sue him for non-support, or cruelty (physical or mental), or adultery, and get a settlement of income.

If he could be sued and put on probation, this might mean the enforced development of habits of responsibility which would help him grow up.

This is a matter for a family court, and one probation service supervisor suggests that you write a similar letter to the judge of your own family court for an opinion and some interest. Here you would get professional advice applicable to where you live, and which may or may not include legal action.

• • •

DEAR DORIS:—You published a letter from Mac C on July 10th. She lived alone and liked it. I tore this particular out and have given it much thought.

I, too, am a young lady who lives alone, but I am just plain bored, because I can't seem to meet any other young girls to go out with. All are school chums and college friends are married or living far away.

I would like to meet some young girls who like to go out through the week—bowling, swimming, to shows, etc.—or even dancing and visit me at my apartment.

Could you have this letter published in The Ontario Intelligencer in the hope that some other young working girls will come to the rescue?—BORED, STRATFORD.

DEAR BEADERS:—Any suggestions from the Belleville area?

• • •

CONFIDENTIAL TO MRS. X:—You are not fooling Soo No. 2. He knows you don't love him like you do No. 1 or No. 3; hence the resentment, kicking, abuse for baby.

You are right about what the past has done to you, and knowing the problem is the first step to solving it. Since your own resentments are so deepseated, talking it out with a third person is best. And a social worker is the very person to get—so accept the suggestion you were given.

One couple in the same boat had another child, making four—and proved the problem was solved. "There is no mistake left now" proudly reports Daughter No. 2—who was quite aware of what had happened to her.

• • •

For help with home decorating problems talk to the decorator or salesman in your department store, furniture, paint or drapery store. This help is usually free of charge. Chatelaine magazine also has a home decorating counsellor to whom you might write.

• • •

DEAR DORIS:—I am very much in love with a man of thirty, who is Catholic. He is divorced, he is very serious about his religion and I respect this. I have told him I am agreeable to having children raised in his faith, if we have any.

Recently he has introduced me to his family, who have been wonderful to me. Now we are talking marriage.

My trouble is that I was married previously for a few days, to a man I never lived with. My lawyer has been working to establish evidence of unfaithfulness and I think a divorce will be granted quite soon. I have been waiting for this before saying anything to my friend.

Now I feel I am in pretty deep. Will I be able to be married in the Catholic church? I have heard that no Catholic could obtain a divorce, but where will I stand, as a divorcee, in marrying a Catholic!—ALBERTA.

DEAR ALBERTA — Civil divorce is not recognized by the Catholic church, which considers marriage a religious sacrament which cannot be dissolved by civil law.

But waste no time in seeing the priest about the unusual circumstance of your previous marriage. If it was not consummated, and this can be established, the Catholic church may grant permission for this marriage. Then you may be married in the chapel—not in the church proper—with the permission of the bishop.

(Doris Clark, Master of Social Work, is a graduate of McGill, Toronto and McMaster universities, and has had broad experience in social work. If you would like help with your problems, write to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.)

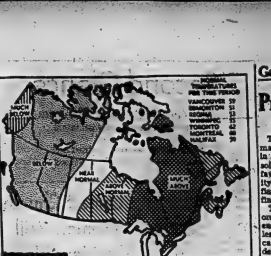
Pentagon Wants Freer Hand For Commanders

WASHINGTON (AP)—Military chiefs are reported to be urging that United States commanders in Europe be given a freer hand to respond as they see fit to any Communist harassment short of actual war out of Berlin.

Some Pentagon sources contend that Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme Allied commander in Europe, is operating under too restricted authority to deal on the spot with such Communist actions.



Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, was understood to have taken up this question with President Kennedy.

Pentagon authorities say a potential danger lies in the present requirement, as they picture it, that U.S. commanders in Europe check with higher authority in the United States before reacting to provocations.

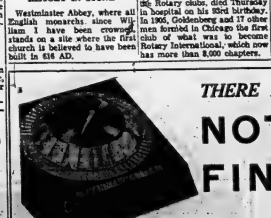
Ruling Upheld By Board

OTTAWA (CP) — The tax appeal board has upheld a ruling of the national revenue department ordering the Great Lakes Paper Company Limited of Fort William to pay income tax on $250,000 the company received in 1956 from the Rhinelander Paper Company of Wisconsin.

The Great Lakes company had contested the revenue department ruling on grounds that the money was not in the nature of income subject to tax but a capital asset not subject to income tax.



The Canadian company in 1948 at the request of the Rhinelander company established a special plant to produce a fine paper called glassine used for wrapping perishable products in the early part of the product was the Rhinelander company.

In 1956 the two companies cancelled their agreement. The arrangement Great Lakes received $250,000 from Rhinelander as compensation for reduction in value of its capital assets and the loss of an assured market for its product.

A board judgment made public here today says, however, that the payment of $250,000 by Rhinelander was received by the Canadian company "in the course of its business pursuits." As a result it was income subject to tax.

Garden Notes

Preparing Gardens for Winter

By FLORA M. HAVILLE

The gardener has almost as many jobs to do in the fall as in the spring. Fall weather and soil conditions are often more favorable but there is a finality about fall work. It must be finished soon or it will not be finished this year.

The bonfire should be put in order. Cut back the spent perennials to half their height, or less. The frost-bitten annuals will catch and hold some leaves, and help to act as a light blanket over the crown. Rake up wide flat leaves which might mat the lawn and smother plant crowns. If you plan to use a mulch on semi-hardy plants do not do it until the soil has frozen an inch or two. Mulching will then keep the roots from heaving by freezing and thawing.

Cutting should be taken from coleus, geranium, petunia (sturdy millers) and other tender plants that are so useful for bedding.

CUTTINGS FROM CUTTINGS

These need not have full sun. Any basement window will do as long as the temperature does not fall below freezing. If it becomes large enough you can take cutting from the cuttings and so increase your stock for next year's garden. These cuttings will be ready to pot on in February. They will then be ready to set out by mid-May.

Root all cuttings in a mixture of peat and sand, or soil vermiculite or one of the packaged materials used for African violets.

Allow the cut surface of the cuttings to dry for an hour or two to form a dry end. Dip the end in one of the rooting hormones such as rootone, shake off excess powder and put in moist medium. Do not have soil too wet. Cover with a plastic bag, or place in plastic box in a shady, sheltered place for two or three weeks, if weather does not turn too hot.

Before bringing cuttings or potted plants into the house spray them with an all purpose pesticide. The higher temperature will encourage development of pests and these will spread to your potted plants

WEED VENTILATION

If you take roots or cuttings of chrysanthemums, penstemon or other half-hardy perennials to be wintered over in the cold frame, be sure to allow a full flow of air day and night, by raising the top a little until the hard frost, and sunlight can allow the top to be raised a little for ventilation during the warmest part of the day. Condensation will cause too much dampness.

Contrary to popular opinion damp weather does not cause mildew to thrive The past month has been unusually damp and cool, plus sultry weather during which are usually infested have remained free of this unsightly pest.

If your plants have suffered from mildew or black spot, treat them now with a good fungicide containing captan or karathane. Gather up infected leaves and burn them and treat the soil around the plants to prevent overwintering of such spores.

Annuals which have died or have been cut down by frost should be pulled and the beds dug over for spring planting of for bulb beds. Add a light dressing of bone meal and dig it in. Bone meal is slow and polyanthus for early spring bloom.

Select and order bulbs now for fall planting.

Scoffs at Chop, Worker Fired, Strike Starts

HEREFORD, England (AP) A lamb chop has started a strike that threatens to close down a factory here.

The chop was served Thursday to 45-year-old Mrs. Winifred Collingsworth, a factory worker, at a table time in the factory canteen. As do other employees, she gets free meals at the plant.

As the chop was placed in front of her Mrs. Collingsworth exclaimed sarcastically:

"What a fine dinner!"

The management fired her and 40 of her fellow workers walked out in protest.

Others of the 2,300 workers at the plant are considering a strike too.

"I ordered a full meal with potato and greens and all I got was a lamb chop," Mrs. Collingsworth complained.

The management stood firm.

"No negotiations can take place until our employees return to work," said a management official.

Moments in History

1928 was an important year in Belleville's history for that was the year it was declared an ocean port. The first ocean-going ship to arrive was the steamship Rimouski which sailed from Glasgow with a cargo of Scotch coal. The official arrival date was May 8th. At this time Molsons-Schuster limited had had its roots firmly planted in Belleville for almost thirty years. It was around the turn of the century that the predecessors of the Schuster company first saw the inspiring and wood in Belleville's homes and factories.

Today, Molra - Schuster still supplies coal and has become Belleville's major supplier of fuel oil. Why don't you let Molra - Schuster assist to your heating needs this winter? Fuel oil will be delivered to you on your automatic "Degree Day" system and our efficient Service Department on call 24 hours every day. Call WO 3-4504 or drop in next time you're downtown.

Graf Spee, Training Ship Of German Navy, Makes Goodwill Visit to Halifax

By IRA DEYDEDALE

HALIFAX (CP) — A middle-age woman walked down the gangplank of the West German training ship Graf Spee, turned, and with a smile and a wave urged the sailors on deck to "be sure to come back soon."

A dozen officers and cadets turned to wave and smile back.

At the end of the gangplank a young German sailor stood at ease, his white tunic and black hat ribbons blowing in the salty breeze. As the guest stepped to the jetty he cracked his heels to attention and saluted.

The 1,300-ton training ship threw her hatches open to the public during a weeklong stay in August, the first German warship in Halifax harbor since before the Second World War.

After and ashore, the 320 officers, cadets and men quickly became noted for their smiling courtesy, their obvious thrill at politeness and, most of all, their friendliness.

"In the taverns they saluted the waitress, glasses, tables and bottles in the hall, buy a stein—HENRY.

"As the town's policemen became used to their smiling salutes, they would return them with a smile and a wave.

COMMANDER WAS FOW

The Graf Spee's commanding officer, Cmdr. Burkhard Hackbender, was making a return visit to Canada. In 1943 his submarine was blown up in the Bay of Biscay. He was one of the 14 survivors from the crew of 47 who were picked up by the Royal Navy. The last two years of the war he spent in a prisoner-of-war camp at St. John's, Que.

He joined the navy in 1933 when Germany began to rebuild its fleet.

"We agreed with Hitler, as most countries did," he said. "We saw the echo of his re-employment program in other countries, and that was good."

His faith in Hitler began to falter during the time he was in the POW camp, he said.

He remembers that just before he left on the voyage on which his submarine was sunk he had become engaged to be married.

"But she was waiting for me when I got back."

Back in Germany, he became a mechanical engineer and then director of naval staff before being assigned to the Graf Spee two years ago.

"I looked forward to coming back to Canada," he said. "When I was here first, I found it dreary, but on the other hand correct. I got good training, and came to like the people."

Your Car

Extra Care Gives Car Longer Life

By EUGENE B. MILHOE

When you wash a good-looking, good-running older car, you know that care kept it that way, while the horde of rundown, gasping models seen on every road can be chalked up to a "why-worry" outlook on driving habits. The list of harmful practices is almost as high as the junk heaps they create, but some are much more common than others.

Pumping the pedal desperately to start the engine, then revving it with a roar that rivals a rocket blast-off is a favorite provocation. Racing away at top speed immediately after starting is another popular way of abusing the engine.

Check yourself on these bad habits, too! Lengthy idling, unnecessary panic braking at every stop sign riding the clutch (if you have standard shift) or dawdling too long in low speeds with automatic transmission, bouncing tires against the curb to assure close parking, screaming around turns and curves. And, as stressed many times, don't minimize the effects of constant short distance, cool engine runs. They gradually choke the engine with sludge and other contaminants.

From C.R.: "If the spark plugs are adjusted to a gap wider than the manufacturer's specification, how does it affect car operation?"

(A) You would soon be cursing the car because of balky starting and draggy, lazy performance on the highway.

Mrs. A. S. writes: "It is not easy nor is it too much weather that causes the sticky stuff which drips on a car parked under a tree. Aphids are to blame."

(A) Many thanks to you and several others who corrected it. As we have now learned, aphids (which are plant lice) are responsible for the sticky substance we referred to as sap, and we understand there are sprays available to protect trees against these insects. How ever we still stick to our advice... e.g. that plain water is sufficient to remove those drippings from the car finish.

N. W. asks: "After 36,000 miles, my front shock absorbers have to be replaced. Is it advisable to get a new rear set, too?"

(A) When they're needed, yes — but this may not be for another 36,000 miles. The rear shocks can last almost twice as long as the front pair.

From G. C.: "My car always idles roughly and sometimes stalls at idle or low speed. This isn't all. There's a whistle type of sound from the engine when I can't pinpoint."

(A) All three troubles could be due to air leakage at the intake manifold. Loose bolts or a bad gasket would be the reason.

ORDER CRACKDOWN

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet supreme court has ordered judges of lower courts to throw the book at swindlers and crooks convicted of stealing state property. Pravda reported today. The high court complained that judges were not applying to the fullest extent the laws under which economic offences are punishable by death.

ask Henry

The writer of this weekly advice column is an 11-year-old boy. The advice he gives is strictly his own. It has not been changed by his parents or the editor. He welcomes letters from parents. If you want him to discuss your problem write to ASK HENRY, in care of this newspaper.

Dear Henry:—We have three pre-school children. They are usually playing happily outdoors and when it is time for meals I have a hard time to collect them and make them eat together at the table. They troop in then an hour or two later half starved, which upsets my schedule and gives me more work. Have you any idea of a quick way to round them up?—COLLECTING.

DEAR COLLECTING:

I was going to suggest not to give any meals when your kids come late, but since mothers are now usually "working" and do not carry out threats here is another advice.

Buy a cow bell and ring it before each meal. Tell your children that the first one in will get an extra helpful of dessert. If they complain about not hearing the bell, buy a stem.—HENRY.

Dear Henry:—My brother is always beating me up. Do you think I should throw a chair at him in self-defence?—REACHING FOR THE CHAIR.

Dear Reaching for the Chair: —You better put down the chair and take Judo lessons or your parents will reach for the strap after your brother reaches the hospital. —HENRY.

Dear Henry—My son will only brush his teeth before going to bed. Do you think this is enough for child's teeth?—WONDERING.,

Dear Wondering.—For the kids brushing once is more than enough, but for their teeth it is not. If kids don't want a dentist's drill rattling their spine they better wash their teeth after every meal.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—Most of our neighbors have bigger houses and nicer, cars than ours. When our two children were small it didn't bother them. But now they are 8 and 10, and are quite conscious of it. Some of the neighbors' children don't make it easier for, them and once I overheard some nasty remarks. How can I prevent my children being influenced by this?—DEPRESSED MOTHER.

Dear Depressed Mother — Tell your children you don't have a big house and a car because you don't need one. The people with big houses and cars feel they need them. Tell your kids to ignore the smart Alecks and their wisecracks.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—Do you think it is fair for me to have to wear my sister's dresses? She is fat and I am not. They fit funny.—SKINNY.

Dear Skinny—Put on some weight.—HENRY.

Hospital Fees At Present Level For Three Years

TORONTO (CP) — Premiums for Ontario's hospital insurance plan will be kept at their present levels for at least three years to encourage more people to participate, Premier Frost said Thursday.

Opening the hospital services commission's new building, Mr. Frost said that by 1965 some 97 per cent of Ontario residents will be covered by the plan compared with 86 per cent today.

But money does not "grow on trees," he said. "It means we will have to be selective about the things we do."

This year the plan will cost $268,000,000 — about $194,000,000 from the province and $141,000,000 from the federal government. Of Ontario's share, $75,000,000 will be raised by premiums.

He said the cost of the plan showed the problem "that this growing province is going to be faced with for many years to come."

He added there are many services the government would like to provide but could not afford to provide "if we are to keep our taxes within manageable limits." But health services and education have to be provided.

New Principal of Queen's Sees 'Number of Serious Dilemmas' in Next Decade

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)— The new principal of Queen's University sees "a number of distressing dilemmas" for Canadian universities in the next decade.

Dr. James Alexander Corry, who succeeded Dr. William A. Mackintosh Sept. 1 and who will be installed at a special convocation Oct. 30, declared.

"There must be very substantial additions to university staffs. At the same time industry and the professions also need to recruit persons of superior education in ever greater numbers.

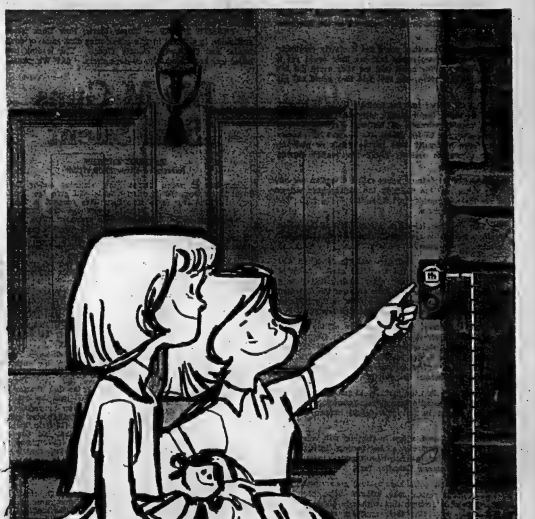
"This will result in a sharpening of competition every year throughout the '70s because there will not be nearly enough able and suitably educated people to meet the demands for them."

The crisis of increasing student enrolment was taking shape and would make its full weight felt in the next three or four years, Universities would need 50 per cent more money to meet the crisis.

But money alone wouldn't solve the emerging problems. The schools themselves would have to "adjust everywhere to new dimensions."

And they must avoid the pitfall of turning out specialists who "get lost among their gadgets."

"Indeed, we are all in danger of getting lost among the gadgets and losing sight of the human purposes they should be made to serve."



For this reason, Dr. Corry said, there is a greater need than ever for persons with a broad general education.

"Just as we are getting ready to fly to the moon, we must study how this great adventure bears on the chief end of man."

A former Rhodes Scholar, Dr. Corry, 42, was born near Stratford, Ont., and graduated in law from the University of Saskatchewan in 1936 as professor of political science, he was named vice-principal in 1951. He was a member of the CBC Board of Governors for nine years.

Mr. Mackintosh will remain at Queen's as vice-chancellor.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

We gridiron pessimists from the hills, hummocks, woodland glades and bush fifties of hinterland Ontario got a glimpse the other night of the football (Canadian) fare we shall be fed this season.

I turned on the living room's square-eyed monster and picked up the droppings from three banquets served on Canadian gridirons the past week-end. It was like setting the turkey hash the fifth day after Christmas.

Commentators were yapping away the meat of the time and telling you what to expect. "Now watch Johnny Bright galley for 62 yards." It was the first beer of the morning after, and almost as thrill-producing as the news the mother-in-law was moving in for a month.

That is the Canadian fare we shall get all season unless you can get Channel 9 on the family private eye.

We are not too fortunate in this respect in Belleville. I polled some twenty people—mostly men and children. "Do you get Channel 9 on the television set?"

Three told me they could get it clearly (probably Toronto expatriates), five told me they could get it intermittently—a few more told me they could get the audio, not the video—the rest said they could not get it at all.

But all is not lost for football lovers in general. This weekend the national television network will begin telecasts of the National Football League games from the United States. In the past NFL games were seen indifferently only in the finals or playoffs. Some American stations along the border carried regular games.

And with no fear of being called a traitor, we hicks in the sticks and the sticks in the metropolitan canyons, can run the best professional football in the world. There is no argument there.

The question is will a regular diet of American football lessen the appetite of Canadian fans for their version of the game?

There are not a few who feel the American diet will affect interest in the Canadian game. Some of the more experienced and older leaders feel it is a mischief error that the Big Four clubs of the Canadian Football Conference opened the door to the NFL by granting TV rights to a private network this year.

Jim McCaffrey, former manager of the Ottawa Rough Riders, said the other day that the conference division has made a serious mistake in its decision. He said he felt it was foolish to bypass the CBC because of price. "The eastern clubs only get another $2,000 apiece, which is nothing," was his comment.

He also feels that the inability of many Canadian fans to see their own game on the private network will have an effect on interest in it. This could happen in Belleville.

As I mentioned, a few in this city will be able to see Channel 9, but most of our homes, it is a total blackout and that is where the American games will score heavily among Canadian fans.

The important point here is that many football fans in the blackout region who hitherto have been on a regular Canadian gridiron diet with side dishes of American football, may find their appetites switched to the new main entree.

It won't take long for them to pick their favorites and become accustomed to the different style of play. It is natural for any sports fan to favor the leaders over the winners. And it could affect fans of the Canadian football centres who figure a free shot at major league football gets the picture tube is better and go cheaper than a $3.25 seat on the fifty-yard line of a five "miner league" tilt.

As one writer puts it: — "When the CFC passed up the CBC it was obvious that the logical answer was NFL television on the CNC network. Now we're getting it and the result may be more drastic than anything the football men, or the program sponsors on both sides, could have imagined."

Teammate Mickey Mantle, with 33 homers, needs seven home runs in the five games to get a draw with the Babe.

SET TEAM RECORD

The Yankees, however, set a major league team home-run record as Vogi Berra and Bill Skowron connected in the opening game victory. The two homers boosted the New Yorkers' total to 222 for the season, one more than New York Giants hit in 1947 and Cincinnati Reds in 1956.

In the nightcap, the Tigers used a two - run homer by Norm Cash and a solo shot by Steve Boros for a three - run third that proved enough to subdue the Yankees. That left a muscle after six innings of the Yanks' magic pennant three - hit pitching, Lee Stange clinching number at four.

Any combination of four New York victories and-or Detroit defeats will give the Yankees their 11th pennant in the last 13 years and the first under rookie manager Ralph Houk.

Red Sox edged Baltimore Orioles 3-2 in 10 innings, Minnesota Twins nipped Cleveland Indians 3-2, Los Angeles beat Chicago White Sox 3-0 and Washington Senators defeated Kansas City 3-2.

The Yanks won the first game easily behind Whitey Ford, who scattered eight hits in going the route for his 24th victory against three defeats. Don Mossi (14-7) was the loser.

DALEY LOSES

Ron Kline (7-6) spaced seven Yankee hits in the nightcap, Milt Pappas (12-8) in the 10th won it for the Red Sox and Gene Conley (11-12), who had scored the tying run in the eighth on Frank Malzone's run-producing single. Conley allowed only five hits, Pappas seven.

Blanked through eight innings, the Twins came up with three runs in the ninth on four singles and Jim Lemon's line-breaking double to beat Cleveland reliever Frank Funk (11-11). Bruins Beat Leafs, Rangers Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Doug Harvey, one of the greatest successes in hockey history as a defenceman, has taken a first step to success in his new career as coach.

Harvey, traded to New York by Montreal, saw his Rangers sweep aside Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League 7-1 Friday night in an exhibition game before more than 2,500 fans at Guelph.

It was one of two exhibitions marking the start of pre-season play for National Hockey League teams.

The second, at Niagara Falls, Ont., saw Boston Bruins take a 4-3 decision from Toronto Maple Leafs on the record crowd of 4,314 were in on a first-period donnybrook that left two Boston players injured and four players serving a total 75 minutes in penalties.

Harvey was on the sidelines for Friday night's game, but he plans to don skates Sunday when the Rangers meet the Leafs at Kitchener.

PRENTICE FIRES FOUR

Dean Prentice set the pace for New York with four goals and linemate Andy Bathgate got a goal and three assists. Ted Hampson and Johnny Wilson scored the others.

Buffalo's lone goal came from Doug Robinson.

At Niagara Falls, Boston defencemen Ted Green suffered a broken left hand when he hit Frank Mahovlich and Bobby Orvia of Toronto, a linemate of then the goal post in the brawl. Goalie Don Head injured his shoulder.

Green was given a double minor penalty, three majors for misconduct, a game misconduct, Mahovlich got a double major and an automatic misconduct. Head received a major and Nevin a double minor and a major.

Boston's goals came from Johnny Bucyk, Dick Meissner, Cliff Pennington and Terry Gray, with Bill Dineen and Eddie Shack supplying for the Leafs.

The Leafs and Boston are at it again tonight in Peterborough.

BOOMER BALKS

In Montreal, Canadiens' managing director Frank Selke was having internal trouble with Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion. Geoffrion still wanted a five-year contract, on the strength of his 50 goals last season, but was understood to be willing to settle for three years. Salary was believed to be the stumbling block.

Morgan held the White Sox to five hits while the Angels pounded Joe Horlen (11-3) and his successor for 17. The Senators scored two in the first against the Athletics' Norm Bass (8-11) on two infield singles, a walk, and a pair of sacrifices to give Benzie Daniels (10-10) all the runs he needed.

Toronto's Frank Tunney

Asks Cleroux Suspension

TORONTO (CP) — Promoter Frank Tunney said Friday he will ask for suspension of Robert Cleroux of Montreal, Canadian heavyweight champion and his manager, Al Bachman, if they don't get in touch with him by Monday about a rematch with George Chuvalo of Toronto.

Tunney has a contract calling for a Sept. 16 bout here, signed as part of the deal for an Oct. 9 match in Montreal in which Cleroux defended Chuvalo for the second time.

A $5,000 certified cheque, payable to Chuvalo, was deposited at the same time to guarantee that Cleroux would go through with the fight.

"That's okay for George," said Tunney "but I want the fight." He added that the Montrealers "obviously plan to run out on the deal. They haven't answered any of my phone calls or wires."

Chuvalo, meanwhile, has been offered a bout with Henry Cooper of England as part of a closed-circuit television attraction to go with the Floyd Patterson-Tom McNeeley world title match Nov. 23.

'Best Umpire' Trophy Goes To Tom Hulme

Tom Hulme was voted the winner of the Ken Colling Memorial Award as the best umpire in the Bay of Quinte Umpires' Association for the 1965 season, it was announced here Friday.

The award was donated a year ago by Cleo Colling in memory of his late brother. Al Kelleher was the first winner in 1964.

Hulme received 96 votes from team managers, coaches and sportswriters. Kelleher finished second with 83 votes while Gerald "Stud" Ethier was third with 80.

Seventeen ballots were sent out and 12 of that number were returned.

Most of the umpires in the association received some votes but the above three were far out in front when the votes were tabulated yesterday.

The umpires eligible for the award were: Harold Sawden, Keith Bertrim, Art Stark, Gerald Ethier, Tom Hulme, Ted Hurst, Al Kelleher, Herb Pointer, Jim Tebbenth, Don Thomas, Austin Watkin, Mike Whalen and Tim Williams. A couple of the above, who did very little umpiring this season, were the only ones who did not share in the votes received.

RETAIN TITLE

LUNENBURG, N.S. (CP) — Canadian dorymen Friday swept the international double dory championships. In the senior division, defending champion Sonny Heisler and Leonard Eisnor of nearby Indian Point finished the mile in 9:09, defeating George Hastings of Gloucester, Mass., and Harold Reed of Essex, Mass., by 66 seconds. In the half - mile junior division, Lawrence Ernst and Garnet Heisler of Indian Harbor defeated Charles Materna and Dick Hasnoot, Ipswich, Mass., in 6:01, winning by 14 seconds.

Dodgers Gain on Reds

Koufax Smashes Strikeout Record

By MIKE RATHBY
Associated Press Staff Writer

Swift southpaw Sandy Koufax Friday night broke a 30 - year strikeout record, combined Warren Spahn's 26 - year jinx and maintained the Los Angeles Dodgers' chances of nabbing the front - running Cincinnati Reds in the National League pennant battle.

Koufax set Milwaukee Braves down with six hits, striking out 18 en route to an 11-2 victory that pushed the second - place Dodgers within 4½ games of the Reds, who were idle for the second night in succession.

The 10 strikeouts gave Koufax 343 for the year—the most ever achieved by a lefthander in modern National League history. Dizzy Dean, who had fanned 337 for the New York Giants in 1911, held the previous record.

Spahn, meanwhile, met his jinx for the 26th time, Dodgers on their home grounds, losing for the 13th consecutive time since he last beat the then Brooklyn Dodgers in their home park in 1942. The 22 - year-old Milwaukee ace was seeking victory No. 20 for the sixth year in a row and the 13th time in his career.

Instead, he lasted less than two innings. His string of 39 straight complete game victories came to an end and the Braves dropped into fourth place behind San Francisco. The Giants whipped the Chicago Cubs 5-1 in the only other game scheduled.

Koufax, who had lost six straight at the coliseum and had not won at home since June 11, gave up a leadoff homer to John Dennerlein in the first, allowed another run to cross in the inning, then closed the door for his 18th victory against 11 defeats.

Spahn (13-13), set the first 1-2-3, three batter-down in succession but Frank Howard opened the second inning with a home run over the left field screen for home No. 15. Spahn then walked Jim Gilliam on four straight pitches before Norm Sherry hastened his exit with a two-run single. Don Drysdale took up with six runs in the inning.

The Dodgers clinched their assault on replacements Ron Picke of Riverdon Quebec and Tony Cloninger in the fourth by scoring five runs—three on a homer by Daryl Spencer who shared hitting honors with Wally Moon. Moon had a double and three singles in five at bats and drove in three runs.

The Giants opened the first against loser Dick Drott (1-4) when Charlie Hiller walked, took second, moved to third on a wild pitch and tallied on Willie Mays' single. Then Ed Bressoud then put it away for San Francisco with a homer in the fourth after Harvey Haddix had singled for the first Giant hit. Jack Sanford (13-8) was the winner with relief help from Stu Miller.

Ranking Stars Clash

TORONTO (CP) — Sharpened up at the expense of the lesser players, the ranking stars start picking at each other today as the Canadian tennis championships move into the semi - final. Top - seeded Mike Sangster of Torquay England, picked by several experts to win the title might keep Bob Bedard of Lennoxville, Que., from an all-Canadian champion ship, will meet Francois Godbout of Valcartier, Que.

Bedard, ranked number one in Canada but seeded beneath Sangster in this tournament, has a tough hurdle to clear in Sangster, former Welsh star and Wimbledon player, needed import from Alameda, Calif.

Godbout, ranked number nearly, edged John Swanns of Toronto 8-6, 9-7, 8-6. Friday Sangster ousted Henri Rochon of Montreal 6-3, 6-2, 4-6, 6-4.

Bedard won the easiest men's singles victory of the day, 6-2, 6-2, 6-4 over Val Marit of Montreal. Reed had a good deal Division runner - up Cleveland trouble with Mike Quinn of Montreal, Que. won 6-2, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4.

In Sunday's women's singles final, top - seeded Ann Haydon Sherriff of Chelsea, England will meet Toronto's Ann Barclay. Miss Haydon Friday defeated Dion Steinmetz of Montreal 6-0, 6-0 and Miss Barclay, second-seeded, defeated Toronto's Louise Brown 6-3, 2-6, 6-4.

No Contest?

Five Battle In Brawl

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Five o' 'em slugged it out in the ring in a whirlwind manhoot finish in Memorial Arena last night.

And when it was over the Great Krude - whoops - Krudo, and his Kanadian-bacon Pole Stasiak, limped out of the ring and hobbled to the dressing room.

Inside the squared circle Tony Marino, Gino Marella and Tony Mancini were with him.

They had each other's hands aloft — but Referee Tiger Thacker shook his head and sang sweetly "No Contest." And that was it.

Stasiak started the five-man slugfest. Marino had won the fall and had La Krudo well on the way to bye-bye, when the man from Poland climbed into the ring.

He slugged the popular Tony from behind. Ernie 300-pound Marello like a steeplechaser. Someone decided it was too good to miss so he vaulted into the ring and sided with the "good guys."

There was whirlwind action for a couple of minutes. Stasiak and the massive Krudo were going down like ten-pins, as they met jawbreaker after all interventions.

The Tiger played it well. He did not interfere, merely kept his jaw from coming in contact with any flying fists.

Finally it was over and the Krudo and La Stasiak, a bewildered pair, walked slowly out of the ring.

Krudo kept the first fall after a vicious five-minute attack on Marino; won the second, and was well on the way out when the battle started.

In the second bout Stasiak and Gino Marello staged one of the best action bouts seen here in many a moon. They wrestled to a 30-minute draw, and would have continued all night if Tony Marino had not persuaded Marello to call it off. It was a hard-hitting action-packed bout that had the crowd on seat-edge all night.

Pat Flanagan and Mancuso went at it hammer-and-tongs in the preliminary. They couldn't get enough inside the ring so they took to the concrete and the pews to finish. They dallied too long and both were disqualified.

Junior Lacrosse

Not 'Amusin, Confusin'

By AL MARKLE

PORT CREDIT (CP)—What's over the outcome, this Mimico Cup lacrosse series is one Barnsby Norburns will not soon forget.

First thing that bothered the crack junior team was the change of rules. Manager Fred Davidson fixed that by putting the boys on fruit juice and milk. The Norburns defeated Hawkfings Legionnaires in the first game.

The officiating was the next item. Coach Bill Dickinson said the second game, which Hastings won, that he would ask for a change in referees. He got it.

The Norburns lost the third game Friday night 10-8. In that one, a Burnaby goal was disallowed in the third period and the Norburns played the rest of the game under protest.

It's doubtful that Dickinson was any happier about the officiating Referee Slee Percoll of Dundas, under orders to bear down, called 28 penalties, 15 of them against the Norburns. Whistles slowed the pace of the game to half that of the first two.

The next game is scheduled for Monday night and by that time the outcome of the protest will be known. Officials ruled Burnaby had too many men on the floor, but Dickinson and Davidson claim the officials misinterpreted a rule regarding the number of players their whistle teams are short-handed.

It must have been one of the most confusing games ever played in a final series. Goals were awarded to the wrong players, the time clock was allowed to run after the whistle on at least two occasions, and officials finally had to call a 10-minute halt to get things straightened out.

One Gambler Who Went To the Dogs

LONDON (Reuters) — A disgruntled gambler drew a three - month sentence Friday for an unorthodox attempt to bring a greyhound to his knees.

Frank Capaldi, 27, buried himself onto the track and knocked down the dog, thereby keeping greyhounds when it appeared that the favorite, Lucky Jenny, was at the time, would lose the race.

The race was declared void.

Capaldi was charged with causing unnecessary suffering to the three dogs, which were injured in their collision with him.

Machen DeJohn Tonight

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Eddie Machen Jr.'s wholesome respect for big Mike DeJohn's dynamite fists, but greater skill, will defeat the Syracuse, N.Y., veteran again in their return television fight tonight.

"He's got a real good punch," said Machen, 5-to- 5 favorite, "but I can hit pretty good myself. I beat him once and I can beat him again."

The 10-rounder will be telecast by ABC, starting at 10 p.m.

The 26-year-old Machen, 170, a heavyweight contender from Portland, Ore., outpointed DeJohn, also 29, last April in San Francisco.

Bisons Top Marlins 3-0, Wings Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Buffalo Bisons can wrap up their half of the International League semi - finals tonight with a victory over Charleston Marlins.

The Bisons racked - up their third straight victory over the Marlins in their best - of - seven series Friday night, 7-3, with southpaw Harry Eisenstat the starring role. In the other semi-final, Rochester Red Wings took a 2-1 lead over the league champion Columbus Jets with a 4-3 decision.

Smith, unbeaten in his last four starts, limited the Marlins to seven hits, struck out eight and contributed a two - run homer to help himself 13 - hit attack. Everybody in the Buffalo lineup got at least one hit, with Jim Prendergast getting a third-inning homer to snap a 1-1 deadlock.

Rochester's Art Quirk had his strikeout ball working even better than Smith. The 20-year-old southpaw fanned 12 Jets. He also doubled and scored the run that made it 2-2 in the fifth and singled home two runs, including the decisive tally, in the sixth.

National League Football

Philadelphia Eagles, defending National Football League champions, take on the Eastern Division runner - up Cleveland Browns Sunday at Philadelphia as the 14 - team NFL plunges into its second season.

In other opening - day games, the Los Angeles Rams and Baltimore Colts clash in Baltimore, Green Bay Packers host Detroit Lions in Milwaukee, Chicago Bears take on the new Minneapolis Vikings at Minneapolis, New York Giants host St. Louis Cardinals, Pittsburgh Steelers play the Conboys at Dallas and Washington Redskins meet the 49ers at San Francisco.

Sam Etcheverry, former Montreal Alouettes star, is scheduled to make his debut with St. Louis. Etcheverry, bothered by a sore passing arm during the training season, missed several pre - season exhibition games.

Opposing quarterback veteran Norm Snead of the Giants suffered a broken nose during training and also is not expected to be in top form.

Was Champ Five Times

82, Still Loves Tennis

TORONTO (CP)—In the crowd watching the Canadian tennis championships at the Toronto Lawn Tennis Club is a cheerful, bare-eyed woman who has followed the game ever since she won the Canadian women's singles championship five times in her youth.

Violet Summerhayes, born in Wimbledon, England, joined the Toronto Lawn Tennis Club in 1911.

Sitting in a chilly wind Friday with her coat wrapped tightly around her, Miss Summerhayes watched the players and had comparisons with her opponents half a century ago.

"The game is a lot faster now," she said.

"The players are a lot more athletic, but they don't make more mistakes too. They seem to be playing for the crowds more and hit shots more selfconscious. We used to play tennis just because we liked it."

Miss Summerhayes appears, about 30 years younger than she is. She handles tennis for her youthfulness.

"It's the finest game in the world," she said. "It develops the body, mind and soul."

'International Showtime' Not Up to Expectations

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—NBC unveiled its new International Showtime Friday night with a Danish circus, Don Ameche and a dearth of imagination.

It was a good idea, taking TV cameras to the world's showplaces to shoot a weekly hour show. But the opener only demonstrated what Ed Sullivan has proved again and again: Circus acts on TV can be dull.

Somehow the clowns aren't as funny, the daredevils aren't as daring and the wild beasts aren't as fierce as when you can smell the sweat and sawdust under the tent.

The kick of participation is gone.

Ameche, reading his cue cards mechanically, took viewers to Copenhagen's Circus Schumann. But there was little effort to capture the foreign atmosphere. The attractions were standard: Clowns who threw buckets of goo at each other, dancing horses, a fat clown in a balancing act, tigers and aerialists.

MULES SAVE SHOW

The last act was the best of all—members of the audience, including pianis, trying to ride mules.

Ameche punctuated the acts with occasional remarks of the calibre of "The cats are Bengals, and each one tips the scales at about 500 pounds."

Next week: A German ice show.

Another Friday night debut was the second season return of The Flintstones. This prehistoric cartoon is TV's Flitdown Manhash.

It's a cartoon, but it has no action and no comedy to speak of, or at least to laugh at. The background is Stone Age, but the idiom is modern.

It's an unfunny Honeymooners. Close your eyes and disregard the cars and the voices of Fred Flintstone and Barney Rubble could be Jackie Gleason and Art Carney. But the humor is not up to the Life of Riley level.

CUBANS SENTENCED

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Two anti-Castro men were sentenced to death by a revolutionary court at Santiago, Cuba, Havana radio reported Friday night, for planning an attempt against the life of Defence Minister Raul Castro. Eighty-four other defendants were sentenced to prison terms ranging from one to 30 years.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Jockeys John Adams and Harlon Dalton combined at Old Woodbine Park before 7,717 fans Friday to capture four of the eight races on the card.

Adams, who had five mounts scored in the second and sixth and Dalton, who also rode five horses, was aboard winners in the first and fourth.

Dalton started the afternoon off with a bang for farm players, bringing home the odds-on chestnut Velroc. Adams got his first winner in the second race, bringing home Merrill's Mogul.

The combination of Velroc and Merrill's Mogul provided a $23.20 daily double.

Old Woodbine's brief meeting concludes today. The 36 - day autumn race meet at New Woodbine opens Monday with the running of the $10,000 Fairbank Handicap. Sixteen of the season's most important stakes races will be contested and purses of close to $800,000 will be distributed in the six - week session.

The biggest day of the meeting will be Oct. 28, when the Canadian $80,000 Championship Stakes is raced over a mile and five furlongs on a grass course.

Sports in Brief

PLAYER SHOOTS 64

SEATTLE (AP) — Four professionals led a parade of participants into the third round of the $25,000 Greater Seattle open golf tourna ment today with scores of 133, seven under par for 36 holes. Gary Player of South Africa set the pace Friday with a 66, including seven birdies. Linked with him at 133 were Jary Hebert, Bob Rosburg and Bill Collins.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver shot a one-under-par 69 and was tied for 19th spot with IAY, Al Balding of Toronto, tied for second place after Thursday's first round, shot a 75 for a 138 total.

ACCEPT TERMS

NEW YORK (AP)—Promoter Tom Bolan said Friday night that Floyd Patterson and Tom McNeeley have agreed to terms for their world heavyweight championship fight in Boston Garden Nov. 13. He said the contract will be signed today by Patterson and Peter Fuller, McNeeley's manager.

BANNED FOR LIFE'

LONDON (AP) — An English cricket league Friday banned Roy Gilchrist, 32-year-old West Indian fast bowler, for life for what it called "ungentlemanly conduct." The Nuffield Lancashire League said Gilchrist abused an umpire and threw the ball at an opposing batsman who made the winning hit at the end of a game last month.

WINS CHALLENGE MATCH

MONTREAL (CP) — Claude Pattemore of Hamilton, president of the Canadian Blind Golfers Association, Friday scored an easy victory over George Cohen, publicity director for the Montreal Association for the Blind, in a nine-hole challenge golf match. Pattemore shot a 56, Cohen an 80. They played with the aid of coaches who guided line up the shots with instructions concerning the direction of the cup and the distance.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RICHTER

Sunday, September 17, 1961

General Tendencies: This is an unusually good day for you to delve into the principles and precepts under which you would like to operate in the future and any studies in which you engage at the educational, scientific, spiritual or cultural of your choice can be very helpful to you. Really living the Golden Rule tonight eases all tensions.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) If you make it a point to listen to the most inspired speaker you know at services of your choice, you can then plan your life on a more logical and happy level and become far more successful, P.M. meet interesting people. Have fun.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)—Your instincts are not apt to be good today, so be sure you approach any problems or situations from a logical angle. Be particularly careful when conversing with relatives or friends this evening. Use your words wisely, don't lose temper.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—Be sure you pay attention to what partners have to say for since planetary forces are with these, and you gain indirectly through them. P.M. have dinner out and take in the amusements and hobbies with good friends that are mutually enjoyed.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 23) — Concentrate on how you can truly serve those in need who come to you for assistance. Also, truly live the Golden Rule and be an inspiration to others. Make this a blessed Sunday by keeping out of arguments and being devoted to kin, too.

Leo (July 24 to Aug. 21) — While you want to get an early start on matters of pleasure, it is important you first perform those duties you have promised to do, that are vital to your best interests. Then, don best glib and luster and off to what lover beckons. Have fun.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23)—It is best you remain at home today and are devoted to closest of kin. Inquiries upon their part they are your first concern. Thusly you bring greater harmony within the home and yourself know what real happiness is. Be loving kind.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)—Look in your paper for the right church to attend this morning where you can get the greatest amount of inspiration by listening to some great speaker. Then pattern life on principles expounded. P.M. have fun, with friends.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21)—Concentrate upon renewing your faith in family tradition and fundamentals that you can get your present life on a more ideological plane and ease your conscience—find the real path to success and happiness. P.M. set up a good budget.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22, to Dec. 21) — Here is one day when you can quietly start replacing the obsolete with what is modern, and more efficient. Also, forget those who only waste your time. Start planning your life on a more practical basis and fix true success.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Complete any duties that only you can perform and then study into more progressive ideas that will bring those persons and conditions into your orbit that you truly desire. No better day than this to plan wisely. Grow.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Important you show your loyalty to friends and kin today and also impress others with your fine character and idealistic mode of living. Evening is fine for sociability and having a wonderful time with good friends. Be happy.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) It is vital to your welfare that you make a fine impression upon others today so that no assistance can be cast on your reputation. In fact, it is important that you raise your credit standing and do more along civic lines.

If your child is born today, he, or she, will be one of those delightful people who can get ahead very fast by concentrating upon the finest philosophies of human life and adhering to the excellent standards upon which he, or she, is reared. By combining the best in all of these beliefs, a personal philosophy can be formed that will bring enlightenment to fellow man and the public in general. Don't limit your progeny in any way.

General Tendencies — Although not a good day for what has to do with romance or the lighter side of life, nevertheless it is fine for getting your practical affairs on a more solid and secure structure and for organizing conditions as you would most like them to be in days to come. Be sure that you do open new sources of data.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) —The ideal day to contact those higher-ups who can give you the support you need at this time for any contemplated projects. Do your share in all civic matters, too, and impress others with what a good citizen you are. Be dynamic.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) —Be sure that you operate on a more lofty plane in the future. Also, make the valuable contacts who will lead you in the right direction. Steer clear of that close kin who is irritable and without courage. Carry through with plans stoically.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) —If you get together with tax and other civic authorities, you will be able to get wonderful ideas for handling important matters more wisely. Evening is then fine for romance and gaiety. Dress nicely and be full of cheer. Have fun.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 23) — Important you iron over vital issues with all associates today so that you come to a real understanding and there will be no questions later. Tonight is fine for getting out to a good time at whatever hobbies most appeal to you.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21) — If you roll up your sleeves and get to work early, you can make your surroundings very bright and cheerful. Also, take the time to discuss matters with any associates so that there can be harmony among you far into the future.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) —Every opportunity is yours now to come to a fine understanding with those you admire by planning get-to-gethers ahead of time wisely. Don't be extravagant but be sure that all is in good taste and activities be mutually enjoyable.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) —Important you carry through with ideas suggested by close ties and be sure you do not jeopardize present security. Entertain a little party at home where you can relax and be happy.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) —The ideal day to step out into the active business world and carry through with your plans as a dynamic Scorpio. Plan your itinerary for best results. Then be sure you attend some nice social function or enjoy favorite hobby.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—It would be wise to make a fine impression upon practical-minded partners with your good sense and broad outlook today. Then sit down and plan a budget that is workable and efficient. Resolve to follow it in the future.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Think of own welfare when bargaining with others so that you finally have what you want in the future. Later, remove that chip from your shoulder and be out for a good time at gatherings where you can charm with your wit and humor.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Think of own welfare today and stop worrying so much about others and giving them all of your time and effort. Evening is fine for getting out to see that moving picture or enjoying others' pleasure quietly. Live a little.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) —A very fine day to get in touch with higher-ups who can assist you to get your desires or give you the added support you need. Don't stay at home in P.M. visit with good friends and increase circle of friends through them, too.

If Your Child is Born Today —he, or she, will be of a very practical turn of mind and this will be evident very early in life. So, be sure to give as fine a business training as possible as well as good spiritual education so that your fine progeny can also be a philanthropist in later life that looms so large in this chart. There is a great ability where detail is concerned and the success here should be quite phenomenal.

Four Youths Facing Twenty Theft Charges

PICTON—With the arrest of four youths in Toronto this week, provincial police here believe they have ended the recent outbreak of thefts from cars and trailers at the Outlet provincial park and Sandbanks areas. James Rossbush, 18 and Leslie Shearey, 18, of Picton district and Harvey Jackson, 17 and Ronald Smith, 18, both of Toronto, face a total of 20 charges of theft and breaking and entering. During the summer months, a number of cars at the two resort areas were broken into and in several instances approximately $150 in cash was taken. Goods missing from cars and campsites also included watches, jewellery, radios and expensive cameras. The four youths were arrested by Toronto city police working with the Picton detachment of the O.P.P. A large quantity of stolen articles has been recovered.

CLINGS TO VETO

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has clung to a veto over any Red-Slash report from a direct request by President Eisenhower that the Communist Control Subversive Activities Board withhold its veto in opposing Gutter Mongella's bid for membership in the United Nations.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

GATHERING

Quite naturally as bird wants to keep company with a chicken, he soon finds that he is responsible to keep pace with a swift. So, here we have a group of birds that make the long fall journey south all by themselves. Species with very special tastes are destined to travel with just themselves. Then, the adult family prefer company, particularly because there is safety in numbers. Also, there is a thrill in other aspects of life, food is the determining factor for many that flock together most in a very similar food tastes. They first gather in various districts where their choice of food is available, and gradually join other small flocks made up of birds with these same preferences, until they form a flock comprises of several hundred birds.

The date when this gathering begins varies greatly. To a great extent upon the favorite food. When that starts to give out, the consumers must move farther south, following the supply which, in turn, necessarily depends upon the weather. Birds that have not left by this time may be able to find them in Canada all autumn. Once the flocks are formed, they begin to long to an end, Specialcers with the same interests gather ready for migration.

HOSTILE FLYCATCHERS

Warblers are mostly the flycatching type. They are very shy now they must fatten up preparatory to the flight south. Like our man-made flying machines they require fuel, and there is always some uncertainty about the next good filling station. In the early part of September they gather in flocks where flying insects may still be found. They are followed by many kinds of birds that subsist on liquid food and trust to day. Early in the morning they land in a suitable spot, so if there is danger he is in a position where flying insects are plentiful, some morning you may be taken by surprise when the warbler calls — possibly a bit of a song. And when you take a little investigate there, flitting from branch to branch, will be a whole flock of warblers. Possibly made up of three or four species gathering together for protection. In fact, as Vireos have similar tastes, you might get a Vireo, a wood pewee, a warbling, or a yellow-throated vireo mixed in with the warblers — even ruby-crowned kinglets might have joined the company.

If the hunting ground is really good, all may remain in the vicinity for several days; if they are just searching for a good spot in which to settle, to fulfil them, they move so rapidly. Their modest autumn dress makes identification very difficult when, for a second only, you see what might be a yellow cap, a bit of white on the rump, or a yellow throat.

6th Sidney

6th SIDNEY — The beautiful weather of last week proved a boon to the farmers who are now getting caught up on their harvesting. Though the grain was down badly, it is being cut with little loss and netted a fair return.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Sine on the birth of their daughter, Wanda Jane. Mr. Sine's father, Lorne Sine, cut met at the home of Mrs. Yanka on Thursday evening, with a good attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Defoe and family, Mr. and Mrs. G. Fallout May Have Blown Over Russia

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. weather officials said Friday fallout from the last four Soviet nuclear explosions may have been whipped back across Russia in a weather-triggered backlash.

They said a persistent low pressure area — an area with lower barometric readings than in the surrounding territory— has hung over Russia's nuclear test site

Normally, the fallout would have been blown east. But because of the counter - clockwise motion of winds in a low-pressure area, the fallout could have been swirled around and blown over Russia.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

This Retired Man Is Planning On Turning Carrots Into Cash

By THOMAS COLLINS

Have you ever figured that you might find your Golden Years in a carrot patch?

A man named Floyd Thomasson did. And he may have something.

He's an industrial engineer and was retired in June at 65. He began planning his future about four years ago.

"My wife and I had thought for a long time," he says, "that we wanted to break away. We've lived here for 31 years. We also wanted a small community instead of the city.

"More important than anything else we wanted a retirement home that had income tied to it...a small farm that would produce a cash crop, an apartment house where we would occupy one unit and collect rent from the rest...a big house where we could rent out rooms or even a store front where we could live upstairs and operate or rent a street-level store..."

Mr. Thomasson explains that he does not have complete faith in his pension and other income (which will total $384 a month.) He's afraid of inflation for it could increase prices to the point where $384 wouldn't stretch. He's afraid too, of the unknown. Could the pension company go broke? He doesn't think so but is afraid of The Bomb, which could kill him if he remained in the city or escape the bomb that brings it retirement cheques.

"IT'S NOT EASY"

"It is not easy to make advance arrangements to move away to a retirement home that will give you income," Mr. Thomasson says. "We devoted four of our vacations to the project while I was still working and we got nowhere. We found a little farm, that could buy for $4,000 less than we could sell our city home for. And we could get some income off the land. But there was nobody who would operate it for us or even watch it until the day when we would retire and take over.

"We found apartment houses and store fronts both in Aruba and Curacao in the Dutch West Indies and in Florida. But we needed something that we could buy with the money we could get from our home, which was between $25,000 and $28,000. Property of that value is not worth the while of a local manager. But we could not manage such property at absentee landlords until we retired.

"A boardinghouse was out of the question until we could move in to manage it."

So the Thomasons resigned themselves to wait until retirement came, even though they had worked out a scheme whereby they would borrow $30,000 on their home to use as a down payment on a retirement home, then pay off the whole business when they sold their home after reaching 65.

"A month before I retired," Mr. Thomasson continues, "we put our house up for sale. Two weeks ago we sold it, for a net of $28,250 and with a grace of 60 days before we get out. In these two weeks we have bought a small farm near Asheville, N. C. with 32 acres of tillable land for $24,000.

SPECIALIZED FARMERS

"In the six weeks we have left before moving I am figuring out how to use the $4,250 extra from the house to set up as small, highly specialized farms. There's a food processing plant in Asheville. It needs vegetables, I think I can take chicken feet off our tillable soil, buy a little tractor and other tools I'll need and become a contractor on some crops. Even at 65, if you specialize it can be done. There are supplement manufacturers, the county farm agent, the seed companies and the departments of agriculture will all be my partners for free. It's amazing how all of them want to help you.

"I don't know just what I'll grow. But at the moment I'm thinking of carrots. Soups, baby foods, boiled potatoes, rabbits. There's a need for carrots for all over.

"I'm not going to become a Carrot King, just a highly specialized little guy on a tractor with an eye in the hole if my income fails. And perhaps, I'll have some fun."

W. Huntingdon

WEST HUNTINGDON — Mr. Herb Brooks and Mr. Burke of Trenton were in charge of the service in the United Church on Sunday morning. Following the service Sunday School held a Rally Day service which was directed by Mr. A. McCurdy. Choruses were sung by the younger children. Miss Mae Pollock read the Scripture lesson and Mrs. William Grant told the story.

Mr. and Mrs. Kivin Carr spent the weekend at Ottawa and Almonte, when Kivin assisted the Havelock Pipe Band at Almonte.

Mr. and Mrs. William Fox and Miss Enid Pepgrave of Toronto; Mrs. Ed Parks of Belleville; Mr. Ambrose Wright and Mr. and Mrs. K. Bush of Frankford were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Wilson.

The Huntingdon Township Bible study group met at the home of Mrs. Melville Doonan on Wednesday evening and Miss Enid Pepgrave gave a most interesting address on her work at Hay River.

Mrs. William Grant is busy with the choir, practising for the anniversary services which are to be held on Sunday at 11 o'clock with the Rev. Louie of Tweed as guest minister.

PRESENTATION

On Saturday evening recently a large number of neighbors and friends assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cooke to honor their son and his recent bride, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Cooke.

Mr. and Mrs. McCurdy was chairman for the following program: community singing led by Mrs. Foster Wilson and all joining; readings by Mrs. Barton Hagerman and Mrs. Mac Sarles; two musical selections by Mr. David Cooke, and a vocal selection by Mrs. Foster Wilson.

Mr. Foster Wilson read the special address and they were presented with a handsome mirror and a telephone chair, for which they both voiced their appreciation. Mrs. John Wallace and Mrs. Melville Doonan each spoke briefly.

This happy event was brought to a close by the serving of refreshments.

"Just a Second"

"You're missing all the fun. There's a smashing program on TV."

Jimmy Hoffa's Teamsters Believe Canada Is Ripe For Organizational Drive

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP)—Jimmy Hoffa's Teamsters believe Canada is ripe for a big organizational drive.

They hope to attract membership by hoking out the bait of fatter work contracts and higher wages for truckers.

"We're going to concentrate on Canada as soon as we complete our consolidation here," said Harold J. Gibbons, 51-year-old executive vice-president of the 1,500,000 - member international union and a buddy of Hoffa, the union chief.

"We're going to make every effort to bring truckers wages in Canada into line with those in the United States."

There is no justification for Canadian drivers getting less than Americans. Drivers from the two countries pass each other at border points. The two countries are "one country as far as we're concerned."

BLACKMAIL CHARGED

Gibbons' words are usually followed by Hoffa's: "Be careful ways. Hoffa told a Toronto audience early this year that in 1961 the Canadian trucking industry would have to deal with him personally in negotiating contract renewals. The Quebec provincial Chamber of Commerce retorted that Hoffa was trying to apply methods of discrimination, racketeering and blackmail on the Canadian economy.

Teamster Canadian director I. M. (Casey) Dodds of Toronto says he hopes to see the Teamsters' drive for Canada before long.

Recently, Hoffa announced the creation of a $3,000,000 fund for organizing in North America.

"You would expect we would get at least a third of this for Canada," Dodds said.

Gibbons insists he provide a clear-cut comparison of Canada and United States Teamsters' pay rates but said Canadian rates generally are lower, with differential wages regionally and through many types of Teamster operations.

OUSTED FROM CLC

Tom Flynn, eastern vice-president of the Teamsters, is a man who keeps a close eye on Canadian activities, says he Teamsters in Canada "like their own show pretty well" and Americans are not trying to interfere with Canada's sovereignty. But he said that maybe the Teamsters are not as well organized as they should be in Canada.

Currently the Teamsters have about 40,000 Canadian members in 41 locals spread through all provinces but Prince Edward Island. They are a booted outfit in Canada, as in the U.S. They were thrown out of the AFL-CIO in 1957 for corruption at the top.

This change has not been advanced against the Canadian Teamster leadership but the union was put out of the Canadian Labor Congress last year for raiding membership of a CL affiliate.

Some behind-the-scenes maneuvering aimed at getting the union back into the CLC has been inconclusive.

Expulsion hasn't slowed Hoffa's drive for increased union power in the United States and his aides figure it won't slow the drive in Canada.

A veteran Canadian labor observer, suggesting in a way Canadian truckers may double whether they should link up with Hoffa's crew in view of the notoriety around him, estimated the Teamsters may have got duly stood one-fifth of the total membership potential available in Canada.

The international headquarters hangers for power and prestige. A big and effective membership drive in Canada might be useful in argument for readmittance to the main bosses of labor in the two countries.

Another apparent effort to strengthen its hand was the mutual aid pact, announced late in August, with the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers in Canada and the United States.

The Canadian Mine-MIM union has also been expelled from the CLC and is in the midst of a fight in Northern Ontario's nickel belt with the United Steelworkers.

While Gibbons talks of bigger and better things' for Canadian truckers, he has harbors concern over the Canadian transportation pattern — of the increased move by railways into the trucking business.

"The Canadian railways are getting more and more into the trucking business. We can't stop that. It is not illegal. But by getting into trucking, the railway management pushes truckers into railway unions, often at wage scales inferior to what a trucker should get.

"No railway down here would dare do a thing like that. They wouldn't try to bypass the Teamsters."

That seems to be part of the root of the Teamsters' worry—that the rail unions may dig deeper into Teamsters' membership.

SUPPORT FOR HOFFA — Held high by supporters after his recent re-election in Miami as head of the Teamsters union, Jimmy Hoffa has consolidated his hold over the union and plans to extend its organizational activities into Canada. Union officials estimate only one-fifth of potential members in Canada are Teamsters. (CP Photo).

CANADIAN DIRECTOR

I. M. (Casey) Dodds of Toronto, Canadian director of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, expects the union to supply $1,000,000 as an organization drive in Canada. At present the teamsters have 40,000 Canadian members in 41 locals. (CP Photo).

Space Agency Orders Three Moon Rockets

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP)—The U.S. space agency has ordered three identical ranger moon rocket because "we'll be happy if we're lucky enough to get one of the three on the moon," an official said Thursday.

James D. Burke, manager of the Project Ranger, made the statement at the first public showing of the first object the United States hopes to land on the moon.

The object is a while "talking ball" 25 inches in diameter capable of telling whether the moon ever gets the shakes. Inside it will be a seismometer-like miniature of the gadgets that record earthquakes.

Burke said the ball, lofted into space by an Atlas-Agena B rocket, will be aimed at the moon's equator.

HAMMARSKJOLD DIES IN PLANE CRASH

Adenauer Loses Control Of Bundestag

Aging Chancellor May Be Ousted In Mid-October

Party Drops 40 Seats In Election on Sunday

CP from AP-Reuters

BONN — Aging Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's 12 - year iron-fisted rule over West Germany was in doubt today, after his Christian Democrat party lost its absolute majority in Sunday's parliamentary elections.

But West Germany, with its powerful army and its booming economy, remains firmly in the Western camp, and the most there could be some minor changes in its outlook on the East-West struggle over Berlin.

Adenauer's CDU lost five per cent of its popular support and about 40 seats in the new German parliament which will hold its first meeting in mid-October.

The 85-year-old Adenauer will remain in office at least until then. But whether he will be the new chancellor of West Germany was the big question in Bonn today.

NEEDS MAJORITY VOTE

The chancellor must be elected by majority vote of the new Bundestag. Before it meets Oct. 17, Adenauer's party must hold talks with one of its opponents — West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt's Social Democrats or the Free Democrats.

Today at a press conference Adenauer gave it clear that he favors a coalition with the Free Democrats. He invited a suggestion by Brandt for a government made up of the representatives of all three parties.

An all-party coalition "is not in keeping with the democratic feelings of our time," he said.

Adenauer appeared relaxed and confident today despite his party's loss of its majority. He said he was satisfied with the result "from the international point of view."

The free and real and most important thing is that the foundation has been established by the Christian Democratic Party which should be continued with undiminished vigor in the same direction."

HOUSE TO DECIDE

He laughed when he was asked if he would remain chancellor.

"Well, that is up to the new Bundestag to decide," he replied.

Both Brandt's Socialists and the Free Democrats are against Adenauer remaining as chancellor.

They say they will refuse to enter a coalition until he leaves. If they force him out, his Christian Democrats would seek another chancellor.

Political observers say the last Democrats to quickly wagon about a shift in West German foreign policies would be Communist East Russell, leader of the Socialists, was released from jail here.

CRASH KILLS 37 INCLUDING TWO CANADIANS

"No Control" Last Word From Pilot

CHICAGO (AP) — "No control."

These frantic last words from a plunging Northwest Airlines Electra provided a major clue for investigators seeking the cause of a crash Sunday that killed 37 persons including two Canadians.

Thirty-two passengers and the crew of five died as the Florida-bound plane hit a high-tension wire, smashed into a muddy field southwest of O'Hare International Airport within a minute after takeoff, disintegrated and burned. There were no survivors.

Among the dead were a mother and her four young children. Their war veteran father wished in horror as the plane blew apart, spewing bodies over a wide area.

The Electra crash was the second major air disaster in the Chicago area this month. Sept. 3, a Trans World Airlines Constellation crashed near suburban Hinsdale minutes after takeoff en route from Midway Airport. Seventy-eight persons died.

HEAR FINAL WORDS

The final words from the Electra—"no control" — as it spun to earth from a height estimated variously at 200 to 300 feet were recorded at the control tower.

Other words from the pilot or co-pilot or the doomed plane were drowned out by the message of another pilot calling the tower.

Federal investigators said the two words indicated the pilot had lost control of the big aircraft. They said the tape recording could be considerably useful in solving the cause of the accident.

Attempts will be made to separate messages on the recording.

"We are going to have the tape examined by the finest analyses in the country," said Najeeb Halaby, federal aviation agency administrator, who flew here from Washington to direct the investigation.

Alan Boyd, chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board, said that "as far as we know, there were no malfunctions" in the Electra before it crashed.

Halaby said:

"There is no reason to believe there was any explosion within the aircraft that would be the result of a bomb or sabotage."

The Canadians killed were George Peck, native of Kitche-

1,600 ARRESTED PROTESTING NUCLEAR ARMS

Trafalgar Square Scene of Riots

LONDON (CP) — Police carried the last, limp sit-downer from Trafalgar Square in the heart of London early today, bringing to more than 1,600 the number of arrests made in a massive weekend display of civil disobedience in Britain.

Campaigning against nuclear weapons staged demonstrations here and at Dunoon, Scotland, where American polaris-carrying atomic submarines are based in Holy Loch.

In London, police arrested 1,314 persons, including two clergymen and a member of Parliament, during the night-long sit-down in Trafalgar Square.

Seven courts were set up to deal with the pacifists. Ten London courts heard obstruction charges against 1,314 who protested. Of these 638 were released on bail while the remainder spent the night in crowded cells and appeared before magistrates today.

In Dunoon a special court was set up to handle those arrested in the Loch anti-bomb demonstration. Ninety-one were arrested. Sentence: $1 or total equivalent to $1,976 in fines was handed out, mostly.

Police said today is alight more "constant" for the courts to deal with all the arrests.

The London arrests included playwrights Dora Osborne and Shelagh Delaney and actress Vanessa Redgrave, daughter of playwright Sir Michael Redgrave.

Police also arrested Labor MP Fenner Brockway who had announced he disapproved of the demonstrations. He insisted to be on hand to watch for possible violation of civil liberties.

CANON ARRESTED

Another arrest was that of Canon John Collins, chancellor of St. Paul's Cathedral and chairman of Britain's campaign for nuclear disarmament, who had also announced he would be on hand to watch police.

Between 10,000 and 15,000 persons packed the huge square in the heart of London Sunday, organized by the committee of 100, an offshoot of the CND.

Fist fights broke out between hecklers and sympathizers of the demonstrators. The crowd, like the demonstrators themselves, stood by in the manner of passive resistance and simply sat down on the pavement and awaited arrest.

Police carted away the last demonstrators to packy wagons about 4:30 a.m. and a few hours before Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, the consort of Queen Elizabeth, enterprises policies have made West Germany Europe's most powerful industrial nation.

Both the Socialists and the Free Democrats gained 4.5 per cent in popular vote, taking their new strength from Adenauer's Christian Democrats.

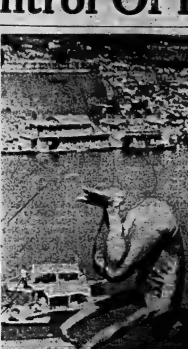
Catholic Bishop and 135 Priests Are Deported From Cuba Sunday

HAVANA (AP)—In a blow to Roman Catholic Church influence, the government Sunday deported Bishop Edvardo Boza Masvidal and 135 priests aboard the Spanish ship Covadonga. The bishop is considered the Canadian priests were reported to be in the group.

A crowd of several hundred cheered and applauded the departure of the bishop at the dock in a police car. He was arrested last week after a bloody anti-Soviet demonstration by Catholics in front of his church, the Church of Charity in downtown Havana.

Bishop Masvidal blessed the crowd. He stood on the deck with other priests as the ship steamed out of the harbor.

Among those deported were 60 priests born in Spain. The deportations left about 30 priests in Havana, where there are 60 Catholic churches.



Nuns and militiamen who escorted the deportees to the vessel greeted them with politeness and attentiveness. One militiaman put aside his automatic rifle to help an old priest carry his luggage aboard.

Some nuns were reported to be among the group.

U.S. Fires Second Blast, Russia Runs Series to 12

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The United States has fired the second nuclear blast of its renewed underground tests while the Russians pushed the total in their current series to 12 with two more blasts in the atmosphere.

A report from Stockholm said tremors from what was believed to be a new Soviet nuclear explosion near Novaya Zemlya in the Arctic region were recorded early today on the seismograph of Uppsala, near Stockholm.

As the great powers banged away with nuclear tests, the people of Britain demonstrated their opposition to use of nuclear weapons.

More than 1,500 persons, including notables of the entertainment world, were arrested in London and at Dunoon, Scotland, where American polaris submarines are based.

London police threw in mounted forces Sunday to beat back a march on the Houses of Parliament. The demonstrations continued through the night.

U.S. space scientists also had a busy weekend:

1. The air force shot another Discoverer satellite—the 31st in the series—into orbit from the Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif. It will attempt within four days to recover it in the air over the Pacific. A key experiment is the placing of human cells in the capsule for testing after orbit for the effect of exposure to space radiation.

Rusk Will Meet Gromyko, With War or Peace at Issue

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — State Secretary Dean Rusk will try to find out from Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko next week whether Russia is ready to negotiate on a compromise settlement of the Berlin crisis or intends to press its drive to a showdown fight of war.

Rusk came to New York from Washington Sunday night, following the three-day policy conference with the foreign ministers of Britain, France and West Germany. He said he wants to know from Gromyko whether there is "a basis for serious negotiations on the questions raised by the Soviet Union in the past months."

On leaving Washington he had expressed cautious optimism about the outcome of his mission, saying "I think it is important to be optimistic until things prove otherwise."

Gromyko, who reached New York by plane Saturday night, arrived here because the chief optimistic or pessimistic. He commented: "We'll see each other, we'll meet, and we'll talk."

Both men are here to attend the UN General Assembly session opening Tuesday. Rusk said they would "probably be seeing each other" at that time. He told reporters the time and place of their first Berlin talk had yet to be fixed.

Rusk is expected to tell Gromyko that the United States and its allies will not tolerate interference with aircraft flying in the corridors to West Berlin across East Germany territory. There were several instances last week of Soviet fighter craft buzzing civilian airliners.

He also plans to advise Gromyko that the Western powers will not negotiate with Russia on peace treaties with a divided Germany or on the terms of a separate peace treaty with East Germany.

UN Secretary's Body Is Found Amid Wreckage

Had Flown to Rhodesia To Talk With Tshombe

By REUTERS

NDOLA, Northern Rhodesia (Reuters)—United Nations Secretary - General dag Hammarskjold died in the crash of his DC-6 airliner 7½ miles from here.

Rescuers found the body of the United Nations chief executive in the wreckage of the plane along with those of five companions.

Canadian diplomats in New York said their information from the UN was that the crash was accidental; there was no early indication of sabotage.)

One man was found alive in the crash scene critically injured.

Six bodies were recovered and three more were believed lying under the wreckage.

Hammarskjold was headed here for talks with Katanga president Moise Tshombe on ways of ending the fighting between UN forces and Katangan troops in the neighboring Congo province.

UN officials said Hammarskjold's top adviser on African affairs, Heinrich Wieschhoff; his American aide, Capt. William Fanelin and another UN official, Vladimir Fabri, were on the ill-fated plane, piloted by a Swede.

Hammarskjold's death faces the whole United Nations organization with a major crisis. A bitter battle is expected between East and West over the political successor to the shy, dedicated Swede who had been the chief executive of the world organization since 1953.

The body was discovered after a Royal Rhodesian Air Force plane spotted the wreckage following the disappearance of the UN secretary-general and his party on a flight here from Leopoldville, the central Congo state capital.

A spokesman for the Rhodesian government confirmed that the crashed plane was the one taken by Hammarskjold and that his body was among those found in the wreckage.

HIGH SPEED CRASH

The wreckage of the plane was still smouldering when it was reached by a rescue party.

Rescuers said the plane appeared to have hit the ground at high speed after plowing through treetops.

It disintegrated on impact.

The force of the impact was such that two of the four engines and Hammarskjold's plane were ripped from the fuselage and could not immediately be located.

U.S. planes joined in the all-out UN search effort to find missing airliners. Switch first reports said was carrying five persons, including a crew of four.

Hammarskjold had been due

46 Fatalities Across Canada During Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Five provinces were free of highway deaths this weekend, but the total across Canada remained the highest contributor to Canada's accidental death toll.

A survey conducted by The Canadian Press between 6 p.m. local times and Sunday midnight EDT showed an overall total of 46 accidental deaths, 24 of them the result of traffic accidents. There were 10 drownings, one death by fire, two as a result of hunting accidents and nine through miscellaneous causes.

"Never Felt Better' Declares P.M. As He Marks His 66th Birthday

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, the Prairie lawyer who first entered the Commons 21 years ago, observes his 66th birthday today with his usual 16-hour day and perhaps an evening walk.

The governing prime minister, supremely confident and vigorously healthy as when he first took his seat in the Commons in 1940 as the Conservative member for Lake Centre, says:

"I never felt better. I'm as fit now as I was 20 or 30 years ago."

Mr. Diefenbaker, who has represented the Saskatchewan riding of Prince Albert since 1953 and held the office of prime minister for four years, has only one profession to which he will confess—his weight.

He keeps a calorie count and takes exercise and weekend walks to keep his weight in the neighborhood of 170 pounds—a good weight, he feels, for his five-foot, 11-inch height.

"Probably what keeps him young," suggests an aide, "is that he is doing what he always wanted to do, and enjoys almost every minute of it."

The long-standing head of international tensions and Canadian problems that rest on the shoulders of the prime minister has not slowed him.

He rises at 8:15 a.m., does an hour's paperwork before breakfast and then leaves for his Rideau Street residence at times driven by Mrs. Diefenbaker.

His usual daily work routine runs 16 hours through cabinet, party, parliamentary and delegations and senior civil servants' sessions. Paperwork, self, letter writing and decisions —many of them.

Then time left for himself, he spends reading, mostly history and biography.

"I like it that way. I've always kept busy."

The only year he has taken only two holidays for fishing—five days last winter off Jamaica, and four this summer at northern Saskatchewan's Lac la Ronge.

Weekends here are sometimes spent at the prime minister's official summer residence at near by Harrington Lake, but he likes to work when he always

DOUBLE FRACTURE OF SKULL SUFFERED BY WOMAN DRIVER

Edna May Maracle, 31, R.R. 1, Plainfield, was admitted to hospital here early Sunday morning suffering serious injuries as a result of a car accident.

Police said the woman sustained a double fracture of the skull and severe lacerations to her forehead and an arm.

She was driving a car on the College Street Bridge about two a.m. when it went out of control. The vehicle struck the south side of the structure, bounced off and crashed head-on into the north side.

Damage to the car was estimated at $200.

To Help Train Vocational Teachers Here

Two Belleville high schools, BCIVS and Moira Secondary School have been requested by the Ontario College of Education to assist with the training of 270 new vocational teachers. This will involve the complete staff supervision by members of the staff of the two schools for a total period of ten weeks over the year. The teachers concerned are Messrs. Hopkins, Earle, French, Bartleman and Kiss of Moira Secondary School and Messrs. Howe and Ritchie of BCIVS.

The principals of the two schools, Mr. E. A. Orr and Mr. W. J. Musgrove, point out that it is a matter of great satisfaction to them that Belleville schools have been chosen for this important work. With the approval of the High School Board the training program will begin in October

BIRD STEALS PURSE

TOKYO (AP) — An angry housewife dashed into a Fujisawa police station Sunday shouting "catch the thief" and pointing skyward. She gave a description of the sky raider which she recognized by its yellow beak and distinctive feathers. The police figured it was a falcon or hawk.

No Injuries In Car Crash

No injuries resulted when two cars collided on Highway 401 near the Wallbridge Road on Saturday, according to provincial police here.

A car driven by Thomas A. Tucker, R.R. 3, Trenton, was in collision with a vehicle driven by Clarence Finch, R.R. 3, Campbellford.

Damage to the Tucker car amounted to $150 while the Finch car damage was $300.

Police stated a car driven by Milan Cicek, R.R. 3, Trenton, went out of control on Highway 401 west of the city. Damage was estimated at $200.

City police had a quiet weekend, reporting no criminal mishaps occurred and no arrests were made.

Blown Tire Causes Car To Roll Over

William "Bill" Seymour, a member of the cabinet staff of The Ontario Intelligencer, was admitted to Cobourg Hospital shortly after noon on Saturday when the car which he was driving rolled over on Highway 401 east of Colborne after blowing a tire on the rear left wheel.

He was thrown clear of the vehicle in the accident, several bones to his legs, neck and head. After treatment in the hospital he was allowed to return to this city.

Mr. Seymour was returning from Cobourg when the accident occurred. After passing over a slight knoll in the highway, the tire blew and the vehicle headed over the shoulder and a deep boulevard between the east and west lanes. The car hit the shoulder at an angle and rolled over. Two doctors were passing at the time and rendered first aid, while a transport driver provided blankets and pillows until the ambulance arrived.

Butler, Brooke, Maudling May be Moved As Macmillan Considers Cabinet Shuffle

By DAVID OANCIA

LONDON (CP) — There are rumblings of a cabinet shuffle in Britain as political skirmishing and activity increases following the country's traditional August recess.

Roughly a month before Parliament resumes there's a feeling that Butler, R. A., Treasury chief of Brooke Secretary R. A. Butler, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Reginald Maudling, president of the Board of trade.

The Berlin crisis, the economic belt-tightening at home and Britain's application to join the Common Market have had the effect of keeping some ministers firmly in their jobs.

These include Lord Home, the foreign secretary, Selwyn Lloyd, chancellor of the exchequer, and Ted Heath, Commons spokesman on foreign affairs and leader of the Common Market negotiating team.

BUTLER'S PROBLEM

Butler, one of the two contenders for the succession to leadership when Anthony Eden stepped down in 1957 after the Suez crisis, is Deputy leader and Conservative party chairman in addition to being home secretary.

He is said to want to give up the home secretary's job and just to keep the other two. Speculation is also flying that Macmillan to give up the chairmanship and to keep his governmental post.

"His reforms were far-reaching," says The Daily Mail's political correspondent. "But they have not been popular.

"He has also had to get out of this unpopular job and still retained his grip on the party machine he built up well on the way to No. 10."

TORIES GRUMBLING

A sizable section of the Tory party, however, is grumbling about the chairman's behavior and a leadership challenge by May emerge from the shuffle as House leader.

His possible successors mentioned include Viscount Hailsham, chairman during London's dark post-Suez days in 1957, had Dr. Charles Hill, a staunch, gravelled Conservative who now is chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster.

One of the most fascinating political contests behind the scenes could be over an emotion-charged problem of shedding the last parts of the empire built up over the centuries.

This is the quiet clash between a section of the Foreign Secretary, who heads the Commonwealth relations office, and Iain Macleod of the colonial office.

Sandys wants the pace to be slow, independence for parts of the Rhodesias, Nyasaland and Kenya to be held from the top. Doing this would be more dangerous than moving as quickly as possible from the middle.

HOPE MACLEOD OUT

Right - wing sources of the Conservative party now are reported that the anticipated clash Macleod will become a personality contest, the position of Europeans in colonial territories will be strengthened.

Housing Minister Brooke is described as a "dark horse" in the race for key positions to open if years pushed through the Rent Act, which freed rents from control, is considered to have survived to see its effort produce results.

He's touted as a possible contender for either the labor department or the leadership of Britain's equivalent of the trade department.

Maudling, the present incumbent at the board of trade office, is described as one of the keenest brains in the cabinet.

But there are rumors, reported in the Conservative Daily Mail, that he is feeling "stale and frustrated."

"It is no secret that several lucrative posts in the City are on open offer to him," The Mail adds.

Typhoon Nancy Leaves 175 Dead

TOKYO (AP)—Typhoon Nancy was blowing itself out in the North Pacific today after leaving a swath of death and destruction in Japan.

The human toll rose to 175 dead, 18 missing, 2,186 injured and more than 400,000 homeless. Crop damage was estimated at $130,000,000 and property loss at another $100,000,000.

Flood waters began receding but rail traffic was still suspended in many regions.

The full force of the storm ripped through a string of cities on the Japan south sea coast and through northern ho-ku and Hokkaido. Niigata north of Tokyo was hardest hit with 33 dead.

Debate in UN On China Sought By New Zealand

By MILTON KESSER

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The UN General Assembly opens on Tuesday for what diplomats expect will be the most crucial session of its 16-year history. Some say its future as a peace-making organization is at stake.

Already on its crowded list of issues to be debated are such questions as Communist China's admission, testing nuclear weapons, disarmament and the Congo.

New Zealand, with the support of the United States, took the initiative on the Red China issue by proposing Sunday that the General Assembly debate the question of Chinese representation.

The United States, while still opposed to the effort to admit Communist China, dropped its 10 year-long policy of blocking the membership to postpone the Red China question. It was felt the U.S. handed the votes to debate the question off the agenda this year.

The U.S. or one of its supporters is expected to seek a delay in the decision by creating a study committee on Chinese seating which would report back next year.

The U.S. will also support the idea of a debate on the need for a treaty on banning of nuclear weapons tests under effective 1 a t e national control.

Attempts to negotiate such a treaty at Geneva collapsed when the Soviet Union resumed nuclear tests in the atmosphere. The U.S. resumed testing underground, but recently Kennedy made clear his country's willingness to negotiate a treaty "of unlimited duration."

On disarmament, the United States and the Soviet Union have failed to reach agreement even on the makeup of a negotiating body, let alone the substance of the issue. Under pressure from the Afro-Asian bloc, nations are virtually no prospect of the United Nations getting down to the issue of Congo.

Adding to the gloomy picture is the situation in the Congo where the fighting in Katanga has deepened hopes for early reconciliation of the warring factions.

The cost of maintaining the Congo operation is threatening the United Nations with bankruptcy, and efforts to raise money to remove that threat have received at the current session of the assembly. The Soviet-bloc countries and France refuse to pay anything toward Congo costs.

Reds Threaten To Shoot Down Stray Planes

MOSCOW (AP)—Russia says two West German fighter-bombers that strayed across East German territory Sunday "will be sent" deliberately. It threatened to shoot down "any violating military flying aircraft" in the future.

A protest note Sunday was rejected at the West Germans. It did not make clear whether the threat applied to United States, British and French military planes which might wander over from the three air corridors linking West Germany with Berlin, deep inside Communist East Germany.

The Soviet note, delivered by the three allied occupying powers and West Germany, said:

"In similar cases in the future any violating military flying aircraft which refused to obey the demand to land in the indicated place will be destroyed by the use of all means, including rockets."

The West German government has banned mechanical failures for the flight of two F-84 jet fighters last Thursday that landed at Tegel airport in the French sector of Berlin. The Bonn government apologized to the occupying powers.

Rejecting the West German protest, the Soviet note charged the flight was "a prearranged provocation, to exacerbate the atmosphere in the world to the breaking point and slip in the U.S. the opportunity of agreement being reached . . . on urgent disarmament problems."

Taking the Western big three to task, Moscow said in rearming West Germany they "chose boast of the fact that they are allegedly in control of the situation."

"While living in a world of real facts, the Western powers of era may once day against their own will, find themselves involved in a destructive war."

MAY END TESTS

Announcement of the two Russian nuclear blasts came after Senator Hober Humphrey predicted Sunday that the U.S. will be present series before the United Nations meets tomorrow and then offer to negotiate a halt.

Humphrey, assistant Senate Democratic leader from Minnesota, urged in an interview that the United States beat the Russians to the punch by offering its own proposal to halt nuclear tests in a fixed date.

The U.S. blast Saturday took place underground at the atomic energy commission's test site in Nevada. It was described as a low-yield device—equivalent in force to 20,000 tons of TNT or less—that produced no fallout.

The Russian test Saturday was in the atmosphere at Novaya Zemlya, an island in the Arctic Ocean. The AEC said it was the fifth in a series and was of intermediate strength, ranging in force from the equivalent of 20,000 tons of TNT to less than a megaton.

The U.S. now has tested 155 nuclear devices and Russia 77. Britain has conducted 21 tests and France four.

RADIOACTIVITY JUMPS

Russia's nuclear testing produced a sharp jump Sunday in the level of radioactivity in three states. Officials said a change in high-altitude wind direction appeared to be the increase. In each case, the high level still was far below any danger point.

Connecticut reported a jump from a normal high of 26 micro-microcuries to nearly 96 a cubic metre of air. Michigan reported 36.7 micro - microcuries compared with a 1.8 reading Sept. 1. New York State listed 38 micro-microcuries a cubic metre of air, up from 2 or more than 30 within 36 hours.

Liberals Meet In Toronto For Discussions

Robert Temple, Liberal candidate for Hastings South, was present at a Toronto meeting over the weekend with some 80 other key Liberals from across Ontario. The meeting consisted of nominated Liberal candidates, their campaign managers and other key personnel as well as a number of elected Liberal representatives at the Toronto residence of Conservative Finance Minister Donald Fleming, the Crowsnest Terrace Hotel.

Accompanying Mr. Temple from this area were Gerry O'Connor, his campaign manager; Walter Partridge, special assistant; and Douglas Philippen, public relations director.

The conference which they attended was entitled "Campaign College," the first of many which the Liberals will be conducting in Ontario. Its objective was, through an intensified series of discussion groups and lectures, "to make it perfectly clear to all our candidates and executive workers exactly how we propose to fight and win the next federal election," said Mr. Bruce Macdonald, executive director of the Ontario Liberal Association, in commenting on the keenness and enthusiastic response which the "college" had received in its first session.

Two Business Places in Tweed Are Entered

TWEED (Special) — Burglars were active in the village of Tweed late last week when two places of business were entered with costly electrical tools reported missing.

Thieves broke their way into the Tweed Feed Mill and made off with an electric saw valued at $200. Entry into the mill was also missing. No attempt was made to open the safe.

The other place burglarized was the Holmes Service Station, near Stoco Lake, where garage tools were stolen.

The break-ins were investigated by Police Chief Walter Higgins.

This was the eighth time that the Tweed Feed Mill has been burglarized in recent years and the third time for the service station.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Losses to buy index stocks dropped the stock market into lower ground during light morning trading today.

Gains actually outnumbered losses on the industrial board but the 30 stock industrial indicator absorbed most of the declines.

Index stocks such as CPR, Canadian Celanese, BA Oil, Algoma Steel, Consprovincial Pipe Line and Consolidated Paper dropped in a range of from ½ to ⅝.

U.S. Ford had the biggest individual loss, down one point at 103. Loblaw B was off ½ and Steelman Brothers ⅝.

Dominion Glass had the best gain, ahead four points at 77 on good turnover.

Mining trade was extremely quiet. Ventures recorded the largest advance, up ⅜.

Western oils were moving slowly.

On the exchange index, industrials declined .75 at 605.06; golds .20 at 85.39 and base metals .68 at 202.31. Western oils advanced .01 at 97.16.

Big Hurricane Threatens Coast

MIAMI, (AP) — Severe hurricane Esther continued northwest in the Atlantic today and forecasters said the Atlantic seaboard should keep a close watch on future advisories.

Churning along at 12 miles an hour, the tremendous storm had winds up to 130 miles an hour over a small area near the centre.

Early today Esther was centred about 725 miles east of Boca Raton, Fla.; 685 miles southwest of Bermuda and 375 miles north-northeast of Turks Island in the Bahamas.

Brighton Native, Stan Buchanan Dies in West

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP) — S. A. (Stan) Buchanan, 71, The Herald's first circulation manager, died at his home here Sunday. A 53-year veteran of the newspaper business, Mr. Buchanan arrived Jan. 1, 1906. He was the brother of Senator A. E. Buchanan, publisher of The Herald from 1905 to 1954.

Born in Brighton, Ont., Mr. Buchanan came West in 1900 as manager of the Grassy Lake, Alta., Sawmill Company, one of the few private banks in Alberta.

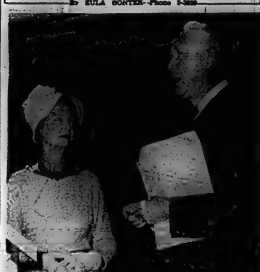
Four years later he went to Edmonton as a member of the provincial government's threeman board of motion picture censors.

He became a theatre manager in 1913 and in 1934 joined his brother at The Herald. Two years later he became circulation manager.

He was president of the Pacific Northwest International Circulation Managers' Association in 1909.

Four Killed On Lonely Road, Car Hits Tree

BRANTFORD (CP)—A newly purchased car carried four Nova Scotia tobacco workers to their deaths Sunday on a lonely country road 10 miles south of here.



The car, bought the day before from a used-car dealer in Allston, travelled 800 feet along a roadside ditch before hitting a 25-foot-thick maple tree.

A passing motorist came upon the bodies of Dale Sidon Lunn, 18, his brother Warren, 18, and Vernon A. Burgess, 23, all of Windsor, N.S., and of Anselm Elaine Dykeau, 22, of Three Mile Plains N.S.

The group had been in Ontario since early August, working on the tobacco harvest.

Mrs. Thorne Spear, president of the Women's Auxiliary of Trenton Memorial Hospital, presented S. O. Graham, chairman of the hospital's board of directors, with a cheque for $4,000 from the auxiliary at yesterday's official opening of the hospital's new wings.

Health Minister Amazed At Low $10,000 a Bed Cost Of New Wings to Hospital

TRENTON — Amazement, bordering on incredulity, was expressed by Hon. Matthew B. Dymond, Ontario minister of health, as he considered a statement made by S. O. Graham, chairman of the board of directors of Trenton Memorial Hospital, that beds in the hospital had been provided at a capital cost of $10,000. At the opening of the hospital's new wings yesterday afternoon, Dr. Dymond told the large crowd of spectators that the average cost of providing a hospital bed throughout the province was $15,000 and that the average cost of providing a bed per year was $7,000.

"The cost of building, equipping and maintaining hospitals in the province is staggering," said the minister, "Millions are spent annually."

Dr. Dymond said that, in keeping with the population growth and the expansion and development of the country, hospital extension was being carried out on a large scale. However, he said, despite all the new hospitals being opened up, in many hospitals patients were accommodated in hallways. He said that medical science had made greater strides in the past 50 years than it had in any 1000 years before.

COMPLIMENTS BOARD

Dr. Dymond complimented Mr. Graham and the members of the official board on the beautiful new addition and on their astuteness in financing the new wings.

The opening ceremonies were held on the hospital lawn, and the speakers' remarks were broadcast over a loud-speaker system. The Trenton Salvation Army entertained the crowd throughout the ceremonies.

Among the guests introduced by board member Kenneth J. Couch were Len Grills, MP for Hastings South; Mayor A. McLean Haig of Belleville; Mayor Harvey McFarland of Picton; Chester C. Wood, (architect for the hospital building); Mayor D. James MacDonald of Trenton and Fraser Armstrong, the former superintendent of Kingston General Hospital, who acted as planning consultant for the addition.

The official ceremonies were opened by Rev. J. T. Irwin.

S. O. Graham, chairman of the official board, welcomed the townspeople and the many out-of-town guests.

"Trenton Memorial Hospital is a memorial to those who made the supreme sacrifice during the two great wars," said Mr. Graham, "This is a proud and happy moment for me. I wonder now how we managed to do without a hospital for so many years."

THANKS CLUBS

Mr. Graham paid tribute to the Trenton Lions Club, the Rotary Club, the Trenton Legion branch and the many other organizations and individuals who had worked for the success of the institution. He said that much of the hospital's success was due to the management of Miss S. O. Moore, administrator since 1954.

Mr. Graham said that the occasion was saddened by the fact that W. H. Boland, charter chairman of the board, was unable to be present due to illness.

Mayor James M. s'Donald welcomed the guests on behalf of the people of Trenton.

During the ceremonies, Mrs. Thorne Spear, president of the Women's Auxiliary of Trenton Memorial Hospital, presented a cheque for $4000 to the chairman. This money is to be used for the pediatrics wing. Last year, the auxiliary pledged $4000 for the building fund. Seven thousand of this has now been turned over to the board.

Mrs. W. R. Lloyd, liaison between the hospital auxiliary and the RCAF Women's Auxiliary, introduced Mrs. J. D. Arbuckle, past-president of the RCAF auxiliary. Mrs. Arbuckle gave Mr. Graham a cheque from the auxiliary with which to buy three bassinettes for the nursery wing.

Dr. R. W. L. Urquhart, chairman of the Ontario Hospital Services Commission also spoke briefly during the ceremonies.

LIONS OFFICIAL SPEAKER

Harry Sager, a member of the hospital board, who acted as chairman for the meeting, introduced the Hon. John M. Cook, a director of Lions International. Mr. Booth said that the Lions' motto, "Together We Serve," could readily be applied to the Trenton club's contribution to the hospital.

Dr. Dymond was introduced by Dr. W. A. L. McDonald, a former college classmate of the minister. Dr. McDonald was representative on the hospital's medical staff. He said that the staff was gratified that the board of directors had had the foresight to provide hospital facilities "large enough and soon enough" instead of little and late.

Following the speeches, Mrs. B. M. Bowen, Mrs. H. Menzies and Mrs. M. A. Dixon cut the ribbon, signifying the opening of the new wings and the guests were taken on guided tours of the hospital.

Members of the auxiliary served refreshments.

Trenton to Get $910,413 Federal Grant for School

Lee Grills, M.P. for Hastings South has announced on behalf of the Minister of Labor, the Hon. Michael Starr, the approval of a Federal Government contribution towards the cost of extending, altering and equipping the Trenton High School.

The project will provide about 34,900 square feet of instructional space for vocational training purposes. About 370 students will be accommodated in commercial and industrial courses.

The estimated total cost of construction and equipment is $1,280,826. The federal government's share of this amount will be about $910,413.

A Federal Government contribution of $435,375 for an extension to the Bloomfield Secondary school in Belleville for a similar purpose was approved on June 27 of this year.

FORCED TO LAND

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—A Delta airlines DC-3 jet airliner with 28 persons aboard made an emergency landing at Carswell Air Force Base Sunday night. The huge plane blew out six tires and skidded at a sharp angle in setting down but no one was injured.

Airman Killed, Three Injured In Collision

TRENTON — An accident early Sunday morning on Highway 33, near the Second Dug Hill Road, about a mile southwest of Trenton, took the life of Malcolm Lawrence McPherson, 31, RCAF Station, Trenton, and sent three other people to the hospital with extensive injuries.

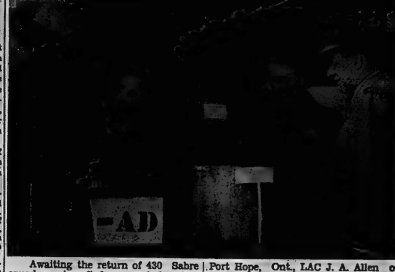
McPherson, a native of Dominion, Nova Scotia, was dead upon arrival at Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Reported as "resting comfortably" in Trenton Memorial Hospital today, are Mr. Thomas Tilley, 57, driver of the other car, and his wife, 51. Mr. Tilley is a well-known customs broker in this area and lives at R. R. 2, Trenton.

Grant Folker, 20, a passenger in the McPherson car, is in Belleville General Hospital with serious injuries. Mr. Folker lives at 113 Moira Street West in Belleville.

Corporal Lloyd Lyle of the Brighton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police investigated the accident. He said that the two cars involved had been damaged extensively.

The accident occured around 12:10 a.m. Sunday morning.



Crown Attorney H. R. Dewson of Cobourg has ordered an inquest into the cause of the accident.

Gas Pedal Breaks

TRENTON — On Sunday, a local teen-age girl, without a driver's licence, was involved in an unusual car accident. Trenton police say that the gas pedal of the car broke off at the engine block, causing the driver to lose control of the vehicle. The car swerved across 1st Ave., striking a light standard. Damage to the car was estimated at $80, and to the standard, $150.

Population 12,809

TRENTON — O. W. Larry, Trenton's clerk - comptroller, said today that the official population count for the town is 12,809. Earlier figures indicted that the population was 13,314.

Thickson of Port Hope, Ont., LAC J. A. Allen of Belleville, Ont., and the Air Officer Commanding No. 1 Air Division, Air Vice Marshal Larry S. Wray.

Air Vice Marshal L. Wray Directs RCAF in Exercise

METZ, France—The RCAF's No. 1 Air Division, on NATO duty here in Europe, took part in a large-scale exercise designed — with all central European forces to test the operational efficiency and defence capabilities of the alliance.

The annual NATO manoeuvre, called "Exercise Checkmate," involves land, sea and air forces from other European nations.

As hundreds of aircraft took to the air to repel "hostile" forces, the ground complement was divided, with ¼ large number of personnel acting as infiltrators and "saboteurs and a similar force looking guard duty throughout the day and night, while others carried on their usual aircraft maintenance duties.

Conditions in this annual exercise have all aspects of "the real thing" as officers, airmen and airwomen head for their places of duty at all hours, dressed in fatigue or "bush" clothing and carrying their "C" rations with them in many cases. These rations are also being used in the temporary mess halls throughout the deployment area.

Directing the RCAF's participation in the exercise is Air Vice Marshal Larry Wray, the Division's commander. Wray is a native of Belleville, Ontario, as well as heading the operation from the Metz Combat Centre, he has been making quick "no notice" visits to all RCAF field units.

Entering a dispersal hut at a secret diversionary airfield, he surprised a group of young Sabre pilots waiting for action. Asked how everything was going, one 20-year-old pilot responded he was getting weary of sitting and waiting.

"Son," replied the Air Vice Marshal, "you'll find if we ever have the misfortune to get into another war that nine-tenths of the time will be spent waiting."

But since that time, the pilots have had their share of flying.

Wray is responsible for much of the spirit of his crews who are eagerly taking part in this exercise. He continually prods, questions, and encourages all elements of Canada's NATO air commitment. His average day is 15 hours long and while he may find this exhilarating, his personal staff is beginning to look worn around the edges.

A Terrible Choice

Will Canada's armed forces be equipped with nuclear weapons?

Parliament cannot long postpone a decision.

The delay in answering this question has only avoided being indefensible procrastination by virtue of the fact that Canada's forces have not been equipped to use nuclear warheads. Now, though, with Bomarc bases, Honest John rockets and two new types of planes, the CF-104 and the CF-101, not only on order but soon to be delivered, the time for considering all aspects of the question is running out.

Hon. Douglas Harkness, Canada's minister of defence, told the House of Commons last week that Canada's armed forces must be equipped with weapons as good as, or better than, the weapons of a potential enemy.

He is right—and the desk-thumping by Conservatives indicated that the Government would be able to muster more than enough support to win approval for a policy of providing these forces with nuclear arms.

But Hubert Badanai, Fort William Liberal, said nuclear weapons should be restricted to those countries which now have them—and in this he is as right as Mr. Harkness. While a nuclear war may be avoided if only three or four powers control these weapons, nobody in his right senses would expect such a war to be avoided if every little dictator and demagogue had them in his arsenal.

Mr. Badanai's remarks may not have won equal rating with those of Mr. Harkness on a mythical applause-meter, but he has powerful support, both inside and outside the House. Hon. Howard Green, minister of external affairs, is known ardently to back this view. Events may make him bow to the apparently inevitable, yet no events can alter the essential correctness of his views.

How can one reconcile such diametrically opposed viewpoints, both of which are right when looked at from the angle of those who advance them?

One cannot, but there is a way to lessen the impact of an acquisition by Canada of nuclear arms. This, though, involves a considerable loss of face. Canada would have to stress that these weapons, while available for her forces in the event of a nuclear war, were not under her sole control, that she could not use them without the permission of the power supplying them, the U.S. This would be tantamount to admitting that Canada is a satellite of the U.S. It would certainly reduce to a minimum this country's influence in pleading that other countries should not be permitted to join the nuclear club—though some small residue of influence might remain if Canada frankly and openly announced its satellite status.

The other alternative, equally repugnant to most Canadians, would be for this country to refuse to accept nuclear arms and announce that, because it was doing so, it was abandoning all pretence that it was prepared to protect itself against a nuclear power and was relying solely on its proximity to the U.S. for its defence. This might be accompanied by an offer to put at the disposal of the United Nations powerful air, land and sea forces, equipped with conventional arms, for use in keeping the peace in any manner which the UN General Assembly might decide.

No matter which course Canada follows, world conditions are such that there is a distinct possibility we may live to regret it deeply.

In a dilemma such as this, no man should be made the object of scorn or vilification because the course he advocates does not happen to coincide with our own views.

Victory for Men's Rights

Men of Canada, rejoice!

You have just won a famous victory.

The Consumers Association of Canada has voted to admit men to membership.

In view of the male's faithful service in toting home a pay envelope every pay-day, we feel this recognition was long past due.

It remains to be seen whether this recognition will make any real difference, or whether it is just an honorary membership.

It Ain't Necessarily So

The Toronto Globe and Mail has quizzed a threat to civilization.

Saturday's Third New International Dictionary finds the word 'ain't' acceptable in cultivated conversation. . . . This is a serious matter for thoughtful people."

The Toronto newspaper explains that "in the changements, from domestic spats to large word meanings, Webster's because words do not always mean to one person or notions what they do to another. The Globe and Mail warns that language has been corrupted, polluted into decay and perverted by sexy writers, sports reporters, disc jockeys and comics.

"We have no more coffins, only caskets, and the state is which we are headed. Even our language may contribute to preparing us for death.

Preparing us for a language? Or a state? Or a coffin?

• • •

"A dictionary's embrace of the word 'ain't' would be comfort for ignorant, confer approval upon the mediocre, and subtly imply that people in English is too tool only of the snob; but it will not help us to speak truly to other men. It may, however, prepare us for the future when we shall help to hasten. In the caves, no doubt, a grunt will do."

• • •

In defence of ain't we would not ask the Globe and Mail to accept the grunts of such users as Josh Billings, Lewis Carroll, Oliver Goldsmith and Edward Lear, although we doubt that any would make a better case who would call a coffin a casket. But we commend to the Globe and Mail a man who was called "A Dictionary of Modern English Usage" by H. W. Fowler, joint author of "The King's English", "The Concise Oxford Dictionary" and "The Pocket Oxford Dictionary".

He says:

"A(i)nt is merely colloquial, and as used for isn't is an unbalanced blunder not common to useful purpose. But it is a pity that a(i)n't for I'm am I not? or am not I?

• • •

Josh Billings, back there a while, liked the word; as we have indicated. Found it mighty handy. Here's a sentence or two of the sentences that have come down from him over the years. Sometimes we think people is not that they don't know many things that aint so."

However they ain't no point using old Josh against the Globe and Mail just now. He was an American and they're agin 'em, if they'll pardon our slang.

Tennis Court Has Meter

Niagara Falls Review

The British are often underrated as thrifty people and for the slowness with which they approach the adoption of new methods and ways of life. This no doubt stems from the time when they were covered by the promotion of the telephone by Alexander Graham Bell, but turned down on the premise that his machine was only a toy, so he turned to Sir Thomas Sheridan for support but now we have the tables turned in the British reading a novel use for the American-invented parking meter.

Over in Harlow New Town, Essex, garages and parking areas installed at the municipal tennis courts to collect fees for the use of the courts by tennis addicts. The meters replace a fee collector who was spending too much time doing the job. There are two meters at each court, one for the floodlights and the other for adults. Youngsters pay sixpence per half-hour, and adults, after playings and sixpence per hour. There is still no need for police at the meters as violations, since there are players always waiting their turn to get on the courts.

This placing of meters in sport might be followed here in Canada to good and profitable ends. Take hockey, for example. Install a meter in the penalty box (or meters) where a fee will be collected from the penalized player as he steps off the ice to sit out his allotted minutes. The clock come up with "violation" as his time ran out. This would eliminate the penalty timekeepers and add revenue to the hockey league. Now, for a player fee, by the loss to his pocketbook, his own loss to the fellow.

Need to 'Sell' Cheese Here

Brantford Expositor

"Canada's cheese," says the Department of National Health and Welfare, "is well known and liked in many countries. Canadians are not great eaters of this nourished food, which is a concentrated form of the more important elements, including protein, fat, phosphorus and calcium. It should have a regular place on the daily menu." Then let the department proceed to explain their product more attractively — as some of the more progressive cheese factories have been doing for quite a while and with good results.

THE PACKSACK

—By GREGORY CLARK

In large areas of Canada during the past couple of years, an epidemic of rabies killed off the foxes in great numbers. This has resulted in so great an increase in rabbits that the foxes are in some provinces are exhorted hotfoot to find and hunt them for sport. So plentiful are the rabbits, young rabbits, that the red and black foxes are passing up the squirrels and are in the fur trade a tougher and easier prey. This in turn has resulted in astonishing numbers of squirrels in the areas in which squirrels were casual residents are now overrun with them.

And the squirrels, as is their custom, are furiously busy stripping cones off the pines and cackling them in hollow trees, under stumps, and in holes dug for the purpose.

Thus, one of the great pine planting years is under way.

It matters not to the squirrels. What is put for one creature is put for some other. It's winter that kills thousands of deer, prospers the numerous crackling of squirrel and bird that live off the carrion. A cold wet summer is the best preparation for hundreds of kinds of plants and trees. A hot dry summer, the best for a host of predators of hundreds of different sorts. Therefore it is not necessary to be a certain irresponsibility in nature, all creation sooner or later gets a break.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

WHY THIS INEQUALITY?

What is poverty?

"You're asking me?" someone replies, "Poverty is what I have to endure. I'm trying to make a weekly wage feed my family and pay the rent. It's trying to stretch a salary cheque further than it can be stretched. It's watching while others ride. It's staying home while others go. It's a host of unpleasant entertainments. It's having the mortgage foreclosed on the house."

Yes, poverty involves all these things and a thousand hardened is the burden. There is no justification nor common sense in the fact that most of the world's goods are in the hands of a comparatively few people.

We say this as the last communist nor socialism in any form. It's only a recognition of the fact that although ability and lack of ability are powerful factors in the matter of the distribution of human benefits, nevertheless the fact that they are so unevenly distributed is both an injustice and a menace bitterly and continually to be regarded.

But real poverty is not poverty of pocketbook but poverty of soul. Some people never get real anything or use their heads from one year's end to another. Their lives are mentally poor. Others have no religious faith. These are spiritually poor.

Slums and bankruptcy and straightened circumstances fill the lives of multitudes with sorrow. But even beyond this sorrow is the sorrow because of poverty of childhood ideas and the souls without faith or hope.

Having weathered the storms and elements of nature for over a century, the maple flooring on the verandah in front of the Hastings County Court House is being replaced by new flooring. The flooring being removed is of birch and has been in place ever since the Court House was erected in 1858. The general condition of the oak planking would indicate that the flooring would be serviceable for the next one hundred years, with the exception that the edges are rapidly becoming the worse for weather and wind-blown rain has access to life and limb in the event the ends became disassociated with the stone foundation upon which the flooring rests.

Hate Is Rarely A Personal Matter

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A friend of mine was complaining at lunch that somebody hated him, and he couldn't understand why. "I've never done anything to him," he said, "and he doesn't hate you." I tried to console him. "You may not be conscious of something you've done."

And I remembered an observation that a wise doctor made to me some time ago: "One is apt to forget that hate is the hardest thing for oneself." This puzzling remark seems more true the more I think of it. Usually if we hate, it is the shadow of a thing we love, or hate, rather than the substance.

We may hate a person because he reminds us of someone else, one we feared and disliked when younger; or because we have built up some gross caricature of what we find repugnant in ourselves; or because his appearance is an attitude that seems to threaten us.

To be hated for oneself alone is almost a tribute; at least you feel that the power behind — and estimates you (however harshly) as an individual. But indeed, most of the time, hate is merely an illusion. We are hated as a type, as a symbol, as a thing, rather than as a person.

The frustrated may be straining the truth in their fantasies saying that "to understand all is to forgive all," but it is certainly true that the more we know of other people, the harder it becomes to hate him. We may begin seeing him as a victim, but before we've made a weak him in the nakedness of his individuality, and then we find there is always more there to pity than to scorn. Hateful people are pathetic, and we only had the chance to see them as the harm they do to themselves.

I have known, as you have, a number of unpleasant and unattractive persons who, on more than one or two who received hatred in their every essence, whose souls seemed corroded at the core. Most of us wouldn't want to be in their shoes we are; and there is a kind of redemption in that fact.

The only way to cope with hate that is directed against oneself is to realize that it is rarely (strange as this may sound) a personal matter; that the object is only a pretext for hating; that any other convenient pretext would serve the hater just as readily; and that refusing to return hate for hate is not only a great moral precept but the wisest piece of psychological advice ever heard, set down to man.

Thyroid Deficiency May Be Cause of Fragile Nails

By Joseph C. Hollier, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have a problem with my fingernails. They split in layers and then break off to the flesh. Can you tell me what to do?

"I take vitamins all the time. I just started on a new one with calcium gluconate and Vitamin D. I took gelatin for four or five months, but it didn't help. Mrs. J. H."

The problem of fingernails that break is a common one. It doesn't involve life-or-death, or crippling, but, oh my, what a lot of wear and tear of the nerves!

As to today's letter: Calcium (gluconate or in other combinations) isn't the answer to fragile fingernails, nor is Vitamin D.

I would be delighted if I knew how some simple and straightforward answer to this question. Come to think of it, I guess I do, but I can't use that in a hard or quick enough to appeal to people so I'll wait a bit before I mention it.

1 — Some nails are naturally softer than others.

2 — There's one sure thing: Plenty of protein in the diet is important for nails. Especially vitamins as a supplement — and they are derived, chiefly, from protein, which means lean meat, fish, cheese, eggs, plus leaner accompaniments (bread, etc.) People who eat a lot of starch and sugar and don't take much of the solid protein foods, are not giving their nails the best opportunity.

3 — A thyroid deficiency is possible in the case of fragile nails. This is not a difficult thing for your doctor to check.

4 — Nails grow slowly. At the rate they grow, it will be at least six months before an improvement will show. The strength of the nail is determined at the time the nail's germ bed is in bed. Months are required for nails to grow out to the ends of the fingers you cut them. Change in brittleness at the tips of the nails is decided at the time they are forming.

5 — Some detergents tend to weaken nails of some people. Nail polish and remover tend to weaken the nails of others. This weakening can occur after the nails have formed. But we don't know how to strengthen the nails after they have formed.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

HONEST EULOGY

We rent life. We do not own it. We pay high rent when we give all we are so that we may live highest in all to which we aspire.

It takes earning capacity to buy a beautiful modern home with many luxuries. But it takes more than money.

It is so with success, happiness, and high artistic achievement. We have to pay for it in our very souls for the fine fragrant flowers of life.

It is all boiled down you see at the bottom the clear crystals of disappointment, sorrow and privation. The glitter from these crystals reflects sweet rays of approval in the eyes of the onlookers.

This is one of the reasons why would be a thorough inspection of automobile mechanism of these cars of ancient vintage that rattle about our streets yesterday as if they were ready for the scrap heap. There are others that look as if they were about ju give up the ghost but inelegant as they are we can put up with them if we only had the assurance they were sound mechanically.

Letter To the Editor

Injured Cyclist Thanks St. John

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

I should like to take this opportunity, through the Ontario Intelligencer, to thank the St. John Ambulance Brigade of Belleville for the fine work they did at the Bellville Fair when I became injured in the motorcycle race in the night of August 19. They were responsible for getting me off the Wall quickly and safely and did so in a very efficient manner. The fine work that this organization performs should not go by unnoticed. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Frank A. Antonelli.

CARS Plans Meeting Here Wednesday

Mrs. Winnifred Herrington, director of Social Work, Ontario Division of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, will be the speaker at a meeting on Wednesday, Sept. 20, at 2.30 p.m. in Education Hall, Nurses Residence, Bellevilla General Hospital, to which the public are invited.

Miss Herrington will discuss the teamwork involved in dealing with chronically ill patients, with particular reference to the role of the volunteer in the society's program. The volunteer in a national health agency such as C.A.R.S. is of increasing importance in directing action against health problems.

Before joining the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, Miss Herrington was engaged in social work for child welfare in the city of Toronto, and was a staff member of Toronto General Hospital. She is a graduate in social work from Toronto University. This meeting, is being sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society. Colonel Ralph Tew will be served at the close of the meeting.

The Arthritis Society is one of the welfare agencies supported by the United Appeal.

Grave Crisis Faces Whole UN Orangization

BY JOHN EARLE

LONDON (Reuters)—A grave crisis faced the whole United Nations organization today in the wake of the death of Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold.

Hammarskjold's death in an air crash in northern Rhodesia came on the eve of one of the most important annual meetings of the General Assembly.

It immediately plunged the UN into the problem of selecting a successor, with the prospect of bitter disagreement between the Western and Communist blocs.

The Communists had refused to recognize Hammarskjold and had been carrying on a campaign for his replacement by a three-member body, with one representative from the Communist bloc, one from the West, and one from the non-committed nations.

However, the indications had been that Hammarskjold would be able to ride out the Communist campaign until his term of office expired in April, 1963.

OTHER PROBLEMS

The United Nations already faces serious financial deficits. In the eyes of many uncommitted countries it is being weakened not only by the Soviet boycott but also by France's attitude over Tunisia and Algeria and by alleged British obstructionism in the Congo operation.

Recent assessments of Soviet policies indicate that Moscow is unlikely to give up its insistence on the three-member "troika" formula for the secretaryship.

In fact, Moscow has extended demands for this formula to other bodies, such as an international control organization to supervise a nuclear test ban.

The West categorically rejects the troika formula, saying it would give the Communist bloc a veto on all executive action.

The uncommitted countries have not in general backed the Soviet demand for the troika formula.

However, many uncommitted leaders in their speeches at Belgrade earlier this month expressed dissatisfaction with the way the United Nations was being run, and the conference declaration said it was "absolutely necessary to evolve a more appropriate structure for the secretariat of the United Nations, bearing in mind equitable regional distribution."

U.N. SECRETARY

to arrive here late Sunday night after the 1,600-mile flight from Leopoldville for talks with Katanga's president Moise Tshombe aimed at ending the fighting in the breakaway Congo province.

The talks were held up here as reports from Elisabethville claimed that a 150-man Irish force had surrendered at Jadotville, about 75 miles northwest of the Katanga capital.

The Katanga information minister in Elisabethville said that after the Irish troops surrendered Saturday night they were allowed to remain in their camp and keep their sidearms.

(The Irish government in a statement issued in Dublin said the position of the beleaguered Irish contingent had "drastically changed" for the worse.

(The statement quoted a report from Gen. Sean McKeown of Ireland, Supreme UN Commander in The Congo, who said it has become almost impossible to supply the contingent with food or water, "not to mention the difficulty of getting reinforcements to them")

Other reports from Katanga said UN strongholds in Elisabethville and Kamina had come under heavy attack during the weekend from the white - led Katanga forces.

Hammarskjold's DC-6B aircraft was reported to have circled the airport here twice shortly after midnight and then flown off again. A police official at the airport said the pilot of the plane did not want to make a night landing and headed back to Leopoldville, planning to return today.

But the plane did not arrive either at Leopoldville or at Ndola this morning.

"We just don't know where he is," said Col. Maurice Barber, civil aviation director.

The secretary-general was officially declared missing from this morning and Rhodesian planes were sent out to search for him.

The 56-year-old secretary-general was due here shortly before midnight local time.

Planes were sent out from the Rhodesian federal capital of Salisbury to search for the missing aircraft. Leopoldville, Col. Howard Masick, military attache at the U.S. Embassy, organized a search from that end.

FAMILY CENTRE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Plans for a $1,000,000 family sports centre on the old Oakhema golf course have been approved by the town planning commission. Curling, skating, swimming, tennis and other sports facilities will be available.

Belleville's Parade of Homes was officially opened Saturday afternoon by Mayor A. McLean Haig sawing a two by four at ceremonies outside the Hotel Quinte. Mayor Haig is seen working the saw as Maurice H. Rollins, president of the Quinte Home Builders holds the tag end.

Katanga Forces In New Fight

USUMBURA, Ruanda-Urundi (AP)—Private radio messages said fighting broke out today between United Nations and Katanga forces in Albertville, on lake Tanganyika northeast of Elizabethville.

This would expand a five-day war previously waged at three cities along a line through the heart of the rebellious province of Elisabethville, Jadotville and Kamina.

Builders Hold Open House At Nine New Homes Here

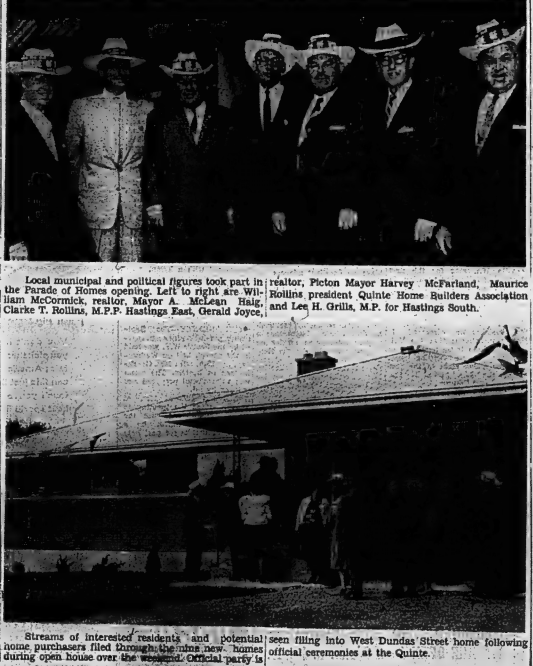
Hundreds of potential Bellevilla and district new home owners had the opportunity Saturday and Sunday to inspect the latest in gracious living as the Quinte District Home Builders' Association held open house at nine different new homes to officially open the 1961 Parade of Homes.

Open house at the nine new homes in different parts of the city was held Saturday afternoon and Sunday with literally streams of persons inspecting the dwellings Sunday afternoon.

CEREMONY HELD

Mayor A. McLean Haig officially opened the Parade of Homes Saturday afternoon in a brief ceremony in front of the Quinte Hotel.

Following the ceremonies in which local members of parliament, Mayor Haig and Picton's Mayor Harvey McFarland took part, a motorcade of open convertibles was formed to take the participants and their wives on a tour of the new homes.



Maurice H. Rollins, as president of the Quinte Home Builders' Association acted as master of ceremonies for the official opening outside the hotel.

Mayor Haig congratulated the Quinte Home Builders and the Bellevilla real estate men for their efforts in sponsoring the Parade of Homes. He said it was good to see such fine co-operation between the two organizations.

Also speaking at the opening ceremonies were Lee H. Grills, M.P. for Hastings South; Clarke T. Rollins, M.P.P. for Hastings East, and Picton Mayor Harvey McFarland.

Belleville's Parade of Homes is being held in conjunction with National Home Week. On display are homes in almost every price bracket ranging up to the $30,000 class and over.

Local municipal and political figures took part in the Parade of Homes opening. Left to right are William McCormick, realtor, Mayor A. McLean Haig, Clarke T. Rollins, M.P.P. Hastings East, Gerald Joyce, realtor, Picton Mayor Harvey McFarland, Maurice Rollins president Quinte Home Builders Association and Lee H. Grills, M.P. for Hastings South.

Streams of interested residents and potential home purchasers filed through the nine new homes during open house over the weekend. Official party is seen filing into West Dundas Street home following official ceremonies at the Quinte.

Kitchens in the new homes were the focal point of interest for the women. Here Mrs. William McCormick, of Belleville and Mrs. Neil Sneyd of Kingston admire fine kitchen appointments at home in West Belleville.

Girls Getting Too Fat on Beer Issue

LONDON (AP) — Forty buxom girls who make beer shampoos for a living scoured their bone Sunday of trying to stop them drinking the beer that goes into the shampoos.

Strike action was threatened against the owner of the London factory, 48 - year - old Eric Lincoln.

Lincoln's manager, Herbert James, started the trouble by brewing by complaining the girls are getting too fat on their 3 quarts of free beer. James, a teetotaller, pinned a notice on the factory message board asking the girl workers to list their names and their weights. The girls were livid.

"It's none of the factory's business what we weigh," said one.

What particularly riled the girls was that they had to go on strike best year in order to persuade their boss to let them drink some of the beer they mix into the shampoos. Lincoln finally agreed to give the girls a barrel of beer every week in their factory canteen.

Now the girls are demanding an inquiry for what they call "unwarranted interference" in their private lives.

"It's the thin end of the wedge," declared Mrs. Connie Danbury, spokesman for the female workers at the factory in suburban Acton. "What reason can the management have for wanting to know personal details like what we weigh unless they are trying to find an excuse to drop our beer quota?"

Mrs. Danbury said she and the other girls may go on strike unless the management apologizes. Talking to reporters in a local pub, she downed a pint of beer squared her shoulders and announced:

"I happen to weigh 217 pounds — and it's going to stay that way. My weight is my own business. Why should anyone else care?"

GM Plants May Be Operating End of Week

DETROIT (AP)—General Motors is counting on getting its striketbound plants back in full production by the end of this week if all goes well in contract negotiations with the United Auto Workers Union today and tomorrow.

The union has set Wednesday as a new deadline for ending strikes which started at most of GM's 129 U.S. plants a week ago today and halted production of 1962 models cars.

The UAW executive board voted Saturday night to have the union's 380 - member GM council meet here Wednesday afternoon to review the progress of negotiations and decide what action to take. The council can approve or reject contract proposals.

If it approves, a back-to-work movement among GM's $50,000 hourly workers could get under way Thursday. At the peak of the strike last week more than 350,000 were idle.

The main stumbling block to a settlement has been failure of local unions and plant managers to reach agreements on working conditions.

AGREE ON ESSENTIALS

National - level bargaining teams here already have agreed on the essentials of a wage and benefit package (described as liberal by UAW President Walter P. Reuther.

Reuther and GM Vice-President Louis Seaton said their bargaining teams spent the weekend trying to hasten local settlements.

By late Sunday, settlements had been made at 75 plants where workers are represented by th UAW and at four plants represented by the International Union of Electrical Workers. This left 35 plants to go, but negotiators hoped to have most of them lined up by Wednesday.

During the weekend, Reuther called for leaders of union locals from 36 key GM plants and urged them to speed up settlements on such issues as seniority, job upgrading and shift preferential.

Adnan Menderes Ex-Premier of Turkey Hanged

ISTANBUL (Reuters)—Adnan Menderes, Turkey's strongman premier for 10 years, was hanged Sunday night for violations of the country's constitution.

Menderes was executed on the island of Imrali after documents saved his life from an overdose of sleeping pills.

The former premier took the overdose of pills shortly before sentences were pronounced by a special court on Yassiada Island on 461 persons accused of violations of the constitution and other offences.

Menderes was pronounced in "normal health" Sunday and was immediately taken to Imrali to be hanged.

Menderes was one of 15 persons sentenced to death by the court but 12 of the defendants, including former President Celal Bayer, later had their sentences reduced to life imprisonment.

Two of Menderes' aides, former Foreign Minister Fatin Zorlu and former Finance Minister Hasan Polatkan, were hanged Saturday.

ARRESTED IN 1960

Menderes and most of his government were arrested in May, 1960, after a military coup. Their trial dragged on for almost a year and ranged over many charges.

One of the accusations against the former premier was that he procured an abortion and was responsible for the death of an illegitimate child he fathered. Menderes was acquitted on this count, but found guilty on a long list of other charges.

Menderes, a wealthy landowner, had been in politics for 31 years. During his term as premier he mechanized and expanded Turkey's agriculture and developed its trade and industry. He also built factories, roads and schools.

The great mass of the Turkish people remained loyal to him until last year when the army turned against him because of his open suppression of opposition parties.

Weddings

REDORE — SINCLAIR

The Salvation Army Citadel, Tweed, was the scene of a wedding, September 7th, at 2.00 p.m. of a very pretty early autumn afternoon when Lt.-Col. C. Gennery united in marriage Dora Anne Sinclair, of Tweed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Sinclair Sr., to Donald Arthur Redore, Ottawa, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Milton, of Tweed, and the late Mr. Redore. Colonel Gennery and Mrs. Gennery solemnized the double and the bride's home for the reception.

The wedding music was provided by Mrs. G. Morton, with the soloist, Mrs. Hancock as soloist, who sang, before the ceremony, "O, Wedding Day" and "Because," during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Archie V. Sinclair, the bride was charming in her bridal gown of white nylon and lace fashioned with fitted bodice and modified A-line skirt completed with taffeta cummerbund and lace jacket. She wore a bridal veil of simulated pearls and sequins, with nylon illusion veil, and carried a bouquet of red roses mingled with white carnation petals.

Miss Elizabeth (Joyce) Marshall, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and Miss Karen Sinclair, niece of the bride, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. Both were attired alike in street-length mint-green nylon chiffon with rounded necklines. Matching sleeveless jackets accented the waistlines, while matching mitts and headbands and flowers in the bridal theme in nosegay design, with white streamers, completed their ensembles.

The little flower girl, Miss Anna Lynn Redore, Ottawa, Ontario, niece of the bride, wore a yellow organdy dress with daisy headband matching the daisy trim on her frock and white gloves. She carried a basket of white and yellow mums.

Mr. Ronald Woods of Tweed was groomsman, while the guests were ushered by Messrs. George Griffin of Tweed, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Harold Sinclair, also of Tweed, brother of the bride.

The reception, following the ceremony, was held in the lower auditorium of St. John's United Church, with Mr. Roger Peterson of Goderich, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, as master of ceremonies.

The bridal table was appointed in the traditional nuptial fashion and decorated by bouquets of roses and chrysanthemums.

Receiving the guests was the bride's mother, who wore a sheath gown in blue brocaded rayon banded with white accessories, and corsage of pink roses. Assisting in the receiving line was the bridegroom's mother, attired in beige jersey sheath with green accessories, and corsage of yellow roses.

The bride, for her wedding trip to the United States, New York, Vermont and Montreal, Quebec, chose a self-mesh sheath of light green linen with cowl neckline, beige accessories, and corsage of yellow carnations.

Guests attended from Peterborough, Oshawa, Suffolk, Godderich, Kingston, Hampton, Belleville and Tweed.

Showers honoring the bride were held at the home of Mrs. L. C. Aiton, with Mrs. Aiton and Miss Margaret Aiton as hostesses, and held at the home of Mrs. R. Marshall with Mrs. C. McConnachie, Mrs. J. Leveck and Mrs. V. Sinclair as hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Sedore will make their home in Tweed.

W.M.S. Hears School for Leaders Report

The regular monthly meeting of Tabernacle United Church W.M.S. was held on September 12. The president, Mrs. F. Orland, presided at the meeting. Devotional was conducted by Mrs. May and Mrs. Ceasar with the Scripture lesson from Psalm 103.

Mrs. H. C. Barlow, who was a delegate to the School for Leaders, held recently, gave a report of the school. Sq. Loss was one of the chief speakers. The president then introduced the topic, "The Biblical View of the Church." Faith in something that comes from living and not from purely intellectual processes. In the early days of the church, Paul spoke to impressionable people. Christians had experienced the coming of the Holy Spirit. It is a gift that is available to quite ordinary Christians. The speaker emphasized that Christians are "Christ's love and the power of the Holy Spirit." Fellowship and fellowship was divided into smaller groups and these groups continued the study during the week.

Another prominent feature of the school was the theme study "Great Hymns of the Church." This study was led by Mrs. F. C. Clark, and was very well received. There were over 200 delegates in attendance.

Two students from Japan who had scholarships from W.M.S. were present. One spoke in support of the group with her singing; the other expressed her appreciation for the opportunity of attending University of Toronto, Victoria University and Union Theological College.

Miss Dorothy Young of Toronto, who is on the staff of organization "United Church Women."

Miss Wagar of Trinidad spoke briefly about the work of the church in that area. She taught at one time taught in Peterborough Normal School, and was first a school in which she taught in Trinidad was an orphanage and she was interested but now the building in which she teaches is a boarding school for girls with W.M.S. contributes funds. The first building is 150 years old and the new building has $40.

After Mrs. Barlow completed her report, Mrs. Ceasar, literary secretary, introduced the new books for study this year. The theme study is "Signals for the Sixties," and the basic reading book is "Hasten the Day."

Mrs. Macdonald spoke briefly on a member of Student Christian Movement, spoke of her visit recently to Cuba. She visited Cleveland and Chicago. Miss Macdonald is a missionary to ministers and their families living in the poorer districts of these large cities and trying to bring to the people in these areas the gospel message. Miss Slavin emphasized the dreadful conditions in these poorer sections of the cities. Poverty, misery are all around. No one seems to care for these people. Poverty with many of this world's goods have moved to the suburbs to fine homes.

The meeting closed with prayer.

Concert Pianist Carries Keyboard for Practising

The pianist, whose off-stage name is Mrs. Robert Davis, has a mahogany - cased keyboard which folds neatly for travelling and measures 61 inches long. It has 88 soundless keys for practising.

Hungarian - born Mrs. Davis has had her keyboard specially chased a 32-acre tract of land here and intends to build a home on it.

But her husband recently suggested building there for their retirement days. But until then they will continue to live in San Francisco home.

A native of Budapest, Mrs. Davis has been described by critics as one of the most gifted pianists of our day and has won acclaim in Europe and the United States. She was born into a musical family, made her radio debut at 11 and has appeared in concerts in all of the major musical capitals of Europe and since 1940 in the United States.

During a recent stay here the pianist said she is interested in settling in the Victoria area and passing on her talents to the young through teaching.

"I feel a joy and pleasure in teaching and sharing the privilege I have had in learning," she said.

30-Year-Old Woman Head Of 4 Papers in Hong Kong

VANCOUVER (CP) — Miss Sally Sian Aw of Hong Kong hasn't reached her 30th birthday yet but she holds posts as the only woman newspaper publisher in Orient.

She guides four newspapers in the teeming metropolis of Hong Kong, three of them Chinese (English language), two Chinese and English and a Chinese weekly.

Miss Sian, passing through Vancouver en route to a seminar of publishers of the Asian Press Institute in New York to which she was invited and invited, told how she came to be a publisher.

She took over the Hong Kong family newspaper empire nine years ago on the death of her brother who was killed commuting in his own plane from Singapore.

Miss Sian is the daughter of a man who became known as the "Tiger Man" of Hong in the Orient. The heim ointment he produced is still popular throughout Asia.

Her Hong Kong papers are run much like Western-world publications. They sponsor drives to help the needy at Christmas. Women are employed on the staffs but usually in jobs related to the sex.

There is one critical requirement for a Hong Kong newspaper man: he must be able to speak both English and Chinese.

Mrs. G. Mackinnon Only Person Alive Who Knows Liqueur Ingredients

By EDDY GILMORE

EDINBURGH (AP) — Every day for her 76 climbs the stairs of her heroical mansion and secretly adds a few more herbs to the magic concoction she alone knows.

She is Mrs. Gina Mackinnon, said to be the only person alive who knows the magic ingredients of her family-owned scotch whisky liqueur.

"She has a private laboratory on the top floor of her three-storey house in nearby Linlithgow," explained her son, Norman Mackinnon, managing director of the company.

"She goes up there every day and mixes the elixir which makes the liqueur," he said. "Then she sends the mixture down through to us here in Edinburgh, at our compounding room."

Mrs. Mackinnon is an unusual woman.

WON'T TELL AGE

But, like a great many other women, she won't tell her age. "She won't give that to anybody," said her son. "Even I don't know it. I'm 50, and somewhere between 70 and 80."

She leads a busy social and business life and often visits Canada and the United States, but always returns to make one more "journey," he explained, "she mixes up large batches of the whisky, and then goes to the time her return just about the time the supply is finished."

She dresses extremely well and travels regularly to Edinburgh from her home in Linlithgow.

Her visits are here to see for herself if we're doing things the proper way," said the son.

Mrs. Mackinnon is the mother's peculiarities is a strong dislike of talking about herself. She has kept the key of this information about my mother a family secret.

ROYAL LARGESS

The company claims that Bonnie Prince Charlie passed some of the merchandise to the Mackinnon clan for helping him escape after the 1745 rebellion.

"A charming story which happens to be true," said Mackinnon.

Mackinnons to stay behind his oft-fashioned frosted glass door on the high black lettering: "M. Mackinnon, managing director."

RECEIVED IN BANK

To take care of emergencies, a recipe of the secret elixir lies in a locked safety deposit box in an Edinburgh bank.

Asked to estimate its value, a Scotch blender thought for a moment and answered: "£1,000,000 ($2,800,000). Mind you, that's a conservative estimate."

Mrs. Mackinnon received the secret of the mixture from her husband, the late Malcolm Macdonald, when he died in 1945.

One day, of course, when Mrs. Mackinnon tires of climbing those stairs, she'll pass on the recipe to her son.

Women Ready For Merging Of Two Bodies

BRACEBRIDGE (CP) — A commission service conducted entirely by women Sunday concluded the 91st annual conference at a lodge on nearby Lake Muskoka.

For three days 300 women from 120 Canadian communities studied the Bible, heard lectures and discussed problems of personal faith and community action.

Members of the Women's Association and the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada, they were preparing spiritually for the amalgamation of the two groups next January to form the 850 000 - member United Church Women.

Although the conference was called for the church's five easternmost provinces in Ontario and Quebec, observers came from every province except Saskatchewan.

More than 200 women were urged every to application for the ministry and the call for Jesus' own times," the Bible, Rev. Lorne Calvert, Emmanuel University mathematics department told her students.

"No one can do something mood of hopelessness, the belief that men were caught in a meaningless world.

"The Christian rejects this view," he said, "and acts through his church."

Rev. Gwyneth Hobbs of Ewart, Man., is on the staff of the International Missionary Council in Geneva, Switzerland. She told the conference that women must care for people for their own sakes, "now as new fodder."

Each woman also attended one of the discussion groups held during the conference to discuss problems of faith and action.

60 Teen-agers Hold 3-Day Hi-C Parley

On Friday evening last some 60 teenagers representing Hi-C groups in the Belleville United Churches arrived at Quin-Mohr Estates for a three-day conference. These conferees came prepared for a weekend of study, discussion, talk, fellowship and fun and were not disappointed.

Under the leadership of Miss Glen Shaver, who introduced the theme of "The Time of Your Life," assisted by adult group leaders in the churches involved the concentrated period of activity got under way.

One of the highlights of each session was the "buzz session" when singing was led by Mr. Dane Duchesne of Whitby, who was on hand throughout the conference for this purpose. A vesper service was also held each evening, the meditation period Friday evening the service was conducted by Rev. Peter Williams, camp director, on the subject, "Finding God."

HIGHLIGHTS

Other highlights of the conference were: a talk by Mr. Jim Stevens of Bancroft on "Hidden Daggers in Hi-C"; a sunrise service Saturday morning in charge of Mr. John Bebiak; an excellent address entitled "The Meaning of Life" by Dr. K. M. Douglas of Belleville and a talk on Worship as supervised by Mr. Stan Barbour of BCIVS; a dance party Saturday night, M.C.'d by the well-known Mr. Jim Ketcheson; a sunrise communion service on Sunday conducted by Rev. Mr. G. McFarlane, of Tabernacle United Church, Belleville and an outdoor church service with Mr. Ross Fleming, Madoc, as guest speaker.

Friendly discussion, excellent fellowship and wonderful meals topped up a weekend long to be remembered and, as all joined in a closing circle on Sunday afternoon to sing "Blest Be the Tie that Binds." It was the unanimous opinion that the conference theme, "The Time of Your Life," was a fitting one in every way.

Women's Activities

(CENTRE ST. W.A.)

The Women's Association of Centre St. United Church held its first meeting Wednesday afternoon on September 8th. In the church parlor, with a very large attendance and Mrs. Dorothy Hodgins, vice-president, presiding. Mrs. Hodgins welcomed all present.

Mrs. Hodgins read the Scripture taken from Matt. 6 - 24-34. This was followed with prayer by the Rev. Mr. Hodgins.

The topic was given by Mrs. Kathie Ferguson, who chose to serve "on Matters." The greatest opposing force to Christianity is godlessness, whether it be communistic materialism, or the Mort. American variety. Man becomes a slave to his "idols" possessions and self-either in commerce or by individual worship, if he takes over first place, there is little room for God. Jesus came to give us Him lip service on Sunday and occasionally during the week. Really things" and God only; faith in an unseen world disappears, trust in love and goodness is replaced by trust in power, and wealth and force. Jesus saw the weakness and weather dangers of the day. No man can serve two masters. Let us not be deceived. Our mighty God Who knoweth the hearts of men and women and who don't fool Him by our hearts within us."

Mrs. Grace Wood, treasurer, gave the financial report. The Rev. R. Vessey and Mrs. Vessey explained the work of the Congregational ladies asked on the change which takes place in the Ladies Aid to the United Church women. Under new business the ladies are going to be entertained by Mrs. Later in September.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Ferguson and Mrs. Draddy. All enjoyed a social half hour.

BRIDGE ST. UNITED W.A.

Jubilee Evening Auxiliary of Bridge Street United Church held its September meeting on holidays last Tuesday evening. Some 60 ladies were present and enjoyed a supper in charge of Mrs. Radway and Miss G. Turner and Mrs. Hall.

The president, Mrs. Betty Colden, led in prayer, and welcomed the ladies.

Miss Josephine Tickell took charge of the program and read an old song "Sweet Hour of Prayer" of Mozee, Psalm 90.

Miss Tickell introduced two readings "Thanks For Us" and "Hasten the Day." From the book "Signals for the 60's" and mentioned seven chapters in the introduction. Those assigned were: Mrs. Radway, Mrs. Hodgson, Mrs. Powell and Mrs. Nelle Anderson.

Mrs. Colden closed the meeting.

FOXBORO GUILD - W.M.S.

FOXBORO — The September meeting of the Guild and W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Lee, Wednesday evening with a good attendance. Mrs. Ray Mumford presided, opened the meeting, after which Scripture, taken from Samuel Hodgins, was read by Mrs. Mumford.

Reports of the various committees were given with cards and sick call read responded.

Mrs. Earl Ketcheson read an article on "Going to Church in Nigeria." Mrs. Lee, Mrs. McLean, Mrs. Barjett and Mrs. Chapman each gave a reading and Mrs. Wannamaker favored with a beautiful solo. The meeting closed with the Lord's Prayer.

Mrs. Chapelle served refreshments and a social half hour followed.

(SCOTTS W.F.)

6TH SIDNEY—The September pot-luck dinner prepared by the Scott's W.F. was held in the church hall on Wednesday, Sept. 13th, with Mrs. George Pollard as hostess. The menu served was well prepared and enjoyed by all.

In the afternoon, Mrs. A. Wannamaker opened meeting to order, and opened with the hymn, "Blest Assurance," followed by prayer of thanks for past help and a sigh for direction, and guidance in the future.

Ten members answered the roll, and 16 cards had been received and six calls made in the past two months.

Mrs. K. Vandervoort will be hostess for October with Mrs. A. Merryfield and Mrs. J. Rose as program committee. Mrs. Rose will order the church collenders in conjunction with the other three appointments.

Mrs. Maurice Dafoe took charge of the study, assisted by Mrs. Merryfield and Mrs. Clarence Frost read the Scripture lesson from Acts 2 and five ladies had to be a get answers to the work being done and what it means to them. The study book of the W.M.S., the W.A., and other women's organizations in the church. This month is often over-looked so it was nice to have a new year's planning so the full potential of the women in the church could be reached.

"O God Our Help in Ages Past" was sung, and Mrs. Vesper pronounced the benediction.

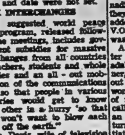
Voice of Women Wants 1962 Declared World Peace Year by UN

TORONTO (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker will be asked this week to adopt the concept of world peace year as the first phase of a Voice of Women inspired move for world peace year in 1962.

About 60 United Nations and Canadian women met during the weekend to discuss the project as a possible program. The women went 1962 declared world peace year by the United Nations.

Date of the Ottawa meeting has not been set. Jo Davis, V.O.W. public relations officer, said that as many of the 300 Toronto and Ottawa members as possible will be asked to take part in a demonstration outside the prime minister's office.

All Canadian women will be urged to pray at war memorials and in churches while the meeting takes place.



An international conference of women — "women from as many countries as possible" will be held within a year, Mrs. Davis said. The goals of the conference and date were not set.

SCHOOL INTERCHANGES

The suggested world peace year program released following the meetings, includes government subsidized exchanges of students, interchanges from all countries of teachers, students and artists and an all - out mobilization of the communications media to "tell the people in the countries would get to know each other in a hurry 'so that they won't want to bomb each other off the earth."

Mrs. Davis, wife of television personality Fred Davis, said the aim would be to have an exchange visit in every Canadian school and an exchange family in every community.

The Church's Challenge Today' Given at WMS Auxiliary Meet

The September meeting of Bridge Street Church W.M.S. was held in the auditorium with a splendid attendance, considering holiday and weather conditions.

Mrs. Davis, president, presided. She opened with a few opening remarks.

The carol business followed. Mrs. Wishart, in reading the June meetings' minutes, transported the members in memory to the lovely June garden, across the sea, to sunny Spain. Mrs. Fuke's fine grounds. Moved by Mrs. Fuke and Mrs. May that the society give $10 to Mrs. C. MacDonald for cards for the sick, and to Mrs. Hibbard, corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Hibbard, in her report, had written 37 letters of condolence since May. Mrs. Mabel Donald during recent months had sent 29 cards. This year, so far, she has sent 183 cards. She is supply secretary also, and sent two cartons of good clothing during the summer, each weighing 45 pounds.

Mrs. Hall, literature secretary, had ordered and had on display, the new book-shelf, which contains the literature for study and others of worth-while reading.

The treasurer, Mrs. Parker, reported having forwarded $737.00 as the quarterly allowance thus far this year.

Mrs. Ross Williams, Christian stewardship, gave a short talk on this subject, defining it. She said it is the Christian way of living, the practical expression of one's experience with God.

"We have been endowed with talents, how do we use them? They are our responsibility. When God has given money and possessions into our hands, once more we are given responsibility. Money can be a great blessing or a great curse. If used properly, its power has magic, bringing blessings and happiness to the giver and receiver. If its use is abused, ruin and misery may result.

"How are we using our time, our talents, our money? That of which we are stewards. Are God receiving His rightful share of it?"

SABBATH KEEPING

Mrs. Meyers, reporting as citizenship secretary, gave a few thoughts concerning "Sabbath Observance."

"Too often our Sunday observance is all negative. We may not wax floors, do laundry, or many other household duties, but, what do we do with our time on the Sabbath Day?

"Ruskin once said, 'Neither of life, nor a day, is made holy by doing nothing in it!' So many of us make no special plans for the day, we just drift through it. What we do is not bad, it is just trivial. It has been said 'To the body Sunday says rest; to the spirit, growth.' One of the best ways to use the day is to read articles that will enrich our thinking, broaden our outlook toward all mankind, and deepen our insight into our Christian faith. Our new bookshelf will provide some of this reading. Let us make use of it."

Having concluded the business which also included the announcement of the Presbyterial executive's September meeting in Bridge St. Church was made. Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Cameron offered the convene the luncheon.

Mrs. McArthur, accompanied by Mrs. Burrows and Mrs. Morgan, took charge.

In her opening remarks Mrs. McArthur spoke of the next three months being the closing of the Society which so many have loved and its amalgamation with the Woman's Association, to be known as one society embracing all the women of the congregation.

Mrs. Morgan conducted the worship service and read the 90th Psalm, on which the study was based. Mrs. Burrows had the study for the meeting. It was introducing the book for the new study which is "Churches 'or' New Thinas."

"This study examines us, in our various churches here at home. We aren't studying how churches are progressing in Africa, Asia or India or Islands across the seas; no, we are given the opportunity to examine ourselves, weigh ourselves in the balance and see whether we will measure up to standard or be found wanting.

"The basic study book is 'Signals for the Shrines.' This examines the church, which is the people who attend, examines them critically in relationship to the gospels it proclaims, and what it actually is and what it does in the community.

CHURCH'S HELP

"How can the church help people live effectively in a world of rapid change? Our world has grown so small that all men know what is going throughout its entire boundaries. It is increasingly filled despite its materialistic possessions, its expansion, its increasing knowledge of all lines of living.

"If increase in church attendance indicative of a religious revival is Canada, or are we merely complacent? Now is no surprise us to be told that churchgoers are so complacent that, the United Church is having this serious study in an attempt to arouse us to the need and opportunities for Christian witness in our daily life."

YOUTHFUL POPULATION

"Another supplement to aid us in this study, to awaken us to why we are in this world, why we have talents that we have been given to use and not abused, and let lie dormant, is 'Hasten the Day,' by Jessie Beattie.

"Did you know that 33 per cent. of the population are under 14 years or younger? What a challenge for parents! Are you going to provide these young people with a place to go to find Christian fellowship? Are you churchgoers, who have no children, perhaps habituated stood up and took a vow to surround them with Godly influences? Are you ready yourself as a leader in the church's outreach to them? Bridge St. church is taking a step in the right direction, in her program of expansion, making it possible to have a place of meeting for all those who attend.

"Let us make sure that our church's work in the community is well done. If communities are without character it is because the churches are weak.

Eyan those who never go to church benefit directly from the efforts of an active congregation. Look at Bridge St. Church with her expanding facilities in the heart of growing Belleville.

"Will we welcome non-members' children into our youth group?

"Mrs. Ralph Daly, traveller staying at Hotel Quinte have women in for our church? Will working people walking slowly home up Bridge Street be free to step in and refresh their souls there? We have so much to offer—will we stretch out our hands to all in the community or just have a club for member only?

"Another book for study is Dr. Theodore Wilson's 'Edge of the Edge.' This deals with the layman and lay woman in the church. Each has been placed in places and may touch individuals, whether the visitor can never reach. If the women of our church avail themselves of the opportunity to become vital workers and learners in the new organization, 'United Church Women,' their influence will be unparalled by anything undertaken thus far.

"Christ was most explicit in His commission to the layman and laywoman in the church and community, 'Inasmuch as ye have done it with one of the least of these My children, ye have done it unto Me.'

"Never was there greater need for dedicated men and women than today. Great tides of troubled times are sweeping the world; but, the church, strong and impregnable is the anchor that will hold, if its members are determined to both look up and lift up."

Mrs. Burrowes was thanked by Mrs. McArthur for such a challenging message. This brought a thoughtful meeting to a close, with prayer.

The group served a delicious lunch and the members enjoyed a pleasant get-together after the summer recess.

SUPPOSITTLE SEAVING WONDERFUL CONVENIENCE

As far as I'm concerned, it's a wonderfully elastic way to cope with more than two couples at a time, and it certainly gives the hostess more leeway in handling her duties.

Many shrug off the idea of a buffet — either because they're afraid it might make a shambles of things, or that it's been slightly "done to death" at this point.

But because buffet entertaining ably becomes practically a way of life in some households, refinements naturally have been added. These, in turn, have helped clean up the first opposition, namely the mess.

Actually, the way smart hostesses handle a buffet nowadays, it scarcely differs from a proper sit-down meal. The serving is stand-up, but more and more tables can be found in a group of tables set up in the dining room — or in the living room, if space allows.

"Extenders" are excellent for getting more room out of card tables, and stretch the seating capacity to six or eight instead of the usual four. Using this sleight of hand, three tables can handle a crowd of eighteen or more without shortchanging anyone on elbow room.

Not to be really efficient about it, tables may be set in a dozen ways with everything except dinner plates. These are stacked on the buffet along with the silverware.

All the guests have to do is fill their plates. While they're doing this, the hostess has time to slip in and clear away the cocktail things in the living room so it will be in apple-pie order when guests drift back later. It's an opportunity not offered during a more formal affair, such as a sit-down dinner in the home, is quite welcome, indeed.

True, a buffet does require a little more detailing, but when it's carefully planned it's pleasant and rewarding for both hostess and guests, and certainly becomes a service star in large-scale entertaining plans.

Question — My husband and I are going on a trip and cannot attend the wedding of a niece. We would like to send the couple a telegram, though. Should it be sent to her home? And how should it be addressed?

— Mrs. R. F.— Detroit, Mich.

Answer — Send the telegram to wherever the reception is being held, and address it to the newly-married couple.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Paula H. — My parents never ask about school.

Mrs. A.—Your School is up to Paula and her teachers.

* * *

Paula H. — I have all kinds of problems in school. I ask a week my official teacher sent me to the guidance teacher because I'm failing in Social Studies and Gym — of all things. I never have a clean uniform.

I hate my social studies teacher. We're studying Japan. When I brought an obi to class — that's a kimono sash my uncle gave me — Miss D. got sarcastic. She said, "Don't think this makes up for not doing your homework." I do homework, but she gives about 50 pages a day.

My girl friend's mother always asks her what's new in school, what's on her mind, what she's reading. My parents don't care about any troubles. They aren't the least bit interested in what goes on at school.

* * *

Mrs. A. H. — Paula is 13. When I was 13, I had six younger brothers and sisters to help with. Paula has only herself to look after. You'd think she'd could at least wash and iron a gym suit.

My husband and I go to business. We have plenty of headaches there, and no one to go crying to. If Paula has school troubles, she has teachers there to help her out. That's what we pay taxes for.

Of course, we love Paula and want her to be happy. But she's a big girl. We try not to bother her with our troubles and she ought to be able to handle her own ups and downs, with the help of her teachers.

She has a nice home and a generous allowance. What more does she want? If she's not satisfied with us, she's plain ungrateful.

* * *

The Council — The age of 12 is indeed a tender one for facing alone the pressures of early adolescence. But it's not always the fault of husband are abdicating far too soon.

It's surprising that Mrs. H., whose own adolescence was burdened with adult-level responsibilities, should have so little sensitivity for the anguish her daughter is going through. All sorts of self-doubts assail a child at this time. Paula needs endless bolstering of her self-confidence.

Yet emotionally she is orphaned. Bursting for talk, craving sympathetic ear, she cannot turn to her mother. Churning within her such questions as: Will I be attractive? Are these body changes normal? Do my friends really like me? And desperately as she has now sunk into a what's-the-use apathy which has brought her to the notice of the guidance department in school.

A teacher can take up where parents leave off. But she cannot take over. Mrs. H. is expecting too much from both the school and Paula. There's not the clear-cut division of labor that Mrs. H. would like. The girl's wholesome development is still very much in her mother's hands.

A turnabout is in order for Mrs. H. Nothing gives a child strength to face life's storms as plenty of good mothering. Studies of the mentally ill point to the lack of this as one of the factors which may determine who will and who won't — on all other things being equal — succumb to breakdown. A warm, solicitous and intelligent mother often makes all the difference.

Paula's problems are still one hundred per cent her mother's affair. They can split the "headaches" three ways, reducing the present tensions on each one.

Mrs. H. must abandon her depersonalized concept of duty and become a fulltime mother — not a subcontractor.

School Cafeteria Help

By Mary Moore

With the trend to more and better cafeteria management comes letters for help. One brave girl writes that I could age the cafeteria in the high school. Information you think I could send me for serving hot meals to students would be greatly appreciated. In the past only lunches have been served. Soup, sandwiches, hot dogs, hamburgs, dessert, milk, tea and coffee. But starting September we have to serve a hot lunch for 35c including milk. Could you suggest a menu that could be served for that price to about 100?

From another, even braver: "Would you have any suggestions for menus for a high school cafeteria? Our cafeteria just started and as I am not trained for this line of work I would appreciate any help you might be able to give me."

I will give 2 menus and add recipes that I know are popular. Some will follow tomorrow.

1) Macaroni or Spaghetti in Meat Sauce (see tomorrow), No. 10 can tomato puree, 1½ cups catsup, 4 quarts water, ¼ cup each Worcestershire sauce and prepared mustard. Pour all of this onto the bread-crumb mixture and add 25 pounds ground beef and mix well. Put in shallow greased pans and bake at 400 deg. Fahr., stirring frequently, about 2 hours. Scoop onto buns or serve with vegetables.

Note: 1) Recipes for Macaroni or Spaghetti in Meat Sauce, Corned Beef Hash and Fruit Oatmeal Crisp will be given tomorrow.

Note: 2) Cafeteria cooks are advised to write to Quaer's Printer, Ottawa and send $1.25 with a request for their bulletin entitled "Feeding Fifty Campers".

Note: 3) Conveners of church group Cupper should clip these large quantity recipes for future reference.

MONDAY
